Clanton's New Cotton Mill Is An Interesting Industry

Alabama Mills Company's Clanton Unit Ready for Operation. Various Kinds of Machinery Prove Interesting to Visitors Who See Plant.

No statement can be made at the beginning of the new year that carries more interest to the people of Clanton and Chilton County than the announcement that Clanton's cotton mill is ready to begin operation. Throughout the past year the mill subject has been of constant interest to our people, and everybody has been on edge for several months, wanting to know when the wheels would start to turning.

The time is here. Clanton-made cloth will soon be a reality. In a few days thousands of whirring spindles in the Clanton unit of Alabama Mills will be twisting cotton into yarn, and hundreds of clacking looms will be weaving this yarn into cloth.

For many years the manufacture of cotton into finished goods was centered largely in the New England states, far from the fields where cotton is grown. There came an awakening. There developed an idea among textile concerns that cotton mills could do better if they were located in the land where the cotton grows. Labor conditions were surveyed and found to be even better in the South than in New England. It was found that every advantage might be attained by bringing the cotton mills to the South.

There set in a general migration of cotton mill plants from the East to the South. It proved successful and the movement continued with increased activity.

During the past year Alabama has been favored by the location of several large cotton mills from New England. Alabama Mills Company was organized by Alabama industrial interests which located ten mills in as many small cities of Alabama. These mills are at Russellville, Haleyville, Fayette, Winfield, Aliceville, Wetumpka, Greenville, Jasper, Dadeville, and Clanton.

Clanton people were joyful when it was definitely settled that the mill was coming here. They are equally joyful now that the mill is ready to begin operation. It means that hundreds of workers will have steady and profitable employment.

Every person in Clanton and Chilton County will of course want to see our mill in operation. You will find it an interesting performance.

To the layman a cotton mill seems to be filled with nothing but noise and glittering steel, and the steps from cotton to cloth appear to be many and complicated. Yet when explained, the manufacturing processes are relatively simple and easily understood.

All Alabamians are more or less familiar with the steps in the journey of the fleecy staple from the field to the bale. This is the story of cloth from the cotton mill warehouse to the finished product, from bale to bolt.

From the warehouse the bales are trucked to the picker room, where the steel ties are loosed and the bagging stripped away. The first machine is the "opener," which tears the fibres apart and cleans them. Then the process of cleaning continues and straightening and paralleling the fibres begins. The "breaker," the next machine, felts the fibres into a continuous bat wound around a drum. Cleaning and straightening is continuing in a "lapper," before the bats go to the carders.

The carders are probably the most interesting machines in a cotton mill. They take their name from the carding or combing process which they perform. The drum on which a bat

Test Run Made At Mill Last Week

Mr. Meeks States That on Formal Opening Day The General Public Will Be Invited to Visit Cotton Mill and See It in Operation.

The Clanton unit of Alabama Mills turned its wheels for the first time last Friday, Dec. 21, carrying a bale of cotton from its raw state into a finished yarn. This operation was only a trial. Several spectators were present by invitation of Superintendent Meeks to witness the starting of the machinery. Among those present to see the first turn of the wheels were H. G. Boyd, president of the Peoples Savings Bank, Judge L. H. Reynolds, Commissioners A. P. Vinson, T. L. Maddox, John Bean, and J. L. Burnett, F. J. Callen, member of the Board of Directors of Alabama Mills, Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, Mrs. John T. Ellis, Miss Mary Ellis, Sam Upchurch, John Durwood Mullins, T. L. Williams, local manager for Alabama Power Co., Grady Reynolds, U. S. District Attorney, and W. M. Wyatt, editor of The Union-Banner.

When the ties were burst from the first bale the first batch of cotton was put into the mill by Frank Callen. Others who availed themselves of this opportunity included Mrs. Upchurch, Mrs. Ellis, Mr. Boyd, and Grady Reynolds.

Mr. Meeks, superintendent, conducted the visitors through all departments, explaining every process through which the cotton went until it came out as a spool of thread.

As stated above, this was only a trial. According to mill officials, it was a success. It was most interesting to the spectators. The intricate machines performed their work with precision and accuracy.

Mr. Meeks stated that on the formal opening day which will also be a visiting day at the mill an invitation will be extended to the public to visit the mill and see it in operation.

ROBERT & COMPANY DESIGNERS OF MILL PLANT

Robert & Company, engineers, of Atlanta, designed the plants of Alabama Mills Company and laid out the villages. This firm is a special organization of cotton mill and industrial experts. They have had much to do with designing and planning some of the largest jobs of this kind in the South.

When work was begun here on the Clanton unit, Robert & Co. sent Mr. W. A. McKoy here as resident engineer. He was later transferred to Greenville and was succeeded here by Mr. G. M. Cruselle, who remained until the job was completed.

The construction of the mill and village was awarded by contract to the Batson-Cook Co. of West Point, Ga., This is another organization of specialists in cotton mill construction. They carried the work thru on schedule time.

One has but to look at the Clanton mill and village to be convinced that both Robert & Co. and Batson-Cook Co. have discharged their duties well.

MILL MACHINERY ALL IN PLACE

The entire equipment of machinery in the Clanton Cotton Mill is in place and is being tested out and adjusted every day. Placing of the machinery was under direction of Supt. A. R. Meeks and Mr. Cruselle, resident engineer for Robert & Company.

A. R. MEEKS

Mr. Meeks is superintendent of the Clanton unit of Alabama Mills, and will have direct supervision of the whole operations of the plant. He and his family live in the superintendent's cottage across the street from the main mill building.

JAMES FORSHEE

Mr. Forshee is cashier for the Clanton unit of Alabama Mills. He has charge of the vast amount of clerical work which will be taken care of in the office. He is a young man who comes here from Sylacauga. No, he is not married.

CLANTON'S NEW COTTON MILL

As we stated last week The Union-Banner is publishing this week a number of stories telling a few of the most interesting facts about the Clanton unit of Alabama Mills.

The completion of the mill which was done a few weeks ago was an important event in the history of our city. It was the one big thing our folks have looked forward to with much eagerness in recent months.

The new cotton mill increases the population of Clanton several hunderd and adds a considerable sum of money to the payroll of the town. It is stated by one authority that the annual payroll of the mill will be $175,000.

The major portion of this payroll will be spent in Clanton. It will buy things from our stores as well as pay for things grown on our farms. This ought to help our town and county much.

The Union-Banner joins the citizens of Clanton in extending a most hearty welcome to Alabama Mills, its officials and employees.

Under the plan of organization and operation it is the universal opinion of wise business men that the success of the enterprise is already assured.

It is a matter of time only when practically all concerns manufacturing cotton textiles will be located in the South. They are coming here more and more every year. Economic reasons on every hand demand that cotton mills be situated in the country where cotton grows in the fields. Any other arrangement is a foolish waste.

Almost every town and city in the South is pulling for cotton mills. Clanton was fortunate in having a group of enterprising and far-seeing citizens who put on the necessary drive for local capital to secure the mill.

This mill is Clanton's first major industry. We are now ready to hang out a sign for something else. By the time we get our swamps drained—say a year from now—we hope there may be another chance to add to our industrial payroll which we started so well by securing the Alabama Mill this year.

Hoo-Ray for Clanton. It is the best town on the map. If you don't believe it, just ask any fellow who "has been about."

THANKS TO ALABAMA POWER CO.

With the completion of Clanton's unit of Alabama Mills, we must not overlook the good part that has been played by Alabama Power Co., in bringing this industry along with nine similar ones, to our state. And most specially should we in Clanton feel kindly toward the power company for helping us get the cotton mill.

By the location of two of their major hydro-electric plants in our County several years ago the power company did more for Chilton County than everything else that has been done since the county became a part of the world.

Likewise the existence of the power company and the service they furnish has made the State of Alabama attractive to hundreds of industries like Alabama Mills Company. It has transformed Alabama from an ordinary isolated and unimportant place to a section with unequaled industrial advantages.

Clanton is grateful to Alabama Power Company in more ways and for more reasons than we can count.

What Does The Mill Mean To Us In Dollars and Cents

Mill Village Is An Up-To-Date Town

There are Thirty-Five New Houses of Three Types; Graded Streets; Village Has Its Own Sewer System; Uses Regular City Water.

The village of Alabama Mills in Clanton is a modern little city within itself with all conveniences. Its location is on what used to be a portion of the Morgan Farm just north of the city limits. It is situated between the old Birmingham-Montgomery Highway and the L. & N. Railroad. A new road has been built by the county connecting the village with the paved highway at Willis Tourist Camp. There is thus formed a loop by which traffic may reach the mill two ways from the business part of town. One may go out Eighth Street north from the Wilson Hotel and continuing up the old highway turn off to the mill village. Crossing the railroad north of the main mill building the new road will take you to the paved highway at Willis's. This will bring you back to town on Seventh Street.

The village houses all have a comfortable and homey appearance. They are arranged along nicely graded streets. There are thirty-five houses of three types which are built to accommodate families of different and varying needs.

The little town has its own sewerage system but uses the city water. A new main has been laid from the top of the hill on Eighth Street to the village. A large storage tank has been erected on the mill property where a reserve supply of water will be kept at all times. This gives ample protection against fire.

The sprinkler system all over the mill building gives splendid fire protection. This consists of pipes running all through the building. They are filled with water. If a fire happens the leaden plugs in the pipes melt out and the water automatically covers the whole place with a powerful spray.

The village is built for a population of about 250 people. Each family can be comfortably situated with plenty of bedrooms and kitchen and running water.

There is no commissary connected with the mill. The company agreed in the beginning to encourage the employees to trade in Clanton.

The mill building where the people work is equipped with humidifiers. This guards the health of employees by keeping properly moist air in constant circulation.

The mill and village are just outside the corporate limits of the city of Clanton.

The view of the mill and village is obstructed from the paved highway by a heavy growth of timber in the swamp. We wish the owners of the swamp land would clear the space between the paved highway and the railroad south from the new road so that people on the paved highway can get a clear view of the mill and village.

FIRST BABY BORN AT THE COTTON MILL

The honor of the first baby born in the cotton mill village at Clanton goes to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Smith. The stork arrived with the youngster at 4:30 p. m. Monday, Dec. 31,1928. It is a girl weighing eight and three quarter pounds.

Dr. V. J. Gragg was the attending physician.

What Will It Be Worth As a Business Proposition to The Merchants of Clanton? Here Are Some Figures That May Be Interesting on the Subject

As a matter of sentiment and community pride, all of us like to tell our neighbors from other places that Clanton has a cotton mill. We feel a little chesty over the fact—and that is all right.

But the business man has serious thoughts sometimes: moments when he is not moved by sentiment: moments when he thinks about something besides community pride. When one of these spells strikes a Clanton storekeeper and the cotton mill comes rambling carelessly through his mind, he most likely will ask: What does the cotton mill mean to Clanton in dollars and cents, anyhow?

Well, first of all, it is a well-known fact (which needs no comment here) that it took $150,000 of Clanton's pocket change to get the mill located here. As to the question of what it means in dollars and cents in the future, we have found some figures in the advertisement of the Alabama Power Company which we want to give special emphasis in discussing this question.

The power company statement says that Clanton's new industry will distribute payrolls of approximately $175,000 annually. It will convert into finished products about 3,000 bales of raw cotton each year. It will provide employment for about 300 workers. It will increase the population of Clanton about 600. It will create a new local market for food and farm products, clothing, furniture, house furnishings, etc. It will increase bank resources and credit facilities. It will increase the income of every business trade and profession.

Who will get this payroll of $175,000 a year that is to be turned loose at the cotton mill? In answer to this question let us turn to some figures of the U. S. Department of Labor relative to Huntsville. Huntsville is a cotton mill town—one of the foremost in the South. These statistics are in all probability produced from a survey which included mostly textile wage-earners.

Out of every dollar of average family income in Huntsville, we are told by the Department of Labor that 40 cents is expended for food; 16 cents for clothing; 6 cents for rent; 5 cents for fuel and light; 4 cents for furniture and home furnishings; 20 cents for miscellaneous; and 9 cents for investments and savings.

On this basis, the distribution of Clanton's new $175,000 annual payroll would be somewhat as follows:

For food, 40 per cent, or $70,000 will be spent here. Then as 30 cents out of every 40 cents spent for food is expended for products which are or could be grown in Alabama, the new market for farm products at Clanton would be approximately $52,500. Do you think it will be worth anything to Chilton County farmers to have here at their very door a new market for over fifty thousand dollars worth of farm products?

For clothing there will be spent 16 per cent of the annual payroll, or $28,000. Our merchants in Clanton may rightly expect to get that business added to their annual sales, and it seems to us it would help materially.

Continuing upon the basis of Huntsville we find that there will be spent here annually $10,500 for rents; $8,750 for fuel and light; $7,000 for furniture; $35,000 for miscellaneous things; and $15,750 for investments and savings.

BARKING AT THE PROCESSION

Poor old Bob Vail of the Baldwin County Times is to be pitied rather than abused. He used to be a good fellow in his Western Newspaper Union days but when he got a newspaper of his own he seemed to get on the wrong side of everything. When the power trust began spreading the propaganda that development of Boulder Dam would ruin the South because the irrigated Imperial Valley would produce so much cotton Vail took it up and as president of the Alabama Press Association even sought to commit that organization to oppose the Western project. Then in the campaign of 1926 Vail took off his coat and went to work for McDowell for governor and his candidate ran fourth in the state and a poor second in Vail's own county of Baldwin. In the presidential campaign Vail tooted louder than anyone for Smith and his county gave Hoover a majority of nearly a thousand.

Apparently all that is left for him now is to bark at the procession as it goes by.—Montgomery Journal.

THE NEW YEAR

This is the season of New Year's resolutions. People are making them on every side, are resolving to take a new start and have a new program of conduct. Many of these resolutions will fade before spring. The reason they will fade is that they are based on our present apetites and present notions. And appetites and notions in the idvidual are subject to change, as are most human attributes.

It may be asked then whether any New Year's resolutions can prevail, granting the truth of the above assertion. Undoubtedly they can, if the good resolves are based on principle rather than on the feeling of the moment, for principles are eternal, remain unchanged century after century. Base your resolutions therefore on a principle, and by a careful self-inventory, discover which principle in your case is the one to be stressed, whether it be the principle of industry as opposed to idleness, of temperance as opposed to excess in eating and drinking, of rational economy as oposed to wastefulness or penury.

Assuming that you practice temperance an da reasonable amount of industry, rational economy, or good financial housekeeping is an excellent resolution to start with on the first of the year. Barring unusual circumstances it is easy to save a little each week and each month if your expenditures are carefully audited and your wants reasonably modest.

But we cannot live alone, within ourselves. So if New Year resolutions are good for the individual, why not for the home community also? Why not resolve that we will make our home city a better place in which to live than it was a year ago? Why not resolve that we will help to make it cleaner and more orderly, to increase its prosperity as much as possible, and add our mite to its growth and progress? Certainly this will be a paying resolution, and it is one which the civic organizations can heed as well as the individual. The first of the year is a good time to put our house in order, and see whether we cannot do something bigger and better than usual during the coming year.

How an Expectant Mother Prepared for Baby's Coming

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering experienced during expectancy, as well as at childbirth, is entirely unnecessary.

Tight tissues, binding muscles, sensitive nerves—all tend to set up an aggravated condition—sapping strength and leaving the expectant mother unprepared to meet the crisis.

Mother's Friend is a comfort to expectant mothers. Externally applied, it relieves prenatal distress by relaxing tight tissues and muscles. And it is so soothing. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., writes: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

Mother's Friend is the discovery of an eminent physician. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. For over three generations Mother's Friend has relieved expectant mothers of much useless suffering. Begin using Mother's Friend today. The sooner the better. Sold by drug stores—everywhere.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

As the new session of Congress progresses we will hear more and more about peace and disarmament. The reason is that the fifteen cruiser bill is up for consideration and the pacifists well organized as usual, are using the customary propaganda methods to create the appearance of a wave of sentiment against the cruiser bill in the United States, a wave which does not exist, except in the fervid minds of those seeking to stir it up to the point where it shall become accountable.

We are being told that the cruisers are necessary and that they will be construed by the European powers as a backward step on our part from the Kellogg anti-war treaty. As a matter of fact nothing can be further from the truth. The ships are necessary to our defense. This is an opinion which is concurred in by all naval authorities in the United States and by all other persons who have studied the situation calmly. No one is more interested in the success of the Kellogg plan than President Coolidge, who is certainly a man of calm and mature judkgment, not in the habit of advocating the spending of the public money in any foolish or reckless fashion. And the President believes the cruisers should be built and has so indicated to Congress.

The only naval power in Europe which could be seriously concerned in the fifteen cruiser plan is Great Britian. And yet the British experts well know that the fifteen cruiser bill will not give us anything like equal cruiser strength with Great Britain. Furthermore, at the Washington naval conference in 1921, Great Britain accepted the idea of naval parity with the United States. Under the circumstances, then, how can the fifteen fruiser replacement bill be regarded as a threat to the peace of Europe or a threat to anything for that matter?

We are told by many of our more effulgent and enthusiastic internationalists that we ought to accept the naval inferiority to Great Britain because Great Britain's navy is absolutely necessary to protect her population from starvation in case of war. Anyhow, they add, war between the United States and Great Britain is unthinkable. Now is this is true and war is unthinkable then a sufficient American navy to look after our defense will not do Great britain harm.

As a matter of fact Great Britain does not consider her navy solely a defensive, but an offensive arm in case of war. She uses it not only to keep her own food routes open but to cut off the supplies of her enemies and reduce them as nearly as possible to a state of stravation. This is not said by way of criticism because the first business in war is to cripple the other fellow as much as possible. It will be remembered that at the beginning of the World War Uncle Sam and John Bull got into serious difficulties because Great Britain insisted on interefering with our legitimate trade with neutral nations on the theory that some of this trade was benefitting the enemy. This was done in violation of international law and more would have been heard of it had not Germany committed the monumental blunder of starting her submarine campaign.

Now if Great Britain were concerned only with her own food supply the question could be solved by an international agreement for real freedom of the seas. But she does not want real freedom of the seas as we learned when President Wilson tried to put this idealistic doctrine into effect after the World War.

Since Great Britain will not agree to absolute freedom of the seas it must be that her first concern is not with her own supplies in time of war but with the trade of neutral and enemy nations. If Great Britain gets into war it will not be with the United States. But if she becomes entangled in combat with another nation then the old questions of the early World War days will arise again. Unless we agree to bow to Great Britain's dictum on the high seas then we must have a navy big enough to protect our commerce. It will be the old story of 1812 and 1917 over again.

Now if we do have such a navy the result will not be war between the United States and Great Britain but an acceptance by England of the theory that we have such right to the high seas in time of peace and in time of war as we are entitled to by international law. So the conclusion after all is this: either a navy big enough to protect our legal and just rights, or the acceptance of England's control of our commerce in time of difficulties.

Brother Bryan's Bible Story

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

THE INCARNATION OF CHRIST

The virgin birth of our Lord Jesus Christ is one of the outstanding fundamentals of the Christian faith. Christ had to be born like He was for His death on the cross to be efficacious. As it is He had to be born of a virgin without sin to be able to die for my sins and for your sins. He truly bore my sins in his body on the accursed tree. He truly was born sinless in Bethlehem in a stable.

The incarnation of the Son of God is so important that I wish to write to you about it along with His immaculate birth. By incarnation I mean that the Son of God became flesh. In the gospel according to Mark 1:1 you have these words: "The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God." In the Gospel according to John written at a later date John 1:14 you read the sentence, "The word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

In the last named chapter Christ is called the Word in a sentence like this: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God." The Son of God was in the beginning with God. Now this Being who was in the beginning with God became incarnate in Bethlehem of Judea over two thousand years ago. The apostle Paul says that this is a mystery in a sentence like this: "Great is the mystery of Godliness."

Paul also speaks of His birth in a sentence like this: "In the fulness of time God sent forth His Son made under the law to redeem those who are under the law." Christ is the only begotten Son of the Father full of grace and truth. God called Him His son on the Jordan River after His baptism in a sentence like this: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." On the Mount of Transfiguration a voice came from heaven saying: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased; hear ye Him."

The sweetest truth about it all is that Christ became flesh, bone of our bone, flesh of our flesh for a great purpose. He could not sympathize with us had He not been born in the flesh like we are. Having suffered He is able to sympathize with us in our sufferings. Suffering temptations as He did in the flesh He is able to suffice those who are being tempted.

We have a great high Priest who is touched with the feelings of our infirmities. He knoweth our frame. He had the same trials we have, the same temptations and the same sufferings we have. But, remember, that He was without sin. I also want you to remember that He was born in the fulness of time. To me, it is greater to say He was born when everything was ready.

In the first place the known world at that time had tried everything but Christ to give comfort. No doubt many people had a longing in their hearts for such a person as Christ. Have you a longing for Christ these Christmas days? The Greek world had tried philosophy, culture, history, science, architecture, but these things did not satisfy the longings of a Greek heart. Even near the end of Christ's ministry some Greeks came to Jerusalem and said to Andrew, "Sir, we would see Jesus."

The Syrophenician woman had a longing for Christ. She expressed this longing by her wonderful faith in Christ. O my friend, have you a great faith in this Christ? The Romans had tried war, power, but a craving for power did not satisfy the longings of a Roman heart. This was shown by the statement of the Centurion who managed the crucifixion of Christ after being the direct human cause and witnessing the scene.

It may be that in his heart he felt the need of Christ. He uttered, "Truly this man was the Son of God." Do you acknowledge Him as the Son of God? Do you love Him as the Son of God? O my friends, I ask you again, "Is Christ the Son of God to you?" Do you love, honor, trust and obey Him? Is He the bright and morning star, the one altogether lovely to you?

The Romans had built roads over many countries of the East, especially over the Roman countries. At that time these roads were used to spread the Gospel of Christ's birth and mission to the world. Truly this Gospel was from the cradle of Bethlehem to the right hand of God where He sits to-day. At the time of Christ's incarnation the known language of the then known world was Aramaic Greek.

This was the known and spoken language of that time. Many Jews and Gentiles spoke in that language. Christ Himself spoke that language. The apostles spoke it. It was the means of spreading the glorious Gospel of Jesus Christ. Think of this greatest of all events. What a glorious Gospel there was to proclaim throughout the country of the One who had come to make the common, dusty ways of life resplendent, illuminating the dull human thoughts by the light of the glory of God; clearing the vision of the soul, and then revealing the greatness of the salvation that is ours in Christ.

In far-away Bethlehem was born a little babe of a virgin. This was the Christ who was crucified outside the gate of Jerusalem, was buried in Joseph's tomb and arose the third day that we might have eternal life. O my friends, it was for us that Christ was made flesh and dwelt among us. It was for us Christ was born in Bethlehem. I wonder if Christ is born in each of us. When Christ is born in us Grace survives the foe and joy reigns in our lives.

The world to-day needs to meditate upon His teachings and His mission. There are thousands and millions in the world who have received Him in their hearts as their Saviour from sin, their Lord and Master, the mediator between God and man. It is true that these good tidings of great joy were to be "for all people."

More is made of the annivrsary of the birth of Christ than any other event in the world's history. People who do not recognize Him as their Lord remember the anniversary of His birth. Born of a virgin in a family He was the son of a mother as well as the Son of God. What are you going to do about this event? Are you going to worship this Christ as did the shepherds, the wise men and the angels? Are you planning to spend this season in frolicking?

Let these days be days of rejoicing, days of thanksgiving to God for His unspeakable gift. For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. Come with me to Bethlehem's manger. Offer a sentence of prayer, a sentence of grattitude to God. Thanks be to God for His unspeakable gift which is Jesus Christ the Saviour of the world.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager
A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.
However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.
Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.
Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

PULLETS FOR PROFIT WHEN WINTER COMES

"Youth will be served," so runs the old proverb. Of course, no reference to poultry was intended, but it happens to fit just the same. As a rule, pullets lay more eggs during their first laying season than during any subsequent season. Consequently, if hatches are correctly timed so that plenty of pullets will be brought to maturity some time during the latter part of August or September, a banner winter egg season is bound to follow. Pullets hatched during February or March, according to the breed, should begin laying just about the right time for winter eggs.

Pullets should not be allowed to come into maturity too quickly. Normally, a pullet starts to lay eggs as soon as she has reached maturity and her body has ceased to grow. Sometimes laying starts somewhat before full growth has been reached and further growth may cease. Such pullets may remain undersized and their eggs may be defective and small. If pullets are maturing too rapidly their mash and animal food should be reduced. The grain rations may also be slightly increased, as pullets should have a good reserve store of body fat before the start laying. Otherwise they will not stand up well under the strain of laying and may fall considerably short of the possible maximum egg production. For that reason, many poultry men make a marked increase in the quantity of grains fed to the pullets as their combs begin to redden. At the same time, they cut down on the mash and animal food; beef scraps or similar material. The grain is fattening, whereas the animal food being no longer required for muscle building as the birds reach maturity, may start egg production before it is desirable.

It is usually considered better not to force pullets into premature laying by feeding large quantities of mash. Instead, limit the mash until pullets are quite ready to lay, and, by feeding a greater amount of grain, to get them fat. Such a ration emphasizes the fat making material, and, by withholding the egg-making materials, removes the danger of a too early maturity. Mash should not be entirely eliminated, as it contains materials needed for the building up of muscles of the young fowls. Too much of it, however, may precipitate egg laying before it is desirable. Give the developing pullets all the grain they will eat during early fall and after they come into normal laying, gradually decrease grain with a corresponding increase in mash feeding.

If pullets have been properly developed along the lines just described above, they should begin laying just as they are put into winter quarters. Their quarters should not be changed once they start laying. Such change will usually cause a molt and falling off in the egg yield. Furthermore, pullets should never be housed with older hens. The more mature hens annoy the younger ones and that too interferes with their laying. From this point on, the usual rules for feeding and handling laying hens will apply to pullets developed especially for winter egg production.

Of course it is not meant that older hens are incapable of winter egg production merely because the dtsirability of developing pullets for that season has been emphasized. With proper culling, breeding, and feeding, hens can be made to lay almost as many eggs luring the winter months as in warmer weather. The subject of special feeding and handling of fowls for winter egg production is, however, of sufficient importance to constitute a separate article by itself.

The reason for emphasizing ways of increasing winter egg production is, of course, that prices reach their very highest peak at that time. It is, therefore, desirable not only to produce as many winter eggs as possible, but also to market every possible one of those that are produced then. Practically all of them can be marketed by preserving and keeping for home use the ow priced eggs of spring and summer.

It is very easy to preserve eggs for future use by putting them down in water glass, a syrupy liquid that can be obtained from almost any druggist. This water glass should be mixed with nine parts of cold boiled water and the solution kept ni crocks or stone jars. Kegs or barrels may also be used if absolutely clean and free from odors provided they are thoroughly scalded. Fill the jar or kig partly full of the water glass solution and put in the eggs from day to day as they are gathered. Be sure there is always at leats two inches of solution over the eggs. No dirty or cracked eggs should be used nor any about which there is any doubt as to when they were laid. They must be absolutely fresh, laid the same day they are put in the solution.

The cost of preserving eggs in this way is very small and calls for almost no work at all. Eggs in water glass will keep for six or eight months if stored in a coll, dark place, well covered, and may then be used for all cooking purposes or for the table. The advantage of this plan certainly should be apparent without argument.

I have not attempted to go into any great detail in this article. On the contrary, I have tried only to suggest enough so the reader will want to know more about methods of increasing the winter profits from his folck.

What Alabama Mills means to CLANTON

WELCOME!

Alabama Power Company joins with the other citizens of Clanton in extending to Alabama Mills a sincere welcome to this community.

WE BELIEVE that Clanton was chosen by Alabama Mills for one of its units because of the high character and civic spirit if its citizens, its healthful and equable climate, its splendid native American labor, the abundance and high standard of its power supply, and many other natural advantages.

Interests Are Mutual

A mutuality of interest exists between a community and its industries. The industries hope to realize upon the investment of their bond and stockholders, and the community benefits from the payrolls which the industries distribute.

Payroll Statistics

According to statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor, out of every dollar of average family income in Huntsville, Ala., 40c is expended for food; 16c for clothing; 6c for rent; 5c for fuel and light; 4c for furniture and home furnishings; 20c for miscellaneous and 9c for investment and savings.

Beginning with this direct distribution, an endless chain of new business and prosperity is created. The grocer buys clothing and furniture. The clothier buys furniture and groceries. The furniture dealer buys groceries and clothing. All do business with the bank, the butcher, the insurance agent, etc.

Clanton's new payroll therefore helps all of her citizens, directly or indirectly.

Who Gets the Payrolls?

On this basis, the distribution of Clanton's new $175,000 annual payroll would be somewhat as follows:

FOOD: 40 per cent, or $70,000.
(As 30c out of every 40c spent for food is expended for products which are or could be grown in Alabama, the new market for farm products at Clanton will be approximately $52,500 annually.)
CLOTHING: 16 per cent, or $28,000.
RENT: 6 per cent, or $10,500.
FUEL AND LIGHT: 5 per cent, or $8,750.
FURNITURE: 4 per cent, or $7,000.
MISCELLANEOUS: 20 per cent, or $35,000.
SAVINGS AND INVESTMENTS: 9 per cent, or $15,750.

Benefits to Clanton

Clanton's new industry will distribute payrolls said to approximate $175,000 annually. It will convert into finished products—duck, denim, drill, twill or sheeting—approximately 3,000 bales of raw cotton each year; it will provide employment for about 300 workers; it will increase the population of the community by approximately 600; it will create a new local market for food and farm products, clothing, furniture and house furnishings, etc., it will increase bank resources and credit facilities; it will increase the income of every business, trade and profession, and bring other benefits too numerous to mention.

What of the Future?

The coming of Alabama Mills to Clanton marks the first major step in its industrialization, benefiting the community and the surrounding agricultural section.

Upon this foundation Clanton may well build. Her growth and prosperity in the years to come will be in direct proportion to the growth in her industrial payrolls. All citizens should therefore help Clanton build new payrolls. For in doing so they are but helping themselves.

Seeing Nellie Home

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

CLARA GRAY was forty, but it had never occurred to her that age was creeping upon her or that she was no longer a girl until that winter when her twenty-year-old niece came to share her apartment in the city with her. Madge had secured a position in the city and from having accepted the day bed in Clara's apartment living room as a temporary shelter she had become a permanent fixture.

"It seems so cosy, living here together, Aunt Clara," Madge said. "Let's always go on just this way. I shan't ever care to marry and we do have such fun."

Clara fortunately hid her look of surprise, yet the prospect of continuing to play the role of Aunt Clara to Madge's friends, of being just an older woman looking after an attractive young niece, was a little staggering. There were so many things she wanted to do—maturer, older, more interesting people she wanted to invite to her apartment, where now there seemed to be room only for Madge's tiresome young friends.

One night Clara came home from her office in a pensive mood and when Madge suggested to Clara that she join her at the Y. W. C. A. for a bit of a swim, Clara begged off. As soon as the younger girl was out of the apartment and had started across the five blocks that led to the new Y building, Clara seized the telephone, called a number and was not particularly surprised when the young man at the other end called back, "Oh, hello, Aunt Clara, is that you?"

"Madge had gone to the Y to swim," said Clara, and the "Oh" that came back did not indicate that Larry Tate cared in the least whether Madge swam or didn't swim. "Still," reflected Clara, "he's the only one in the crowd that could even support her. "Yes," she went on aloud, "she'll be there until half-past ten and, do you know, it doesn't seem quite safe. It occurred to me that you might be going out and coming in again at about that time and you might call for her at the Y and see her home."

"So it's seeing Nellie home, is it?" asked Larry. "Well, I thought that sort of thing was as out of date as—as going to quilting parties."

Larry, to his own surprise, felt no special resentment toward Aunt Clara for giving him this assignment. It wasn't as if she had asked him to see herself home. Madge was young and she was pretty and he had been unsuccessful in his efforts that evening to persuade another young girl to go to the theater with him. It hadn't occurred to him then to ask Madge. Funny thing, reflected Larry, that he'd never even thought of Madge.

It occurred to Larry as he was sitting in the hall of the Y building that Madge might resent the idea of being sent for. So it was with a casual sort of "Hello, Madge," that he greeted the pretty girl as she passed toward the front door at half-past ten. He led her to his waiting car. "Just happened to be talking with Aunt Clara on the phone," he remarked. "She spoke of your being down here and as I happened to be passing I stopped in."

Larry drove three miles in order to reach Madge's apartment six blocks away. He had very little to say, but some of the time he whistled—an old air that Madge had heard before but could not place.

Later as Madge was preparing for bed in the little room she hummed gaily to herself.

"That's the tune that Larry was whistling," she told Aunt Clara, "and I can't seem to place it. Larry's so funny. He asked me if I knew what a quilting party was. I told him I didn't and he said to ask Aunt Clara. He said he thought girls went to husking parties when you were young."

"Larry ought to be spanked," said Aunt Clara.

"I hope you don't really dislike him," said Madge, and turned her blushing face away when Aunt Clara looked through the door at her.

"It does seem rather old-fashioned—your coming to see me home this way after swimming class," Madge told Larry a month later when for the fourth time he had called at the Y at half-past ten on Wednesday night. "I hope you don't think I am in need of an escort for protection. Aunt Clara used to come, but not because she thought it wasn't safe for me to come alone. I dare say Aunt Clara's getting too old to like to swim. But she's young in spirit, Larry—and she's often told me that a girl was as capable of taking care of herself anywhere as a man if she just kept her head."

"I don't care a bit about where you keep your head," said Larry, who had been waiting some time for a suitable point of departure for what he wanted to say. "All I care about, Madge, is your heart. I wish you'd let me keep it for you."

"That's a funny sort of proposal," said Madge.

"At least you knew it was one," offered Larry.

"That's probably because I was just hoping and praying that you'd come across with one." Larry stopped his car and kissed Madge. Then as he went on driving he whistled.

"What is the name of that tune you're always whistling?" said Madge.

"It's an old-fashioned song they sang when Aunt Clara was a girl," said Larry.

Feature Story by Mr. S. E. Norton

Many years ago the writer heard a native African, who had been converted to Christianity by American missionaries and taught to speak English. One of the missionaries, home on a furlough, had brought him along to increase interest in African missions by having him make addresses and give his experiences. The only thing he said that stuck in my memory was something that happened after he arrived in New York.

In Africa, like most of his countrymen, he had never been accustomed to ice water as a beverage. In New York he asked for a drink of water and was given a glass filled with ice and water. He said, "I couldn't drink it 'till I got the cold heat out of it."

That sounds funny, but who that has tried it has not experienced a sensation of heat and increased thirst from drinking ice water. When the writer was a boy, our people lived in a climate that sometimes got extremely cold in winter and to prevent our potatoes and apples, kept in the cellar, from freezing, we used to fill a wash tub with water and set it in the cellar, the freezing watter in the tub would throw off enough heat to keep vegetables from freezing.

It has been said, "It is a poor rule that won't work both ways." If cold produces heat why should not heat produce cold? It does! And almost any day Thorsby Hadrware Company is prepared to demonstrate a new refrigerator made in Cleveland, Ohio, by a well known manufacturer of a popular type of oil stoves. The prime mover in this refrigerator is a pint of kerosene oil and a couple of the same kind of burners used with success for years in their oil stoves. The burning of a pint of kerosene, which takes only an hour and half and costs only 2 1-2 ecnts, will vaporize enough liquid and store it in a container where it passes through other chemicals and produces within a sealed chamber a refrigerating compound that lasts the other 22 1-2 hours of the day, without further attention. In one compartment water placed in receptacles that look like patty pans, will form small cakes of ice for use wherever ice is desired outside the refrigerator, but not required in it.

The marvelous characteristic of the outfit is its simplicity and low cost of operation. The only thing to be supplied is that pint of oil at a stated time each day. The oil container holds only a pint, no more is needed for the 24 hours, after the vapor has performed its function it condenses to its former liquid state and flows back into its receptacle, ready to go through the same performance when heat is again applied. There is no waste because none of it escapes or is in any way consumed and none of the chemicals or odors can possibly in any way come in contact with the contents of the apartment for articles placed in the refrigerator.

The whole thing is a compact and scientific ice making and refrigerating plant, very neat nad substantial in appearance and small enough to find a convenient place in almost any home.

The initial cost seems considerable to invest for a refregerator, but the advantage is in the fact that it takes so little of time or money to keep it in constant operation.

Thorsby is the only place in Chilton County where this new invention can be seen in operation, as the selling aagency for Chilton County is located in Thorsby, and it is well worth a trip a long ways to see it and understand the merits of this time, money and labor saving device.

Chilton's Paved Highway

The above is a scene on the paved highway near Clanton This great artery of traffic connects Birmingham and Montgomery, passing through the heart of our city. By means of this highway thousands of strangers from every part of the country come through Clanton every year. The picture shown above was taken at the home of Mr. Elijah Weldon just north of town. It is just north of the place where the new road leaves the highway to go to the cotton mill.

CIRCUIT COURT HERE MONDAY, JANUARY 21ST

The January term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County will begin its session here on Monday, January 21. The grand jury will be empaneled on this date.

The trial of Civil cases will occupy the week beginning January 21st. The trial of criminal cases will be the week following.

Word was received just before we went to press Wednesday afternoon that Mr. Ira Smith, manager of V. J. Elmore's 5c, 10c and $1.00 Store in Clanton was being carried to Montgomery to a hospital. He is suffering with what is thought to be an attack of appendicitis.

Mr. Ocie Webb of Jasper, Alabama spent a few days in Clanton this week on business connected with his management of V. J. Elmore's 5c, 10c, and $1.00 Store in Jasper.

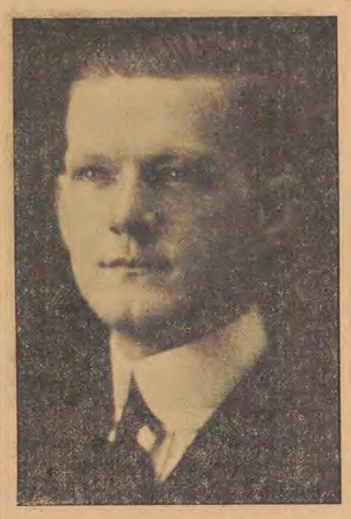
TOWN OF CLANTON

History of Organization of the Clanton Cotton Mill

CITIZENS UNITED IN DRIVE FOR INDUSTRY



It Was A Spirit of Cooperation for Good of Our Community that Brought Success

Early in December, 1927, Mr. Pete Lester of the Industrial Department of the Alabama Power Company got in touch with Judge L. H. Reynolds with reference to the location of a cotton mill in Clanton. Mr. Lester requested Judge Reynolds to have a few representative citizens of the town who might be interested in a cotton mill to meet at his office at 2:00 o'clock on Monday, December 12, 1927. At this meeting were: Mr. Lester, representing the Alabama Power Company, Mr. Walker, representing Robert & Company, Industrial Engineers, Atlanta, Ga., and Messrs. C. F. Jones, W. W. Fox, J. E. Gowan, H. G. Boyd, John C. Page, J. T. Rockett, Arthur Johnson, Grady Reynolds, and a few others. Some of these citizens and these two representatives visited all the suitable locations on the right-of-way of the L. & N. for a cotton mill. The party then met at the Court House about 4:00 o'clock, and the proposition was explained in detail by Mr. Lester, representing the Power Company, and Mr. Walker, representing Robert & Company.

It was decided by the citizens of Clanton present that a mass meeting should be called for the following night, Tuesday, December 13, 1927, for the purpose of considering the proposition submitted. The mass meeting was called, and a representative number of the citizens of Clanton responded and elected W. W. Fox Chairman of the meeting and C. E. Stapp Secretary. At this meeting the proposition was explained, and it was decided that an effort be made to obtain the proposed cotton mill. A committee, composed of Grady Reynolds, H. G. Boyd, John C. Page, F. J. Callen, J. R. Mullins, E. E. Upchurch and Arthur Johnson, was appointed to consider the proposition, to explain it to the citizens of the town, and to solicit their subscriptions. This committee commenced work the next morning, December 14, 1927, and by the following night, Thursday, December 15, 1927, reported to the adjourned mass meeting that the committee had in hand about three hundred subscriptions, totaling about one hundred and sixty thousand dollars, and that in the opinion of the committee the one hundred and fifty thousand dollars would be subscribed out of this amount. This result was reported to Mr. T. D. Johnson, Manager Industrial Department of the Alabama Power Company on December 17, 1927, by the committee, and assurances given that Clanton would raise the required $150,000.00.

This committee, which was commony known as the Cotton Mill Commettee, was retained by the mass meeting to urge the citizens to pay their subscriptions by the 10th of January and on Friday, January 6, 1928, began to urge the subscribers to the stock to pay their subscriptions to the banks. On Monday night, January 9, 1928, another mass meeting was held, and the committee was able to report that more than $140,000 in cash had been paid to the two banks, to the credit of the Alabama Mills Company, and that in the opinion of the committee the balance would be paid on the following morning by the other subscribers. On January 10, 1928, a final check-up was made, and it was found that the full $150,000 was paid in, and there still remained a few small subscribers. Of the total three hundred persons who subscribed less than ten failed to fulfill their obligations, and in the judgment of the Committee most of these did so through no fault of their own.

The committee was given much valuable aid and assistance by other citizens of the town, many of whom were not able to subscribe for the stock. Some members of the committee were engaged in the work for about thirty days.

FRANK J. CALLEN

Mr. Callen is well-known as a business man of Clanton. He was chosen by the Clanton stockholders to represent them on the Board of Directors of Alabama Mills Company. As such he meets the universal approval of every person who has stock in the mill, as well as the community at large.

MAIL AND TELEPHONE SERVICE AT COTTON MILL

At present all mail addressed to persons at the village is placed in the Alabama Mills Company's box at the Clanton postoffice. Later on it is planned to have all cotton mill mail assembled in a pouch at the postoffice and sent to the mill office where it will be sorted and deliverd to employees.

The mill maintans business telephone connections directly with the Clanton exchange of Southern Bell Telephone Company. The Bell service is also available to homes in the village. There are already a few Bell telephones installed.

WHEN IT LOOKS DARK to any weak, nervous or ailing woman, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to her aid. Women in every walk of life today say Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a reliable medicine. It is made from roots and herbs, sold by druggists, in both fluid and tablets.

Miss Mary Alice Tolar of Jonestown, Miss., said:—"I suffered for several years with my back and pains under my shoulder blades, also functional disturbances. I had gas on my stomach all the time, was weak, nervous and had dizzy headaches. I could not join in the sports and games with other girls—always felt blue. My complexion was swarthy and covered with pimples. I took different medicines but they didn't do any good. Finally I took Dr. Pierce's 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and felt like a different person." Send 10c for trial pkg. tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

LIST OF SUBSCRIBERS TO STOCK IN ALABAMA MILLS COMPANY

The fact that Clanton starts out into 1929 with a cotton mill ready to begin operation may be attributed to one main thing—wholehearted belief in Clanton and an undying determination that Clanton should have a cotton mill. To those who have made the cotton mill a reality here by putting their own money in it we may justly ascribe the credit for beginning an industrial era that will bring other manufacturing enterprises in the future.

The possibility of Clanton securing one of the ten Alabama Mills was first presented to us through the industrial department of the Alabama Power Company. A conference of power company officials and a few of the leading Clanton business men resulted in immediate action. It was made plain at first if we would secure one of the mills we must act without delay.

Our citizens became anxiously interested and all you could hear was cotton mill talk. Meetings were held in rapid succession and it was quickly decided to grab the opportunity.

Mr. W. W. Fox acted as chairman of the meetings which were being held to perfect the organization of our citizens into a composite unit to secure the mill. The following committee was selected to solicit subscriptions toward the $150,000 of stock which Clanton was called upon to buy: H. G. Boyd, F. J. Callen, J. R. Mullins, E. E. Upchurch, Grady Reynolds, J. C. Page, Arthur Johnson.

With each share of preferred stock one share of common stock was given. One was allowed to buy any amount of stock desired. The committee of Daddy Fox gave everybody a chance, and everybody took it. As they worked toward the goal other meetings were held and reports made of the amount of stock sold.

No word from us is necessary here to prove that the stock-selling committee did their job well. This is proven by the fact that they succeeded in what proved to be a really big job.

It is obvious that it is no small matter to sell $150,000 worth of anything to the people of Clanton. But this committee did it because they wouldn't quit until it was done.

Those of the finance committee were selected because of their ability as business men and their sound business judgment. The spare time of such a man is of course limited, but these men sacrificed their own interests for the time in order that Clanton might not lose her golden opportunity. They put it over and put it over strong—and never did any group of men do a thing more appreciated by the people of Clanton.

Then again it must be said that due credit goes to those who bought stock. Many who bought stock did it by sacrifice. Visions of new automobiles, new homes, and many other luxuries were sacrificed in many instances that we might secure a source of profitable employment for a number of people in the future.

In reading the list of stockholders you will note how well the whole citizenship of Clanton and Chilton County is united behind Alabama Mills. It is true that some bought more stock than others. This does not really count. The big thing is the spirit and intentions with which it was given.

To those who made possible Clanton's cotton mill in many different ways—the people are very proud of you.

Below is the list of those who own stock in Alabama Mills Company, which is not only stock in the Clanton unit, but all ten units of the company:

Farm Bureau and Stapp Now In A New Office

The office of County Agent C. E. Stapp, and the Chilton County Farm Bureau has been moved to the Alfred Popwell building on Main Street. The business of these two offices has grown to such proportions that the limited quarters in the courthouse could not accommodate them. They have ample room in the new place, which presents a most attractive appearance.

All business of the Farm Bureau and County Agent's office in future will be attended to at the new office.

Mr. O. C. Paulk is in charge of field work for the Farm Bureau, in which capacity he is constantly passing around among farmers of the county.

Miss Zora Guy, the popular and efficient office clerk, is delighted with the change to the new location.

The farmers of Chilton County are urged to avail themselves of the helpful assistance of the county agent and Farm Bureau, which they will find of great advantage.

One of Clanton's Best Boosters

W. W. (Daddy) FOX

When the cotton mill proposition was first presented to Clanton, Daddy Fox jumped right into the "scrap" and began to pull with all his might. And when it comes to pulling for Clanton, there is no citizen who can put on more steam than he. When the first citizens meeting was held to consider the cotton mill proposition, Mr. Fox was made Chairman. He continued in this capacity at every meeting until the job was wound up in good style. Daddy Fox is one of the leading merchants of Clanton, a live wire member of the Kiwanis Club, and a staunch advocate of the movement to drain the swamps around Clanton. He came to Clanton several years ago from Huntsville, and has always been a perpetual booster for Clanton's development. He justly deserves the credit which is accorded him for his work in helping secure the cotton mill.

Clanton THE LEADER MANAGER, M. LANDE Alabama

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

On account of the prevalence of influenza in Thorsby and vicinity, the special meetings planned for the week beginning January 6th at the Congregational church have been indefinitely postponed. Also the church dinner usually given by the ladies of the church in connection with the annual meeting early in January. It has been considered wise, as far as practicable, to avoid for the present any unusual meetings in the community.

Mr. ad Mrs. Emmett Billingsley motored to Birmingham Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goodgame spent the Christmas holidays in Birmingham.

Mr. Jim Bice spent Friday and Saturday at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. G. Billingsley.

Mrs. Pauline Pate, clerk in Thorsby Potsoffice has been very sick with the flu, but is now improving. Her father, Mr. H. L. Walker, is another sufferer from the same cause.

Miss Lois Leech returned from a holiday trip Sunday evening. She visited Linn Haven, Jacksonville, and St. Augustine. At Jacksonville Miss Margurite Davison met her and returned with her.

Misses Fairbank and Klinglehoefer spent several days in Birmingham last week.

Mr. Butler has been ill for several days.

Thorsby Institute students returned Tuesday and the Institute opened Wednesday.

Miss Jenkins will remain in Hartford, Conn. for several weeks.

Mr. Aaron Danielson was reported Tuesday to be very ill.

Mr. J. H. Goddard is among those reported quite sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley had as their dinner guests Christmas Day Mr. Joe Minton and Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Billingsley and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Littleton and family.

Mr. Joe Minton was a visitor in Thorsby last week.

Dr. Wood has so far recovered as to be up and about, but Mrs. Wood was taken to a Birmingham infirmary Monday night in a serious condition, up to afternoon Tuesday no word had come to Thorsby about her.

Mrs. Mizel and family are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen. Mrs. Mizell's home is at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Word came to Thorsby Monday of the death of George Peterson, aged 40, who passed away at 11 a.m. on that day at a Birmingham infirmary. Mr. Peterson was the son of the late J. F. Peterson, one of the founders of Thorsby, and will be remembered by many who have been long residents of this vicinity.

Information was received Tuesday of the death at Jemison, Monday of Mr. Freeman, father of George Freeman of Thorsby.

Mrs. Charles Howard and son, Lloyd, and Mr. Howard Helton, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Helton and two little girls motored to Tuscaloosa last Thursday, spent the night with the Phalin's and on Friday drove to Birmingham and returned to Thorsby in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Helton and children with Mr. Howard Helton, left for their home in St. Elmo, Ala. Saturday morning, going by way of Montgomery, they expected to spend the night with relatives at Canoe, Alabama.

Messrs. Carl Turnquist, A. E. Reagan, James Bosworth, Charles Howard and Miss Naemi Turnquist drove to Birmingham Tuesday.

Miss Jennye Robinson has returned from Florida where she has spent the past two months visiting relatives. Henry Robinson has returned to A. & M. College at Arlington, Texas after spending the holidays with his parents in Thorsby. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Robinson have returned after a two weeks visit with relatives in Florida.

Mr. Relius Franklin has been on the sick list for several days but is now improving.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pate with Lester and Roma Lee Pate and Miss Alta Each went to Shelby Monday to visit Mr. Pate's brother.

Misses Lorena and Lois Primm, Frances Wilson, Doris Freeman, Dorothy Butler, Iola Gerald and Ronald Lucas and William Each have returned to their respective collegs.

FRIENDSHIP WILL HAVE SERVICES FIRST & THIRD

Rev. A. L. Foshee filled his regular appointments at Friendship last 4th Sunday in the morning and evening. He preached two sermons that could not be surpassed by anyone, so far as the gospel truth is concerned. Rev. Foshee is not a classical preacher, but he just preaches the plain old time religion just as he sees and feels it. The people of Friendshp community who fail to avail themselves of hearing Bro. Foshee miss something that would have done their souls good.

In view of the fact that the weather is unfavorable during the winter months, it was decided that night services be discontinued for the next three months. Instead preaching will be held on two Sundays—the first and third. Preaching will be held on these days, beginning on the third Sunday in January, at 11 o'clock, immediately following Sunday school.

VISITING IN FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Farley, their son, Burber and daughter, Mary, left last Wednesday for Orlando Fla., where they went to spend a week with Misses Maxine and Esther Farley. These two young ladies have been in Orlando for the past four months taking training as nurses in the Seventh Day Adventist Hopital of that city.

A CARD OF THANKS

We wish through The Banner to thank our friends and neighbors who were so kind and attentive to us during the illness and death of our father and husband, Wm. G. J. Dorminey. Also we thank Dr. McNeil and Dr. Wood for their services.—Mrs. Leona Dorminey, Mr. and Mrs. John Dorminey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oslin, Miss Jessie Dormney.

New Clanton Grammar School

Among the outstanding steps toward progress in Clanton during 1928 is the building of a new Grammar School building. The structure, which is pictured above, was completed and occupied by the school during last month. It is located at the site of the old Grammar School building. The design is of approved state specifications and is built for the addition of more units as needs may arise.

WRIGHT FAMILY REUNION

It was on Christmas morning that Mr. and Mrs. John Wright's children, like many others, thought of the old family homestead. The Christmas spirit with them, they started for home. Some arrived early and others late, but before the day was past all were there. Part of the day was spent by the men in hunting, the ladies in conversation while the children played with their toys that Santa had brought.

We children try to make this an annual event to be home together, and were thankful and grateful that we were permitted to be there once more without the family chain being broken again.

The home was beautifully decorated with Christmas decorations. At twelve-thirty a bountiful dinner was served. We all enjoyed the day and hope that all may meet again ere the years roll by.

Those enjoying this affair were Mr. and Mrs. John Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Tom and children, Willard and Mary, of Jemison, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wright and son, Herbert Jr., of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Nix and children, Lamar and Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Gibson and children, Charlotte and Betty, all of Ensley, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bean and children, Frances and Billy Wright, of Clanton, Miss Inez Wright at home and others.—Mrs. Willie Bean.

DORIS looked anxiously at the cheap alarm clock as she shrugged into the thin jacket: "I wonder," she blushed a little as she calculated the time required to walk to the park, if Dick will be waiting?"

Doris had felt much more at home in the crowded city since her chance meeting with her old friend. Dick had left the village years before she had made the plunge, and she felt sure that he had already gained success although he did not make any mention of it.

He dressed very well and had a competent, up-to-the-minute air of affluence. She recklessly squeezed the package of sandwiches she had made from the remnants of her hurried breakfast cooked over the gas flame. She would have hated to have Dick guess that she carried her luncheon with her.

"Oh, Miss Weeks," the landlady's voice hailed her as she opened the front door, "here's a letter I forgot to give you last night. Must have come while you were away."

Taking the letter she inserted her thumb under the flap as she went down the tall steps of the dingy, old-fashioned house. The envelope bore the name of Grisby & Son and her heart pounded as she read it; that was the firm that employed her. All the gayety left her face and the slim shoulders drooped as she slowly read and refolded the letter: "They will keep me on a week longer to give me time to look for something else," she murmured gloomily, "and every firm cutting down expenses and laying off people."

At the entrance to the park she stopped doubtfully. "I'd hate to have him know I've lost my job," she reflected, but she walked on again as she saw the familiar gray overcoat hurrying toward her.

"Hello, Doris! In a big hurry?"

She shook her head.

"Well, I'm not. I've thrown up my job. I only came out here on the chance of seeing you. Dad wants me back in Franklin and I'm going. There isn't anything to this city life. Gee, I'll be glad to taste some real food again. Remember those lemon layer cakes you used to make? All thick with white icing on top?"

"But I thought you were such a success!"

"I'll do better back home, but—" he paused and studied her downcast face, "I've been thinking of going back for some time, but when I found you were in town I kinda hated to go."

Doris did not feel the chill winter air. In her heart had sprung a delicious warmth. She knew now why she had awakened with such a gay zest for each workday; it was so she could reach the park in time for the daily chat before going on to her daily work.

And Dick, also, had been intrigued by the inconsequent chatter in the wide spaces of the windy park where the trees stretched bare. A fat sparrow alighted near them and in her bill she carried a bit of string.

Dick colored furiously: "See there, that sparrow thinks it's nesting time. She is a bit ahead of the season, but it's a good idea. Would you be satisfied to live back in Franklin? I'm going partners with dad."

"I'm thinking of going back." Her words came slowly.

Dick stood up very straight: "Is it Fred Miller? I thought that—that is, oh, of course, it is not my business," he ended coldly.

The brightness faded from the day, the chill of the winter and the lost job suddenly overwhelmed her. How had she so misunderstood him. "I have not seen Fred Miller for over a year. I must be getting on. I'll be—" she stopped. She could scarcely be late. Grisby's would not want to see her again.

"Don't let me keep you," his miserable young voice fell dully upon her ears. "Of course, you'll want to marry a city man—"

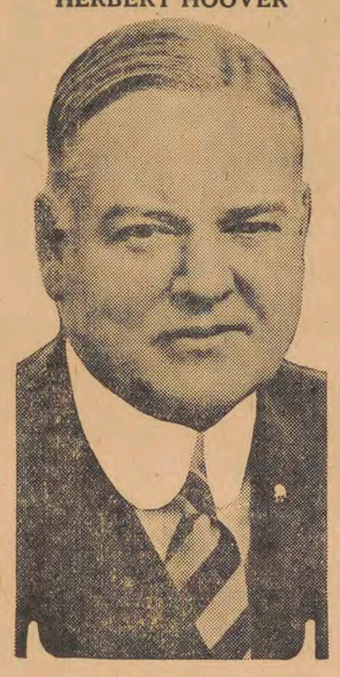
She looked up at him, but he was staring at some late, shriveled leaves that were making ghostly progress over the frozen grass. She wished ardently that he would go on and propose properly, but, instead, he stood dejectedly and in silence. She could scarcely snatch at the magic word and urge him on, but all the time her heart ached with loneliness. She wanted to be back home where the houses wore familiar faces instead of the bleak city wilderness of bricks and granite.

Jumping up blindly because of the unwelcome tears that had suddenly blurred her vision she held out her hand in its much-mended glove: "Well, good—" At that inopportune moment her bag slipped and fell to the ground and burst open. She made a retrieving gesture toward it, then stepped backward in dismay. The soft, round package that she had mercilessly squeezed into it had fallen out, and the stale bread sandwiches, spread with lumpy butter because of the almost freezing temperature of her room, lay exposed for criticism.



"Why, Doris! Do you carry your luncheon? Then you would be willing to save and—" He had grasped both her hands and looked directly into her misty eyes. "Marry a poor man," he finished dominantly.

Mock White House Reception on Board Vessel

HERBERT HOOVER

U. S. S. Utah, Jan. 1.—Save for a mock White House reception New Year's Day passed aboard this battleship, carrying President-elect Hoover, much as any other day during the cruise from Rio Janerio toward Hampton Roads.

Mr. Hoover, Mrs. Hoover, and Ambassador Fletcher were in the receiving line on the upper deck of the "reception," and they as well as officers and passengers were much amused at costumes worn by those impersonating the justices of the Supreme Court, the diplomatic corps, the army, the navy, Tammany Hall, the W. C. T. U., the G. A. R. and Sandino, the Nicaraguan chief who has given the marines so much trouble.

The Utah rolled along at a little more than fifteen knots with brisk trade winds kicking up a sea which gave her a decided but gradual rocking from side to side.

Late this afternoon the goodwill ship was due east of Porto Rico and seventeen hundred miles from Hampton Roads which will be reached at 8 a. m., Sunday unless stormy weather is encountered meanwhile.

There were showers early this morning soon after the Hoovers arose and a brilliant rainbow stretched from horizon to horizon off the port bow. The rain was succeeded by clear skies and the tropical sun beat down the rest of the day, although the heat was tempered by stiff trade winds.

The President-elect had his usual nap after luncheon while Mrs. Hoover operated a portable motion picture machine on various parts of the ship. She took a number of pictures with spray breaking over the bow and of players in a deck tennis tournament. The sea was deep blue dotted by numerous whitecaps.

Few members of the Hoover party escaped drenching during the day as seas broke over the bow and at times even threw heavy spray over the quarters.

WORK STARTS ON HIGHWAY FROM ROCKFORD TO CLANTON

Goodwater, Ala., Dec. 31.—Work in earnest has begun on the Rockford-Clanton Highway. Contractors are on the job and a convict camp with approximately 100 convicts in number are already on the work. The warden of this new camp is William P. Shurett, of Rockford. Mr. Shurett was recently appointed to this position. Mr. Shurett is a leading Republican of this county and many have wondered how he got the appointment through a Democratic administration.

For almost six years Mr. Shurett was chief clerk in the office of the probate judge of this county, while the office was filled by Judge George Stewart, a Republican. Both Judge Stewart and Mr. Shurett made many friends while in that office.

HAVING THE DRAG

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

GIBLER had been dropped from college for poor scholarship in accordance with the regulations which prevailed, and he was mourning the fact and racking his brains for some adequate alibi which would give him reason for applying for readmission. It was not that he had made the most of his opportunities or that he had been the victim of ill-luck or sudden misfortune, he had simply been caught asleep at the switch. It was the end of the semester and most of the fellows had gone home.

"How come?" his roommate asked him.

"Well, Tom has a drag with the dean, and I know he could get me reinstated just by asking."

Gibler accepted the Hindu proverb that if you have a friend on the police force, respect for the law is not essential. He believed thoroughly in making friends with the sons of Belial.

It is a curious and rather general point of view that if we know some one of importance or even if we know somebody who knows somebody in a position of influence that fact entitles us to special consideration, special privilege, the right to ignore regulations and to violate the law.

A boy came to me not long ago to enlist my help in getting a job.

"My father is very well acquainted with Senator Blank," he said, "and he knows....." And then he named a long list of more or less prominent citizens and officers of the state.

"How would that fact help you to do a job well?" I inquired.

"Well, I suppose it wouldn't," he was forced to reply.

"And what about the boy who wants a job and whose father is so unfortunate as not to know anyone of importance?"

"He'd just be out of luck."

"We never hold it against a boy who wants work that his father knows a lot of prominent people. He has just as good a chance as anyone else."

He looked at me curiously; but I don't think he understood. It was unintelligible to him that anyone who knew a congressman or a policeman didn't have a better chance to get something he wanted than another not so fortunately situated.

It is interesting to see how often a man, when he wants something that he has no legal right to have, shows me a badge or a button or a membership card in some organization to which I myself belong, or brings me a letter from an acquaintance of prominence, saying:

"Mr. Brown is a man of influence in our community and an intimate friend of mine. If you can see your way clear to set aside the regulations in his case I shall appreciate the courtesy."

And such a man expects that it will be done. It isn't justice he is after; it is special consideration. Knowing a man on the police force, he felt quite sure that he could get by.

It's a poor theory.

New England Antiques

Natives of New England discovered the value of their antiques many years ago, and they have plenty of them for sale, genuine and almost genuine. But they usually have too much intelligence, even when they run giftie shoppies in connection with their atique lairs, to mix up the old junk along with the current hooey.—American Magazine.

Report of Laying Contest, District 5

Monthly Summary for November, 1928, Alabama Egg Laying Demstration, Auburn, Alabama

During the month of November the 1,000 competing pullets in the Fifth Alabama Egg Laying Contest, not counting the alternates, laid 15,654 eggs, a production of 45.5 per cent, or an average of 15.7 eggs per bird. There were 398 eggs disqualified for weighing less than 18 oz. per dozen. Such eggs are not credited to pens or individuals and are not included in calculations and percentages.

Weather conditions were ideal with the sun shining almost every day. The lowest temperature recorded during the month was 26 degrees, but it warmed up quickly the next morning. The birds were turned into their runs at noon each day.

An abundance of green feed was provided in the form of rape which was fed in the morning and afternoon. Germinated oats were fed at 7:30 A. M. A heavy feeding of grain was given in the late afternoon followed by a wet mash just before the birds went to roost. Semi-solid buttermilk was mixed with the wet mash. Grain was thrown in the straw after dark so that the hens could scratch for it as soon as the lights were turned on the next morning. The birds were fed all the grain they would eat so as to build up their body weights.

Although egg production for the month was satisfactory mortality was high due to an epidemic of roup and bronchial trouble and some chicken-pox. As some pens lost birds a day birds a day or two after their arrival it was decided not to allow the contestants to replace any losses that occurred the first two weeks. Twelve birds were affected by this ruling, three of which were in one pen.

Cause of November mortality: Septicemia, 12; enlarged gall bladder, 245; pneumonia, 319; bronchitis, 275; laryngitis, 278;, 426, 1,007; canker, 192; 19 x 220, 293; roup, 314, 321, 443, 606, 919; peritonitis, No. 27, 60Z, 685; toxemia, 946; unknown, 18, 971, 979.

Feed Consumption Per Bird

(Retail Basis)

2.80 lbs. mash @ $3.50 per 100 lbs., 10.05c; 2.75 lbs. grain @ $3.03 per 100 lbs., 8.36c; .66 lbs. oats @ $2.75 per 100 lbs., 1.81c; .61 lbs. milk @ $4.50 per 100 lbs., 2.74c. Total food, 6.82 lbs., total cost, 22.96c.

Feed cost to produce a dozen eggs, 17.61c.

Radio Music

Bare Legged Fashions

Some time ago women demanded a silk stocking that would not run. Considering the number of girls seen last summer without any stockings at all, we are wondering how long the Run will continue to be a national issue.—Woman's Home Companion.

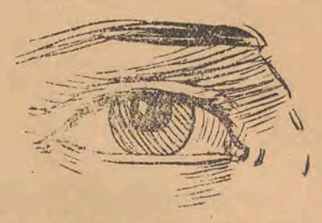
Lady Luck

Every human being has a number of "lucky breaks" scattered through his life. Some people never recognized them. Others recognize them vaguely, but never fully take advantage of them. The really lucky man is he who knows good fortune when he sees it and then pushes it to the limit.—American Magazine.

Good Health

Good health is not a gift of the gods, as many persons believe, but the effect of definite and discoverable causes.—Woman's Home Companion.

For That Tired Feeling



Backaches and footaches and headaches are responsible for most of the wrinkles and worry quints and tired listless faces among women. Body aches give that hard edge to the voice and make women feel 45 when they are barely past 30. Many of the tired aches could be avoided if women would take a little less care of their houses and a little better care of themselves.—Farm and Fireside.

Farm Relief

What the farmer needs is—less discussion of what the farmer needs. If all this discussion of his requirements continues, he'll begin to get self-conscious and think he needs all the things the professional friend of the farmer thinks he needs, including the professional friend of the farmer.—Farm and Fireside.

Making Homes Safer

Twenty-three thousand people were killed in their homes last year by falls, gas, burns and poisons. Traditionally the haven of safety the home no less than the factory suffers under the impact of modern civilization. The problem of domestic accidents is the next forward step in civilization.—Woman's Home Companion.

McDOWELL-CARROLL

A marriage of outsanding interest was that of Myrtle McDowell and Earnest Carroll which was solemnized on Sunday, December 23rd, at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McDowell, amid the romantic setting of a Christmas scene. The bride, who entered on the arm of the groom was charming in a gown of lustrous antique ivory satin lelong model fashioned with lovely flounces. The veil which was of white costume georgette was fitted to the bride's golden hair and edged the hem of her dress. Rev. W. H. Wilson performed the impressive ceremony. Mr. Carroll, the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Carroll, having been working for the Avondale milling company for seven years, has now accepted a noted position with the Alabama Mills Co.

SHELBY CHIEFS MAKING SEARCH FOR AMBUSHER

Critically Wounded Man Declares He Knows Who Fired Bullet

Shelby, Ala., Dec. 30.—Search was being conducted by county officers here Sunday for the assailant of George Littlefield, 55, who was critically wounded Saturday when ambushed from a thicket near his home.

Littlefield stated at his home that he knew who shot him, although he refused to mention any names, officers said. The shotting occurred as he walked along a path through a heavily wooded area en route to his farm. The bullet took effect in his right temple.

Investigating officers said that Littlefield had been warned repeatedly to leave this section of the country. After being shot Littlefield lay in the woods for several hours before being found by a pedestrian, who removed him to his home.

HUGE JORDAN DAM PLANT OPENED TUESDAY

Project of Biggest Hydro Development of Alabama Power Co.

With the beginning of the new year, the station will be turned over to its operating department by the forces of Dixie Construction Co. H. B. Cox, recently appointed superintendent of the plant, will take charge with A. T. Hutchins, and J. U. Benziger, superintendent of Coosa river plants.

The Jordan hydro-electric development is at the site selected by the corps of engineers, U. S. army, for Lock 18 on the Coosa river near Wetumpka, about 20 miles above Montgomery, and 18 miles below Mitchell dam.

It is one of a series of dams to improve navigation on the Coosa and Alabama rivers from Rome, Ga., to the gulf, develop hydro-electric power, and aid flood control.

In many respects Jordan dam is the largest construction project ever undertaken for Alabama Power Co. The dam is 2,206 feet long. Its height is 103 feet to the crest and 125 feet to the deck. Seventeen spillway gates, 18 feet high by 30 feet wide, regulate the level of the pool. The power house is 105 feet high, 61 feet wide, and 300 feet long.

Employed 1,200 Men

In the construction of the dam and power house, 485,000 cubic yards of earth and rock were excavated and 389,414 cubic yards of concrete were poured.

Fifteen hundred tons of reinforcing and 1,400 tons of structural steel and approximately 12,000,000 feet of lumber were used.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE CLIFFORD POPWELL

The death angel visited the family of Mr. Alpha Popwell and called away his darling little son, Clifford. He was five years of age and a very sweet and delicate little child. Little Clifford had been sick for almost three weks from a very serious attack of double pneumonia. He also suffered death with his little left arm. The cause was never known. He was carried to the Central Alabama hospital Saturday night, Dec. 15, and died one week from that time. He was sure a brave little fellow. He had a very strong determination to get well but God saw fit to call him away from us, for some cause. We feel it was our loss but heaven's gain. Weep not, dear father and little brothers, for we can feel assured little Clifford is resting with his dear mother above. We feel heart broken and lonely without our little brother, but we are sure his dear mother is rejoicing. We want to thank Dr. N. S. Johnson and his nurse, also Dr. Arthur Johnson and Dr. Marcus for we feel sure they did everything that was in their power for him but God saw fit to call him from us. The funeral was held at the Temple in Clanton and the remains were laid to rest in the Clanton cemetery at 11 o'clock, December 24. Mr. Mell Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Webb Parrish.—Mrs. Gerthie Gladys Johnson.

TO CHILTON COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL PATRONS

Chilton County High School reopened with fully ninety per cent of the total enrollment and all teachers present, despite the present flu situation in our city and county. Everything assumed its normal condition, and teachers and pupils have taken up their work with renewed enthusiasm and interest.

The school is now on the last two weeks of the first semester. The examinations will begin next Thursday morning, and continue through Friday. All the work covered during the months of September, October, November, and December is being thoroughly reviewed, and every possible preparation is being given your child in order that he may pass successfully these tests. We sincerely urge and request that all parents do their parts in impressing upon their children the supreme importance of passing these examinations, and thereby earning the credits that will determine their promotion. Such importance should be realized by parents, teachers and pupils at all times, however, but as this is the turning point in the year's work, it is of utmost importance that each does his best.

No second examination will be given unless application for same is accompanied by doctor's certificate showing that student was unable physically to take the examination in the regular order.

Cooperate with us in making this the best year in the history of your child's high school life. We pledge you our united support and most loyal efforts at all times. Cordially and sincerely yours.—L. C. Warr, Prin.

WEST CHILTON NEWS

Guess we will have to let 1928 go with all its shadows and sunlight, its trials and victories.

The Yule Tide was unusually quiet here.

Some one has said that time would come when Christmas would pass unnoticed. Due to the fact that our festivities are on the increase all the time, and would finally eclipse Christmas.

Tom Gibson, born and raised in the community of Mulberry, now a resident of Oklahoma, was visiting in West Chilton last week. His son and daughter were with him.

D. H. Hodgens visited his daughter at Birmingham Christmas Day.

Mr. John T. Weeks and children of Prattville were visiting old friends here last week.

Mrs. Evie Kincaid and children of Birmingham were visitors at D. H. Hodgen's during the holidays.

John T. Armstrong and family who moved from this locality last year to New Jersey, have returned to their old home on the Brown farm just west of Macedonia.

John S. Waldrop has installed a new radio in his home.

West Chilton people are going right on just as if last year was not a time of short crops. Evidently they are trying to see the bright side all the while. We look around us and see a net work of well kept roads. Besides these many other advantages that we have which were unknown to the older people, and we think it is generally admitted that we have a body of local officers composed of men and women of sterling worth, dependable to a finish.

The rural school is just about a thing of the past. How about the rural church, is it passing too? Some think it is. Now the passing of those time-honored bodies does not look good to us. But ultimately we may realize that it was all for the best. "Coming events cast their shadows long before." Will the rural home with all its quietness and lovliness pass also? It seems the dim shadows are pointing that way. Through it all can be clearly traced the modern methods of transportation and dispensational change.

Rev. G. W. Freeman and wife of Randolph were in this community last week.

While everything points to prosperity locally and nationall, yet a safe and sane program should be adhered to by all.

We wish The Union-Banner (the best County paper we ever saw) and all its readers a happy New Year.

MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL HOUSE BURNED

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Mt. Pleasant district schoolhouse three miles north west of Clanton late last Saturday afternoon.

When discovered the fire was raging throughout the whole interior of the building. It was first seen by Monroe Foshee from his home not far away. He rushed to the burning building but the fire had such a start there was no chance to get it under control. Only a few desks were saved.

Supt. Lawrence and a committee of citizens went to Montgomery Monday to confer with state school authorities about how to continue the school. There are around 200 children who attend the Mt. Pleasant school. It is the hope of local school officials that some arrangements can be made to finish out the present term.

STAPP WILL GO TO AUBURN NEXT WEEK

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, will go to Auburn next Monday, January 7th, for a week. He will attend the annual meeting of all workers of the Extension service for Alabama.

DOCTORS HAVE BEEN BUSY FOR SEVERAL DAYS PAST

The doctors of Clanton have been the busiest folks at all for the past several days. There is so much sickness it has been almost impossible for them to make all the calls demanded of them. Part of the time some of the doctors themselves have been on the sick list. Dr. Marcus was unable to get out last week. Dr. Napoleon Johnson is sick this week.

Most of the sickness is flu and bad colds, both of which seem to have been on a rage in all parts of the county for several days.

Misses Beverly and Margaret Hester spent the holiday season at home in Clanton with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hester.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM WALTER L. PETERSON

Editor Union-Banner:

Am forwarding for publication in your very interesting paper a few facts concerning the "Pride of the U. S. Navy" and the fastest big ship in the world, the U. S. Navy Aircraft Carrier, "Saratoga," which is a sister ship of the U. S. S. Lexington. This ship has a dead weight of 43,000 tons, is 888 feet long, consists of 1,400 individual compartments, is electrically driven, has a flying and landing deck measuring two and one-half acres and a war time complement of 2,200 men and officers, with a present complement of almost 1,500.

When some 1,400 or 1,500 men have their hearts set on a certain objective, to do a certain thing, and then give everything they have to accomplish it, something has to happen. Weeks and even months ago, some 1,500 men abord set their hearts on the Saratoga making and holding the high speed records for both top single and full power run and top average full power runs. For weeks, that thought was the background against which the men of the engineering force shaped their work aided and abetted therein by all hands. To be sure, daily tasks and duties were fully carried out, and routine work was performed snappily and thoroughly. But every man on the pumps, every water tender, every fireman, every mess cook, every messenger, carried the big idea around with him.

Came Friday, Dec. 14th, the Big Day. The deck force relieved the engineers of as much work as possible to leave them free to give their best. Every man, irrespective of department or work, was willing to contribute whatever he could to turn the trick. An early start was made so that the machinery would be hot and at its best. With every boiler lit off and going full tilt, the throttle wide open, with more steam than the turbine could use, with the giant propellors turning over more than 5 times per second, the ship tore down the measured mile for the first run, while men clustered around the decks and boat pockets in groups holding stop watches, wrist watches, and even trying to get the ship's time with pocket Bens. From hundreds of lips: "What did she do? Did she make it, what was the time?" The reply on every side was: "Affirmative!" Down went the sea's top speed record on the first run.

On every run, men over the entire ship waited with bated breath until the result was announced. Finally, the ship turned to make her last run. As though conscious of nearing the end of the full-power trials, she roared over the measured mile like a living thing, instinctive with life and anxious to finish the run. When the returns were in, it was found that the last run of five was the high run of the trials, and the ship had set a record that will probably not be equalled for a long, long time in both speed and horsepower developed. Speed, 34.64 knots or 38.97 miles per hour; 212,202 horse power.

Hoisting her proverbial brooms at her main mast to indicate that she had made a clean sweep of existing records, the Saratoga steamed majestically back to port and to her enchorage.

When 1,500 men set their hearts to accomplish a certain objective, to do a certain single thing, something has to happen. And it did.

Meet the U. S. S. Saratoga, Mistress of the Seven Seas—and the crew who made her so. We are proud of her as every good loyal American should be. Respectfully submitted.—Walter L. Peterson, U. S. N. A.

CHEVROLET WILL AGAIN BE GIVEN FIRST PLACE IN SHOW

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 29.—When the New York Automobile Show opens next week, with more than 45 domestic manufacturers exhibiting their 1929 models, Chevrolet Motor Company will again be awarded first place at the show. This award carries with it the honor position in the exhibit, an award coveted by all manufacturers because of its allotment on a strict merit basis.

Each year the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce which sponsors both the New York and Chicago automobile shows makes the award. And each year the standard of computation has been the same. Manufacturers are ranked strictly on the amount of business transacted during the fiscal year ending the August prior to the time the showing is held. The first place award applies for both the New York and Chicago shows.

TRADE MARK REG.

Relieves the congestion, prevents complications, and hastens recovery.

Chevrolet's choice once more for this signal honor serves to emphasize the position of leadership the company has assumed during recent years. It also serves to open auspiciously a year, which, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the company, has predicted will see the company surpassing all of its former sales and production records.

The new line of sixes which Chevrolet will display at the show this year has already been viewed at advance showings throughout the country by millions of people. Since the mid-November announcement of the new line, Chevrolet's vast productive facilities have been rapidly getting under way at all the Chevrolet assembly plants, so that within a few weeks Chevrolet will be running close to full capacity.

The first of the deliveries of the new year are scheduled to take place throughout the country immediately after January 1st. Already the 10,000 dealers who comprise Chevrolet's great retailing chain in this country, have been supplied with models of the new line.

Today is also important in Chevrolet's calendar because it marks the date set by company heads for a grand national showing of the 1929 models in all dealers show rooms in the United States.

THANKS SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus:

If I could command the language with which to thank you for your kind remembrance of me I would be glad, but after all is said words are only words, and have not the power to express the inner sentiment we feel. May the God of our fathers graciously implant in each of us the spirit of our blessed Saviour, who was born in the manger in Bethlehem. Wishing you all a happy New Year, I, the unworthy recipient of your good will, remain, sincerely.—Miss Josephine Askins.

RAY-BURNETT MARRIAGE

The wedding of Miss Arsula Burnett, daughter of Mrs. Mary Burnett, to Mr. Gladden E. Ray, prominent young man of Tuscaloosa, was quietly solmenized Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride. Rev. C. D. Messer of Verbena, grandfather of the groom, performed the ceremony. The ceremony was attended only by the relatives and close friends of the families.

The happy couple left Monday afternoon for Tuscaloosa where they will make their future home. We wish them much happiness in their new home.—A Subscriber.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ray and children of Dadeville spent the Christmas holidays here with relatives.

TREE DOCTORS COME SOUTH

Four hundred expert tree surgeons—just as well qualified to feel the pulse of a tree and treat its ailments as a doctor is qualified to treat a sick patient—are now practicing their profession in the southern states.

They are employed under the direction of the Davey Tree Expert Company of Kent, Ohio, which conducts the only school in the world for instruction in tree surgery.

The large number of tree surgeons sent South this winter refelcts the great economic strides taken by the South, according to Congressman Martin L. Davey, president of the Davey Company. "We have been sending part of our tree surgeons South for the past fifteen winters," said Mr. Davey, "but there has never been such a demand for them as during the past five years. We find that this is a pretty good barometer of increasing southern prosperity."

Many of the trees treated are of historical value. Because of the care which has been given them they have One of the most noted of these is the horse chestnut tree at Fredericksburg, Virginia, the only one remaining alive of thirteen planted by George Washington to commemorate the original states of the union.

RAY-THOMASTON WEDDING

On December 26 at 2 o'clock the wedding of Miss Ida Thomaston and Mr. Jesse Ray was solemnized by Rev. Monroe Honeycutt at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Thomaston.

The bride was very beautifully dressed in a chin-chin blue crepe dress with hat and accessories to match. Miss Clara Smith served as maid of honor, and Misses Barnes and Nora Thomaston were bridesmaids. They were dressed in harmonizing colors.

Mr. Ray is the son of Mr. Dock Ray of Pate's Chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray will make their home in Siluria after the first of the year. We wish them much success and happiness.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(©, 1928, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 6

OUR HEAVENLY FATHER

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:24-34.

GOLDEN TEXT—Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Heavenly Father.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Heavenly Father.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What the Heavenly Father Means to Me

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fatherhood of God.

Half of the lessons for the year 1929 are of a topical character. The aim of the committee seems to have been to place before the Sunday-school pupils some of the great doctrine. of God's Word, as well as teachings on practical life.

I. Who Is Our Heavenly Father? (Genesis 1:1, 27).

He is the Almighty God who created the universe. God was before all things. "Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God." The universe came into being by the will and act of the personal being called God. Man himself is a creation of God. He was created in the likeness and image of God. God is the infinite and perfect spirit in whom we live and move and have our being. He is omnipotent, omniscient and omnipresent. He was not only before all things, but the cause of all things.

II. What the Father Does.

1. He loves us (1 John 4:9, 10).

This love was expressed by sending His only begotten Son into the world that we might live through Him. He not only loves the redeemed, but He loves the world (John 3:16). In the very essence of His being God is love (1 John 4:8).

2. He redeemed us (1 John 4:9).

He gave His only begotten Son that we might live through Him.

3. God preserves us (Ps. 103:1-14).

The preserving mercy of God embraces the following gracious beneficial acts:

(1) He forgives all our iniquities (v. 3). This He is able to do because of the righteous provision He made for sin in the atonement wrought out by Jesus Christ.

(2) He healeth all our diseases (v. 3). This healing refers to the body and soul.

(3) He redeemeth the life from destruction (v. 4). Redemption implies the payment of all demands against the debtor.

(4) He satisfieth thy mouth (v. 5). This means that God satisfies all legitimate desires so that youth is renewed like the eagle's.

(5) He executes righteousness and judgment (vv. 6-12). The wrongs of life are righted and man is thus relieved of their burdens.

(6) He pities His children (vv. 13, 14). The pity of an earthly father for his children is but a faint suggestion of the sympathetic heart of the loving God, our Father.

III. Our Responsibility to the Heavenly Father (Matthew 6:24-34).

Christ came to reveal the Father. The subjects of the heavenly kingdom will love Him as the child loves its father.

1. He will give unto him undivided attention (v. 24).

The child of God makes the unequivocal choice between the heavenly Father and the world. The word "mammon" is a kind of personification of worldliness.

2. Will not be anxious about food and clothing (vv. 25-32).

The child of God who knows Him as a Father will not be supremely concerned about what it shall eat or what it shall put on because anxiety is

(1) Useless (v. 27).

Regardless of what thought or concern one exercises concerning food and clothing, it will be provided only according to His will. In Him do we live, move and have our being. God supplies all our needs (Phil. 4:19).

(2) It shows distrust of the Father (vv. 28-30). In the measure that one is anxious about these needs, he shows lack of faith in the love of God.

(3) It is heathenish (v. 32). That those who are ignorant of God should manifest anxiety is not to be wondered at, but for His children, those who know God as the Father, to do so is to play the heathen. He knows that we have need of temporal blessings.

3. Will diligently seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. (vv. 33, 34).

This means that he will subordinate temporal things to the things of the Spirit. It does not mean that a child of God will fail to exercise proper forethought in providing for himself and family.

The Reality of Life

Silence is in truth the attribute of God; and those who seek Him from that side invariably learn that meditation is not the dream, but the reality of life; not its illusion, but its truth; not its weakness but its strength.—Martineau.

Mr. R. Langhorn Tabb of Nashville, Tenn., Miss Linda Tabb from Plainfield, N. J., and Miss Payne Tabb of the University of Alabama, all children of Mrs. Herbert G. Tabb, principal of Clanton Grammar school, spent the Christmas holidays with the mother at the Wilson Hotel.

THE NEW FORD A SAFE CAR

When the new Model A Ford was being designed, one of the factors which was given most careful attention was that of building into the car every possible safeguard against accidents.

One of the most striking discoveries in the analysis of automobile accidents was that 65 per cent of all injuries resulting from motor car accidents were being caused by flying glass. The analysis also showed that in the great majority of cases the dangerous pieces of glass came from the windshield of the car.

So Henry Ford and his staff decided that the windshields of the new Model A Fords should be of shatterproof glass. The best shatterproof glass made was selected and specified as standard equipment for all Model A Ford windshields. The Ford Motor Company installed in its own glass plants to make Triplex, shatterproof glass and secured the manufacturing rights and today thousands of shatterproof Ford windshields are made daily in Ford factories.

The process of making this glass is one of the most interesting and newest developments in the automotive field. The windshields are made of two sheets of fine glass, sealed together, under high pressure, by a layer of crystal clear material of cellulose base which holds the glass together in case it is cracked or broken by impact. Repeated tests have shown that not even the smallest particles of glass from these windshields can break loose and fly when they are struck the heavy blows that so frequently cause serious injury to driver and passengers.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Jan. 1.—Dabney S. Lancaster, secretary of the state board of education of Virginia, has accepted the position of Dean of Men at the University of Alabama. Lancaster will assume his duties at the Capstone at the beginning of the second semester the latter part of January.

In commenting upon the appointment, president Denny stated that while the position of Dean of Men was a new one at the University, it was a position already established in all large unversities over the country. Dr. Denny stated that the duties of the new Dean would place him in close contact with the student body, acting as advisor and counselor to students in their various problems of selecting courses and getting benefits from opportunities placed before them.

December was a red letter month for University professors among learned publications, accoroding to the report submitted here this week.

Among professors who published articles in well known magazines are: G. H. Yeuell, professor of secondary education; Dr. Stuart Graves, dean of the School of Medicine; Dr. Clyde Brooks of the School of Medicine; Clarence Cason of the department of journalism; C. Daughtery of School of Commerce, and J. M. Gallalee of the School of Engineering.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court, in Equity.

T. A. Giles, Complainant, vs. Lilla Giles, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Lilla Giles to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 4th day of February, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Perfect Health

is always refreshing

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

WHEN your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning.

Your appetite is keen, you enjoy work or play. Your skin is clear—cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's substance for building and sustaining the body.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—thru the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did."—Miss Ruth Gahm, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

Now... Real Maple Flavor

in a syrup at half the price!

HERE'S a new taste-treat for your family. A breakfast syrup that's flavored with real maple . . . at less than you pay for other maple blends!

Staley's Maple Flavored Syrup makes the best cakes taste better . . . hits the spot with hot biscuits . . . satisfies the children's craving for something sweet on bread.

The richer, smoother flavor of this syrup can't be copied. It comes from real Canadian maple and pure corn syrup . . . blended by a secret process.

No other syrup takes the true maple flavor so well, because pure corn syrup itself is neutral in taste. But blended in these exact proportions and at certain temperatures, it adds a smoothness and delicacy not to be found in other syrups. Note, too, how clear this syrup is, as the result of extra care in its making.

Other real flavors . . .

Your family will enjoy Staley's Honey Flavored and Sorghum Flavored Syrup, too. No artificial flavors are used in them. Only real honey, made by bees . . . and the best quality of pure sorghum.

Staley's syrups are so healthful, too! They contain 40% dextrose and maltose . . . practically pre-digested sugars.

Ask for these Staley's Syrups at your grocer's today! And be sure that you get Staley's. No other kind can give their flavors at such a big saving.

Also ask for Staley's famous Crystal White and Golden Syrups.

CAPITOL News

Alabama is leading the way in the United States in Public health work, according to Dr. Douglas L. Cannon, acting State Health Officer. "All the other states admit that ours is the only logical method by which the needs of the people are met in an efficient manner," Dr. Cannon said in a recent interview. "Fify counties now have full time health officers, including Shelby County, whose health service will be inaugurated January 1st. Health units in these counties are on the firing line where they belong, in constant combat with the germ enemies of man, and they are winning the fight in protecting our people from unnecessary contagion and death. The people of these counties are alive to the need of the service. Other counties can afford to put on the work. There is no additional taxation. It is purely a question of relative values. We hear of building bridges, streets, roads, and all kinds of public improvements, and they are wort the money, but we hear nothing of spending money to preserve human life. The money required to put i a health unit is very little and the good to be derived is way out of proportion to the investment. If the county commissioners will cut out one mile of road and use the money to save our people, we can have a health unit in every county. In the years to come they could point to that service as the finest achievement during their term of office and everyone would know that they had the welfare of their people at heart.

"It is easy to figure out on paper just what can be had for an investment in county health work, and the nice thing about it is that it can be demonstrated in practical achievement that the return is greater than for any other expenditure known to man. DeLesseps tried to build the Panama Canal a half century ago, but had to give it up on account of yellow fever. Gorgas made the Canal Zone the most sanitary spot in the world and the canal was built.

"Authorities estimate the value of a human life at $2,500, and the average cost of a case of contagious disease can be placed at $100 counting the time lost, nursing and medical attention. Every year 800,000 people die in our country from preventable diseases at an estimated loss to the people of $1,500,000,000. Each county must bear its share of that loss. The one chief function of a county health department is to lower this unnecessary waste in life and money, making possible a return to the county of many times the amount spent, to say nothing of the happiness made possible through the preservation of health and life."

The movement for a reduction in cost of school books to patrons of public schols, sponsored by Governor Bibb Graves and advocated by him before the last legislature has brought definite results, which will mean a saving of over 50 per cent to buyers of books for the first six or elementary grades. At a recent meeting here the State Board of Education, adopting the report of the course of study committee, reduced the number of books to be used in the public schools for the first six grades from 67 to 38. The reduction in cost is from approximately $40 to $19.81. The cut is effective at the beginning of the next term, in September. Additional texts, if used, must be provided by school libraries without cost to the pupils. It is estimated that the total annual saving to patrons thru this cut will approximate $500,000.

The school book situation in Alabama has attracted attention for some time, in fact, it could hardly have failed to have done so in view of the huge and unwieldly stacks of books which small youngsters may be seen daily lugging to school. All this was fine for the textbook publishers but hard on school patrons, whose protests and wails however were for a time unheeded. Governor Graves and Dr. R. E. Tidwell, the present State Superintendent of Education, both favored relief for the harassed parents of school children by reducing the long list of text books required in this State, which was found upon investigation to be more lengthy and costly than in a number of other States. This goal has at last been attained as a result of the action of the State Board of Education.

TWO MEN DROWN WHEN BOAT SINKS IN THE WARRIOR RIVER

One Member Survives Accident To Trio of Hunters Near Redstone Camp.

Eugene Smith, 21, and R. C. Smith, 26, of 1606 Charles Street, North, Birmingham, were drowned in the Warrior River about 6 p. m. Wednesday when the boat in which they were returning from a down-river hunting trip sank.

O. Blackwell, of 2110 Elder Avenue, the third member of the hunting party, swam to shore and reported the accident to Chief Deputy Kemp, of the Bessemer sheriff's office.

Blackwell told Chief Deputy Kemp that the party of three had gone hunting early Wednesday morning, going down the river from Redstone Camp, in a motor boat.

After a successful hunt that lasted throughout the day they started up the river in the boat.

When nearing the camp, Blackwell said, the rear of the boat where the motor was suddenly sank, standing the boat straight up.

The men were thrown into the cold water and Blackwell said he came up and looked around and saw both of the Smiths swimming toward the shore which was about 75 yards away.

He said he had a difficult time in reaching the bank, being hampered by his heavy hunting clothes.

When he reached the bank and crawled to safety, he said he looked over the river and bank for the Smiths, but couldn't find them.

He searched along the bank and in the water for several hours and then made his way to the camp from where he was brought to Bessemer.

R. C. Smith is survived by a widow and two small children and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Smith, of Clanton. R. C. Smith was the uncle of Eugene Smith.

Deputies from the Bessemer sheriff's office with Blackwell and other friends of the Smiths were dragging the Warrior Thursday for the bodies. The bodies were found Thursday night. They were brought to Clanton Friday night and carried to the home of J. P. Smith. The double funeral was held at Mulberry Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Hollidaye and little daughter, Patsy Jean, and son, Billy, of Columbiana, were visitors in Clanton last Sunday afternoon.

NO FOREST FIRES FOR 41 YEARS

Lamar Tract Protected

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 1.—Timberland owners are constantly finding that keeping fire out of woods is not such a difficult matter as was once thought, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Mr. D. A. Eastman, Sulligent, Ala., has forty-five acres of timberland which has been protected from fire for forty-one years. The cost of protection has been negligible, while the accelerated growth and higher quality of the timber have yielded substantial profits, points out the Commission.

Eight years ago Mr. Eastman sold from the area practically all the timber above twelve inches in diameter. Since the pine on the tract had not been scorched and rescorched by fire, it was almost entirely free from hollow butts, cat faces, pitch seams, heart rot and other defects which usually have their origin in fire wounds and it sold for $1.50 higher stumpage value per thousand feet than other pine cut in the locality. The oaks were hewed into cross ties. The tie cutters averaged from one to three ties more every day than they had done in any other woodland in the community. The reason for this was that almost every tree was sound.

A thick layer of humus covered the ground constantly enriching the soil. Another fairly good crop of timber could be cut from the land at the present time, but the trees are still growing quite rapidly and probably no further cutting will be undertaken for some years longer, or until it is evident that the new crop is financially mature.

The State Commission of Forestry points out that, while forty-five acres in itself is not a very large forest, a high proportion of the total timberland of the nation is comprised in small holdings of this character. Landowners who in the management of their holdings give a reasable share of attention to their woodland acreage find that they are extremely well paid for the comparatively slight outlay involved, says the Commission.

REPORT OF COTTON GINNED

The Department of Commerce, through the Bureau of the Census, announces the preliminary report on cotton ginned by counties, in Alabama, for the crops of 1928 and 1927. The total for the state was made public Thursday, December 20.

The report for Chilton County shows that in 1928 there has been 15,413 bales ginned, while in 1927 there was a total of 15,657 bales ginned.

WHAT FARMERS WANT

A year or two ago the free traders of the country took courage from what they called the plight of the farmer. They realized that as low tariff advocates they had lost out in the industrial East and were losing out in the newly industrialized South. But they had heard that the farmer was not prospering and they saw in his plight a chance to make converts to the theory of free trade. But again they have been disappointed. The country has returned to power a Congress which in both braches is in favor of protection. In the last election the tariff was not the partisan issue that it formerly had been, with the result that the free traders found hemselves sadly neglected by both parties, as were the League of Nations advocates.

Now that Congress has convened again we hear no more talk about "relieving" the farmer by reducing the tariff. The farmer himself now realizes that such a procedure would relive him not of his burdens but of the best market which he has. The assertion of the free traders that the farmer must buy in a protected market is no longer seriously considered, even by the farmers as is proved by the fact that they voted overwhelmingly in the last election for more protection. As a matter of fact the farmer buys the things which are used exclusively on the farm, in the free markets of the world and sells most of his produce in the protected market of the United States. Practically everything necessary to farming comes into the country duty free. The list includes plows, harrows, reapers, threshing machines, cultivators, cotton gins, wagons and other machinery, animals imported for breeding purposes, binder twine, materials for fertilizer, building material and so on down the line. On the other hand farm products proected by duty and sold principally by American farmers in the United States include almonds, grapes, apricots, bacon, beef, oranges, onions, tobacco, wool, prunes, hay, flax, wheat, cattle, butter and many other commodities.

It will not do to say that the price of most of the commodities are governed by the world market price because this is not true, in most instances, and many cases enumerated above we are actually importing goods which come into competition with the American raised product. For this reason the farmers and their spokesmen in Congress are asking for higher duties. And they will get higher duties wherever these are necessary. The call for more protection comes from the South as well as the West, from the agricultural regions everywhere. And it is a call which will nit be left unheeded. For after all the protective tariff is one of the best forms of farm aid which Congress can find available, and it is one which will work.

REPORT OF LYNCHINGS

I send you the following concerning lynchings for the past year as compiled by Tuskegee Institute in the Department of Records and Research. I find there were 9 persons lynched in 1928. This is 7 less than the number, 16, for 1927, 21 less than the number, 30, for 1926, 8 less than the number, 17, for 1925, and 7 less than the number, 16, for 1924. Six of the persons lynched were taken from the hands of the law, one from jail and 5 from officers of the law outside of jails.

There were 24 instances in which officers of the law precented lynchings. Three of these were in Northern state and 21 in Southern states. In 23 of the cases the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In 1 instance, armed force was used to repel the would be lynchers. Fourteen white men, 1 white woman and 25 negro men were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 9 persons lynched 8 were negroes and 1 white, (Mexican). The offenses charged were murder, 2; rape, 2; wounding men in altercation, 2; killing officers of the law, 3.

The state in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Louisiana, 2; Mississippi, 3; Missouri, 1; New Mexico, 1; Texas, 2.

is wound is placed on each carder in contact with thousands of needle-like teeth set in a continuous flexible belt some three feet wide by possibly six feet long. As this belt revolves slowly in contact with and away from the bat, the pointed teeth comb the fibres from the bat into a filmy gauze, which is drawn from the carder in the form of a long rope or "sliver" and stowed loosely into a composition fibre container.

Depending upon the weight of the yarn to be spun, a number of slivers are placed together, drawn from their containers and passed through the drawing frames, which make all the strands uniform and the fibres parallel.

From the drawing frame the ropy strands are drawn out of the cylinders in which they have been coiled and passed through the "slubber," which is the first of the actual spinning operations. Here the drawing process continues with the addition of a slight twist as the fibres are wound on a spindle for the first time. From the slubber the loosely twisted fibres go through two additional stages before reaching the spinning frame.

These additional stages are the intermediate "slubber" and "speeder," which perform the same work as was accomplished by the primary slubber except to a greater degree. The fibres that have passed through the speeder resemble darning cotton or yarn, and are ready for spinning.

In the spinning frame the fibres are given their final drawing and twisting process, that finishes the yarn in a thread.

The common household spool of thread will illustrate how the cotton looks after completion of the spinning process. Each strand of yarn is made from hundreds of delicate fibres of cotton twisted together, and then four, six, or more of these are twisted to make one tiny thread.

A portion of the finished thread is wound on spools by a spooler. The spools are then placed on the frame of the "warping" machine which draws the yarn from the spools on to a long iron cylinder called the "beam." The threads are placed side by side, each in uniform distance from the other. Countless thousands of yards of the yarn are wound in this manner on the beam to form the warp. This is the thread which may be observed in any cloth running in a lengthwise direction.

The cotton threads of the warp are next sized, with a form of starch to make the fibre hold firm, and then treated in steam tanks. Great skill is necessary in drying the cotton after sizing before its final step.

The remaining portion of the finished thread which is not included in making the warp, is wound on to bobbins, which is called the filling yarn.

The warp and filling yarn is then taken to the weave room. The warp is placed on one end of the loom, and each thread is stranded through the guides and harness which automatically raise and lower alternately.

As the warp is raised, a shuttle which contains a bobbin holding the filler yarn is driven with lightning speed back and forth between the threads of the warp. The filling yarn weaves together the warp, producing finished cloth, which is rolled in front of the loom.

Officers of Mill Are All Prominent Men

Crawford Johnson, Well-Known Birmingham Capitalist, Paul A. Redman, J. E. Inglesby, and Others

The Alabama Mills Company with ten cotton mills in ten towns of Alabama, has its headquarters in Birmingham. Mr. Crawford Johnson, a resident of Birmingham, is president of the company. Many business and industrial leaders over the state know of Mr. Johnson, whose wonderful business ability is a valuable asset to the industrial growth of Alabama.

Mr. Paul A. Redman, a native of Georgia, is vice-president of the company. He is a man who has grown up in the cotton mill business, and has been in executive positions of one kind and another for 25 years. It augurs well for the success of Alabama Mills that a man of the practical experience of Mr. Redman occupies the place of vice president of the company, in which he has duties and powers that deal directly with the actual operation of the company's business.

Mr. J. E. Inglesby, who has offices in the Pioneer Building, Birmingham, is cotton buyer for the ten Alabama Mills.

The local superintendent of the Clanton mill is Mr. A. R. Meeks, who has already become a resident of Clanton and with his charming family is settled down to live in their new home in the mill village. Mr. Meeks is a delightful, quiet, impressive man who has enough experience to temper his nature to a high degree of firmness and poise.

He came here from Alexander City, where he was connected with the Russell Mills. He is thoroughly trained in the busines of cotton mill operation as well as the art of successfully managing for those who work under his supervision.

Upon coming to Clanton some months ago Mr. and Mrs. Meeks promptly affiliated themselves with the Baptist church. Mr. Meeks is now teacher of the Young Mens Class of the Baptist Sunday school. They have one son, Ernest, who is a popular student at Chilton County High School.

Mr. R. O. Roberts, of Birmingham, is general superintendent over all the ten mills of Alabama Mills Company.

The other resident officials of the Clanton unit are as follows:

Mr. James Forshee, from Slyacauga, cashier. Mr. Forshee will have charge of all clerical work in the business office which is located in a building situated between the main building and the cotton warehouse.

Mr. R. L. Toney, from Georgia, is overseer of the carding department.

Mr. C. A. Huckabee, also from Georgia, is overseer of spinning.

Mr. L. M. Pugh is overseer of the weaving department.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Broadhead are sick with flu this week.

Dr. N. S. Johnson is reported sick with flu at his home in Clanton.

MR. MEEKS GONE TO GEORGIA

Mr. A. R. Meeks, superintendent of Alabama Mills in Clanton, was away the first of this week attending the funeral of a relative at Griffin, Georgia.

WHAT DOES THE COTTON MILL MEAN IN DOLLARS AND CENTS?

ing about the dollars and cents side of the cotton mill. According to our way of calculating we find that the above figures, granting that they are approximately true, will in four years bring enough clear profit into Clanton trade channels to pay every cent of the $150,000 we spent for stock in the mill—and we will still have our stock drawing dividends and the $175,000 payroll still coming in every year.

The more we learn about the cotton mill, the better it looks.

Another Textile Industry Is Coming To Alabama

Toweling Plant In Chambers County Will Cost More Than $750,000

Alabama is to get another bix textile industry, according to information which has just come to light, a very large toweling industry is to be located in Chambers County.

Information received is to the effect that the West Point Manufacturing Company, which operated mills in Georgia and Chambers County, Aa., has closed negotiations for the purchase of a large toweling concern near Philadelphia, and the entire plant will be moved to this state. It is planned to have the mills up and in operation before the end of another year and the investment will be above $750,000 and employment will be given to 850 to 1,000 people, women to be in larger number than men.

Details of the negotiations closed will be forthcoming shortly, the report here being that the West Point Manufacturing Company, had the opportunity of acquiring the Pennsylvania concern and seeing greater possibilities with it here, closed the deal and will at once arrange for the location of the industry.

Other reports are current as to textile development in this state and inquiries are said to be coming in as to territory north of Birmingham, with replies being immediately transmitted to the inquirers as to available sections for the development in question.

Uncle Jim Broadhead Injured In Accident

Mr. J. R. Broadhead, aged merchant of Clanton, was seriously hurt last Saturday night when he was struck down by an automobile. The car was driven by Joe Earl Gowan, son of Dr. J. E. Gowan.

Mr. Broadhead was crossing Main Street from Nivens and Broadhead's Market, making his way to his own store on the opposite side of the street. The Gowan car was coming up from the railroad when it hit him. He was knocked down on the pavement and seriously hurt.

There were no bones broken, as the car did not run over him. It is feared that injuries internally may give him serious trouble considering his advanced age.

He was carried to his home immediately following the accident. Under the special care of members of the family it is reported that he is resting well this week.

IN MEMORY OF J. M. COGGINS

On Monday, December 24, 1928, the death angel called away our dear loving father and grandfather to the great beyond, where no sorrow nor tears ever come. God chooses the best, such jewels as will make heaven brighter.

So Monday evening at 3 o'clock he was stricken with paralysis. Everything was done that helping hands could do to save him, but God saw fit to call him to his home above on Christmas Day. He wafted his spirit away to dwell forever in a haven of rest. He was 75 years old. He was married to Miss Mattie Hill in Georgia in 1874. He came to Chilton County from Chambers County in 1897. Later his first wife died and he was married to Mrs. Nancie Stangner in 1914. His second wife died and he was married to Mrs. Bell Haggins in 1924. He leaves a widow and ten children to mourn his death, who are Mr. J. W. Coggins of Clanton, Mr. W. L. Coggins of Clanton, Mr. D. G. Coggins of Clanton, Mr. W. A. Coggins of Pletcher, Mr. E. D. Coggins of Billingsley, Mr. H. L. Coggins of Dadeville, Mrs. Tom Wyatt of Clanton, Mrs. C. C. Lockhart of Clanton, Mrs. Hugh Lockhart of Clanton, Mrs. A. C. Consey of Deatsville. He professed religion in early life and lived a Christian life being a member of Pleasant Hill Methodist church. He was always talking about God's word and God's work.

He was the light of his home and joy of all his children and friends. He leaves 69 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. We know our dear grandfather is gone from us on earth, but some sweet day they shall all gather with father and all the redeemed where there will be no more sad parting.

May God bless and comfort his loved ones and keep them in the hollow of His hand until the summons shall come to them. May they be found waiting and watching.

Gone but not forgotten.
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home that never can be filled.

Mr. Fred Parker, of Chicago, who is Secretary of Kiwanis International, will be among those in attendance.

The meetings will be held at the Wadesonian Theatre. At noon Friday the Clanton Kiwanis Club will entertain the visiting Kiwanians at a luncheon at the Clanton Baptist Church. The luncheon will be served by the ladies of the Baptist W. M. S.

Members of Kiwanis Club of Clanton are delighted to have this meeting come to our city. Every step is being taken to show the visitors a good time. All citizens of the town are invited to help in showing a good spirit toward the guests.

The Kiwanis Clubs of Alabama are composed of a group of the leading citizens in the towns and cities of the State. Many of those who will come here have never seen Clanton before. It is hoped that they may be given the right kind of an introduction to our city. It is an honor of which Clanton may feel proud.

The location of Clanton in the central portion of the State doubtless was a deciding factor in bringing this meeting here. Our geographical situation is such as to give us wonderful advantages in many ways, as has been demonstrated many times in the past. If we will live up to the advantages afforded our city, we will continue year after year to grow into more importance in the eyes of the people of Alabama.

Kiwanis International History

Kiwanis International is a composite group of business, professional and agricultural men devoted to the rendering of civic and social service to the respective communities in which the many member clubs are located. This International organization at this date, January 1, 1929, is made up of some 1,767 Clubs in that many cities of the United States and Canada with a membership of 102,000. Each of these Clubs enjoys autonomy, but at the same time functions in direct connection with district and International administration. Each Club is made up of two of the leaders in each business and profession in the city brought together in close association to aid in the solution of national, state and community problems.

The name "Kiwanis" is a coined word. The real meaning of it has come through the constructive, unselfish work of Kiwanians. The motto of the organization, "We Build," is an expression of the spirit of Kiwanis.

The first Kiwanis Club was organized at Detroit, Mich., in January, 1915. The first member of the Kiwanis Club was Joseph Prance, at present active in the Detroit, Mich., Club. Mr. Prance's application bears the date of December 8, 1914.

The first national president was George F. Hixson, who was elected in May, 1916, and served as such until May, 1917, when he was re-elected at the Detroit Convention with the title of International President, Kiwanis at this time having crossed the border into Canada.

Perry S. Patterson, Chicago, Illinois; Henry J. Elliott, Montreal Canada; J. Mercer Barnett, Birmingham, Alabama; Harry E. Karr, Baltimore, Maryland; George H. Ross, Toronto, Canada; Edmund F. Arras, Columbus, Ohio; Victor M. Johnson, Rockford, Illinois; John H. Moss, Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Ralph A. Amerman, Scranton, Pennsylvania; Henry C. Heinz, Atlanta, Georgia; O. Sam Cummings, Kansas City, Missouri.

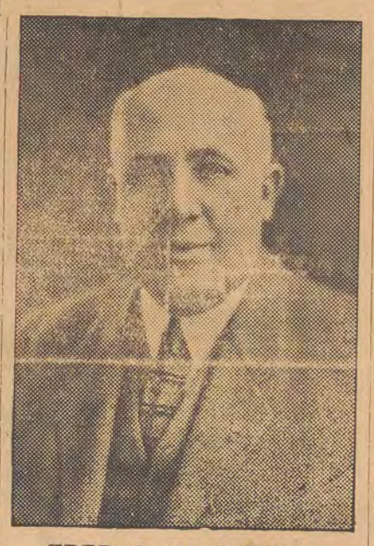
Purposes of Kiwanis

Kiwanis crystallizes community sentiment for municipal improvements. It cultivates public opinion for purer politics, and promotes community cooperation in all good things. It develops leaders, urges harmony in business, honesty and integrity in all dealings, and furnishes a forum for the discussion of all fair and interesting questions.

Kiwanis is a representative influence, organized for the advancement of public welfare in its many phases; for the assistance in charities, health, better citizenship, civic improvement and obedience to law and all the tenets of better living.

The International Objects which guide the activities of all Kiwanis Clubs are these:

To give primacy to the human and spiritual rather than to the material values of life.



To encourage the daily living of the Glden Rule in all human relationships.

To promote the adoption and the application of higher social, business and professional standards.

To develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship.

To provide through Kiwanis Clubs, a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service, and to build better communities.

To cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which make possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism and good will.

FRED C. W. PARKER

Mr. Parker is Secretary of Kiwanis International, with offices in Chicago. He will be the guest of Alabama Kiwanians at their annual convention at Clanton today and tomorrow. He will deliver an address to the assembly at 11:10 a. m. on Friday. Meetings of the Kiwanis Convention will be held at the Wadesonian Theatre. Luncheon will be given the visitors at noon Friday by Clanton Kiwanis Club at the Baptist Church.

Child Welfare Board For Chilton County

Plan Will Be Inaugurated In Accordance With Provisions of State Law.

Appropriation has been made by the County Commissioners of Chilton County for establishing and operating a child welfare bureau of Chilton County which will comply in every detail with State provisions for such work under the Alabama Child Welfare Department.

There will be constituted a county child welfare board to be composed of the Probate Judge as Chairman, and other members as follows: The County Superintendent of Education, the Chairman of the County Board of Education, one member of the Commisisoners Court, and three citizens appointed by the Probate Judge, two of whom shall be women.

It is generally understood that Mrs. C. E. Stapp will be employed as child welfare worker for Chilton County. Her duties in this respect will be combined with her present work as school attendance officer. In fact the law of the State provides that the work of the child welfare worker and school attendance officer shall be combined.

The Commissioners Court has designated A. P. Vinson as a member of the Child welfare board. C. C. Conway will be a member of the welfare board by virtue of his position as chairman of the County Board of Education.

Lucien C. Duncan, salesman with Drennen Motor Car Co., of Birmingham, was a visitor here last Saturday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Duncan and Betsy Ann.

Educational Survey Made For Chilton County Schools

Recently we have put on an educational survey in Chilton County exactly like the one recently made in Elmore County. The purpose of this survey is to discover any weak points in our present system with a view to strengthening and bettering the whole program of education in the county. This report will be ready to present to the County Board of Education sometime during the month of January.

The survey has been a great undertaking and called for much effort on the part of officials, teachers and partons. I am glad to say that the teachers had done far better in assimilating certain information than anyone had expected. It is only another demonstration of the splendid spirit of cooperation and interest the teachers are taking in working out an educational system in Chilton County that will rank favorably with any other system in the state with similar conditions.

Naturally much has been said about the financing of this survey. No doubt many others have wondered how the money was provided for the work. The only cost to the County has been in furnishing transportation for those making the survey and the furnishing of maps on which the location of roads, as well as children of the county, are shown. The salary and other expenses of the survey staff has been provided thru the courtesy of the General Education Board of New York of which John D. Rockerfeller is the financier. We are grateful to him for this wonderful aid given us in an effort to work out a better school system in Chilton County.

In conclusion permit me again to express my appreciation for the cooperation rendered in making the survey and may I ask that, when the report of the survey staff is made, we consider well the recommendations and do all that we can to provide adequately for the education of the boys and girls of the county. We have a growing county and one that presents many splendid opportunities. Never before were people so much interested in educating the children. At this time we have more than 800 children enrolled in our schools over and above any previous enrollment in the county. This means that we have nearly one-fourth more children in school than ever before. It is creating quite a demand on the part of the County Board of Education to provide adequately for these extra children. We are happy that they are in school and we trust that the number will increase but let us at the same time keep step with the demands by providing necessary buildings, teachers and equipment. Yours for the boys and girls of the county.—B. Lawrence, County Supt. of Education.

SCHOOLS CLOSED THIS WEEK

All schools in Chilton County are closed for this week, owing to the general prevalence of the flu epidemic. So far as is known at the county superintendent's office now, the work of the schools will be resumed next Monday.

Clanton Will Start Movement To Secure A Federal Building

CHAS. A. STILLMAN

Records of the University of Alabama alumni association show that Chas. A. Stillman, vice president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., and D. A. Crawford, vice president of the Pullman Car Co., are alumni of the University. These men, sons of Alabama, were instrumental in bringing the $30,000,000 rubber plant to Gadsden, and the large Pullman plant to Birmingham recently, it was pointed out.

Lease on Present Postoffice Building Will Expire Next Year. New Quarters Necessary

KIWANIS CLUB WILL SUPPORT MOVEMENT

Among the public enterprises to be undertaken in Clanton during 1929, it is predicted that there will be a movement on the part of our citizens to secure the erection of a federal building to house the local postoffice and United States mail service.

The matter was brought up at the meeting of Clanton Kiwanis Club on last Thursday. Postmaster Wiley M. Bean was present, and spoke a few words on the subject, Mr. Bean outlined briefly the conditions of the present postoffice quarters, showing that the volume of Uncle Sam's postal business here has grown to such proportions as to make the erection and use of a federal postoffice building very necessary.

It was stated that the present lease on quarters for the postoffice will expire early in the year 1930, and that the owner of the building will not lease the place for postoffice use any longer than the time covered by the existing lease.

This will, of course, make it necessary to move the postoffice to another building, and it is thought that this necessity creates an ideal opportunity for Clanton to press her claim for a federal building.

The matter was given the heartiest approval by the Kiwanis Club. This organization will fall right in behind the movement. Postmaster Bean will take the matter up with the proper authorities at Washington, from which it is likely that the proposition will assume a definite aspect in the near future.

Lighting Rates Cut Lower Than Expect

New Schedule Reduces Rates Three Times Amount Proposed by Company

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 2.—Commenting on the order recently issued by Alabama Public Service Commission reducing domestic electric rates, Mr. E. A. Yates, Vice President and General Manager of the Alabama Power Company, authorized the following statement:

We have studied the order of the Public Service Commission fixing reduced electric rates for residential service in Alabama. The effect of these rates on the net revenues from this class of business is a very radical rate adjustment. The new rates will cut the revenues of this company about three times the amount originally proposed.

We are very hopeful that the result of putting this new rate into effect will be a larger use of labor saving devices in the home and we shall do everything in our power to acquaint the public with the value of electric service and the advantages offered to them by the extremely low rates prescribed by the Commission.

It is certainly our hope that the company will not be forced to appeal from this order of the Commission and that the future months will show that our customers are appreciative of these low rates and have taken advantage of the opportunity they offer them for more and complete electrification of their homes, to their own betterment and convenience. The extent of its recognition by our customers will largely control as to whether this is to be a permanent rate situation.

MRS. LEONARD KEMP BURIED MONDAY

Mrs. Sallie Powers Kemp, wife of Mr. Leonard Kemp, died at the family home in Newman, Ga., last Saturday morning. She had been ill for three or four weeks following the birth of a child. Complications of flu and pneumonia caused her death.

She is survived by her husband, who is a son of Mr. Will Kemp of Clanton, and four children. Two of the children are seriously ill with flu. The father and husband was unable to attend the funeral on account of the illness of the two children.

Mrs. Kemp was reared at Coosada, near Montgomery. The body was brought back there and buried Monday. Messrs. Will and Tom Kemp of Clanton attended the funeral.

Leonard Kemp has been living at Newman for several years past where he is employed as telegraph operator for the Atlanta and West Point Railway.

VOTERS SHOULD REMEMBER TO PAY THEIR POLL TAX

Tax Collector Tom Rockett says there are very few people paying up their poll tax this year so far. Our citizens should not overlook the importance of this matter.

This will be an off year so far as politics is concerned, but that should not deter anyone from paying up poll tax.

There will most likely be something important to vote on this year. There is talk of another road bond amendment in Alabama. If this is submitted to the people this year, every voter should be ready to cast his ballot on the question. Don't neglect your poll tax. If you do, you can not vote this year.

Then, too, you know poll tax is a cumulative proposition. If you owe a poll tax this year, you will have to pay it some time before you can ever vote again. No use to let it drag and pile up.

February the first is the last day to pay. Don't neglect this matter.

RETURN FROM FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Farley, Mary and Derber left Clanton early Thursday morning en route to Orlando, Florida, where they would visit Mr. and Mrs. Farley's two daughters, Maxine and Esther, who are in training for nurses, in the Florida Sanitarium and Hospital. They spent Thursday night in Lake City, Florida, and arrived in Orlando the next day.

They think Orlando is rightly called, "The City Beautiful," for, they say, the city is certainly a pretty one. While there they visited Daytona Beach, Winter Park, Orange Groves, and a citrus packing plant at Daytona and Cocoa, Florida, and other points of interest. Their visit was a short, but an enjoyable one, as they report, and they came home Tuesday, driving through in the one day, a 600-mile trip.

L. A. CALLOWAY FROM FLORIDA VISITS CLANTON

Mr. Lucien A. Calloway, former prominent citizen of Chilton County and who for the past several years has been in Florida, spent a short while here last week with friends and relatives.

Mr. Calloway is now living at Qunicy, Florida, where he is connected with a big lumber business.

Mr. Calloway had been to Birmingham, where he said he had "started off his son, Raymond, in the practice of medicine." Raymond has just finished seven years of college work, including a post-graduate course in his chosen profession. He got the biggest part of his college training in the University of Illinois.

Gum-Dipping Shatters ALL Endurance RECORDS

When we say "Gum-Dipping," it's just the same as saying

Firestone

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have held first place in every official test of ruggedness, endurance, toughness, and safety. Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires stand the shocks—the bumps—the constant speed of the fastest motor car trips ever made from coast to coast. They carried the Studebaker Presidents which traveled 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes. On race tracks—over mountain and desert—on smooth pavements—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have shown themselves the toughest, strongest, most rugged, and safest tires you can put on your car.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

THE CASH VALUE OF CLEANLINESS

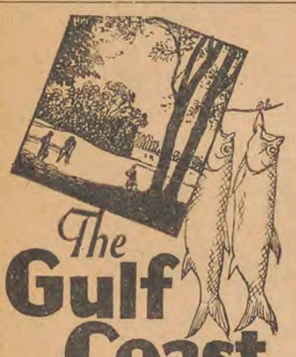
Little Johnny, in his bath, with ears full of soap and soul full of rebellion, undoubtedly has no use whatever for the doctrine that cleanliness is next to Godliness. To him it is just a pain in the neck—a devilish invention of grown-ups to keep a boy from his rightful occupation of play. Left to himself, he will most certainly have as little as possible to do with that particular kind of Godliness.

Most grown-ups recognize the desirability of personal cleanliness and of common sense sanitation in their homes and places of business. It is more comfortable to be clean after one has reached maturity and too inconvenient to suffer the expensive ills that result from unsanitary surroundings. When it comes to their poultry, however, that is quite a different story in all too many instances.

The same man who would recoil in horror from a filth-encrusted dish paced before him on his table allows his fowls to eat and drink from utensils that are no less an offense to decency because they are in the poultry yard instead of a dining room. He will howl his head off if Junior tracks a little mud onto the living room rug, but he will allow droppings, decomposed food material and other offensive litter to accumulate in his henhouses until they smell to high heaven. He is scrupulously careful about the lawns near his house, but his chicken yard loks like that lower corner of the "south 40" after the last batch of city picknickers had done their worst to it. Then he wonders why his fowls are such poor layers, look so droopy and dispirited and so readily take on all the ills that chicken flesh is heir to.

The discoveries of Dr. Gorgas in Panama, and of Dr. Noguchi, who recently died a martyr to science in Africa, have shown how certain kinds of mosquitoes transmit the germs of yellow fever. This suggests that such parasites as lice, fleas, mites, ticks, and bedbugs, which so often infect chickens, may also be carriers of disease. There is reason for believing that such is the case, whether they do or not, such parasites cause a heavy drain upon the vitality of the fowls. That means decreased ability to block progress of disease should infection occur from other sources. The simplest kind of sanitary measures will make poultry houses and yards very unhealthy for germs and parasites, so why they should be tolerated is past understanding. Simple cleanliness is the first essential of sanitation. Poultry houses should be made so they can be scrubbed out occasionally, and they should be regularly sprayed with coal tar dip and disinfectant.

No animal or vegetable matter should be allowed to remain exposed in yard or house until it begins to decay. All such material should be removed and burned or deeply buried. Be particularly careful so to dispose of fowls or animals that have died from one cause or another.



Drinking vessels and feed equipment should be watched carefully. All fountains, troughs, and hoppers should be so constructed that the fowls cannot get in them with their feet or roost on them, thereby befouling the contents with dirt or droppings. Fresh water should be given at least once a day. All feeding and watering equipment should be thoroughly scrubbed out, scalded or disinfected at frequent intervals.

Droppings are perhaps the most dangerous of all possible sources of infection. They are almost invariably breeding grounds for disease germs, and also frequently harbor intestinal worms. These may be picked up by fowls not already affected, thus spreading the evil. Furthermore, nothing could be worse for fowls than to be compelled to roost just above a filthy droppings board. The odors and gasses arising from droppings are extremely unhealthy. Continued breathing of air so contaminated weakens the lungs, thus making easy the progress of any disease which may be contracted later on. Both roosts and droppings board should be frequently cleaned and disinfected, as well as the whole house. It is also advisable to cover the droppings board with wire netting so the fowls cannot get into the droppings with their feet.

Birds that show signs of disease should always be put to themselves and treated until it is safe to return them to the flock. If any considerable number of them show signs of the same trouble, they should all be taken out of the flock and a wholesale clean-up made; clean out and disinfect all houses and equipment; clean up yards, and in every way attempt to remove all possible sources of infection.

Not all of the possible sanitary measures can be discussed in an article of this kind, but some of the most important ones are described above. A good dip and disinfectant used regularly and conscientiously will go a long way toward making disease impossible in your poultry flock, not forgetting the most effective of all—God's own great sterilizers, fresh air and sunshine. It is not as easy to keep things sanitary as it is to let them go to rot, but it does keep down disease, and that pays.

Hens that are healthy, strong, robust, free from parasites and disease are better layers, better breeders, and are worth more on the market than those that are neglected and compelled to get along as best they can. Maintaining sanitary conditions may mean work, but it is neither difficult nor as trying as fighting disease, and it is infinitely more profitable.

The Gulf Coast of Mississippi

The Mississippi Gulf Coast offers to the winter traveler the happy combination of a climate warm enough to be comfortable----yet cool enough to be invigorating; and the charm of a region rich in history, with the comfort of modern facilities.

During the past 3 years approximately $50,000,000 have been expended on public and private projects along Mississippi's 50-mile Gulf Coast line---a million dollars a mile!

$8,600,000 have been invested in splendid new hotels and in attractive additions to existing establishments. Five great bridges spanning coastal waterways now make the entire region accessible to motorists. A magnificent boulevard skirting the shore line is protected from the tide by the world's longest concrete-type seawall.

Five 18-hole, championship golf courses challenge the golf enthusiast. There are also fresh and salt water fishing, sailing, rowing, motor boating, horseback riding, motoring, and tennis.

Readily accessible via fast, through, de luxe train service. For information concerning individual communities, write local Chambers of Commerce.

The Louisville & Nashville R. R. has been the greatest single factor in building the Gulf Coast. Over a period of many years it has devoted every effort toward the permanent and constructive development of this section, not only investing its money in providing superior train service, but in telling the people of this Nation of the attractions of the Coast.

Since 1920 several hundred thousand dollars have been spent in newspapers, magazines, and other forms of advertising directing the attention of the people toward this great resort and business section. During this period practically $9,000,000 have been invested in improvements embracing the construction of the Rigolets and Chef Menteur bridges, wharf and coal improvements at Pensacola, modern freight yards at Gentilly and Mobile, automatic block and train signals, and other facilities designed to improve transportation service.

S.S.S. and Rheumatism

simply don't get along together

You know it cannot be rubbed away

ARE you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine."—R. L. Busic, Southern Railway, Knoxville, Tenn.

"I was very nervous, had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man."—William Osborne, 2400 Sloan Street, Flint, Michigan.

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

WILSON LARGE OF MULBERRY DIED DECEMBER 22

Wilson Large, age 77, died at his home in Mulberry community on December 22, after an illness of a week, with pneumonia, and was laid to rest the following day at Isabella cemetery, with a large crowd of relatives and friends present to mourn his loss.

He is survived by his wife, and one son, John R. Large. He bore his pain and suffering with patience, and said he was going home. He was an honest, kind, and loving father, husband and neighbor. He was born in Tennessee in 1851, coming to Alabama in 1915. He joined the Baptist church early in life, and was a faithful member ever after. As the preacher said, "he preached his own funeral by the way he lived."

May the Lord bless his grief-stricken wife and son and help them to live to meet him where there is no more parting.—A Niece.

RUPTURE EXPERT AT MONTGOMERY

H. M. Shevnan, F. H. Seeley Company's expert, of Chicago and Philadelphia will be at the Whitley Hotel, Montgomery, Friday only, January 18th, from 9 a. m., to 5 p. m. Mr. Seeley says:

"The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions, with distinguished personal patrons of all nations."

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired. Business demands prevents stopping at any other place in this section.

N. B.—Every statement in this notice has been verified before the Federal and State Courts.—F. H. SEELEY. Home office, 117 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 1t-pd.

GOOD TIMES AHEAD

There are good times ahead in 1929 for farmers who make poultry raising a serious part of their year's work, according to U. S. Government reports and opinions of poultry experts throughout the country. Conditions are favorable, and a good market awaits the producer.

This is not mere guesswork. Here are the reasons:

1. Government reports show a scarcity of hens and a short crop of pullets on farms throughout the country. Chicago Produce News says "about 30,000,000 less than a year ago."

2. This means fewer eggs laid and satisfactory egg prices.

3. Reports indicate bumper crops of corn and oats. Poultry feed prices are declining as a result of these big crops.

4. The serious shortage at the present time of beef cattle, swine and sheep is going to make even greater demand for poultry meat and eggs.

5. Prices of meat, especially beef, are being forced to new high levels which may exceed the wartime peak.

6. If poultry meat is cheaper than beef, people are going to eat more chickens.

7. Thousands of poultry farmers everywhere are now eager to replenish their flocks to increase egg production.

8. Leading hatcherymen, uniting under the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits," have organized to assist in raising the poultry standard of farm flocks by pledging better chicks and fair dealing.

9. Greater egg production from flocks means increased profits per pound of feed.

With a ready market promised, lower feed prices in sight, and a large demand predicted, the farmer prepared to satisfy the demand stands in a position to reap a considerable profit from farm poultry flocks.

SHAREHOLDER'S MEETING

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the First National Bank of Clanton will be held in the directors' room of the bank at 8 o'clock p. m., on Tuesday, January 8, 1929, for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year and the transaction of such other business as may legally come before them.

This, December 8, 1928.

CHEVROLET MOTOR COMPANY TO HOLD SALES MEETINGS

Chevrolet Motor Company in order to get its 1929 sales program directly before its dealer and factory selling organization, is again sponsoring its annual spring series of nation-wide sales meetings, the first of which is to take place next week in New York.

This year the meetings are to be divided among three crews, each embracing a personnel of five factory executives, all of whom are specialists in some phase of merchandising. Heading the crews will be R. H. Grant, vice-president in charge of sales; H. J. Klingler, general sales manager; M. D. Douglas and D. E. Ralston, assistant general sales managers.

The itineraries of the three crews will carry them to every key city in the country so that none of the 25,000 persons who compose the factory and dealer selling organizations will have difficulty in learning Chevrolet's 1929 sales program from the lips of the men who devised it. Tentatively, this program has as its goal the sale during 1929 of 1,250,000 units, the largest annual quota ever established by the world's largest builder of automobiles.

Thirty-five cities are to be included in the three itineraries, the last meeting scheduled for Denver, February 29. In each place the programs will be identical. In each city the meeting will be concluded in the course of two days. There is to be a three-hour afternoon program, followed by an elaborate evening banquet. Ample time has been provided for dealers to take up their individual programs with factory officials.

More than a carload of scenery, props, stage properties, and special lighting equipment are necessary for the presentation in each city. The services are also required of a specially trained show crew to direct the work behind the stage so that in front of the footlights the dealer organization may witness the most impressive and instructive stage show ever sponsored by any company in the industry.

All of the crews will be together next Friday when the first meeting opens in New York, and their routes will bring them together again for the Detroit and Chicago meetings. Aside from these instances, however, the three parties will fork out into widely divergent sections.

Mr. Grant's party will leave New York and branch gradually into the far West, and includes the following members: C. J. Seifert, Assistant Manager of Dealer Finance and Accounting; H. H. Goodrich, Used Car Sales Promotion Division; J. A. McLane, Fleet Division; R. J. Pearce, Parts and Service Division. Mr. Klingler's party which will cover the middle west and the southeast, includes: W. A. Blees, Manager of Dealer Finance and Accounting; J. H. Blackmore, Assistant Sales Promotion Manager; T. E. Chancellor, Truck Division; and D. G. Frazer, Service Promotion Manager. The party headed jointly by Mr. Ralston and Mr. Douglas, which will cover the middle and southwest, includes: L. L. Linehan, Assistant Manager of Dealer Finance and Accounting; W. G. Lewellen, Sales Promotion Manager; Sidney Corbett, Manager of Truck Division; and J. P. Little, Manager of Parts and Service.

Syrup flavored with PURE HONEY

A new taste-treat!

PERHAPS your family would like a change from the syrup you've been using. Here it is! A brand new syrup flavor—Honey. And it costs but a fraction of what you've paid for honey before.

Try it with hot biscuits or waffles. See how rich and smooth it is. Give it to the youngsters on their bread. It's good for them!

The secret of this true honey taste in Staley's Honey Flavored Syrup lies in a special way of blending pure honey and fine corn syrup.

No other syrup takes the true honey flavor so well, because pure corn syrup itself is neutral in taste. But blended in this special way . . . in exact proportions and at certain temperatures . . . it adds a smoothness and delicacy not to be found in other syrups. Note, too, how clear this syrup is, as the result of extra care in its making.

FREE Recipes!

May we send you a new recipe book by Grace Viall Gray, noted authority and author of many books on home economics? It will suggest new ways of using these syrups in your daily menus. This book is free. Just use the coupon below!

Your family will enjoy Staley's Maple Flavored and Sorghum Flavored Syrup, too. They contain real Canadian maple . . . and the best quality of pure sorghum.

Staley's syrups are so healthful, too! They contain 40% dextrose and maltose . . . practically pre-digested sugars . . . wholesome sources of quick energy.

Ask for these Staley's Syrups at your grocer's today! And be sure that you get Staley's. No other kind can give their matchless flavors at such a big saving.

Also ask for Staley's famous Crystal White and Golden Syrups.

Our modern internationalists, who think that everything good originates in Europe would like to substitute for "Pan America" the slogan "can America".

The Peasant Party won an overwhelming victory in the elections in Roumania. Now let's wait and see whether they get any farm relief over there.

A noted chemist says that a gas has been discovered that is too terrible even to be used in war. Probably the bootleggers can make something out of it.

We are more practical than we used to be, and if we were just now getting married we would much prefer a ton of coal as a wedding present to a cluster of American beauties or a piece of Italian pottery.

Of course there will be several women in the next Congress but we doubt whether that can increase the amount of conversation to any appreciable extent.

A Pittsburgh man hugged a woman against her will and the jury awarded her $12,500 damages. Next time maybe he will be a little more careful about his pressing engagements.

Maybe those voluble pacifists who think we don't need any warships believe that in case of trouble they will be able to talk the enemy to death.

The trouble with those tips on the market is that they are too tipsy.

Still the fellow who keeps his property in his wife's name isn't any worse than the fellow who keeps his religion the same way.

A lot of people in America who are trying to learn French ought to take a few lessons in English first.

We know a lot of fellows who would have become millionaires long ago if they had worked as hard at their job as they labored at finding excuses for not working on the job.

It is said that in spite of the railings of the communist chiefs in Russia against Christmas the demand for Christmas trees in Moscow was about as usual. This certainly is a joke on Santa Claus.

President-elect Hoover crossed the equator on Christmas Day and you can take it from us that that's a lot safer than he will find crossing Pennsylvania Avenue when he gets back home.

The League of Nations Non-Partisan Association has decided to drop the word "non - partisan" from its name because it finds neither the Democratic or the Republican parties are interested in it. Seems to us that makes the word "non-partisan" all the more appropriate.

DIED IN CLANTON

Thomas E. Wyatt, age 56, died at his home in Gowan Addition, Clanton Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Mr. Wyatt came to this county from Coosa County about eight years ago. Until a few weeks ago he was night policeman here, when taken sick. The remains are to be buried today, Thursday, at 2 o'clock in the Clanton cemetery. The Masons will have charge of the burial, with honors of that fraternity.

The funeral will be held at the Clanton Baptist church, with Rev. S. J. Ezell conducting the services.

MRS. A. A. RASBERRY DEAD

Mrs. Amelia Ann Rasberry, age 78, died at her home in Clanton, Tuesday about noon. She was buried at Mulberry Wednesday afternoon, Rev. S. J. Ezell conducting the funeral; Martin in charge.

MRS. ELIZABETH LITTLETON

Mrs. Elizabeth Littleton, age 72, wife of Geo. W. Littleton, died at her home near Thorsby Thursday afternoon of last week. She was buried at Collins Chapel Saturday, Rev. Lowery in charge. Martin, undertaker, prepared the body and had charge of it.

Mrs. Littleton is survivied by her husband and several step-children, also one brother, Gus Marcus of West Clanton, and two or three sisters.

BATES MOTOR CO. WILL SELL MAJESTIC RADIO

Bates Motor Company of Clanton announce this week that they will add the Majestic Radio line to their business here, conducting sales of radio sets and parts, as well as expert service to their radio customers. In the next few days they expect to have a full stock of radio machines and appliances on hand. They will be prepared to handle both electric and battery sets, the latter being of special interest to rural citizens where electric current is not available.

Mr. Garrick will be the radio service man. Sales will be in charge of E. E. Smith and Clay Marcus.

WHAT HOOVER HAS DONE

There will be no tangible or definite result from the tour of Central and South America which has been made by President-elect Hoover. Good will cannot be weighed or measured. Yet we strongly feel that thru his visit to the Southern Hemisphere the President-elect has laid a foundation of mutual understanding which will be of advantage to his administration in the conduct of our relations with Latin-America during the next four years.

Whatever the force of the satiric thrusts which may be made against the flood of oratory which marked his triumphal progress from Honduras to Brazil, one thing cannot be gainsaid. His trip quickened our interest in Latin-America and brought the United States before the people of these southern republics in a new guise. We were for once personified as a friendly guest rather than as a dread colossus of the north, reaching out for new power and influence over weaker nations. Thru Mr. Hoover, North and South America met on equal terms.—New York Post.

A report received from County Agent C. E. Stapp Wednesday morning said that he got into a bad wreck with his car about five miles this side of Alex City. The car was badly damaged, it was said, as it came into collision with a truck. Mr. Stapp was not hurt. So far as could be learned there was no one with him. He left here at an early hour Wednesday going to Alex City.

SIN

LESSON TEXT—1 John 1:5-2:6.
GOLDEN TEXT—If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Grieving God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Grieving God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Sin Is and Does.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Sin and Its Consequences.

There is much disparity between the subject and the Scripture unit selected for study. Since the plan is to present the subject topically, using the many texts, it is proper that we should first give a definition of sin.

The etymology of the word translated sin in both the Hebrew and the Greek signifies "to deviate from the way—to miss the mark"; therefore a going aside. Failure to measure up to a standard is sin. Sin is also the transgression of the law (I John 3:4). The positive meaning then is that sin is a transgression of the law. Deeper than all this is the condition of the soul, out of which all thought and actions spring. This is called by Paul concupiscence (Rom. 7:7, 8).

I. The Origin of Sin (Gen. 3:1-24).

Man was placed on probation in the Garden of Eden. This was necessary because Adam was created with the possibility of character, but not with character. This he could get only through testing. Free will, alternative choice, which Adam possessed as a creature bearing the likeness and image of God, made character possible and inevitable.

Character is the resultant of choice. The means used was most simple. God issued just one prohibition. Alongside the tree of good and evil was the tree of life. Satan, a personal being, appeared in the guise of a serpent. He insinuated doubt into Eve's mind and appealed to innocent appetite. She gazed upon and lusted after that which God had forbidden. Following this, she involved Adam in her sin. From this account we see that sin originated, so far as the race is concerned, in the free choice of the head of the race, and through the law of heredity has passed upon all mankind.

II. The Universality of Sin (Rom. 3:10-18).

By the use of numerous quotations from the Scriptures, Paul proves that every member of the race is guilty of sin. He does not admit of an exception.

III. The Fate of Sinners (Gen. 6:5-8).

The disobedience of man greatly displeased God and He resolved to destroy man from the face of the earth. God's nature is such that sin must be punished.

IV. The Source of Sin (Mark. 7:14-23).

All evil thinking and practice spring out of the heart of man. The heart stands for the very center and foundation of the personality. The reason men think vile thoughts is because of their vile nature, which is the result of original sin.

V. The Sins of Believers (I John 1:5-2:6).

1. How perceived (v. 5).

God is here declared to be light. Therefore sin is perceived through the glorious light of the Divine being. No one can see God without seeing himself a vile sinner. To claim fellowship with God while walking in darkness is the lie of life.

2. The Divine remedy for sin (v. 7).

It is the blood of Jesus Christ. Without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin.

3. The believer's responsibility (v. 9).

It is to confess his sin. It is only when we are conscious of our sins in the light of God that we are disposed to make confession of them.

4. God grants forgiveness and cleansing (vv. 9, 10).

Because of His provision in the atonement of Jesus Christ, God is able on the basis of justice to forgive the sinner who confesses his sin. Because of His faithfulness in dealing with His children on the basis of the finished work of Christ, He not only forgives, but He cleanses them from all sin.

5. Christ the believer's advocate (2:1, 2).

For believers to sin is not necessary, but the advocate who champions his cause in case of sin is the Lord Jesus Christ Himself, who on Calvary's cross made a propitiation for his sin.

6. Christ's followers obey Him (v. 5).

Those who have experienced God's saving grace render obedience to His Word.

Brother Bryan's Bible Story

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

DRIFTING AWAY FROM GOD

At the opening of this year, 1929, I wish to write to you on the subject of drifting away from God. There does not seem to be any doubt in my mind of the fact that many of us have drifted away from God and His teachings, during the year which has just closed.

A ship that drifts has no rudder, no anchor, which accounts for its recklessness. But there is no reason at all why we should drift because we have an anchor of the soul both sure and steadfast. Our hope is built on nothing less than Jesus's blood and righteousness. To be safely anchored we must place our feet upon the rock Christ Jesus and place our hands in His nailscarred hands which were once cold in death, but removed the bars of death and came out of the tomb for our justification.

Let us think of some things which maybe we have drifted away from. Maybe we have drifted away from the services of the church. Maybe you are going to church services only once a week when the organized church, a place of worshp to God, is open for worshp three times a week. Mr. Charles Haddn Spurgeon, a London preacher, said that there were a great many "oncers" in his congregation. Those who came to his church once a week only.

I heard some man say the other day that he went to church on Sunday morning to keep on the good side of his wife. It is sad to say, yet it is true that some men go to church without their wives. I guess they might be called church widowers. We should be glad and must be glad to seize the opportunites to worship the Father in spirit and in truth and in the beauty of Holiness.

Maybe we have drifted away from the private worshp of God because we do not publicly worship Him. Maybe we have neglected the quiet hour with God. If we have neglected to go into our rooms, shut the door and converse in secret with God there is every probability that we have drifted away from God. We need to pray to our Father more often I am sure. Let us be careful not to drift farther away from this Holy privilege of praying to the Father in secret. He has promised to reward openly all who pray to Him in secret.

There is a great danger that many of us have drifted away from reading the Bible. The ordinary man eats two and most of them three times a day to sustain his physical body. I ask you to ponder in your mind and heart this question: "How often do you feed upon the Word of God to sustain your spiritual body?" Are you taking spiritual nourishment two and three times a day? We are told in the inspired letter of Peter to feed upon the sincere milk of the Word that we may grow thereby.

Do you read the morning paper before you read your Bible? Do you read the evening paper before you read your Bible? Our Bible should come first in the morning and last at night. Do you read magazines before you read your Bible? This should not be the case. One prophet tells us to chew upon the Word of God; while another advises us to hide His Word in our hearts.

There is also a great danger of drifting away from giving systematically. One way of giving systematically is to give one tenth of our income. Really God commands us to do so in sentences like the one in Malachi which reads: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

The Lord Jesus commanded the people of His own earthly ministry to give tithes of the first of their fruits and vegetables. This is what we ought to do. God said, "Let every one lay by him in store upon the first day of the week as God has prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come."

Thus we see that we are commanded to give to God and the promise is that He will give to us.

There is great danger in spending all on ourselves and giving nothing to Him. Come with me to Calvary. I see the blood streaming from His spike-scarred hands and feet and from His thorn-crowned head. His life blood is what He gave for us. God help us that we may not drift away from the great blessings which come to us by giving to Him. God loves a cheerful giver.

There is great danger of some of us drifting away from God into a spirit of selfishness. I often think of how the seeds of selfishness grow in my own heart and life. Sometimes our prayers are selfish. Sometimes we cultivate selfishness by making no sacrifices, by staying away from church if it just rains a little or if it is the least bit cold. We drift into selfishness by loving our families too much, or perhaps our friends.

There is great danger of drifting away from opportunities to serve the blessed Christ, opportunities to read and meditate upon God's word. There is danger of drifting into the world and living for the things of the world. God says, "Come ye out of the world and be ye separate, and I will be a father unto you and your children." There is danger of drifting into bad habits such as a spirit of criticism, egotism, self-exaltation, dissastisfaction and rebellion.

God help us not to drift, but to stand firm. Help us to be loyal to Christ and to love the teachings of the Bible for Jesus' sake. There is danger of many of us drifting away from the teachings of our parents, such as the observance of the Sabbath law, reverence for God. The Sabbath must not be spent in amusements and frolics. Someone said to me the other day that the American people seem to have an amusement craze, because they seem to love to frolic so well.

There is great danger of drifting into a spirit of diplomacy which is not scriptural, a habit of not standing for and doing right. There is only one way to do and live and that is right. The Bible teaches us what is right. There is danger of drifting away from a loyal spirit to Christ. There is danger of drifting away from the landmarks whch our fathers have set for us.

When I landed in Glasgow, Scotland a little over a year ago I met a Scottish preacher who remarked to me that Scotland had two things: "Scenery and Legacy." Her great duty was observing God's laws, the Sabbath law, family worship, the kingship of Christ over the church, the great doctrine of justification by faith. What better could we expect of a country?

"How firm a foundation, Ye saints of the Lord

THORSBY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss are the proud parents of another fine boy baby, weighing 9 1-4 pounds, born Monday morning. The little fellow seems to be healthy and strong and the mother is doing well.

Thorsby Institute opened Wednesday after the holiday vacation with all teachers except Miss Jenkins in attendance and nearly all the students. Within a day or two the attendance had dwindled to about two thirds of a normal attendance, many being kept away by bad colds and some with influenza. All the sick ones seem to have been well cared for and most of them were back in school this week. The school authorities feel that the worst is over.

It is doubtful if there has ever been a two weeks in the history of Thorsby when so large a percentage of the people have been sick, but the epidemic of colds and flu does not seem to be of a very severe type.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin went to Birmingham last Friday taking with them Frank Wood to see his mother, sick in a Birmingham hospital. She was said to be improving at latest report from her.

W. H. Wilson was called to Double Springs Monday by the death of his mother at the family home there.

The Public Schools, white and colored, of Thorsby, and we understand of all Chilton County are closed for the week, perhaps more, on account of so many sick with colds and influenza.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mims are quite sick with flu.

Mrs. H. H. Dahl is also quite sick.

Mrs. H. M. Gerald has been down with influenza, but is now much better.

S. E. Norton has been on the sick list for a week, but is out again now.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen have been confined at home for a few days but both are better now.

Mrs. H. L. Jones of Montgomery spent Tuesday in Thorsby.

Mrs. G. F. Harper has gone to West Florida on account of the death of her brother, who has been an invalid for some time.

Mr. Adams of Birmingham spent Sunday in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Root stopped over night with their cousin, Mrs. C. E. Lucas. They also had with them three daughters. They were motoring from Florida where they had been spending the holidays, to their home in Flint, Mich.

Mrs. Martin Peterson of Thorsby was greatly surprised to hear that her cousin, Olia Olensen, of Renton, Wash., was junior officer on the Maryland that took Mr. Hoover to South America.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson had one of their happiest Christmases as six of their children and three grandchildren were home.

Mrs. R. A. Mikesell of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who had not spent Christmas at home for 24 years was there with her three children, Levert, Lavertia and Ralph; Mrs. Lewie Self of Birmingham, Mr. Russell Peterson of Council Bluffs, Iowa, Willis, Leroy and Richard at home. Leo Peterson of Washington, D. C. was unable to come. Walter Peterson was anchored at San Pedro, Calfiornia for the Christmas holidays.

Reynolds Praises Alabama Roads

Probate Judge of Chilton County Spoke at Banquet in Birmingham

Judge L. H. Reynolds spoke at a banquet of the Smith-Pittman Tractor Company in Birmingham last Friday night at the Bankhead-Leland Hotel.

The text of his speech, which was devoted to a discusion of Alabama roads and hghways was as follows:

I have always appreciated the honor and opportunity of attending any meeting which pertains to the building of good roads, as I feel like under the pressure of modern times and modern conveyances, that the necessity of good roads and better roads is beyond question. In 1910, at a good roads meeting held here in the city of Birmingham, I was appointed Chairman of a Committee to see what could be done in the way of building a good road from Birmingham to Montgomery. This sounds like a dream under the then existing conditions, and as we surveyed the prospects of such a good road, I am frank to say that the chances seemed an utter impossibility, but after eighteen years this dream has become an actuality, and today this road is porbably one of the best in the South. When the old citizens of Alabama looked back with circumspection upon the road building program of Alabama, we are given courage and hope in the prospects of the future and better roads.

We have now passed the experimental stage of road building, and we now have data and information and machinery with which to build them. Too much credit cannot be given to a matter like this, and many others that started the sentiment of building good roads in Alabama. To think of building good roads, I always think of such men as Senator Craft of Mobile, who for the past twenty-five years has unceasingly endeavored in their behalf. The poorer counties of Alabama will all remember Honorable Lee Long of Butler, the present Speaker of the House of Representatives, who deserves more credit than any single person in Alabama for the poorer counties in the State getting 2c per gallon on gasoline, which is now bringing into each county treasury about $4,000 per month for the construction and maintenance of roads. This enables all counties to purchase road machinery, without which it is impossible to work roads. The caterpillar has directly revolutionized the method of working roads, and we could never have built the country roads that we have without them. In my county of Chilton, we have seven Best Tractors, and we have almost completed an improved road to every home in our county, and my people will not be satisfied with less than a good road to every home and a mail box at every gate. We know by experiment that the mule and horse has served his day in building roads, and I believe any county makes a mistake to put their money in horses and mules to build roads with. Of course, there is some parts of the work that has to be done with them, but we have found it economical to hire our mules and horses from the people along the road cheaper than we can own them. In my county the commissioners court has made the practice of spending every dollar possible with the citizens and taxpayers of the county, and in this way we get both the money and the good roads. We have $181,000.00 in our county Treasury, and we pay cash for all we buy the first day of each month, and we find that we save money by operating on a cash basis.

The newspapers of Alabama have been instrumental in helping create favorable sentiment toward building better roads, and I believe that they are practically unanmous in favoring better roads. I think though that notwithstanding we want all the good roads possible, that we must not put too much tax on gasoline, we must act wisely, go slow in making big debts, for now I think is the dangerous time in road building, as the sentiment is so strong for good roads that we are liable to make mistakes and we must continually keep in mind that the bonds we make must be paid. We must keep in mind that the farmers are using trucks more than ever, and that gasoline is used in almost every kind of machinery, too much tax might hamper the use of these articles.

We have always said we had the greatest State in the Union, and the people of Alabama have always believed this, but with facts and talk I believe we have now convinced a great many other States that Alabama is the best. In the past year Alabama has made the greatest strides industrially that it ever has before. We are advertised to the Nation, and our natural resources are unlimited. It seems now with good sound judgment in the administration of our affairs that no one can predict the possibility of our State.

In conclusion, I would like to take this opportunity to tell you one or two things about my county. We are in the geographical center of the State, in fact about three miles north of Clanton is the exact geographical center. We have a cement highway running through our entire county Nort and South, and a highway is being completed by the State through our county East and West, and when completed we will have about eighty miles of State Highway. The Coosa River is the Eastern boundary line of our county, the border line along the river being about forty miles. Already as one passes up and down this river you see on the Chilton side the landscape dotted with fishing camps, cottages, and summer homes, some of these reaihing into thousands of dollars in value. The fishing there is splendid, and all the good times and opportunities that go with a splendid body of water, we have in our county. We are very fortunate too, having two dam sites, one Lock 12, one Mitchell Dam, both of which are located in our County on the Chilton side of Coosa River. Electricity is now available and being supplied, I think to every town in our County, and it cannot be far off when the homes in the country will also be enjoying the many advantages of electricity. Come to see us, make your home with us, or your business with us, and when you know us better you will like us, and Chilton County will try to make your stay with a brief or always, enjoyment.

BURIED AT MACEDONIA

Mrs. Nancy Traywick, age 87, died Wednesday night, December 2nd, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Cox, near Billingsley. The remains were buried at Macedonia near Lock 12 Friday afternoon. Rev. M. J. Farrish conducted the funeral services, assisted by Rev. W. S. Cox. Martin was in charge of the body.

Mrs. Traywick was the widow of John J. Traywick who died some twenty-five years ago.

Mrs. Rebecca Driver, who now lives in Atlanta, Georgia, was a visitor to Clanton this week. Mrs. Driver is at work in the Georgia city. "Atlanta is a big place," said Mrs. Driver, "but I find that a person who is honest and will work can get by anywhere."

Before Baby Comes Get this book FREE

MOTHER'S FRIEND is a comfort to expectant mothers. Externally applied it relieves prenatal distress by relaxing tight tissues and muscles. And it is so soothing. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

"I was in labor only 25 minutes with my last child, but suffered agonies with three previous children," writes an enthusiastic mother who used "Mother's Friend."

Right now, from this day on, and right up to the day your baby is born, "Mother's Friend" should be used. All drug stores sell Mother's Friend. Begin now and you will realize the wisdom of doing so as the weeks roll by!

Booklet on Things to Know Before Baby Comes sent on request. One copy is yours, free. Write for it NOW.

RAINY MONTHS FIRES ARE MOST NUMEROUS

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 8—That the rainy months of the year witness the most extensive forest fires is an anomaly pointed out by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. In Alabama the wettest months are January, February, March, July and December. In general the winter fires are far more extensive than at any other season. The month of July, while ranking as the second wettest month of the year, in most years is not particularly dangerous on account of the luxuriant green vegetation coupled with fairly well distributed rainfall and thus is an exception to the rule stated.

If the precipitation of the winter months were evenly distributed, it is very probable that the fire damage would be greatly lessened. However, the rain usually comes in heavy downfalls at extended and irregular intervals. The capacity of frost killed vegetation for the absorption of water is comparatively slight. The effect of the rainfall is therefore largely superficial at such times, and a light wind will soon evaporate the moisture from the forest litter. At this time of the year there are numerous warming fires built by people in the woods and many of these escape causing extensive burns. Landowners desirous of keeping fire from their holdings should maintain close oversight of their lands on each dry or windy day throughout the winter and early spring. They should search for incipient fires instead of waiting them to be forced upon their attention. If they are prepared to attack vigorously such fires while they are in their beginning stage, comparatively little damage need be sustained.

CAPITOL News

An outine of the progress made by Alabama in 1928 and a prediction of still greater achievement in 1929, was contained in a statement given to the press by Governor Graves with the advent of the new year. The statement referred concisely to the wonderful progress made by Alabama along educational and public health lines, in road building and in industrial development, in the encouragement of a more intelligent type of agriculture through establishment of demonstration farms, and to the stability of the State's financial institutions.

The Governor's statement is typical of the spirit of optimism and confidence in the future which pervaded Alabama with the coming of another year. Public institutions and agencies are developing as never before, and serving the State on an expanded scale, as a result of the greatly increased appropriations by the 1927 Legislature for education, public health, etc. At the same time, private enterprise and industrial development is going forward at a quickening pace. These conditions have given rise to the belief that Aalbama is at the beginning of a new era of development and prosperity.

"1928 has been Alabama's foundaton building year year. This year she became the first state in the Union in Public Health Service; first in educational advancement, including everything from kindergartens to highest institutions; first in railroad building, there having been built and rebuilt two hundred and thirty miles of main line track, more than any other State and more in this State this year than in the twenty preceding year; relatively first in building docks, bridges and roads.

"In addition to city and municipal construction, this year the State has expended or contracted for more than twenty-five millions of dollars in building its transportation facilities. General economic conditions having been below the average, the prices for material and labor were so low that the State received almost twenty per cent more in return for this expenditure than could have been secured had more normal prices prevailed. The stimulus of these expenditures to the economic life of the State has been of greatest good. The fact that she is one of the few states without a bank failure bespeaks Alabama's financial soundness.

"The agricultural demonstration farms, experiment stations, extension services, radio facilities, and public roads brought into being this year are the surest guarantees of a future independence and prosperity for her major industry, agriculture.

"These are the things that intelligent homemakers seek, and are the foundations on which they build. They assure a God-fearing, vigorous and intelligent citizenship and are the things that farrseeing capital seeks as the foundation on which to build permanent, prosperous industry. By building these foundations Alabama is developing not only her human resources, but is thus in the only way possible making practicable the development of her natural resources. This foundation building together with her low taxation has brought to Alabama in this one year more new major industries than have come to her in the whole of twenty years before.

"Surely Southward the course of Empire is taking its way, mobilizing in Alabama, where the foundations are laid on which is now building the industrial workshop of this new electric, chemical, iron age.

"These things done in 1928 are but earnest of the things that will be done in 1929."

Foreigners who come to this country and accept the privileges of American citizenship without actually renouncing allegiance to the country from which they come were scored by Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, in an address delivered recently in Montgomery on his southern tour. Commander McNutt declared for restricted immigration and for a more adequate system of national defense.

Referring to the immigration situation, the Legion Chief declared that no man can serve two sovreigns, and that no foreigner has any right to come to this country and become an American citizen while retaining, either secretly or openly, any allegiance to any foreign power. On the subject of national defense, the speaker said that the United States has not kept pace in naval preparation with England and Japan. He stated that the American Legion sincerely beleves in peace with honor, but that history shows that merely signing a treaty against war will not prevent war. Until human nature changes and some means other than war is found for settling differences between nations, this country should be prepared for emergencies, he declared. The speaker also told of the work that the American Legion is doing for disabled veterans and for the orphaned children of veterans. History shows that when a governmental bureau s established, as it grows older it becomes entangled in red tape, Commander McNutt said, and evidences of this red tape is already detected in the U. S. Veterans Bureau, which handles claims of veterans against the government. The American Legion is determined to prevent and eliminate this red tape and get justice for disabled men, the speaker declared. At present, he said, the proof required to establish a claim before the Veterans Bureau is greater than is required in a court of justice.

Commander McNutt hails from Indiana, and is Dean of the Law School of the University of Indiana, having been appointed to that post at the age of 34. He has a brilliant war record, entering the service as a raw recruit and emergng from the war as Lieutenant-Colonel at the age of 27. He spoke in Montgomery at a banquet attended by a number of notables, among them Governor Bibb Graves and Congressman Lister Hill. Both the governor and the Congressman are also World War veterans, and both addressed the gathering of veterans and guests. An interesting feature of the address of the national commander was with reference to the growing strength of the American Legion. Present indications point to a gain of at least 150,000 for 1929, he said.

An increase of more than $6,000,000 in total resources of Alabama's 251 state banks and 19 branches, as of November 16, as compared with June 29 of this year, is shown in a statement recently made public by Judge C. E. Thomas, State Superintendent of Banks. Deposits in state banks increased in the period mentioned by $8,120,155.35, more than a million dollars of this being in savings deposits. Cash on hand November 16 showed an increase of $7,789,707.14 over June 29.

The splendid condition of Alabama's banks, with not a single bank failure in 1928, has attracted widespread attention. Judge Thomas, the head of the State Banking Department, has been highly commended for the efficient manner in which he has administered the State banking laws. Judge Thomas was recently presented with a Cadillac automabile by the bankers of the State, as an appreciation of his services.

FARM MACHINERY GAINS ARE EXPECTED

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 8.—Another big year in the sale of farm implements is expected by Alabama dealers in 1929, as revealed by information compiled by J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer at Auburn. In the aggregate sales are expected to exceed 1928 which was the banner year to date.

In view of the outlook dealers have stocked heavily with the different kinds of farm implements used by Alabama farmers.

During the recent fall and current winter to date Mr. Wilson found that tractor sales have been the biggest on record. This is further evidence of the fact that Alabama farmers are increasing their production and their income per man by using more power.

The sale of cultivators is expected to be about the same as that of 1928 when farm implement dealers did a flourishing business. Those bought in 1928—and in former years—will be used in 1929; and, in addition, large numbers of new cultivators will be bought.

Likewise larger planters will be used. In more fields two-horse planters will be in operation this spring, planting cotton, corn, and other crops.

"The purchase and use of additional power and equipment on Alabama farms is an economic necessity," Mr. Wilson said. "The farmers must produce more per man in order to make a larger income per man. This is one of the big goals of farming today and it can be attained by increasing power and equipment."

FARM AND HOME FACTS

If you wish to double the strength of concrete, keep it wet for ten days after laying and setting it.

During last winter, more than one thousand miles of highway in the United States were cleared of snow.

Pat Roberson of Pell City, Ala., made 5481 pounds of seed cotton on five acres in 1928. He "home-mixed" his fertilizer, using superphosphate, potash, and Chilean nitrate of soda.

Chemists expect the rayon industry to consume more cotton in the future. Rayon is made largely from linters and spruce wood. Rayon production is increasing rapidly with indications that its production will exceed the supply of linters, thereby calling for the cotton of the better classes.

"Some farmers feel that longleaf pine is the most profitable tree to grow. Although loblolly and shortleaf do not produce turpentine in merchantable quantities they usually grow usable timber in a much shorter time than longleaf."—Otto Brown, Auburn.

ALABAMA FARMERS TO TAKE PART IN MOTION PICTURES

Alabama farm life will be photographed in motion pictures during the week of January 13, when a two-reel feature picture, emphasizing fire protection will be made, according to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

About 300 men, women and children will be photographed in the pictures, which will be made under the auspices of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which is to send actors and camera men and the necessary equipment from Chicago.

Elmore County has been selected as the appropriate place for making the picture. H. M. Lewis, county agent, and V. V. Mitchell, county farm bureau fieldman, are cooperating with the state and national farm bureaus in selecting several good locations for making the pictures. When the director of the picture arrives from Chicago, he will make the final selection of the place and day for the mass meeting of the farm people. It will be held Thursday, Friday or Saturday of the week of the 13th.

The American Farm Bureau Federation will pay for a dinner to be served to those who attend the mass meeting and are photographed on the day the picture is made.

President O'Neal is very much enthused over the fact that the national farm bureau has selected Alabama as the state in which to make the motion picture. He points to the fact that it is an opportunity for some of the farm people to get into a motion picture. After the picture is developed, films will be distributed to all parts of the United States by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Announcement is made by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company that more than $30,000,000 will be spent by this concern in 1929 for improvement and expansion. Approximately $3,216,000 of this amount will be spent in Alabama.

In 1915 and 1916 there were 259,000 young people enrolled in American universities and colleges and in the graduation classes there were about 30,000. In 1927 the estimate of the enrollment was 850,000 with 300,000 entering and 150,000 being graduated. This year there are probably a million college students.

Class work of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, was resumed on schedule time following the Christmas holidays. President Bradford Knapp was delighted with the immediate return of the students to their studies and is very optimistic over the outlook for the remainder of the session.

The greatest gains in savings in a single year ever recorded are reported for 1928. Total for the United States was $28,400,000 with more than 53,000,000 savings depositors. The total individual deposits in banks in America stand at $51,199,000,000 and 56 per cent of these individual deposits were found in savings as against 53 per cent last year.

Two big railroads of the country have combined with an airplane corporation providing a combination railroad and airplane transcontinental passenger service from the the Atlantic coast to the Pacific coast. Traveling time will be reduced to 40 per cent of all rail travel. Passengers will travel by train at night and airplane in day time.

A 4-H club boy, Clarence Goecke, of State Center, Iowa, had the grand champion steer at the twenty-ninth annual International Livestock Association in Chicago. Clarence is 12 years old. His sister helped him with his steer which was sold for $7.00 per pound, bringing more than $8,000.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court, in Equity.
Lee Singletery, Complainant, vs. Lillie Singletery, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Lillie Singletery, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 4th day of February, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Read what these leading automobile editors said after seeing and riding in the new Chevrolet Six—

—Hazen Conidin
New York World

"Aside from beauty in body lines and attractiveness in finish, the astounding feature of the new Chevrolet Six is its powerful and flexible motor. One will have to go far to equal the high performance of this new Chevrolet in general road and traffic use."
—Leon J. Pinkson
San Francisco Chronicle

"The new Chevrolet is a triumph for volume production. The car at its price is one of the greatest achievements ever recorded in the automobile industry. Its beauty is a treat; its riding comfort a new delight and its performance a real sensation."
—Ray Priest
Detroit Times

"St Louis motordom is tremendously enthused over the new Chevrolet Six. Personally I have never seen the public so interested in a new car. The factory should be congratulated on the truly monumental engineering feat it has accomplished."

Real MONEY from your COTTON

WHY not decide now to make a real profit from your cotton crop? It's not a matter of luck.

Be sure your cotton has Chilean Nitrate of Soda at planting time and at chopping time. You'll make more cotton per acre and it will cost less per bale to make it. Starts cotton off well. Makes strong healthy plants. Helps to set an early crop ahead of the weevil.

A Champion's Yield

A. L. Ford, Hightower, Ala., who won the Alabama Cotton Contest in 1927, used 120 lbs. Chilean Nitrate with acid phosphate and potash.

Now is the time to make sure of your Chilean Nitrate. Figure out your needs. Your County Agent will help you. Then place your order and be sure of a money-making crop the coming year.

A New Fertilizer Book—FREE

Our valuable book "Low Cost Cotton" will help you make a better crop. It is free. Ask for Book No. 2 or tear out this ad and mail it with your name and address on the margin.

$17,000,000 for Alabama

SEVENTEEN million dollars will be expended by Alabama Power Company in 1929 for operating and construction purposes.

FOR OPERATION: Millions of dollars will be paid out in wages, taxes, purchases of materials and supplies, bond interest, and preferred stock dividends.

FOR CONSTRUCTION: Additional millions will be spent on our new Gorgas steam plant, Lower Tallassee hydro development, and numerous stations, lines, etc.

MATERIALS required include 100,000 bbls. of cement, 60,000 tons of sand, 600 tons of structural steel, 300 tons of reinforcing steel, and great quantities of poles, wire, and miscellaneous supplies.

EMPLOYMENT for 2,500 construction workers will be provided.

The wages and taxes paid by the Power Company, the bond interest and preferred stock dividends distributed by it, and the large amounts of money it spends in Alabama for materials and supplies are a tremendous factor in the life of our State.

The millions of dollars thus put into circulation each year aid substantially in the development of many communities and the State, stimulating business and contributing to the prosperity of all.

CLYDE DAVIS VISITOR HERE THIS WEEK

Mr. Clyde J. Davis of Montgomery, representing Bradstreet's Agency, was in Clanton on business this week. When Mr. Davis comes to Clanton it is a combination of business and pleasure. He was born and reared here, and has many friends who are so busy talking over old times with him that he can scarcely find time to talk business. In the good old days when the Banner was printed from hand-set type Clyde Davis was the main cog in the wheel, around whom revolved other familiar characters like Bob Marcus, Cleve Giles, Jim Middleton, Ousley Johnson and Tom Ogletree.

PITTS AND REYNOLDS GO TO BREWTON, ALA.

Percy M. Pitts and Omar L. Reynolds were in Brewton the first of this week on legal business in the case of Dolby Robinson, Jr. Robinson was serving a sentence in Escambia County with the state convict department. Pitts and Reynolds, his lawyers, were pursuing a legal point in the case whereby the young man was released after haebus corpus proceedings in the Escambia court. He was brought home after the trial.

A BIRTHDAY DINNER

On last Sunday, January 6th, a birthday dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Billingsley in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport. Those enjoying this bountiful dinner were: Mr. Adams from Birmingham; Miss Hattie Davenport of Birmingham; Mrs. J. L. Lenoir of Clanton; Miss Mamie Sue Stuartt of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davenport; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley; Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Davenport; Mr. and Mrs. John Childress; Thomas and Billie Childress; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Porter; Mary Sue, Hattie and Frank Porter; Misses Ruth, Jewell, and Jessie Martin; Mrs. Roberta Childress.

Everybody thoroughly enjoyed the dinner, also the music and singing, and wished for Mr. and Mrs. Davenport many, many more such birthdays.

IN APPRECIATION

We, the family of W. F. Anderson, wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the good people of Sardis community for the valuable assistance they rendered us during the illness and death of our loving wife and mother who died on December 31st. We also wish to thank Rev. J. E. Moore for the comforting address he delivered at the funeral which was held at Bethsalem January 1, 1929.—W. F. Anderson and Family.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court in Equity:
C. C. Ward, as Admr. etc. Complainant vs. Lula Collins, et als, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of G. C. Walker that the Defendants are non-residents and that their place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that in the belief of said affiant the Defendants are over the age of twenty-one years:

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring the said Mrs. Anna Raborn, whose residence is Florida, Roy Wood, J. C. Wood, Adron Wood, are minors under the age of fourteen years, and are residents of the State of Mississippi; Dothan Wood, Post, Texas; Thedosia Conner, Rufus L. Elmore, Anna Smith, Carrie Lee Burns, Mattie Allen, Estelle Neal, all residents of the State of Texas; that Bettie Warren, Mary Alford, Joe W. Elmore, Luther Elmore, W. L. Elmore, Lonie Elmore, Annie O. Bransen, Mary Horton, Anna J. Watson, Emma S. Shaw, Araha Marks, Antinette Finley, John E. Avenger, Walter E. Avenger, Mrs. Viola Kendricks, R. M. Avenger, Lessie Gandy, are all resident of the State of Louisiana; that C. W. Elmore and Elena B. Pounds are residents of the State of Arkansas; that Ruby I. Sullivan, Lena Brown, Hazel McDonald are residents of the State of California; that Viola Vendette is a resident of the State of New York; that Henry Thomas Elmore's residence is unknown.

To plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 9th day of February 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter a decree pro confesso may be taken against them.

1-10-4t W. D. SPIGENER, Register.

LECTURE AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Mr. Sam Brewster, of the Horticulture Department of the State Department of Agriculture, will lecture to the P.-T. A. of Clanton Grammar School at the school building on Friday afternoon of tnis week at 2:30 o'clock. His subject will be "Landscape Gardening." Mr. Brewster is a specialist in this line, and what he shall have to say promises great practical value and interest. It is hoped that a good representation of Clanton citizens will turn out to hear him.

EAST VIEW NEWS

There have been several cases of flu in our burg but we are glad to hear that they are getting well again. There are no new cases here yet.

Mrs. A. C. Nelson is back at home from a Montgomery hospital and is improving some.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Nelson of Enterprise are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson of East View this week.

Mr. J. L. Smith and Mr. G. C. Nelson made a business trip to Verbena last Saturday.

Mr. J. C. Dennis was seen at Coopers last Saturday.

Don't forget to come to church each Sunday night to the Christian Endeavor service. We need your presence. There will be preaching service next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night at East View. You are invited to attend. You ought to carry those little fellows to church. The scripture says to bring them up in the right way and when they get old they will not depart from it. It has been estimated that 90 per cent of the prisoners did not practice going to church. Be not deceived, God is not mocked, whatsoever a man soweth, that also shall he reap.—Gal. 6:7.

Misses Lucy, Dalene and Lena Mae Rasberry of Birmingham were visitors to Clanton this week to see their grandmother, who was seriously ill.

SORE THROAT? DON'T GARGLE

Quicker and Better Relief With Famous Prescription

Don't suffer from the pain and soreness of sore throat—gargles and salves are too slow—they relieve only temporarily. But Thoxine, a famous physician's prescription, is guaranteed to give relief almost instantly.

Thoxine has a double action—relieves the soreness and goes direct to the internal cause. No chloroform, iron or other harmful drugs—safe and pleasant for the whole family. Also wonderfully effective for relieving coughs. Quick relief guaranteed or your money back. 35c., 60c., and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala., and all other good drug stores.

CLANTON BANKS SHOW GOOD CONDITION

The reports show combined total resources of $1,450,643.11. A total of $1,197,743.49 was on deposit in the two banks at the close of business Dec. 31, 1928. There was actual cash on hand in both banks to the amount of $399,909.17.

CLANTON WILL FORM A LOCAL DISTRICT

Owners of Swampy Land Here to be Asked to Join in Formation of Drainage District

Drainage to promote public health, convenience, and welfare will soon get under way following the action of the State Board of Agriculture last week in authorizing the Commissioner of Agriculture to put in motion a drainage division for the service of Alabama farmers and citizens.

This great project to aid in the conservation and upbuilding of Alabama will be under the administrative charge of J. M. Moore, former commissioner of agriculture, who for many years has sponsored drainage and since the passage of his bill in 1915 has never stopped until he was instrumental in securing the recent constitutional amendment providing for relief in Alabama.

Captain Fulton Pace of Goodwater, a drainage and irrigation engineer of international experience, has been employed by Commissioner Dunwoody as engineer in charge of field operations. Applications have been made for a number of projects in Alabama, the feasibility of which will be determined after a complete preliminary survey.

More drainage and less disease, especially malaria which is caused by malarial mosquitoes, will be one of the great benefits of these drainage projects. Flat lands will be drained if economically practical. Overflows will be checked by stream straightening and valuable lands restored to tillage. Certain lands which are now worthless half of the time due to overflows may be reclaimed also.

It is not the aim of the Department to increase the acreage of tillable soil, but to decrease the area of tilled marginal and hilly soils that often wash away until valueless. Farmers living on level soils can earn larger incomes than those who continue to fight the hills and come out second best in the struggle. Many level soils near industrial areas in cities are poorly drained. The drainage law will make it possible to open large areas for industry or building additions.

Drainage, in common with roads and telephone lines, is an affair calling for organization and cooperative action. Mr. Moore will proceed on request to organize communities in which drainage will be of economic value.

JUDGE L. H. REYNOLDS

Judge Reynolds began on Monday to serve the six-year term in the Probate office of Chilton County, for which he was elected last November. This is the fourth term of Judge Reynolds in this office, which, when completed will make a total of 24 years service for him. He has been in the office continually for the past 12 years. His first six years terminated in 1911 when he was defeated by Judge Deason.

DEATH OF MRS. JANE WYATT

Mrs. Jane Wyatt, age 91 years, died about four o'clock Monday morning, at the home of her son, T. G. Wyatt, two miles east of Clanton. She had been ill about a week with flu and pneumonia.

She was the wife of Francis Marion Wyatt, who died about 25 years ago. She was a sister of Alfred Popwell of Clanton.

Mrs. Wyatt is survived by four sons, Daniel, Reuben, Jim, and Tom Wyatt, all of Clanton; four daughters, Mrs. T. G. Taylor, Mrs. J. J. Maddox, Mrs. W. W. Robinson, all of Clanton, and Mrs. Dora DuPree, of Montgomery.

The funeral was held on Tuesday at eleven o'clock, conducted by Rev. M. J. Parrish. Burial was in charge of Martin.

"Aunt Jane," as she was affectionately known by a great number of friends, was universally loved for her sweet disposition. Her memory will live in the hearts of her friends forever.

K. N. DRAPER DEAD

K. N. Draper, well-known school teacher and prominent negro leader in this community, died at his home west of Clanton last Sunday. He was buried Tuesday at Hopewell.

For many years Draper was principal of the colored school of Clanton. For the past two years he has been at the head of a school at Gadsden.

JIM PARRISH VISITOR HERE

Mr. Jim Parrish of Birmingham was in Clanton to see his sister, Mrs. A. L. Farley, who is seriously ill at Central Alabama Hospital. Mr. Parrish is not yet able to walk on account of serious injuries received in a railroad accident two years ago. He is cheerful and in good spirits, and expects to get well before many more months.

JUDGE DISQUALIFIES JURORS IN DRY CASE WHO ADMIT BUYING

Marysville, Cal., Jan. 12.—Every member of a jury panel who admitted purchase of a bottle of liquor was disqualified by Superior Judge E. P. McDaniel here yesterday when attorneys were selecting a jury to try Albert Rodoni, hotel man, charged charged with illegal possession of liquor.

"If you buy a bottle of liquor, you possess it, and trying a defendant charged with possession before a jury whose members violate the same law, would be like getting a jury of burglars to try a man charged with burglary," said the court.

Prospective jurors who admitted purhhase of illegal drinks were accepted, on the theory that the possession law in that case was not violated.

Under the judge's questions, a panel of 34 veniremen was exhausted and a second of 16 was called to fill out the jury box. Eight men and four women comprised the jury finally selected.

DRY MEN LEAVE

Federal Agents to Attend School at New Orleans

Federal Deputy Prohibition Administrator C. H. Kellog, and United States Agents Jack Roberts, C. W. Myrick, W. H. Gillespie and C. E. Rousseau left Sunday night for New Orleans to attend a week's session of school for agents. They will return next Sunday.

Rev. J. W. Jones Will Move To Thorsby Soon

Comes To Pastorate of Thorsby and Jemison Baptist Churches from Dora, Alabama

Rev. J. William Jones has accepted the pastorate of the Baptist churches at Thorsby and Jemison, and will make his home at Thorsby. A letter from him says that he expects to arrive in Thorsby this week and will preach there next Sunday.

Rev. Jones is well-known in this part of the county. He conducted revival services at Liberty Hill the past two summers through which he established an enviable reputation as a preacher of the gospel.

He has for some years been pastor of the Baptist church at Dora, in Walker County.

The many friends of Rev. Jones will be glad to know that he is coming to our county. He is an able preacher under whose pastorate the Thorsby and Jemison churches are sure to set a new pace for progress. The Baptist denominational work throughout the entire county will be strengthened by his active connection with the work here.

PAY POLL TAX

Editor Union-Banner:

I see that every County in the State is working to get their people to pay their poll tax. What is Chilton going to do? Are we going to quit paying our poll tax? Some times I hardly know what to think of any voter who will not take eonugh interest in his Government to pay $1.50 per year to his school to help educate the children, which makes him or her a voter with all the privilege that any other person has in voting. Voter, have you stopped to think what a great privilege it is to be able to take a part in your Government? The voters in Chilton County have controlled their County Government for many years, but the argument has been made that they have not had much to do with the State and National Government. Now it looks like we are entering on a new period, and that the South will be divided, and that we will have something to do with the State and National Government.

Don't it seem strange that a voter has to be urged to do his duty. We ought to be as patriotic in peace as we are in war.

It looks like we are gonig to have an important election this year to pass on the question of issuing more Bonds, but if we do not have any election this year it is easier to pay the $1.50 each year than it is to wait until we owe $3.00.

Every voter was urged last year to qualify to vote. Are you that owe a poll tax waiting for some one to come to see you? We have about five thousand qualified voters in the County. I wish every white person over 21 years old was qualified to vote.

Now in conclusion I appeal to every one that is due a poll tax to pay it. Remember you only have until February the First to pay, and if you do not pay you cannot vote this year on any question. I hope every one that owes a poll tax will pay it and not wait to be urged. Pay it and be a free voter, and then vote a syour conscience dictates.

It is said by some that the time will come in Chilton County when the voters will wait for their poll tax to be paid, and then will want to be paid to vote. God forbid that this ever comes true.

Respectfully,

L. H. REYNOLDS.

BAPTIST SERVICES WILL BE RESUMED

Flu Situation Is Better; Services to Get Back to Normal

All services at the Clanton Baptist church will be resumed on next Sunday. For the past two weeks there has been considerable interruption in the regular order of services on account of so much sickness.

Attendace at Sunday school last Sunday was well above a hundred. The Sunday before it was much less than a hundred. A short preaching service was held last Sunday.

Everyone is urged to come next Sunday for all the services, both morning and night.

MRS. LEONARD FARLEY SICK

Mrs. Leonard Farley has been seriously ill with pneumonia at Central Alabama Hospital for the past week. Her condition was very grave last Sunday and it was feared she would not live. However, at this writing she has shown much improvement.

CARD OF THANKS

The sons and daughters of Mrs. Jane Wyatt wish to express their thanks to friends and neighbors for the kindness and assistance extended them during the recent sickness, death and burial of their mother.

WILL PREACH AT FRIENDSHIP SUNDAY AT 11 O'CLOCK

As was agreed upon at regular meeting the fourth Sunday last month, Rev. A. L. Foshee will preach at Friendship next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. There will be no service Sunday night, but instead, Rev. Foshee will preach again at 11 o'clock, the first Sunday in February. This order of services will continue until the cold winter months have passed, then the regular morning and night services on the Fourth Sunday will be resumed.

OLD HOME BURNED LAST WEEK

The old Tom Teel home about two miles northeast of Clanton, wsa destroyed by fire on Monday night, January 7. The place is now owned by Rudolph Moatts, and was occupied by a Mr. Steely.

SAD DEATH OF MRS. EDGAR HERE MON.

Wife of Dr. Joe E. Edgar Succumbs Following Birth of a Child

Great sorrow was cast over Clanton last Monday night when it was announced that Mrs. J. E. Edgar was dead. The circumstances surrounding her death were most pathetic, and produced keenest pangs of sadness in the hearts of the many friends of the family.

The young mother was 25 years of age. Before her marriage to Dr. Edgar she was Miss Mattie Lou Gantt, of Deatsville.

She is survived by her husband, Dr. Joe E. Edgar, dentist, of Clanton, one child about two years old, and an infant born a few hours before the death of the mother. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gantt, live at Deatsville. She has two brothers, Roy and Lloyd Gantt.

The body was prepared for burial by Martin and carried to the home of her parents at Deatsville Tuesday. The funeral was held at home at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, after which burial was at Lebanon cemetery north of Wetumpka. Rev. Ezell and Rev. Childs went from Clanton to assist in the funeral.

Dr. and Mrs. Edgar had lived in Clanton for the past three years.

REUBEN PERRY MILLS

Reuben Perry Mills, age 85 years, diel last Saturday at his home near Billingsley. He was buried at Billingsley Sunday.

JOHN LEE TAYLOR DEAD

John Lee Taylor, age 10 years, died in Clanton last Friday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taylor. Death was caused by illness with flu and pneumonia.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning by Dr. S. J. Ezell at Clanton Baptist church after which Martin carried the body to Chestnut Creek cemetery for burial.

JESSE C. HENLEY DEAD

Jesse C. Henley, age 79, died at five o'clock Monday morning at his home west of Clanton. He was buried Tuesday by Martin at Pleasant Grove cemetery. Rev. J. P. Morgan of Marbury conducted the funeral.

Alabama Kiwanis Meeting Here Last Week Was Highly Pleasing To Visitors

REV. J. W. JONES

Rev. Jones comes from Dora, Alabama, to take up the pastorate of the Baptist churches at Thorsby and Jemison. He will live at Thorsby. Services at Thorsby will be under his direction next Sunday. Rev. Jones will be remembered for his work in revivals at Liberty Hill the past two summers.

EVAN PARRISH WILL DO WHOLESALE BUSINESS FRUITS AND PRODUCE

Mr. Evan Parrish, who has been doing an extensive retail business in Clanton and otder places of all kinds of fruits and produce, is now spreading out his business and will do an extensive wholesale trade—in fact he intends to devote most of his time to the wholesale side of the fruit and produce business. He will put trucks on the road delivering his wares to the merchants in this vicinity, and as his business justifies he will add another delivery truck.

Mr. Parrish has created a big business in fruits as well as the sale of coal, since he entered business a few years ago. We predict for him a great success in the wholesale handling of fruits and produce, which business he has just entered extensively.

DAUGHTER OF LEONARD KEMP BURIED MONDAY

Vivian, the eight-year old daughter of Mr. Leonard Kemp, was buried Monday at Coosada. She died last Saturday at Newman, Ga. The mother of the child died and was buried a week ago.

One other child of Mr. Kemp is in a serious condition, but it was said Tuesday that it has a chance to recover.

W. A. Kemp, Tom Kemp and Rev. S. J. Ezell attended the funeral at Coosada Monday.

BOYD GONE TO FLORIDA

Mr. H. G. Boyd, president of Peoples Savings Bank, left Tuesday night for a trip to Florida. He will be away about two weeks for a rest. He will visit Miami and other cities of interest.

Officers Began Serving New Terms on Monday

Four of the Five County Officers to Take Oath Succeed Themselves in Their Respective Offices

With no unusual ceremony five officers of Chilton County on Monday morning took up the duties of their respective offices to which they were elected in November.

Judge L. H. Reynolds and Circuit Clerk J. Z. Mims, began another term of six years each. County Commissioners A. P. Vinson and J. L. Burnett started out on another four-year term in their offices.

Mrs. Gertrude Popwell Calloway was the only new officer in the group. She succeeded Miss Genie Collins in the office of County Treasurer.

Mrs. Calloway will maintain her office up stairs in the courthouse to the right of the front entrance to the main court room. Her term of office which she began Monday is for four years.

Mr. and Mrs. Kin Vinson of Wetumpka spent last Sunday with friends in Clanton.

OBJECTIVES ADOPTED FOR THE YEAR 1929

Twenty-One Clubs Represented at Annual Conference of Trustees and Officers

Forty-seven representatives from twenty-one Kiwanis Clubs of Alabama met in Clanton last Friday for the annual conference of District Trustees and officers. The main purpose of the meeting was to outline and adopt plans and policies for carrying on the work of Kiwanis activity throughout the Alabama District for 1929.

A number of the visitors, including the District Governor, Walter Clopton, of Decatur, and the five District Lieutenant Governors, arrived in Clanton Thursday afternoon. These with Thad Holt, District Secretary, of Birmingham, and Fred Parker, International Secretary, of Chicago, held a conference Thursday night in which they formulated the program for the all-day session on Friday.

The meeting Friday opened at the Wadesonian Theatre at nine o'clock, with Governor Clopton presiding. The morning session included a number of reports and addresses by high officials in Alabama Kiwanis circles.

At noon the meeting adjourned to the Baptist church where the visitors were guests of the Clanton Club at luncheon. The luncheon program was highly entertaining with the usual Kiwanis spirit of good fellowship. Marvin Rankin, of Decatur, chairman of the District Committee on Music, was the fun-maker. He displayed a marvelous ability at the job.

When the luncheon program was completed Retiring Governor Jim Anderson very touchingly surrendered his badge of that office and bestowed the same upon the new Governor, Walter Clopton of Decatur. The speeches of Anderson and Clopton were deeply impressive.

Kiwanian Hildreth of Eutaw, presented the Past Governor's badge to Jim Anderson with a speech that touched the hearts of everyone who heard his beautiful words of praise for "Happy Jim."

Fred C. W. Parker, Secretary of Kiwanis International, spoke at length on different phases of Kiwanis activity, all of which was peculiarly fitted to enliven the interest and broaden the vision of Alabama Kiwanians in 1929.

The meeting adjourned at four o'clock, after a day's work which was acclaimed the best in the history of Alabama Kiwanis.

Following is the list of visitors, showing clubs from which they came and the respective positions of each in his home club:

Birmingham Club—M. F. Jackson; Thad Holt, District Secretary; Howard Yielding; J. D. Porter; Ed Norton, Secretary.

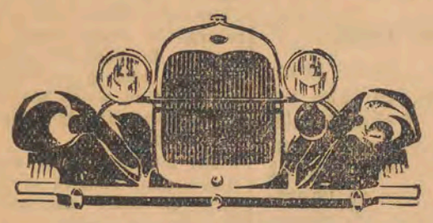
Tuscaloosa Club—J. A. Anderson, Trustee.

Chicago Club—Fred C. W. Parker.

ALABAMA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION IN REGARD TO NEW RATES FOR HOUSEHOLD USE



So many erroneous statements have appeared in print concerning the new schedule of rates prescribed by this commission on December 31, 1928, for the use of electricity by the household consumers of the Alabama Power Company, that considerable confusion and misinterpretation of the Commission's order may have been created in the minds of such consumers. For this reason, the Commission hopes that the following statement will clarify the situation so that every customer served by these rates will be able to know by comparing his bills with the attached statement, whether he should accept the new rate, or choose to remain under his present rate. If he finds it to his advantage to remain under his present rate, he may do so by filing a statement in writing to that effect with the Commission and with the Company's office where he pays his bills, within forty-five days after receipt of his February, 1929, bill.

It was not practicable for the Commission, in its official opinion to discuss at length all the attractive features of the new rate prescribed. The humblest home in Alabama, served under this new rate, now has the same opportunity to use electricity at as low rates as the home of the wealthy citizen. Heretofore it was necessary for the householder to purchase appliances, such as electric ranges, before being able to secure a low rate. This rate is available for all household use, whether the appliances be large or small, or even if only lights are used. Every customer should compare his bills under his present rate with what his bill would be under the new rate.

Under the Commission's order in this case, no customer has to take a raise on his bills. If the new rate would raise his bills, he may stay on his present rate by giving notice as above stated.

In case of customers in Mobile, they may choose either the new rate, or what is known as the Montgomery rate, which is lower than Mobile's present rate, by giving notice as above stated.—Hugh White, president; H. F. Lee, Associate Commissioner; Frank P. Morgan, Associate Commissioner.

Simplicity of cooling system is a feature of the new Ford

The purpose of this water plant is to keep the engine cooled to a temperature that will make it efficient in operation. If it were not for this, the cylinder walls would become overheated and the pistons refuse to operate.

The cooling system of the new Ford is particularly interesting because it is so simple and reliable.

When the radiator is full of water, the engine of the new Ford will not overheat under the hardest driving. Yet the water is so regulated that it will not impair engine operation by running too cold in winter.

The cooling surface of the Ford radiator is large, with four rows of tubes set in staggered position so that each receives the full benefit of the incoming air. The fan is of the airplane propeller type and draws air through the radiator at the rapid rate of 850 cubic feet per minute at 1000 revolutions per minute of the motor.

The hot water around the cylinder head is drawn to the radiator to be cooled by a centrifugal water pump of new design.

The entire cooling system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little attention.

The radiator should be kept full, of course, and drained once each month so that sediment will not collect and retard the free passage of water. In cold weather, a reliable anti-freeze solution should be added.

As owner and manager of this important water plant you should also see that the water pump and fan shaft are properly lubricated and the packing around the pump shaft kept in adjustment.

Hose connections may also need replacement after long service. For those little adjustments, it pays to call on the Ford dealer.

He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to do a thorough, competent job at a fair price.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

BUICK OWNERS LOYAL TO BUICK PRINCIPLES

That Buick owners are loyal to Buick principles and Buick design is convincingly shown, according to C. W. Churchill, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Company, in figures just compiled which reveal that between 45 per cent and 50 per cent of all Buicks sold are purchased by former Buick owners.

"This loyalty, displayed year after year by so many thousand of former Buick owners throughout the nation, naturally is very gratifying to Buick officials," Churchill declared. "It proves to us that our efforts, not only to maintain but even surpass our successes of the past, are appreciated by those who keep faith with Buick.

"The enormous repeat business of the last year, which steadily has been climbing for the last decade, assures us, too, that next year will see even more than 100,000 new Buicks in operation by men and women who have owned and driven Buicks before—a greater number than that enjoyed by any other fine car manufacturer."

Churchill also cited the enormous requirements of a manufacturer in meeting the varied needs in models of today—the huge volume necessary to produce the many types of cars demands by the modern public at the lowest possible cost.

"Were we able to concentrate on but three or four models, our task would be simplified greatly," he explained, "but the American people are entitled to and demand a greater choice in the fine car field."

"The rapid increase in two and three car families, which today has reached over 3,000,000, the individual needs are far greater and a larger variety of body styles is therefore needed."

To the large increase in women drivers, brought about through the increased power and flexibility of the modern fine car, Churchill also credits the increased demand for more and varied styles.

"Not for speed, but for the flexibility and ease of handling in traffic that it provides, does the modern woman demand the ultimate in power," he declared. "And, as this flexibility through power is obtained in the fine car of today, the number of women drivers is increased."

One of the popular songs of the day is about "Where the shy little violets grow," and wherever that may be we are sure it isn't around the Washington hotels where the job hunters are congregating.

An Atlanta man has been married five times and on each occasion he picked a girl named Helen. Perhaps he likes 'em named that way so he can call them Hel for short.

Walter Lee Speed, a junior in the school of commerce at the University of Alabama, has been awarded the annual $250 loan scholarship by the American Bankers Association, it was announced this week. Speed is from Northport, Ala., and is an outstanding student in the commerce school, Dean Lee Bidgood declared.

LAKE NAMED FOR HOOVER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10—A lake lying in the previously unexplored region of Western Papua now bears the name of the President-elect of the United States.

The lake was discovered by members of a sugar cane expedition that has recently returned to this country, bringing with it over a hundred new varieties of cane. The expedition was dispatched by the United States Department of Agriculture, under the leadership of Dr. E. W. Brandes, principal pathologist of the Department's office of Sugar Plants, by whom the name "Herbert Hoover" was given to the body of water lying in the midst of an immense tropical jungle.

"In all, we added fourteen new lakes to the map of Papua," says Dr. Brandes. "We also visited eight villages of man-eating headhunters who had never seen a white man before. Perhaps the nearest approach to civilization made by these people lies in the fact that they cultivate sugar cane, and depend upon sugar as one of their staple articles of diet. They extract the juice by chewing the cane, thus providing themselves with a valuable source of the energy required by their active mode of life."

The importation of new varieties of cane by the Department of Agriculture will, it is believed, tend to promote the progress of the cane growing industry in the Southern States. The results of the expedition will also be made available to planters in other countries from which the United States draws supplies of sugar, both for household use and for the manufacture of scores of prepared foods in which sugar is an indispensable ingredient.

INTERESTING BITS OF HISTORY IN B'HAM-SOUTHERN ANNUAL

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 14.—Why was the Confederate capital moved from Montgomery to Richmond? What are the real causes of the war-provoking boundary disputes in South America? These and other interesting questions will be illuminated by the light of scholarship when the annual research bulletin of Birmingham-Southern College here is off the press, this year under supervision of the faculty of history.

Dr. Harrison A. Trexler, Ph. D. of Johns Hopkins, has costributed to the research bulletin the article on removal of the capital of the Confederate States of America. Dr. Leon F. Sensabaugh, also Ph. D. of Johns Hopkins, has written a paper explaining the South American boundary disputes. What became of such valuable things in early Colonial days as a sperm whale stranded on the coast will be told by Dr. Cyrus H. Karraker, Ph. D. of Pennsylvania, in his paper on "Some Casual Revenues of the King from the Southern colonies." Finally, Prof. Walter B. Posey will give from special study last year at Vanderbilt a new account of the "Blount Conspiracy" in early Tennessee, where the first impeachment of a United States Senator took place.

The annual research bulletin is one of the means by which Birmingham-Southern seeks to foster the spirit of research and original work among faculty and advanced students, according to President Guy E. Snavely. The next number of the publication will be issued under auspices of the department of modern languages.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Jan. 14.—Dr. V. M. Sims, associate professor of psychology at the University of Alabama, has recently completed a study of the living conditions in the city as compared with the country and town. This study, based upon an analysis of many hundreds of homes in city, town and country, shows that the social, cultural and economic advantages of homes in the country are fewer than in the town and city, but that the average home in the town of about 5,000 population is superior to that in the city of 150,000 or more people.

Dr. Sims concludes that the existance within the city of very superior advantages for a small group of persons and noticeable absence in the small town of some of the luxuries of the city have a tendency to cause one to forget average conditions. Dr. Sims further states that along with this small group of superior homes we find in the city many homes that are decidedly inferior to those found in the small town. On the whole, then, it is declared by the investigator, that the small town has much the better home enviroment and is the best place to settle if life is to be enjoyed in the fullest aspect.

Officials of the University of Alabama who are in charge of the athletic program at the Capstone have annousced that work would begin immediately on the new football stadium to be erected. This stadium will be built to accomodate 60,000 people, will be equipped with field housing material, and will be used as center of operations for physical education. It is hoped, officals declare, that the time will not be far off when every student at the University will engage in some type of health building exercise each day under the direction of competent instruction.

CHEVROLET SHATTERED ALL RECORDS LAST YEAR

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 12.—With thousands of the new Chevrolet sixes daily being placed in the hands of owners, Chevrolet Motor Company announced officially here yesterday that production for the first ten and a half months of 1928 equalled 1,200,000 units. This figure, it was said, represented an increase of 180,000 units over 1927, the best previous year.

Month after month of last year found Chevrolet shattering all former production marks. Its all time record for monthly output occurred in May, when 140,775 units were produced. May stood out in Chevrolet history also because it included the greatest single day's output in the company's 16 years of history. Seven thousand and seventy five cars and trucks, completely finished rolled off Chevrolet assembly lines May 28.

Coincident with the announcement of 1928 production figures, Chevrolet officials at the New York Automobile show last week, were viewing with interest the continued enthusiasm that the crowds bestowed on the new sixes. Several ranking officials reiterated the statement made a few weeks ago by W. S. Knudsen, president, that 1929 production would equal at least 1,250,000 units. One of the salient tributes paid Chevrolet by visiting automobile men at the show involved the company's remarkable evolution from four cylinder to six cylinder production in the short space of a few weeks. Today all nine of Chevrolet's assembly plants are rapidly adjusting themselves to take care of peak schedules.

For the fourth time in as many years the sales department of Chevrolet at this time is sponsoring its annual series of nationwide sales meetings. The first of the series, which will be extended to include 35 cities, opened yesterday in New York. Three crews, each composed of five men, all factory executives, yill conduct the meetings. It is the purpose of the meetings to esable the Chevrolet dealer organization, numbering over 10,000 dealers, to hear from the lips of the company's sales heads the complete 1929 sales program.

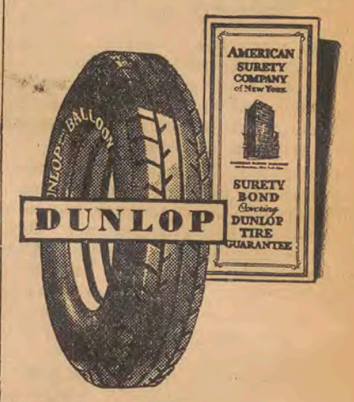
FINEST METALS ARE USED IN NEW MODEL A FORDS



The new Model A Ford automobile contains some of the finest examples in the world of new metal treatments for resistance to wear and to the torsional strain imposed upon some of the parts of the modern internal combustion engine.

One of these is the crankshaft. In this latest Ford product the crankshaft is made of a special Ford carbon manganese steel, developed under processes of metal blending and heat treatment that are new to the industry.

These processes produce a crankshaft that is heavier than any previous Ford crankshaft, that is tougher to resist wear and stronger to resist the torsional strain of high speed performance. The weight of the shaft in itself makes for smoother operation and the static and dynamic balancing process to which it is subjected before it is installed in the motor still further reduces the chances of vibration.

This special carbon manganese steel is only one of more than forty different kinds of steel, each representing a special treatment, which ar used in the manufacture of the new Model A Ford car.

CHRIST THE SAVIOR

LESSON TEXT—Luke 15:3-7; Romans 5:6-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—And thou shall call His name Jesus; for it is He that shall save His people from their sins.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Our Savior.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Our Savior.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Saves Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ, the World's Redeemer.

I. The Savior Predicted (Gen. 3:15; Is. 9:6, 7).

In connection with the fall of man and the pronouncement of judgment upon the woman, man and the serpent, and the announcement of the undying enmity which was to exist between the seed of the woman and the seed of the serpent, ultimate victory was predicted of the woman's seed. This enmity has continued all through the ages, even to the present time. On the cross of Calvary the final stroke was made which crushed his head (John 12:31; Heb. 2:14; I John 3:8). This announcement concerning the Conquering One was the first gleam of the glorious gospel of Christ. A great victory was won, but at an infinite cost. The prediction of the Savior became more specific in Isaiah 9:6, 7. The eternal Son of God was "given" to the world, but He was "born" as a child.

II. The Savior Born (Luke 2:11 30, 32).

That which had been predicted was historically fulfilled in the birth of Jesus Christ at Bethlehem. When Jesus was brought into the temple as a child, the Holy Ghost revealed to Simeon that this was the Messiah. He took the child Jesus in his arms and blessed God, declaring that he had now with his eyes seen God's salvation and that He was to be a light to lighten the Gentiles and was to be the glory of Israel. This appearance of the Savior was heralded to the shepherds by the angels as they ascribed to God the highest glory and announced peace on earth and good will to men.

III. The Savior Described.

1. He seeks the lost (Luke 15:3-7).

This seeking of the lost is illustrated by the man leaving the ninety and nine sheep and going after the one which was lost, and his rejoicing over his success in finding it.

2. He died for the lost (John 3:14-17).

As the brazen serpent was lifted up in the wilderness by Moses, so Jesus Christ was lifted up on the cross. God gave Jesus Christ to die, to make an atonement for the sins of the world. All those who believe on Him receive eternal life and therefore escape condemnation. Christ's coming into the world was not to condemn the world, but to bring to it salvation.

3. He knows His own (John 10:14).

As the Good Shepherd who seeks out the lost and gives His life for them, He has a definite knowledge of each one of them. Not only does He know them personally, but they in turn know Him.

4. He keeps His own (John 10:-27-29).

Believers are Christ's sheep and because they are His sheep they hear His voice and follow Him. He not only gives unto them eternal life but holds them in His omnipotent hands. They are absolutely secure because no man is able to pluck them out of His hands.

IV. Some Blessings Received Through the Savior.

1. Physical strength (Acts 3:1-11)

The healing of the lame man at the beautiful gate of the temple is a fine example of Christ's ability to heal the body. This man had been lame from birth. Because the life of Jesus Christ was brought into touch with him, he was able immediately to arise—strength came into his feet and ankle bones. Not only did he arise, but he walked and leaped, praising God.

2. Justification (Rom. 5:1-11).

The one who receives Jesus Christ is declared righteous. His guilt is removed, and because he is justified, he has peace with God, the assurance that God loves him, and real joy in God Himself.

3. Christ is the Supreme Example to the believer (Phil. 2:5-10).

Because the Savior became incorporated with the race through the incarnation, He is able to impart life to those with whom He is identified. Furthermore, because He thus imparts life, the believer is able to make Him an example. He is able to express the same spirit of devotion and humility in giving himself in service instead of being served.

Spend Time With God

It is the failure to spend a definite, even though it be short, time each day with God that is the secret of all weakness, variableness, and shallowness in our spiritual experience and service.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF LITTLE LEON POPWELL

Just a bud of a beautiful flower
when the good Father called him home up there, somewhere, nevermore to suffer, and safe forever beyond the foam.

Of course we all loved him dearly.
Friends, parents and all his kin, but let's console our hearts fully for we are out and he is in. Jesus said:
"Suffer them to come to me for of such is my home up there." There he'll play with the other Cherubims.
Shielded from every sorrow and care.

Sometimes a little child leadeth us
In the way we should long to go,
Sometimes we feel a hovering spirit near,
Warning us against a world of woe.
He is dead, yet he ever liveth
In the home which is the best,
There waiting for papa and mamma,
Grandmas, friends, and the rest.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Teel and family.

LIBERTY SINGING

Our singing society met last Sunday afternoon. We had some real good singing. The directors were Prof. I. D. Huett, Prof. Yates, Mr. Benford Durden, Mr. J. J. Boone, Mr. Edward Jones, Mr. Riley Culpepper, and Mr. Elmore Rawlinson. The organists were Mrs. Lera Rogers and Mr. Boone.

We tank all the visitors for their help and invite everybody to come to our singing the next second Sunday evening at 1:30 o'clock.

HOOVER TO BRING PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE TO FARM PROBLEM

Herbert Hoover, president-elect of the United States, will not be without practical farming experience when he comes to work out farm relief measures during his term of office. Although little was said about it during the recent campaign. He has owned a 1313 acre farm in California since 1920 and he has operated it, not only as a business enterprise, but also as a base for practical agricultural experiments.

Vineyards, 435 acres producing 10 varieties of table grapes with a yearly output of about 600,000 pounds; between 60 and 320 acres in cotton; 200 acres in alfalfa, yielding seven tons to the acre, and cut seven times a year; 150 acres in potatoes; 130 acres in peaches producing 16,000 pounds to the acre; 80 to 120 acres in corn; 90 or more acres in watermelons and muskmelons; 90 acres in Spanish onions; 40 to 80 acres in spinach producing 960,000 pounds a season; 40 to 60 acres of sweet potatoes; 70 acres in apricots.

In addition there are about 2500 laying hens, 200 sows and 150 cows. As many as 200 employees are at work during peak harvesting seasons, and the annual payroll is about $75,000.

Considerable experimental work is done on the farm, and a good part of this has been in connection with poultry work. In accordance with the most modern farm poultry methods and in the interests of economy and profits, the Hoover stock is replenished each year with baby chicks secured from hatcheries. Eggs are marketed regularly, the income from this source proving considerable, since only the best of high egg-laying stock is used to make up the laying flock. The usual culling, and marketing of broilers adds another source of profit, and removes the "loafer hen" from the flock, thus giving increased egg production at less feed cost.

Purchase of chicks from laying stock of proved quality is fundamental in profitable farm poultry work, and has resulted, during the past year, in the formation of leading hatcheries of the country into an organization which has as its identifying slogan, "Hatchery Chicks For Greater Profits." These hatcheries are pledged to fair dealing with customers, and the production of quality chicks from stock of known profit-producing ability.

Most recent experimenting on the Hoover farm has to do with the hog-raising industry, the present herd of 200 sows being the nucleus for further expansion and experimental work.

President-elect Hoover owns this farm jointly with Ralph Merrit. The farm is located about 280 miles south of San Francisco and 150 miles north of Los Angeles, on the main line of the Santa Fe railway. It is three miles south of the little town of Wasco, and is one of the largest cultivated ranches in that vicinity.

Shakespeare said something about the winter of our discontent, and we know what it is. You are in it when you drive down town in the old 1925 model to look at the new 1929 automobiles in the show window.

Speaking of radios we know of some folks who can do plenty of broadcasting without even having a microphone.

CAPITOL News

Alabama was ahead of all other southern states in mileage of federal aid roads built in the fiscal year, 1928, and was surpassed by only six states in the Union in this respect, according to figures from Washington recently made available.

The figures show also that during 1928 Alabama received $2,759,-906.85 federal aid, being exceeded only by Texas among the states of the South, and only seven states in all. Federal aid is allotted to the various states in fixed amounts, based on area, population and public road mileage. Alabama's quota of federal aid for 1928 was $1,547,220, but an unexpended balance from the preceding year brought the total received during 1928 to the figure given above.

Figures from the State highway department show that during 1928 the highway commission awarded contracts for 1,250 miles of roads, including roads built by the state alone, and federal aid projects. Of this mileage, 350 miles were graded road, 700 miles gravel and sand clay, and 200 miles of hard surfaced road. In addition, 300 miles of highway were graded with the labor of state convicts. Forty thousand lineal feet of bridges were constructed in connection with various projects. The above figures do not include the fifteen toll bridges for which contracts were let by the Alabama Bridge Corporation.

The fine record of Alabama's highway department has attracted much favorable attention and comment, and it is generally conceded that the highway department under its present admisistration enjoys the confidence of the public.

Captain Fulton Pace, World War veteran and experienced engineer, has been appointed chief engineer in charge of the newly created division of drainage of the state department of agriculture. The voters at the last general election, and at an election four years ago, ratified constitutional amendments providing for establishment of drainage districts for reclamation of wet lands. The next few years is expected to witness much activity in Alabama in this drainage work, which is beneficial from a health standpoint and also makes rich lands available for farming. Captain Pace, who will represent the department of agriculture in this drainage work, is an Auburn graduate, and an engineer with many years experience.

During 1928 officers of the state law enforcement department destroyed 1,769 stills, which was 17 less than the number seized in 1927, according to the annual report of Chief Walter K. McAdory. Number of autos seized for confiscation showed a marked increase, from 178 in 1927 to 253 in 1928. Arrests in 1928 totalled 2,860. Activities of the state officers were not confined to enforcing the prohibition statutes, arrests being made for practically every known kind of law violation.

The State Auditor receives from time to time, a great many inquiries in regard to pensions, which are paid by Alabama to Confederate veterans and their widows.

S. H. Blan, State Auditor, says that Alabama enjoys a most enviable place in regard to pensions by reason of the fact that it pays more to its pensioners than other states. According to the law, the Pension Commission is charged with the responsibility of examining all applications for pensions. The commission is composed of the Chief Examiner of Public Accounts, Judge C. E. McCall, who is chairman; the Director of Archives and History, and the attorney general. It is necessary for the Commission to have absolute proof of service of the veteran as a soldier or sailor regularly enlisted in a confederate organization before the pension can be authorized. The Commission therefore, very often writes the Adjutant General of the United States Government at Washington requesting him to examine the Confederate rolls in possession of the government and to furnish record as shown by these original muster rolls, which were taken over by the government at the end of the war. When the applications are rejected for any cause, htey are placed on file, with notation of the reason for rejection.

When the applications are approved by the Commission, the papers are turned over to the State Auditor, and the name of the pensioner placed on the rolls. The State Auditor then mails the checks for prompt delivery on the first of each quarter, the pensions being paid in advance, on the first day of the quarter.

Some people have written to ask how many "children of Confederate veterans" are drawing pensions, as the law does not permit the same. Only veterans themselves, and widows who married prior to 1903, are eligible for pensions. A veteran can not reside at the soldiers home and draw a pension at the same time.

Some have written to ask how long a veteran or widow must live in Alabama before they can receive a pension. A Veteran or widow must have lived in Alabama five years immediately preceding the date of application for pension, before being eligible to be placed on the pension roll. Drawing a pension in Alabama must be preceded by five years of bona fide residence. Drawing a pension fro manother State is evidence of citizenship in that State.

Pensions may be transferred from one county to another in the State on application by pensioners, but when a pensioser moves out of the State and becomes a resident of another State, the law then prevents the issuance of further pension warrants by this State.

In the absence of a pensioner at the time of delivery of pension warrants by the Probate Judge, the Probate Judges are not authorized to "send out" the pension warrant by some friend or neighbor of the pensioner. It can not be delivered in such way unless the pensioner sends a written or printed order for the same, properly sworn to, showing inability to come for warrant. The certificate must also show that the pensioner is living within the county at the time of delivery of such warrant, and that the pensioner is physically unable to appear befor Probate Judge to receive warrant.

The State Pension Commission headed by Judge C. E. McCall, or the State Auditor, will be glad to answer any inquiries in regard to pensions, or to furnish application blanks to veterans or their widows, who are not now on the pension rolls. These blanks may be secured, however, from the offices of the Probate Judges in the several counties in the State.

Repartee, If Nothing Else

"Go to hell!" said the janitor.

"I'd gladly do so," replied the tenant who had just been entering a feeble kick, "but it would be just my luck for them to turn off the heat."

The Bad News

They were dining in an expensive restaurant.

"Women mean nothing to me," proudly proclaimed the man.

"Tee-hee," the girl giggled. "You haven't looked at the check yet, have you."

"Your son must be the idol of the family."

"Yes, he has been idle for twenty-one years."

Jones: "We are coming over to see you tonight, old man."

Jones: "Why, that's the very reason we are coming!"

Aunt Hetty: "Sakes alive! I don't believe no woman could ever been so fat."

Uncle Hiram: "What y' readin' now, Hetty?"

Aunt Hetty: "Why, this paper tells about an English woman that lost two thousand pounds."

Obeying Instructions

Boss: "Well, did you read the letter I sent you?"

Office Boy: "Yes, Sir; I read it inside and outside. On the inside it said, 'You are fired.' On the outside it said, 'Return in five days.' And here I am."

He Knew History

The mathematics teacher gave a bright boy a problem in algebra to solve. Although it was very easy, he couldn't do it.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself!" said the teacher. "At your age George Washington was a surveyor!"

The boy looked the teacher straight in the eyes, and said: "Yes, sir. And at your age he was president of the United States!"

No Mercy for Him

Auto Tourist: "I clearly had the right of way when this man ran into me and yet you say I was to blame."

Local Cop: "You certainly were."

Autoist: "Why?"

He Knew His Sergeants

A squad at a citizens' training camp was having "visual training." One smart recruit was asked by the officer to count how many men composed a digging party in a distant field. The party was so far away that the men appeared as mere dots, but without hesitation the recruit replied, "Sixteen men and a sergeant, sir."

"Right. But how do you know there's a sergeant there?"

"One man ain't doing any digging, sir!"

WILL DeSHAZO BREAKS ARM

Mr. Will DeShazo, builder of bridges for Chilton County, suffered a broken arm last Saturday morning while at work on the Bentley Bridge near Thorsby.

He was holding a post which was being driven into the ground by a workman with a large hammer. The hammer missed its mark and struck his arm, inflicting a painful injury. He was rushed to the hospital in Clanton.

DECISION PLACES TEETH IN STATE DRY CRUSADE

McAdory Joyous Over Result of Test. Three Must Serve.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 16.—A new procedure in enforcement of the prohibition law was upheld in a decision of the Alabama Court of Appeals which sustained the conviction and sentencing of three men to hard labor terms in the Montgomery trial court on charges of vagrancy.

The decision held that Allie F. Cleghorn, Edgar Hoyle, and E. F. Ballard must all pay fines imposed by the Montgomery Circuit Court, and serve sentences ranging from four months to twelve months hard labor.

Cleghorn was fined $350 and was given an additional sentence of 12 months at hard labor; Hoyle drew a fine of $125 and six months hard labor; and Ballard a fine of $100 and a term of six months hard labor.

These cases marked the first instance in Montgomery County of the imposing of hard labor sentences for vagrancy, and their affirmance by the Court of Appeals, will, in the opinion of Chief Walter K. McAdory of the State Law Enforcement Department, go a long way toward abating the practice of bootlegging here and elsewhere in Alabama.

Mr. McAdory points out that a person known by officers to be engaged in the "bootleg" trade, but against whom insufficient evidence can be obtained to convict for that offense, may now be given hard labor sentences on conviction of any one of a number of charges constituting vagrancy, among them being the lack of any visible means of support. It was recalled by Mr. McAdory that Cleghorn, Hoyle, and Ballard have heretofore been convicted of violating the prohibition law.

Chief McAdory stated that there are many indictments for vagrancy now pending in Montgomery, and that he intends to recommend others when the Grand Jury meets here on February 4. He added that he expects also to ask for the indictment of a number of habitual gamblers in the city and county.

Ross Stringer, convicted in Montgomery of violating the prohibition law, must also serve the sentence of payment of a fine of $100 and four months at hard labor, imposed by the trial court. This judgment of the Montgomery Circuit Court was also affirmed by the Court of Appeals yesterday.

The Court of Appeals likewise upheld judgment of the Circuit Court of Montgomery County, in the case of Gabe Williams, convicted of transporting more than five gallons of prohibited liquor and sentenced to a year and a day in prison.

HOOVER'S BIRTHPLACE TO BE MARKED BY BOULDER

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 15.—The birthplace of Herbert Hoover at West Branch, Iowa, is to be marked by a granite boulder bearing a suitably inscribed bronze tablet, the Iowa City Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution announces.

Consent of Mrs. Jennie Scellars, owner of the home where the president-elect was born, has been obtained for placing the marker. It is planned to have the memorial ready for dedication August 10, Mr. Hoover's birthday anniversary.

HAVING THE DRAG

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

GIBLER had been dropped from college for poor scholarship in accordance with the regulations which prevailed, and he was mourning the fact and racking his brains for some adequate alibi which would give him reason for applying for readmission. It was not that he had made the most of his opportunities or that he had been the victim of ill-luck or sudden misfortune, he had simply been caught asleep at the switch. It was the end of the semester and most of the fellows had gone home.

"How come?" his roommate asked him.

"Well, Tom has a drag with the dean, and I know he could get me reinstated just by asking."

Gibler accepted the Hindu proverb that if you have a friend on the police force, respect for the law is not essential. He believed thoroughly in making friends with the sons of Belial.

It is a curious and rather general point of view that if we know some one of importance or even if we know somebody who knows somebody in a position of influence that fact entitles us to special consideration, special privilege, the right to ignore regulations and to violate the law.

A boy came to me not long ago to enlist my help in getting a job.

"My father is very well acquainted with Senator Blank," he said, "and he knows....." And then he named a long list of more or less prominent citizens and officers of the state.

"How would that fact help you to do a job well?" I inquired.

"Well, I suppose it wouldn't," he was forced to reply.

"And what about the boy who wants a job and whose father is so unfortunate as not to know anyone of importance?"

"He'd just be out of luck."

"We never hold it against a boy who wants work that his father knows a lot of prominent people. He has just as good a chance as anyone else."

He looked at me curiously; but I don't think he understood. It was unintelligible to him that anyone who knew a congressman or a policeman didn't have a better chance to get something he wanted than another not so fortunately situated.

It is interesting to see how often a man, when he wants something that he has no legal right to have, shows me a badge or a button or a membership card in some organization to which I myself belong, or brings me a letter from an acquaintance of prominence, saying:

"Mr. Brown is a man of influence in our community and an intimate friend of mine. If you can see your way clear to set aside the regulations in his case I shall appreciate the courtesy."

And such a man expects that it will be done. It isn't justice he is after; it is special consideration. Knowing a man on the police force, he felt quite sure that he could get by.

It's a poor theory.

RARE STUFF

Woodrow Farrior, of Petrey, Ala., was arrested last night by State Law Enforcement Officers Kimbrough, Morrison, and Haynie, on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Farrior is said to have had one quart of liquor on his person when arrested.

The officers later raided Farrior's boarding place on Bibb Street and claim to have found approximately 30 gallons of liquor. Included in this haul were 20 quarts of Canadian Club, 6 quarts of champagne, and 6 quarts of Green River whiskey, the officers reported.

HOOVER DECIDES ON TWO CABINET NAMES

Far-Westerner and Donovan As Good as in; Democrats Call on President-Elect

Washington, Jan. 15.—President-Elect Herbert Hoover today informed callers that he would be unable to make his contemplated good will tour of Cuba and the West Indies before March 4.

Washington, Jan. 15.—President-elect Hoover was represented today by some of those who have called at his headquarters as having about made up his mind to appoint some outstanding far-Westerner as secretary of the interior and William J. Donovan, of New York, as attorney general.

Mr. Hoover himself is having nothing to say publicly about cabinet appointments and those who have made recommendations to him have reported almost invariably that he merely listened to their suggestions without giving the slightest indication as to his own views.

Appointment of Louis S. Cates, of Utah, as interior secretary, was urged upon him again today, this time by Clarence Hamlin, Republican national committeeman for Colorado. Mr. Cates has the support of the party leaders from a number of the Rocky Mountain States and in addition is a personal friend of the president-elect.

J. Matt Chilton, Republican national committeeman for Kentucky, suggested the naming of Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, of Kentucky, to a cabinet post in recognition of her work as a vice chairman of the national committee in charge of women's work. At the same time Mrs. Hert, before departing for Palm Beach, Fla., issued a statement saying she did not wish or expect any government post whatever.

A cabinet post for Missouri was proposed to Mr. Hoover by Dr. E. B. Clements, national committeeman for that state, who said he mentioned no names, but the reappointment of Dwight Davis as secretary of war would be pleasing to the people of Missouri.

Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, who was summoned to Hoover headquarters for a general discussion of the political situation in the Empire State, said he told Mr. Hoover that if Col. Donovan and Ogden Mills, under secretary of the treasury, should be eliminated from consideration, he would like to see former Senator William M. Calder named to the cabinet.

The visits of three Democratic members of the House to the president-elect during the day aroused considerable speculation in political cicrles. Representatives Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, retiring minority leader, and Representative John Garner, of Texas, who is expected to succeed him, said they merely called to pay their respects.

Representative McKeown, an Oklahoma Democrat, who was with Mr. Hoover for about five minutes said with a broad smile that he just wanted to "vary the monotony" for the president-elect.

"What's YOUR TELEPHONE NUMBER?"

Haven't you noticed that nowadays, whether you open a bank account, apply for credit, seek a new position, or merely meet a friend on the street—the question is always asked, "What's your telephone number?"

If you are forced to answer, "I haven't a telephone," you are virtually shutting out many opportunities that would bring you both profit and pleasure. That's one reason why most persons, anxious to maintain social and business contacts, regard telephone service a modern necessity.

Telephone service is so inexpensive that it is available to almost everyone. Any telephone worker will gladly quote rates and take your order.

DELAY IS ASKED ON PROHIBITION FUNDS

Washington, Jan. 15.—Secretary Mellon advised Congress today that in the opinion of the treasury the appropriation of an additional $25,000,000 for prohibition enforcement should be deferred until surveys could be conducted to determine the most effective way to use the money.

The letter, addressed to Chairman Warren of the Senate appropriations committee, was in reply to a communication from Warren asking what the treasury could do with the $25,000,000 for dry law enforcement recently added by his committee to the first deficiency appropriation bill.

The Wyoming senator was opposed to the added appropriation, which was sponsored by Senator Harris, Democrat, of Georgia.

Secretary Mellon, in his reply, declared one of the major difficulties of the prohibition bureau was that cases now pending could not be tried because of congestion in the courts and suggested that part of the money should be allocated to the Department of Justice. He said that both the coast guard and customs service, which aid in enforcing the prohibition law, could use additional funds and that at present the prohibition bureau under the civil service law had found it possible to make appointments for only a portion of the positions provided.

All these questions, the treasury head said, should be thoroughly surveyed before such a large sum as that is appropriated.

"I feel," he concluded, "that no such appropriations should be made until they can be definitely allocated to certain specific purposes and that any other method of procedure will necessarily result in extravagant use of the public funds."

MARINE CORPS AVIATION, INFORMATION FURNISHED

The Birmingham Marine Corps recruiting office, located at 1927½ Second Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., in the past has received numerous of letters from prospective applicants, making inquiries in reference to aviation duty. The following information and data regarding Marine Corps Aviation is furnished: All enlistments are for general service and all men in Aviation must receive the regular recruit training at the large Marine Corps Training Station at Paris Island, S. C., for a period of three months. Men desiring aviation duty may submit requests for such duty to the Major General Commandant, Washington, D. C., which are generally approved.

The ideal recruit for Aviation is a man with mechanical training, who has had experience with gas engines and is a machinist by trade, has had a high school education and is amenable to military discipline. A good recruit for Aviation is a man who has had previous mechanical experience or ability, but this is not essential. He should have a good education, a desire for aviation duty (important), and be intelligent.

JEMISON FARMERS WIN WIN RECOGNITION IN STATE

The two evening schools of Pleasant Grove and Freeman schools, held by J. P. Montgomery of the Jemison High School, won a state prize in the production of cotton. This prize consists of an Atwater Kent radio set, given by the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Company. The contest for this prize was open to all of the night schoos in Aabama teaching cotton production. There were more than fifty such night schools qualified to enter the contest. The Jemison farmers led the group and won the prize.

These farmers used the Auburn method of fertilization, some the minimum of 135 lbs. per acre and some the maximum of 650. Most of them had wilt infected lanl and used Cook' 306-307 cotton seed. The rows averaged 3 to 3 1-2 feet in width and the spacing was from 2 stalks to every 12 to 24 inches.

Following are the men who won the radio set;

M. C. Chidress, C. C. Cofer, Bob Cofer, W. R. Clements, Ivy Childress, Jimmie Franklin, Leonard Lenoir, E. L. Lenoir, W. L. Lenoir, Glover Price, J. M. Price, W. H. Rascoe, G. M. Spivy, I. N. THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager)

The sceond number of Thorsby Institute Lyceum Course will be given at Helen Jenkins Hall in Thorsby at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday, January 22nd. The attraction for this entertainment will be of a class seldom presented in places as small as Thorsby. "The Vernon String Quartetee" is an organization of skilled musicians composed of the following members: Paul Vernon, first violin; Joseph Vavak, second violin; William H. Cheesman, Viola; Ninian Warner Violoncello; Blanch Webber, pianist.

Whenever and wherever a good string quartette gives a program the audience gets plenty of thrills. Violin music has great powers of interpretation especially so when presented by an organization of which every member is a trained artist and when they have been for more than five years playing together before discriminating audiences from coast to coast there is among them an understanding of technique and cooperative support that makes for high class work.

The people of Thorsby and vicinity are extremely fortunate in having an opportunity to hear such music as this troupe are able to bring us.

Admission will be 50c each except for students in school of Chilton County, for whom tickets will be 35c. In most places for entertainments given by this organization the prices of admission wouldl be double that. We are able to offer thru a special arrangement with the concert department of the Piedmont Bureau of Asheville, N. C. Don't miss it!

Mr. L. N. Rowell died at his home in Thorsby January 10th aged 75 years. He leaves a widow and one son, John Rowell, in Thorsby. The writer is not informed if he had other sons or daughters. Mr. Rowell came to Thorsby about fifteen months ago from the vicinity of Clanton, where we understand he had lived for several years, but for a much longer time he had been a resident of Wylam and a member of the Baptist church there where he was buried. Mr. Rowell was a man of very upright character and living, also a man of pleasing personality. His home here was on the Chas. Peterson place.

Mrs. H. M. Gerald has been quite sick for several weeks and is still not able to sit up much. Her daughter, Iola, came home from Montevallo to spend the week end, and Miss Ruth Gerald came from Birmingham Sunday night expecting to remain with her mother for a week.

Thorsby Fruit asd Truck Growers Association has been a going organization for the past twnty-five years and year by year it has grown in membership and importance in the economic life of the community. Its membership now exceeds 300, mostly farmers scattered over an area of approximately 100 square miles with Thorsby as headquarters and the center of its activities. At their recent annual meeting of stockholders the following directors and officers were elected for the ensuing year: Board of Directors: Carl C. Petersen, T. J. Martin, Charles A. Peterson, G. S. Burnett and W. A. Hayes. Officers Carl C. Petersen, President; T. J. Martin, Vice President; D. L. Benson, Secretary and J. Monroe Smith, Manager and Treasurer.

The past year was hard for farmers as a whole, but the business of the association totaled $88,258.69.

A market is planned for other fruit crops the coming season in connection with strawberries and dewberries. Berry plants appear in good condition for this season of the year and promise a good crop of fruit. Fertilizers are being distributed for application to the fields during the next thirty days and if weather conditions are favorable and the crop can be marketed during April prices will as a rule be good.

The crop will be short on account of low prices and a large crop last year. Fifty-seven car loads of strawberries were shipped from Thorsby last season, which, on account of a hard winter, was about 50 per cent of the crop expected. The farmers of Thorsby section will continue to grow strawberries and other small fruit.

Messrs. Harwell and W. B. Scott of Montgomery were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott in Thorsby.

Mrs. Davidson of Evanston, Ill., arrived Friday night to spend some time with her mother, Mrs. A. Amundsen, who with Mr. Amundsen occupy the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg during their absence in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Piper.

Mr. Aaron Daneilson has been ill for several weeks, but is improving.

Mrs. H. H. Dahl has had a severe attack of flu, but is now on the road to recovery.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones have arrived in Thorsby and now occupy the house south of Helen Jenkins Hall, owned by T. W. Robinson, and recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, who have moved into their new home diagonally across the street from the Baptist church.

Mr. Jones has recently accepted a call to be pastor of Thorsby Baptist church and we bid the family a hearty welcome to Thorsby.

Mrs. S. C. Wood is still unable to come home from Birmingham, but Dr. Wood says she is improving and he hopes to get her home next week.

Mrs. A. P. Villadsen is reported to be very ill with flu, in a Birmingham hospital.

Mrs. Edwards spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Billingsley, in Thorsby.

Miss Addie Primm is another one down with flu. Roma Lee Pate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pate, is also on the sick list.

The C. R. Foss family have been having an anxious time all the week. Flu has been going the rounds among them. We think Father Foss has escaped so far and Reuben has been about, but Mrs. Foss and the children, event to the wee one, have had their turn at it, but the worst seems to be over now.

Rev. and Mrs. Each visited the family of Rev. E. C. Nelson at East View last Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. A. D. Leckie had as her guests for the week end her sister and a friend from Greenville. She also had a visit from her father last week.

It had been hoped to have the usual song service at the Congregational church next Sunday night, but it has been postponed on account of so much sickness in the community.

Christian Endeavor met Sunday evening. The subject was "Learning to Love as Christ Loved." Miss Kathryn Dick was the leader. Mr. R. M. Dickson furnished the special music.

Rev. Th. M. Bakke will conduct Nerwegian Services at the Lutheran Church, Thorsby, next Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors for the help and kindness shown us during the illness and death of our son, John, age ten years. Especially do we thank Dr. Wood for his untiring services. We also want to express our thanks for the beautiful floral offerings.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taylor, Clanton, Ala.

The clock on the mantel struck one.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed. "Is it really that late? It's time I was going."

"Oh, yes, it's been that late for some time," she replied, yawning wearily.

Buy Stearn's Pine Tar and Honey for coughs and colds, at Moore's.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Harton of Montgomery spent last week end with friends in Clanton.

Dr. V. J. Gragg was sick the first of this week with flu.

Reed Mullins of Jumbo, president of Peoples Telephone Co., was in Clanton Tuesday. Mr. Mullins urges all rural phone holders to pay their central fees and thereby help to keep the telephone service going this year.

I wish to say that I will handle Armour's Big Crop High Analysis Fertilizers and Soda and other fertilizer material, and will make deliveries at Clanton and Thorsby, and will appreciate your business.—J. N. DENNIS. 1-17-2t-ch

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

If the weather will permit, there will be singing at Friendship church next Sunday afternoon. This is the usual time for the monthly singing at this place. The preaching days have been changed during the winter months, but the singing will be held on the regular time.

All singers over the county are invited to come out and help in the singing. Bring your new books, both Showalter and Stamps.

Rev. A. L. Foshee, the pastor, preached a very fine sermon here at 11 o'clock Sunday, following Sunday school. Rev. Foshee seems to be very pleasing to the people as pastor at Friendship; everybody who have heard him go away feeling elevated by having heard his discourse.

Rev. J. S. Hand was a visitor Sunday, and all were glad to have him. Rev. Hand is always welcome at Friendship.

OPERATIONS INCREASING AT CLANTON COTTON MILL

The scope of operations at the Clanton unit of Alabama Mills Company is increasing daily with the constant addition of more workers. The machines are being filled as rapidly as possible. Within the next few weeks it is expected to have everything lined up for a full force to begin turning out the finished product of the mill.

It was stated some time ago that it would require 100 bales of cotton to stock the mill for full operation. We understand that about fifty bales have been put in up to this time.

Mr. A. M. Grimsley of Fayette was in Clanton attending to business the first of this week.

"HERE COMES ARABELLA"—HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM FRIDAY NIGHT, JANUARY 25

In the play, "Here Comes Arabella," to be staged at the high school auditorium Friday night, promises to be one of the best attractions ever presented in Clanton. This is one of Wayne P. Sewell's most elaborate productions, and a contract is now being entered into to have it produced on Broadway. You will, therefore, not only avail yourself of the opportunity of seeing a splendid entertainment, but contribute to a civic movement, and encourage some of the best local talent in our community. Beautiful girls and latest costumes lends spice and interest every minute. Change of costumes for every act. Don't fail to come.

VETERAN PASSES

George W. Green, 87, Dies at Confederate Soldiers Home

Mountain Creek, Ala., Jan. 19.—The death this week of George W. Green, 87, diminished again the fast-sinking ranks of Confederate veterans. Mr. Green died at the Confederate Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek, and was buried there Wednesday.

The veteran enlisted with the Montgomery Grays at the beginning of the War Between the States and fought throughout that struggle. He was born in Montgomery and widely known in the section before going to Mountain Creek.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Katie Caulking and Mrs. Alice Pritchett, of New Orleans; a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren and relatives throughout Alabama.

Drainage Project being Pushed by Citizens and State Engineer

Engineer Here Last Week From The State Department of Agriculture

ALL LANDOWNERS BENEFITTED TO BE ASSESSED ACCORDINGLY

No time is being lost in the initial formation of the drainage proposition fo rthe swamp area around Clanton. Captain Fulton Pace, engineer in charge of the drainage projects for the State Department of Agriculture and Industries at Montgomery, was in Clanton last week and made a complete examination of the conditions around Clanton and the possibility of relieving these conditions.

Temporary boundaries for the drainage district have been formed by Captain Pace and the citizens here. This district, with Clanton as about the central point, embraces nineteen sections of land. Walnut Creek and the three tributaries that run together to make this creek are proposed being dredged. The boundary line gets some of Rev. A. L. Foshee's land on Goose Pond Creek and everything below there; it takes in Dr. Hinkle on Poly Bridge Creek, and Dudley Collins on Black Snake Creek. The district follows down these three creeks and into Walnut Creek and down same to about the Dake old mill place. The total area embraced is 12,160 acres. Of course these boundaries will very likely be changed as the project takes on better form, but some starting point had to be established, so this area is that decided upon on which to base the first steps of the project. More property may be taken in later and possibly some that is included will be left out.

Capt. Pace has been traversing the area from its origin west of Clanton, on Goose Pond, Poly Bridge and Walnut Creeks and finds there are no unsurmountable obstacles to afford relief for Clanton and this region. He also made a survey of soils and found them fertile and able to grow profitable crops, but a large part was not now in a productive condition due to wetness and poor drainage.

Answers Questions

At a luncheon of the Kiwanis Club Capt. Pace answered questions on the drainage project. Kiwanians have been active in helping get passage of the constitutional amendment, providing drainage, and sponsored the drainage movement.

C. E. Stapp, county agent and club president, is known for his enthusiasm in farm and drainage matters as are W. L. Popwell, Omar Reynolds and J. N. Dennis, president, of Chilton County Farm Bureau, also Percy Pitts, representative and many other residents.

At the Kiwanis Club Capt. Pace said:

"In accordance with the request by your citizens, I have discovered some very interesting facts relative to drainage here. Clanton is located on deep sandy soils, but about three miles eastward the Piedmont formations come in with their hard rocks of granite and quartz. These rocks are so hard that they do not allow the streams to cut deep channels rapidly and thus your three creeks are unable to lower themselves by forming a channel deep enough to drain off excess waters.

Dynamite Channel

"Your project seems to lie in dynamiting a channel deep enough to carry off excess waters and then in straightening these creeks to drain the suburban lands around Clanton. There are no natural obstacles which cannot be overcome, although these granite rocks are the hardest in the world and are a serious factor to consider.

"I must especially commend a large number of your citizens who have assisted me in various ways, especially Messrs. Fox, Sheriff Collins, Mr. Pitts and your county agent, Mr. Stapp, as well as others. This Kiwanis Club especially has lived up to the traditions of Kiwanians in backing this project which is so certain to be of benefit in many ways to Chilton County and Clanton."

Speakers said the drainage project would relieve Clanton of a mosquito menace of years standing, that it would release some of the most valuable lands in Chilton County for cultivation, and give Clanton a chance for expansion.

Surrounded By Streams

Clanton is surrounded by streams and has three swamps. It is impossible for industries and residential districts to expand unless relief is first obtained from overflow waters. Drainage is the first vital step in territorial expansion and in obtaining freedom from mosquitoes. With this relief as a basis, Clanton residents feel they have a fine location and climate which will attract certain classes of manufacturers.

Clanton is 25 miles from coal mines, with low freight rates, 13 miles from Lock No. 12, and 18 miles from Mitchell Dam, all owned by Alabama Power Company. With respect to basic advantages, the Kiwanis Club feels this city needs but to first get drainage and then start a campaign to expand. They feel that owing to forms of basic power advantages and its cheapness, that it is a matter of time before industry will find it of economic advantage to settle here.

The Petition

The following petition is being circulated this week among the owners of land that will be affected. Already several signatures have been procured; 51 er cent of the landowners are required to sign the petition before the project can be worked. It is a certainty that more than this number will be had before this week is over. This is the wording of the petition which is arranged by the State Department of Agriculture:

To the Honorable Probate Court of Chilton County, State of Alabama:

We, the undersigned, in accordance with Section 495 of the Agricultural Code of the State of Alabama, adopted by Act No. 339, approved August 24th, 1927, hereby petition this Honorable Court for the organization of a drainage district within the land hereeinafter described, lying and being situated within Chilton County, Alabama, containing land that is subject to overflow or too wet for cultivation or other use, and that the public benefit or utility, or the public health, convenience or welfare will be promoted by drainage, ditching or leveeing the same, or by changing or improving the natural water courses, or by the installation of tile systems, pumping plants, tide gates, or some other drainage or flood control.

We hereby allege that we constitute a majority of the land owners owning more than one third of the land in the district proposed to be drained, or constitute at least one third of the persons owning more than one half of the land in acreage in a contigious body of wet, swamp, or overflow land, or land subject to overflow in the proposed district.

The Way the Project Works

Probably our readers will be interested in knowing something of how the drainage business works. Well, it is something like this: The petition bearing the signatures of owners of as much as 50 per cent of the land in the proposed district is submitted to the Probate Judge. The judge then issues an order appointing an engineer who must be approved by the State Commissioner of Agriculture. This engineer makes a survey of the district and establishes boundary lines. A drainage organization with a president or chairman and other officers will be formed and incorporated as a municipal corporation, which organization will function all during the work and attend to all business of the project.

A Board of Reviews will be selected by this organization, whose duty it shall be, together with the engineer, to make assessments against the property according to the increase in value which is brought about by the drainage of the swamps. Assessments will be made not only upon property actually bordering the swamps but even out a mile or two where health conditions are made better, in the minds of the Board of Reviews. The assessments are made on the sliding scale, according as the benefits are to the landowners. After these assessments are made, property owners will be permitted to file objections and come before the board and show reasons, if any, why their assessments are unjust. The Board will pass upon their claims and change the assessments or hold them as originally made.

There will be some expense in the formation of the primary work including the first survey; this expense will be defrayed by an assessment of 50c an acre against the land embodied in the district.

After the drainage is put into actual work and the assessments made against each landowner, such landowner will have the privilege of paying off the assessment in full, or he ma ymake the payments yearly, extended over a period of twenty years.

Bonds will be floated by the corporation to take care of the deferred payments of those who do not prefer to pay it all at once.

Eight pretty chorus girls with music in their feet and songs in their throats will entertain in "Here Comes Arabella," at high school auditorium Friday night.

NEGRO CUT IN FROG LEVEL LAST SUNDAY EVENING

Two negro men got into a cutting affray about sundown last Sunday evening out in the west section of Clanton called Frog Level. Wyatt Deramus sustained a nasty knife wound across his back and side about the belt. He was attended by a physician who took ten stitches on the wound. The negro inflicting the wound was said to be George Caver who lives at Lock 12. The cutting took place a short distance from Deramus's home.

DEATH OF A LOVING WIFE AND MOTHER

Mrs. Mary Mims, wife of Mr. Charlie Mims, died at her home near Pleasant Grove, age 45. She left a husband and two children and three sisters and six brothers to mourn her going. She was laid to rest at Pleasant Grove cemetery where she had been a consecrated member for quite a number of years. She died from an attack of flu which developed into pneumonia. Everything was done to restore her that human hands could have done, but God saw best to call her home.

Rev. F. A. Gibson and Rev. Metcalf conducted the funeral. They spoke words of comfort and cheer. We wish to express our sincere appreciation to the good people and friends for their kindness and service rendered during her illness and death. We also thank Dr. Arthur Johnson and Mr. Martin for their kind service. May God bless the balance of the family and cheer their way for them.—The Family.

SPEED COPS WILL ASSUME DUTIES ON FEBRUARY FIRST

McAdory Will Put Highway Men in Uniform

State motorcycle policemen will begin their duties February 1, Walter K. McAdory, chief of the state law enforcement bureau, who was authorized by Governor Bibb Graves recently to designate some of his men for this duty, stated Monday that he had not yet selected them, but that he would do so in time for them to begin the first day of February. As soon as a permanent force has been selected uniforms will be procured for them.

HILL'S THREE-CAN SALE CONTINUED THRU SATURDAY

Mr. McEathern, local manager for Hill Grocery Company, says that his annual 3-can sale has proven so beneficial that same has been extended through next Saturday, so as to give more people benefit of the reduced prices. Mr. McEathern says that now is the time for all good women to stock their pantries with canned goods.

Paper Concern buys Acreage in Baldwin

30,000 Acres of Land Bought in Baldwin County by Firm

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 17.—Purchase of 30,000 acres of land in Baldwin County, Alabama, by the International Paper company, which is erecting a $5,000,000 paper mill in Mobile was reported here today. The land, which will be used by the paper company for reforestation, was bought from the Southern States Lumber company, of Pensacola, Fla.

The Baldwin county tract, it was reported, will be used by the paper company in a proposed vast system of reforestation to assure a sufficient supply of timber in future years. Timber on the land at present, which is small and too young for use in the manufacture of paper, will be protected, while thousands of other seedlings of pine will be planted under the reforestation plan and probably will be available for use in 20 years.

The International Paper company has in its employ a group of reforestation experts and the work of reforestation will be undertaken by them in the near future, it was understood. They also will be invited to a meeting of naval stores operators of southern Alabama and western Florida next month, when reforestation will be fully discussed.

ANDREW MELLON WILL HOLD JOB IN HOOVER'S CABINET

Coolidge's Successor Is Ready For Florida Trip With Tentative Slate

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—President-elect Hoover left for Florida Monday with a cabinet slate tentatively made up that includes five members of the Coolidge administration, three of them now cabinet members and the other two high administrative officials.

The three cabinet officers who are expected to be retained are: Secretary of Treasury Mellon; Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and Secretary of Navy Wilbur.

Those expected to be elevated 'n departments in which they now hold high positions are: Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan to be attorney general and Julius S. Klein, now head of the foreign and domestic bureau of the Commerce Department, to be secretary of commerce.

Hoover's selection for secretary of interior is his old friend, Louis S. Cates, of Salt Lake City, Utah, an engineer and now manager of the Utah Consolidated Copper Company. He has received wide endorsement in the West. Cates would accept the position at a financial sacrifice, but it is believed he will consent to be "drafted" for the government.

All three of the Coolidge hold-over cabinet officers will remain in the cabinet only temporarily, Mellon until he completes his ambition to serve 10 years as the head of the Treasury Department, thus establishing a record; Jardine, during the enactment of Hoover's farm relief program, with which he is in thorough sympathy, and Wilbur until there is a vacancy on the federal bench. He formerly served on the California Supreme Court.

SMITH AND HOOVER PLAN FLORIDA VISIT

Miami, Fla., Jan. 19.—Two Florida cities Saturday night prepared welcoming ceremonies for the principals in the last presidential election, both of whom will arrive in the state for vacations on consecutive days next week.

Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York and the defeated Democratic nominee for the presidency, comes to the state on Wednesday for an extended stay.

IN MEMORY OF W. H. FOSHEE

On Friday afternoon, January 11, death in its cold icy wave, wafted away the life of W. H. Foshee. He had been in ill health about thirteen months. During his illness all that loving hands and tender hearts could do to comfort him was done, but when the summons of death came we stood in silent wonder at the peaceful passing of his gentle spirit quietly as the closing of a beautiful summer day he slept.

Oh! how they all miss him. No one can ever take his place. His death has cast a shadow of sorrow over his home community and caused an irreparable loss.

May God help us all to live so as to meet him some day where there will be no more parting. For God, in all His wisdom called him from us, so we must be submissive to him that doeth all things well. He maketh no mistake.

Mr. W. H. Foshee was one of the old and respected citizens of Chilton County, being 75 years of age. He spent his life in the community where he died. He leaves six children, five girls and one boy, and a host of friends to mourn his loss. Brother J. L. Hand, the pastor, officiated at the funeral services. The remains were laid to rest in Mt. Carmel cemetery on Saturday, January 12th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to await the resurrection morn.

We miss him, Oh, we miss him
For our Saviour called him away,
But we are praying to meet him
In a better world some day.

No more on earth we'll see his face;
His voice we'll hear no more;
But let us live to meet him
On that bright, happy shore.

We loved you, yes, we loved you,
But Jesus loved you more,
And He sweetly called you
To yonder shining shore.

We miss his kindness, his willing hand
His fond and honest care.
How dark is life around us;
What is home without him there?

The Golden gates were opened,
A gentle voice said come,
And with farewells misspoken,
He calmly entered home.

TOMORROW MORNING

Surprise them with 'cakes and syrup!

LONG about this season of the year nothing seems to taste quite so good at breakfast time as pancakes and syrup. Try them in the morning and see your family enjoy a real treat.

And remember, even the best 'cakes taste better with Staley's Maple Flavored Syrup. It has that real maple flavor that can't be imitated!

For this syrup is made with real Canadian maple . . . blended in a special way with pure corn syrup.

No other syrup takes the true maple flavor so well, because pure corn syrup itself is neutral in taste. But blended in these exact proportions and at certain temperatures, it adds a smoothness and delicacy not to be found in other syrups. Note, too, how clear this syrup is, as the result of extra care in its making.

Other real flavors . . .

Your family will also enjoy Staley's Honey Flavored and Sorghum Flavored Syrup. No artificial flavors are used in them. Only real honey, made by bees . . . and the best quality of pure sorghum.

These syrups are more healthful, too! They contain 40% dextrose and maltose . . . practically pre-digested sugars . . . wholesome sources of quick energy!

Ask for these Staley's Syrups at your grocer's today! And be sure that you get Staley's. No other kind can give their matchless flavors at such a big saving.

Lesson for January 27

THE HOLY SPIRIT

LESSON TEXT—John 16:7-11; Romans 8:12-17, 26, 27.

GOLDEN TEXT—For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Unseen Helper.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Unseen Helper.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How the Holy Spirit Helps Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Work of the Holy Spirit.

I. The Personality of the Spirit (John 16:7, 8).

Personality is here implied by the use of the personal pronoun. In the original Scriptures personal pronouns are used uniformly in speaking of the Spirit. Then, too, He is called the Comforter. The word "comforter" literally means one called to stand by the side of another as a helper, counsellor and guide. While Jesus sojourned in the world He was such to His disciples. He assured them that upon His withdrawal the Holy Spirit would take His place as friend, helper and counsellor. The personality of the Spirit is also proved by the fact that He performs acts only possible to persons. In John 14:26 He performs the function of a teacher. He not only teaches, but He speaks as a person, giving direction to the disciples as in Acts 8:29 and 13:2. His personality is again proved by the fact that men act toward Him as they could act only toward a person. In Isaiah 63:10 the prophet declared that men vexed the Holy Spirit. It would be manifestly improper to speak of vexing an influence; only a person can be vexed. In Matthew 12:31 Jesus speaks of men blaspheming against the Holy Spirit. It would be impossible to blaspheme against an influence. In Ephesians 4:30 Paul speaks of grieving the Spirit. Again, it would be manifestly improper to speak of grieving an influence. Further, in I Corinthians 12:11 Paul speaks of the Holy Spirit exercising the function of will. One of the essential characteristics of personality is that of volition. The Holy Spirit is represented as divine. He has the attributes of deity. In Psalm 139:7-9 He is declared to be omnipresent; in I Corinthians 2:9-11 omniscient. He also performs the works of God. He is the creator and renewer (Ps. 104:30). He is called God in Acts 5:3-4, and II Corinthians 3:18.

II. How Believers are Related to the Holy Spirit. They are regenerated by Him (John 3:5-8); they are indwelt by Him (I Cor. 6:19 Gal. 4:6). He also fills (Eph. 5:18 and Acts 4:31). To be filled with the Holy Spirit is the duty of every believer. No one has the right to perform any work for Christ without this filling (Luke 24:48,49; Acts 1:8). Even the temporalities of the church should be in the hands of Spirit-filled men (Acts 6:1-3).

III. What the Holy Spirit Does (John 16:8-11).

1. Convicts the world of sin (v. 8).

The one awful sin of the world is unbelief. The Holy Spirit convicts the people of the world of their error concerning sin and shows their guilt before God.

2. He convicts the world of righteousness (v. 10).

The resurrection and ascension of Christ prove that He is the Righteous One, and that righteousness is only possible as He is accepted as Savior.

3. He convinces the world of judgment.

To be convinced of the reality of judgment is the crying need of the world today. Sin unatoned for shall be punished. The sinner who refuses the righteousness which God provided in Jesus Christ also shall be judged.

4. The Spirit mortifies the deeds of the flesh (Rom. 8:12, 13).

The only way to get the victory over our carnal natures is to give the place of rulership to the Holy Spirit.

5. He leads the believer (v. 14).

The Spirit-filled believer lives the life of the Son of God.

6. He gives assurance to the believer (Rom. 8:15-17).

7. He enables the believer to pray according to the will of God (Rom. 8:26, 27).

While the believer does not know how to pray as he ought, the Holy Spirit helpeth his infirmity. All prayer which the Holy Spirit indites the Heavenly Father answers.

WEST CHILTON

Flu is plentiful here.

Mr. E. G. Cofer has been very sick with flu ever since the holidays. We hope for his recovery.

Mrs. Henry Thacker of Free Springs was buried at Union Springs cemetery a few days ago. She is survived by her husband and children.

Mrs. Alice Glass died in Bessemer a few days ago. She was buried near her old home at Macedonia cemetery in the presence of a large gathering of her friends and relatives. She was married to Jeff Glass in 1883. Her husband preceded her to the grave several years ago. She leaves many friends and relatives to mourn her departure. She was a Christian lady. We hope for her eternal life in the great beyond. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby.

The Aviation Beacon light at Randolph is now in operation and visible for many miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Robie Crumpton of Free Springs visited relatives here Saturday.

Mrs. Ben Glass of Maplesville was buried at Macedonia some days ago. She leaves a husband and children. She was a daughter of Rev. G. W. Freeman of Randolph.

We are sure there is a farm problem. Yet, the long talked of Farm Relief lingers in Congress. Everything seems ready for action, still it is waiting.

Miss Fannie Smitherman, daughter of Jasper Smitherman, of Pleasant Grove, died Sunday morning very suddenly. Burial was at Pleasant Grove Monday. Also a young Mr. Rasberry of Jemison was buried there Monday.

MISS SUSIE FLEMING

Miss Susie Fleming died at her home in Birmingham on January 4. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming formerly of Randolph.

Early in life she became an invalid and was thereby forced to live a shut-in life. But the record she leaves is bright—a record of saintship—a record that indicates that she is one of the Jewel Class.

True, her loved ones will miss her presence, and the dark cloud of loneliness will hang over them, "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." She sleeps in death, but will live again.

Her remains were laid away in Macedonia cemetery January 6. The floral offerings were beautiful.

She is survived by her parents, brother and sister. Hope points to her as one who will sing the new song in the sweet bye and bye.

How to Raise Poultry

SAVE THE SOREHEADS

Simple Measures Applied Early May Ward off Disaster from Chicken Pox

"Go to bed with the chickens? Most certainly not!" exclaimed a well known radio entertainer in mock indignation. "No, indeed, I'd never be able to sleep on those sticks the way they do." For more reasons than one, I am inclined to sympathize with this gentleman's point of view. Nevertheless, I firmly believe that, short of literally going to bed with them, the man who comes nearest to living with his chickens is going to get the greatest profit out of them. He will do so because he knows his flock both individually and collectively. The slightest change in their habits or appearance will immediately attract his attention and if disease threatens he is able to nip it in the bud long before it reaches the danger point.

Of course, not every one can give full time to the care of his fowls, nor is it altogether necessary. There are certain times every day when they must receive attention for feeding and the like. Then, scan each fowl as closely as possible and single out for closer examination any that show the slightest signs of possible disease. One particularly malignant disease which may crop up at any time, more especially in the fall of the year, is chicken pox or sorehead. A this disease may be carried by mosquitoes, your flock may become infected no matter how careful you have been to keep your own houses, yards and runs in a sanitary, healthful condition.

A number of eruptions or nodules, varying from the size of a pinhead to that of a pea or hazelnut, appear on the comb, wattles, eyelids, ear lobes, beak and nostrils and sometimes on other parts of the body, such as the neck, legs, under the wings, on the rump and about the vent. On the body the nodules may become larger than on the head. The nodules begin as small, red or reddish gray deposits with a shiny surface. They gradually enlarge, becoming dry, shriveled, uneven and wartlike in appearance, while the color changes to yellow, brown or dark brown. As these nodules increase in number and the inflammation extends, large areas of the skin will become thickened and covered with hard, dry crusts, closing the nasal openings and eyelids, often making it difficult to open the beak.

If the attack is mild the eruptions are limited to the head, the nodules are distinct and small and the general health is not affected. The noduls seem dry, heal and shrink, the crusts become loose and recovery is rapid. But in malignant cases the cruption is more general, the nodules are large and there is considerable inflammation and thickening of large areas of skin. When the crusts are rubbed off there will be a watery discharge from the ulcerated surfaces, which will later thicken, become thick and yellow and will give off a disagrecable odor. In this type of the disease there is fever, rapid loss of flesh, prostration and death.

At the very first sign of this disease give the whole flock large doses of epsom salts, once each week for two or three weeks at least. Mix one pound of epsom salts in a small tempting wet mash feed for each one hundred leghorns, or one pound for each 75 of the heavier breeds. For half-grown stock give one-half the amount. Put the mash out in long troughs so they can all get to it and eat it up in a few minutes. If wet mash feed is not being given, the epsom salts can be put in the drinking water, but in a wet mash it is much more effective. Remove all affected fowls to a separate location well removed from the oultry flock. Then make a thorough clean-up of all houses, coops and feeding equipment.

Clean and disinfect all hoppers, troughs and drinking fountains, roosts, dropping boards and other removable equipment. Remove and burn all litter and droppings. Finally, make a strong solution of some good coal tar dip and disinfectant and spray it into every nook and cranny where mosquitoes, parasites or disease germs might find a hiding place. If possible, always change clothing and shoes before going from infected fowls to healthy ones.

Give each of the affected fowls from one-half to one teaspoonful of epsom salts and repeat the dose two or three days later if there is no improvement. A local application is also very healthful with a small swab or feather, apply a good dip and disinfectant or itncture of iodine to each of the sores, crust and nodules after removing the scales. The disinfectant should be used full strength so be careful not to let it get in the eyes. Also apply once each day or two some reliable sore-head remedy. A good poultry prescription tonic in large doses will be found very beneficial at this time. Careful following out of this treatment should give highly gratifying results if started soon enough.

In the fall about the time chicken pox usually appears in your locality, I advise giving all young fowls and in many cases older ones too, large doses of epsom salts once a week for three or four weeks. Give same amount of epsom salts and in the same way as recommended above. I also advise extra precautions in cleaning and disinfecting at this time. All houses and sleeping quarters should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected every week or ten days for some time. The disinfectant should be forced into all dark corners and hidnig places of mosquitoes and other insects with a good force pump. I have been using this treatment for reventing chicken pox for several years with excellent results. If my chickens do take the disease at all, it is usually in a very mild form.

Vaccination with a specially prepared vaccine is being used with varying results in some localities. The question is whether the disease is serious enough to jusitfy the trouble and expense even it it was effective.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

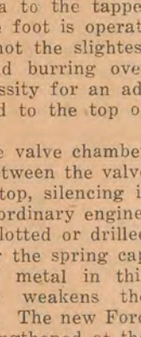
IMPROVED VALVES ARE USED ON THE NEW MODEL A FORD

The design and construction of the valves are among the most important elements of modern automobile engineering and manufacture.

The designers of the New Model A Ford gave special attention to these factors and the result of their design and manufacturing specifications is a valve which is remarkable for its durability, close fitting and resistance to the oxidizing or scaling effects of hot gases.

The valves in the Model A Ford are made of carbon chrmoe nickel alloy. They are first die-cast and then ground with remarkable accuracy to the desired sized. The stems have mushroom ends to give larger wearing surfaces and quieter action where they come into contact with the push rods. The carbon chrome nickel alloy metal of which they are made is particualrly resistant to wear and to the scaling effects of the hot gases which the valves must endure in their normal performance.

The Ford valve terminates in a cone over which slips a retainer, horse-shoe shaped, which holds the spring in place. As the cone head presents a large area to the tappet top, and as the valve foot is operating in oil, there is not the slightest risk of the valve-end burring over and there is no necessity for an adjustment to be fitted to the top of the tappet.



The oil bath in the valve chamber provides a cushion between the valve foot and the tappet top, silencing it effectively. On the ordinary engine, the valve is either allotted or drilled to take the cotter for the spring cap and the removal of metal in this process considerably weakens the valve at a vital point. The new Ford valve actually is strengthened at the foot. This is considered the greatest single advance in valve design that has yet been made in the internal combustion engine. It has produced almost everlasting, trouble-proof, one piece valves.

The Ford camshaft also has been specially designed to function for smooth, quiet performance of the valves. The Model A cams are so designed as to permit the push rods to take up the clearance easily and not impart a blow to the valves, thus tending to quiet operation. The cams are wide-faced to give long life and are shaped to insure silent operations of the valves.

A San Francisco woman, playing poker the other evening held three royal flushes within forty-five minutes. If that had happened in Washington it would have warranted a Senate investigation.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by O. B. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

LIVESTOCK SPECIALIST TO BE HERE SATURDAY

F. W. Burns, livestock specialist from Auburn, will be here Saturday to confer with Mr. Stapp and the Vocational teachers and other interested farmers relative to a continuous dairying program in the county.

This move is being taken to try to stimulate dairying in the county with the view of eventually placing the dairying interest here where it should be in our farming program.

A meeting will be held at Mr. Stapp's office at 1 p. m. with Mr. Burns as speaker and all farmers interested in selling cream are urged to attend.

At 2 p. m. Saturday the officers and directors of the Farm Bureau will have a called meeting to attend to some unfinished business carried over from the last meeting.

Mr. Stapp announces the following engagements for the week of the 28th:

Monday, January 28th, terracing demonstration at D. T. Melton's of Mt. Pleasant community.

Wednesday, January 30th, orchard work at Sam Easterling's, of Refuge community.

FIVE ACRE CORN CLUB IS BEING ORGANIZED

In face of the fact that the average yield of corn reported by Club boys last year was 36 bushels per acre against 17.7 bushels per acre reported by 80 adult farmers, it has been suggested by Mr. J. N. Dennis and others that we organize a five-acre club with adult farmers this year and try to pull our general average up.

It has been suggested that the rules of the contest be as follows:

1. Each member put in five acres, or multiples of five, that is, if one farmer wants to put in more than five acres, that he be allowed to put in as many five-acre plots as he desires.

2. That each member plant the same variety of corn as near as is practical, namely, Whatley's prolific.

3. That each member pay $1.00 for each five acre plot at time he enters contest, the total of which collected to be divided into three prizes and awarded to the three members whose reports grade highest points on the following basis:

Yield, 25 points;
Summer legume, 5 points;
Cost per bushel, 70 points.

4. Each member keep accurate records of labor, fertilizer and yield. Record blanks and complete instructions will be furnished by County Agent.

Among those who have already indicated interest in the contest are the following:

Since prohibition domestic consumption of hops has fallen off 90 per cent, according to press dispatches from the Pacific Coast where hops are grown.

From December, 1916, to December, 1926, farmers' mutual insurance companies in the United States increased in numbers from 1883 to 1911 and the business increased from six billion dollars to ten billion dollars.

A chemist at the Iowa State College, Ames, said that flax straw promises to furnish much raw product for the manufacture of paper but that to date paper from timber is a "bit cheaper" and this explains why flax straw is not used.

Arizona's Colorado River Commission has authorized suit in the United States Supreme Court in an attempt to prevent construction of the Boulder Dam as provided in the Swing-Johnson law recently enacted by Congress. The governor of Utah has recommended that his state take no immediate action on ratification of the Colorado River pact.

American foreign trade for 1928 attained the highest level ever recorded except for 1920. The Department of Commerce reported the year's exports at $5,129,132,000, which compared with imports of $4,089,930,000 and left a balance of trade favorable to the United States of $1,039,202,000.

CLUB BOY EXCEEDS 2 BALES PER ACRE

Athens, Ala., Jan. 21.—By making more than two bales of cotton per acre as a 4-H club member, Thomas Bottoms, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bottoms of this county, has established an unusually high record in the production of cotton. The actual weight he gathered from one acre was 3,034 pounds of seed cotton which ginned 1,177 pounds of lint, or 177 pounds more than two bales of 500 pounds each.

Young Bottoms did his work under the direction of County Agent Fred Stewart, who has been succeeded by J. T. Belue. His father is a progressive farmer and gave him all the assistance he could.

He attributes much of his success to the kind and amount of fertilizer he used. His report showed that he mixed his fertilizer at home, applying 400 pounds of superphosphate, 200 pounds of Chilean nitrate of soda, and 50 pounds of muriate of potash, this being the "Auburn" mixture for this county. All of his fertilizer with the exception of three-fourths of the nitrate of soda was applied when he planted the seed. As recommended by his county agent three-fourths of his nitrate of soda was applied immediately after chopping.

Thomas used the Bottoms prolific variety of cotton which was originated some years ago by his father who has practiced systematic selection and development each year.

The total value of his crop was $217.56. His cost of production was $52.24, or 4.43c per pound. This left him a net profit of $165.26 on his acre. The cost includes land rent, fertilizer, seed, labor, and other things necessary in making cotton.

HOME WORKERS DID BIG WORK IN 1928

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 21.—A total of 18,326 farm women and girls in 41 counties in Alabama were engaged in 4-H club work under the direction of county home demonstration agents in 1928, according to the annual report prepared by Miss Helen Johnston, Auburn, state leader of home demonstration work. Of this number 8,111 were women and 10,215 were girls. Miss Johnston said that thousands of others not enrolled in organied clubs benefitted by the work.

Miss Johnston's report contains a summary of the work for each of the major projects and also general statistics. It reveals that during the year the 41 county home demonstration agents held 11,352 meetings with an attendance of 257,229. They visited 7,281 different homes 12,382 times.

A total of 51,795 letters were written and 46,281 bulletins were distributed. Telephone calls totaled 12,275; office calls, 19,737. During the year 1,720 news articles were written for local newspapers.

These figures indicate general activities of the county home agents who spent two-thirds of their time out in the counties and one-third in their offices.

In each division of the work 1928 was the banner year, Miss Johnston reported. She explained that in enrollment, in lines of work, in achievements, in interest, and in effectiveness 1928 was the best year of home demonstration work Alabama has had. She expects bigger achievements in 1929 for the work is well established and continues to gain in favor and in appreciation.

THE TREASURY RECORD

Figures made public by the Treasury Department at Washington recently set out that the gross total of Uncle Sam's public debt on December 31, 1928, was $17,309,749,135, which was a decrease of $726,603,315 during the year. It was stated further that cash in the general fund on the same date amounted to $269,543,968.46 as against $272,342,801.10 one year ago, and that the part of this money not needed to meet current expenses would be applied to reducing the public debt still further.

These figures give us a little sample of the government's financial housekeeping as conducted by Secretary Mellon and his assistants. A reduction of nearly three quarters of a billion dollars on the public debt in one year is certainly not a bad record. And in addition to reducing the debt in this staggering sum there was on hand for household expenses at the end of the year more than a quarter of a billion dollars, some of which, when the running expenses of the government were met, could be used to reduce Uncle Sam's debt still further.

Every year we have a report along this same line, showing a record for economy and business efficiency which has rarely been equaled anywhere if at all in the history of the world. There has been a steady reduction of the debt from the beginning of Secretary Mellon's administration of the treasury and at the same time federal tax rates have been reduced from time to time as the circufstances warranted. Secretary Mellon is hanging up a record that will stand out for a long time to come.

SITTING PRETTY

Reminds us of the "Liars Contest" we witnessed two years ago. The winner of the contest took the prize for seeing "Flying sardines sitting on a mountain playing Poker." Growing Children sometimes require a tonic as do their elders ★

GIVE your child the right chance to develop, and you will not regret it in later years.

Many children become undernourished due to lack of appetite. Keep the appetite keen. Food nourishes the body and makes it grow.

Also watch Nature's warning for changes in the system. Skin troubles—pimples, boils and that sallow complexion—all foretell a body weakness.

In such cases, S.S.S. is the proper tonic. It improves the appetite; helps Nature build rich, red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

In building rich, red blood cells, S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping children and their elders regain strength and vitality.

Children like S.S.S. It is made from fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

★ The physical welfare of the child is being given more attention by school authorities. Failure to keep up with class work and absence from school is probably due to a nervousness and rundown condition that may be largely attributed to a deficiency in red blood cells.

ROBINSON MACHINE SHOP TO HAVE NEW HOME IN CLANTON

Plans are being made by Doctor Robinson and his son, Alonza Robinson, for the erection of a new and permanent home for the Robinson Machine Shop in Clanton. For this purpose they have bought the place now occupied by the James Sign Shop on Third Avenue.

Alonza Robinson of Wetumpka was here this week. When asked for a statement about their plans for the future, Mr. Robinson said:

"I will come back to Clanton to live some time this spring. We do not know just when we will begin work on our new building. We are not in any big hurry about it; but expect to have the new plant completed and occupied by next winter."

Robinson Machine Shop is one of the most useful small industries of its kind in this community. In fact it is the only one which caters to its class of trade. Doctor Robinson is the originator of the business. His son has been with him at different times, but for the past two years has been in Wetumpka with the Wade Ice Plant.

I wish to say that I will handle Armour's Big Crop High Analysis Fertilizers and Soda and other fertilizer material, and will make deliveries at Clanton and Thorsby, and will appreciate your business.—J. N. DENNIS. 1-17-2t-ch

HOME BEAUTY HAS CASH VALUE

"The lack of flowers, grass, roses and shrubbery around most farm houses in the South is the most depressing fact of our farm life. We need to 'brighten up' things around our farm homes," said H. G. Hastings, of Atlanta, recognized agricultural authority and president of the Georgia Association, an organization working for the better development of farm conditions and the bringing in of desirable settlers from other states.

"One of the greatest obstacles we have in our work of getting new settlers located in Georgia is the lack of any attempt to beautify the home surroundings by our own people. Weather-beaten, unpainted houses, front and side yards bare of flowers, grass, shrubbery, roses and shade trees give a black eye to the farm or community.

"Not only rural Georgia but the entire rural South needs the biggest kind of a 'Clean Up, Plant Up, Paint Up' campaign. Go down almost any country road in Georgia or other sister states and hardly one house in ten shows any attempt towards beautifying the home surroundings.

"This is not right. This is not fair to wife, mother or daughter. This is not fair to the boys growing up. Bare, unattractive home surroundings just naturally encourage the women folks to want to pick up and move to town. The boys have no pride in a home with unsightly, unattractive surroundings.

"Further, attractive home surroundings add real cash value to the place. Without attractive home surroundings, almost any farm is unsalable at anywhere near its value. Well-planted-up, attractive places often sell far beyond their real value. Once made attractive, the owner is usually so proud of it that desire to sell ceases.

"Making homes and home surroundings attractive in either country or town is not expensive. Not necessary to do it all at once. Make a start with beds of easily-grown flowers, add a few roses, flowering shrubs and vines each year; put in a grass plot or small lawn, and almost before one knows it you will have home surroundings so beautiful and attractive that it is the talk of the whole neighborhood.

"Clean up, plant up, and, if you can afford it, paint up in 1929."

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager)

There will be preaching services at the Swedish Lutheran church at Thorsby by Rev. Th. M. Bakke, next Sunday at 10:45 a. m. His subject will be: "The Binding Authority of the Word of God."

The epidemic of flu in and about Thorsby seems to be subsiding. Mr. and Mrs. George Mims are both still in bed, but most of the sufferers are getting around again, though several are still weak and wobbly.

Thorsby has a really new enterprise, started the past week. Mr. James Walker has opened in the Martin Building what he calls Thorsby Electric Shoe Repair Company. He says they do all kinds of repairs on shoes in an up-to-date fashion. We extend a welcome to Mr. Walker and his machines, and are hopeful they will fill a long felt want among our people.

Mrs. C. E. Lucas gave a birthday party Saturday afternoon, January 10th, honoring Mrs. Mina Thurston, a sister of Mrs. Lucas.

The Baptist Woman's Missionary Society held their annual meeting Monday afternoon, January 21, for business and election of officers for the ensuing year. There was also a special program on the subject: "Ye are not your own; Ye are bought with a price." The new pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, was present and gave a very interesting talk.

The Baptist Young Peoles Union held an interesting meeting at the usual hour last Sunday night, and the Y. W. A. will meet Tuesday, January 29, at the public school building.

Rev. J. W. Jones opened his pastorate of Thorsby and Jemison Baptist churches last Sunday by preaching morning and evening at the Thorsby church, each time to a full house.

On Wednesday night of this week the usual monthly union prayer meeting of Thorsby will be held at 7 p. m. at the Baptist church.

The annual meeting of the Congregational Ladies Aid Society will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday, January 25, for regular business and the election of officers for the ensuing year. At this meeting there will also be arrangements made for the usual dinner given by the ladies in connection with the annual meeting of the church society to be held on Wednesday evening, January 30th.

Mrs. J. E. Each, Mrs. Carl C. Petersen, Mrs. A. D. Leckie, Mrs. Norton and her sister, Mrs. Payne, spent Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each had as dinner guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton and Mrs. W. C. Payne.

The Jones Drug Company have failed in business and their store is closed. Nobody who knows how the business was (not) conducted is at all surprised.

The Thompson Brothers, Hugh and Dudley, have set up a saw mill near their gin, and it is now in operation.

Miss Helen C. Jenkins, who has spent the past month in New England, returned to Thorsby last Saturday.

Mr. C. R. Foss made a trip to Montgomery last Friday.

Miss Ruth Gerald returned to Birmingham last Sunday after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

Miss Pearl Carlson was a week end visitor in Birmingham.

Mrs. Davidson of Chicago returned home last Friday after spending a week with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. Amundsen.

Mr. Roland Morgan spent Saturday and Sunday in Birmingham.

Through the generosity of Miss Ada Stearns of Hartford, Conn., the library is rejoicing in the possession of a number of new books. Among them are Tappan's "When Knights Were Bold," Robert's "Kindred of the Wild," Moses, "Louisa May Alcott," Seton's, "Wild Animals I Have Known," Page's "Two Little Confederates," Quirks, "Boy Scouts of Black Eagle Patrol," DeFoe's, "Robinson Crusoe," Ahler's, "Inspiring Lives," and Putnam's, "David Goes to Greenland."

There are also four magazines that have been added to our shelves this year: The Nature Magazine, Popular Mechanics, Collier National Weekly, and Capper's Farmer. This makes the number of periodicals coming regularly to the library thirty. All of these the public is welcome, either to read in the library or take home for two weeks at a time.

Saturday evening, January 19, the boarding girls and lady teachers were delightfully entertained at a party given by the boarding boys and men teachers. After interesting games were played, refreshments were served.

Semester examinations will be held Thursday and Friday, January 24th and 25th. Students who made a semester average of 95 and above in any subject were exempt from the examination in that subject. There were twenty-one exemptions in all which are as follows:

Lois Hughes, American History; Lois Hughes, Biology; Lois Hughes, Business Arithmetic; Ruth Champion, Algebra; Ruth Champion, American History; John VanDerveer, American History; John VanDerveer, Bible; Eunice Williamson, Ancient History; Eunice Williamson, Health Work for Girls; Beatrice Kirkland, Bookkeeping; Beatrice Kirkland, Typewriting; Gertrude Steiner, Bookkeeping; Gertrude Steiner, Typewriting; Byron Bean, Ancient History; Hazel Maddox, Algebra; Clinton Arthur, Bookkepping; Lloyd Howard, Bookkepping; Aubrey Taylor, Typewriting; Addie Surles, Typewriting; Louise Gibbons, Latin; Lota Mae Hayes, Typewriting.

The second semester begins Monday, January 28th. If any are planning to enter then, they ought to see the Regrstrar, Mr. Maddox, at once.

There will be a Music Recital by Miss Kathryn Dick's pupils at the Institute Auditorium a week from Saturday night, February 2nd, at 7:30. Everyone is invited. No admission is charged.

There is an opportunity for a few music students to enroll either in Voice or Piano the next semester.

The Community Choral Club will hold its first meeting since the Christmas vacation on Tuesday night, January 29, at 7:30, at the Dining Hall. All the members are urged to come, and if there are others who would like to join they will be gladly welcomed. The membership fee is 50c.

RED MEN PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

The installation of new officers of Waxahatchie Tribe will take place at the hall next Tuesday night. All members are urged to come. This work has already been delayed some weeks on account of so much sickness. It is very necessary that it be done next meeting and a full attendance of the membership is requested for the occasion.

Huge bargain sale of laughs, thrills, heart throbs, and button bursters, all for the price of a ticket to "Here Comes Arabella," Friday night. Children 25c, adults 50c, and reserve seats, 75c.

Reuben Foss of Thorsby was in Clanton the first of this week looking after business interests.

Mr. Shelby R. Barnes of Stanton was here the first of this week serving on the grand jury of Circuit Court.

ENROLLMENT FOR C. M. T. C. WILL BEGIN IN NEAR FUTURE

Enrollment of candidates for train- in the Citizens Military Training Camps of the Fourth Corps Area will begin soon. The editor of The Union-Banner has received matter for release in regard to this training, and more information will be given out in the near future.

"Editor Union-Banner:

"As part of our National Defense Plan, enacted by Congress, the War Department is charged annually with conducting Citizens' Military Training Camps for the young men of our country.

"With the growth in popularity of these camps since their inception, the number of applicants last year greatly exceeded the number of students who could be accommodated under the available appropriations. Our problem, therefore, is not so much one of procurement as it is placing the knowledge of this opportunity before every eligible youth and their parents, in the State of Alabama, so as to explain the purposes, requirements, and advantages in a manner that will be readily understood and in such a way as to insure everybody an equal chance for enrollment before the authorized quota is exceeded.

"It is felt this can best be done through the patriotic cooperation of the press and for that reason I am personally writing you and asking for your assistance. Press releases will be mailed from this office to the C. M. T. C. County Representative or his assistant before dates for release, and they will call on the Editors of local papers, unless the Editors prefer this office to deal direct with them."

As explained above, this training is given every year to a number of young men, expense paid, by the U-S. Government, and is valuable to the trainees in many ways.

The quota for Chilton County for 1929 is only eight trainees. Last year there were five at Camp McClellan, near Anniston, who went from Chilton County. Those who attended last year were Jesse Sam Gowan, Lee Roy Mims, Paul C. Mims, Horace Miller, from Clanton; and Carl Baker, from Verbena. As all these are expecting to return to camp this year for higher training, there will be only three applications from Chilton County which will finally receive admission to camp. Watch the columns of the County papers in the near future for information as to the correct procedure to gain admission if you wish to become a trainee this year. If interested, when the County representative is named, write to him for information as to the knowledge and advantages to be gained in camp.

Museum Speciall for Working Men and Women

Charts in brilliant colors and models which can be operated by levers or switches are exhibited in the Government Museum of Economics and Social Subjects, recently established in Dusseldorf, in the heart of the industrial region of Germany. The museum is intended to meet the everyday demands for knowledge of working men and women, and the fact that exhibits are portable adds to the flexibility of growth and to the use of the collections. Exhibits are so placed and charts so colored that the facts presented can be obtained almost at a glance. In the department of transportation the development of speed from the sailing vessel to the airplane is illustrated by models of the Santa Maria, the Sarannah, the Great Western, the Mauretania, and the Bremen, which can be propelled at comparative speeds across a miniature Atlantic.—School Life.

A KIPLING IDOL SMASHED

The thousands who have for years enjoyed Kipling's "Mandalay" will learn with dismay that it is full of geographical errors, says the Living Age. It is a learned German who reveals the dreadful fact in the Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung—none other than Doctor Fritz-Noetling, formerly attached to the geological survey in India. "How," he inquires, "can a Burma maid sit in Mandalay by the old Moulmein Pagoda, looking eastward to the sea? Quite aside from the fact that Mandalay is not on the sea, the Burma maid, if she could make out the sea at all, would have to look west, and not east." It is also impossible to see the dawn coming up like thunder out of China across the bay of Bengal, which is the only body of water available. Moreover, as a matter of cold zoology, nobody has even seen flying fishes play along the way to Mandalay. Nor are flying fishes known to come up the Irrawaddy river. Having thus devastated the unfortunate bard of empire, whose local color has always been one of his strong points, our geologist condescendingly admits that "in spite of all these blunders, this little poem has a wonderful poetic charm." There seems to be a moral about geological meddlings with poetry concealed somewhere in the incident.

America may hold the record for the number of divorces, but this record will not be much augmented by the rural population. Life on a farm is a business partnership between husband and wife, whereas in the city the home and business are separate. Finally, there is the bond of children, says the Country Gentleman. They are more closely associated with the parents than city children and the bonds are closer. These are not easy to break. These, however, are all material reasons. Back of them are the old folk ways founded upon religion and untold centuries of human experience, that has proved to the race that hasty marriages and hasty divorces are social evils. Country people live closer to the eternal verities than do people in crowded cities. They retain a keener sense of moral values and they are more deeply steeped in the old and proved virtues. Fundamentally they are religious and live closer to God. They still look upon birth, marriage and death as sacraments, and to them divorce, except for grave cause, is odious.

Ne'er was a girl's face her fortune more certainly than in the movies—and a man's as well. Nor is beauty the only recommendation. A speaking countenance, if it speak at all, commands the admiration of the moving picture director. He it is who determines whether you look like a banker, a doctor, a Lucrezia Borgia or a Javert (in Les Miserables), and whether you feel flattered by this classification or not, into the proper pigeon hole you go—if you would serve in the movies—to be plucked when the play demands it. Inconsistent as the picture plot often is, have you noticed that the characters are not—with a few rare exceptions of miscasting. Your doctor always looks the doctor, your nurse the nurse, your misanthrope the misanthrope, your optimist the optimist. Readers of character in the physiognomy are not so rare. They make good movie directors. It is, indeed, the first essential in their art.

President Coolidge in a recent speech said: "Strange as it may seem, the American people, bred for many generations to forest life, drawing no small measure of their wealth from the forests, have not yet acquired the sense of timber as a crop. Immense stretches of cut-over land, mostly too rough or too sterile for tilling, have not awakened us to their vast potential worth as growers of wood. Fully one-fourth of our land area ought to be kept in forest—not poor, dwindling thickets of scrub, but forests of trees fit for bridges and houses and ships."

All off-color manifestations of life in the making and in the marring are of a piece. It is the effervescence of human nature in evil eruption, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune. Of that there can be no denial. But it isn't any worse than it ever has been. It is only different in its methods of manifestation. On the other hand, there are many changes for the better, many evidences of progress. In the main we go forward. That is Mr. Depew's philosophy, observance and experience.

South American Teachers Will Visit Germany

To enable a young woman to become a graduate nurse and to graduate from high school, both within five years, a cooperative arrangement has been made between the city school board of Cheyenne, Wyo., the division of vocational education, and the Cheyenne Memorial Hospital. Under this arrangement a girl who has completed two years in high school is allowed to enter the nurse-training course of the hospital. She will receive five units of credit for satisfactory school and laboratory work done in the hospital, and she returns each day to school for one period of regular high school work. —School Life.

THANKS FROM DR. GRAGG

Dr. V. J. Gragg is out again after an illness of ten days with flu. In a statement Wednesday morning he said:

"By the time this week's paper is in the hands of the people of the county I expect to be able to get back to my practice. I wish to express to my friends my appreciation for the many calls for my services while sick and at the same time to say that I regret that I was unable to reach them."

High-School Credit For Nurse Training

At the invitation of the German Government, German universities and schools, a number of teachers and professors will go to that country for investigations of various kinds. A boat is being chartered by the Argentine professors, and an invitation has been extended to the teachers and professors of Paraguay to join them. The trip will consume four months and expenses are to be paid personally, although a low rate has been quoted for the entire period, including all expenses of whatevr nature. It is possibl that a few from here will join the Argentinians.—George L. Kreeck, American Minister, Asuncion, Paraguay.

MRS. R. M. RAWLINSON CLEARED $1,700 ON POULTRY

Wetumpka, Ala., Jan. 23.—From November 1, 1927 to November 1, 1928, Mrs. R. M. Rawlinson, who lives at Millbrook in Elmore County, cleared $1,700 on her poultry, according to a report sent by her to Mrs. Clare Livingston, home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Rawlinson has been in the poultry business for several years. She estimates the value of her equipment and stock at $3,000. She is very practical in all that she does; and this explains the handosme profits received by her last year.

"I attribute my success," said Mrs. Rawlinson, "largely to record keeping, securing and keeping only the best stock, starting in a small way and going slowly and entirely on a cash basis; and also to the poultry department of Auburn, especially to Mr. G. A. Trollope nad Mrs. Livingston, our home demonstration agent." —P. O. Davis.

CLANTON'S OPPORTUNITY

Another golden opportunity is in the midst of Clanton's reach. Will she grasp it or will she let it slip by? We have in mind the possibility of getting our swamps drained.

Only one amendment out of six were ratified by the voters of Alabama in the last general election, and that was the drainage amendment. This, within itself is proof that there is something good about the thing. The Kiwanis Club of Clanton was instrumental in getting Chilton County to vote for the amendment, and they started the ball to rolling in getting this section of the county to make use of the state drainage law which was passed last November. Other citizens have become interested, and the proposition is rapidly taking on workable form.

We cannot afford to let the matter lag, but we must push it while the pushing may be effective. People out in the edge of these swamps know how menacing the mosquitoes are and how sickly these mud holes get when the creeks get about half dried up. It has been sheer luck that has kept Clanton and the surrounding territory from suffering some bad epidemic of fever from these mosquitoes and the filth that is permitted to lie in these swamps every fall. If malaria or yellow fever mosquitoes should ever begin to breed around here all that could save us would be to move out of reach of them, and then we might wait too late for that to do any good.

What we must do is to get these swamps drained while the opportunity is ours.

We have nothing to do with the assessment against the property in this disrict, but we believe that something should be assessed against every foot of land within the corporate limits of Clanton, and that the people away out on the edges should be included in the district. It will not be right for the people who own land right on the creeks to have to bear all the expense, but everyone who gets even the least benefit should be required to pay for the value he receives. Our people will gladly do it if the district is formed in such a way as to give them the opportunity, and we believe that the intention of the law is to include all such property in the district.

KEEPING THE PEACE

"The permanent peace of the world," wrote the historian, John Fiske, "can be secured only through the gradual concentration of preponderant of military strength in the hands of the most pacific nations."

History bears this out. The turbulent nations of Europe have been repeatedly restrained from war by the pressure of strong powers acting as policemen. At the close of the Civil war, France withdrew from Mexico solely because, when the United States asked her to withdraw, this country was the most powerful nation on earth. Documents made public since the war show that Germany would have joined heartily in the peace efforts of early July, 1914, if she had known that England would side with the Entente, and England's influence depended on her being the world's leading naval power.

An armed policeman is a much more effective officer in subduing an incipient riot than a policeman without a gun.

An American with an adequate cruiser force would be far more influential in making effective the multilateral treaty renouncing war than an America unarmed.—Kansas City Times.

Here is something for the pacifists to ponder over with care. The United States is the least war-minded of the nations because we are already prosperous, have plenty of room for our population and plenty for them to do. A strong American navy is therefore a better guarantee for peace than a navy or an army for that matter, in the emloy of some nation which is overcrowded, which has no room for expansion and which in addition, back of it, a thousand years of war hates and of military traditions. The pacifists, in attempting to defeat the fifteen cruiser bill are not working for peace. They are working rather for a war in which the United States may be a victim because it will not have the legitimate means of defense. Lack of armament never saved any nation or made it a shining example for peace. If you think this statement is not true, study the history of China for the past thirty years.

Some of our ardent free traders might exercise their intellects by figuring up just how many foreign markets like Lithuania and Jugo-Slavia it would take to make a market as big as the one we possess in the United States.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by FRANK P. LITSCHERT

We were told during the World War that we were fighting for two noble purposes, first to end all future wars and second to establish universal democracy in all of the countries of the world. No one will seriously deny that the American people as a whole were moved by the two noble purposes and that these were not carried out can be laid to post-war developments.

That they have not been carried out is evidenced by the facts. The nations of Europe do not believe that war has ended for all time to come. If they believed so there would not be now so much feverish preparation for war, nor so much mutual distrust and jealousy. Nor has universal democracy been established in spite of the tremendous sacrifices made in men and money. As a matter of fact, instead of adopting democracy Europe seems, in many instances to have veered toward autocracy. Germany of course has a new republican form of government which seems to be functioning pretty well under natural and inevitable handicaps. But in some of the other countries the situation is different. For there are now a half a dozen nations in Europe ruled by dictators. The sixth one, Jugo-Slavia, took on its dictator just a few days ago. The list is an imposing one, Italy, Russia, Spain, Palond, Greece and Jugo-Slavia.

It would seem therefore that the coming of universal democracy in Europe is not yet at hand. The revolution in Russia, heralded as bringing in the brotherhood of man has resulted in one of the real tyrannic governments in the history of the world, in which opposition to the government and free speech are not tolerated. In Italy, Mussolini took charge when it seemed that the country was slipping into commuism, and dictators took over the reins of government in Poland, Greece and Spain to stop what threatened to be civil war or a dissolution of the government. And now Jugo-Slavia, the latest in the family of autocrats, was compelled to adopt the dictator form to save itself from serious trouble. In this latter country a serious difference has broken out between the Serbs who had their own government in 1914 and the Croats who were under the authority of the Austrian Empire at the beginning of the war. The two nations have apparently been unable to get along under one government. They speak the same language but are of different faiths, the Croats being Roman Catholic and the Serbs, Greek Orthodox in religion.

Their political history and their present political differences are too complicated to be detailed here. Suffice it to say that they form only another angle to the complicated European political puzzle. In America where we have forty-eight states all under the same governmnt, with free trade and a free exchange of ideas among all, it is difficult for us to understand all this. But we can understand that with so many vexing problems in the political situation in Europe it is better for us to stay out of the muddle so far as possible and to attend to our own business.

For troubles are not in Jugo-Slavia alone. They can be found all over Europe and they are apt to start a real conflagration whenever any of the larger nations can see any advantage in such conglagration. France and Italy are vitally interested in the fate of Jugo-Slavia and each is struggling for the upper hand in that part of the Balkans.

But there are other sore spots, too. Germany and Poland are still at odds over the Polish corridor. Lithuania and Poland have not adjusted their difference. Neither have Russia and Rumania, and there is friction, too, between the latter country and Hungary. Germany wants to annex Austria, too, and Italy and France, at odds on most questions, are agreed that this must not be done.

In short, the picture is not an alluring one from the standpoint of international harmony, and above all hovers the red cloud of Russian communism, plotting all the time to undermine the governments of the other nations of the world. When we take all these things into consideration there is little wonder that the average American wants his government to be sure of its step before it enters into any engagements with Europe.

Brother Bryan's Bible Story

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

SPIRITUAL SONGS

I have been thinking I would talk to you about spiritual songs, Christ and the Holy Spirit as it is taught in these songs. Paul writes in Colossians 5:16, "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms, hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord."

That is the only place these words occur in the Bible. This inspired letter from heaven, it seems strange to think, was first written to the churches which Paul had established. He was telling them to sing in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, but that was his Christian life and example before them. I have been studying the book of Psalms, the inspired prayer book of God's people.

Of course some of those psalms are peace psalms, some of them are experimental and some of them are penitential psalms. Some of them are distinctively and positively Messianic. Then we can say that book is filled with missionary psalms. There are some psalms which are prayers. We read a psalm of the Messiah in the 22nd psalm. Go home and read it. I am reading it every day and have resolved to read it every day this year. This is the Holiest of Holiest of all chapters in the Bible.

It is not a singing psalm as some of the other psalms which people sometimes sing, but it is a psalm of prayer by David to God. The experience of the writer of these psalms is clearly expressed in the words, "I cry unto Thee, O God, praying to the Lord." I knew a woman who stood and watched her daughter placed in her sleeping tomb and praised God with words of gratitude. Truly she was living a life of praise and gratitude to God, however, some people classed her as crazy. She had more gratitude to God than you and I have.

Christ wants us to sing unto Him in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs with grace in our hearts to the Lord. There is something about that verse I am not to say because I can not express it all. I guess God thought some people would sing without spirituality. The first hymn I am going to call your attention to is one that I have sung more than any other. You know when you sent me away I went to Oxford. There I visited the prayer room of Whitfield and Wesley. This may be the need of today.

I tell you truly America is about to develop into a race of prayerless peoples. We need something to make us think seriously of our lives in God's service and to pray more. After Wesley attended Oxford University he went back to his prayer room one day and wrote the words of this song: "Jesus lover of my soul, Let me to Thy bosom fly. While the nearer waters roll, while the tempest still is high. Hide me. O, my Saviour, hide, Till the storms of life be past. Safe into the haven guide, O receive my soul at last."

Dr. Gay knows of what I am telling you. There was a Scotchman who immigrated to this country. He had lived in several cities here and was at the time of this incident living in Chicago. He meant to send his wife and one of their daughters back to Scotland and the Holy Land. The ship on which they embarked was struck by an iceberg and among those who were lost was the daughter. It seems that some one picked up the mother. She went back to her husband and little daughter at home with her father. This man wrote the hymn:

"When peace like a river attendeth my way, when clouds like great sea billows roll. Whatever my lot, Thous hast taught me to say, Even so, It is well with my soul."

That is not all of it. When you sent me to Jerusalem I visited a place which is called the American colony right near the temple area. I met this husband and a little later he introduced me to his wife. She invited us to visit them. This we did and before we left she sang that hymn which her husband had written after her daughter had met a watery grave.

"When peace like a river attendeth my way, When clouds like great sea billows roll. Whatever my lot, Thou has taught me to say, Even so, it is well, it is well with my soul." I can never forget it. She also sang three or four other hymns. We sang some of the hymns of Moody and Sankey's book. Among them was that favorite, "Stand up for Jesus."

There was an episcopal rector in a small Philadelphia church. Like all ministers of small churches he was going out to visit the people over the country. He was struck by another traveling friend and his buggy turned over with him. He was picked up in a suffering condition and taken to a nearby hospital. The internes of the hospital and the nurse thought he was doing very well. One of his friends visited him. He reached out his hand and said, "I feel like before sun-set I will be with Christ and if that be the case, I want to tell my brethren to stand up for Jesus as soldiers of the cross. Lift high His royal banner for it must not suffer loss. This was the inspiration for this wonderful hymn. I think of it every day.

Fanny Crosby the great hymn writer was not blind at first. After she was saved, like all who are saved the things she once loved she did not love. She loved spiritual things and wrote of them. She wanted an education but was a poor girl. Some rich man sent this girl to school. She sat right down and wrote the hymn: "Pass me not, O gentle Saviour, Hear my humble cry. While on others Thou art calling, Do not pass me by." Sometime after that the baby of one of her friends died and she wrote the words of the hymn, "Safe in the arms of Jesus, safe on His gentle breast."

Dr. John Mott had the spirit of Christ so uppermost in his heart and life he asked the people of his church to receive in the church any man, woman or child of credible character, regardless of how aristicratic or how poverty stricken they might be. They did not do this and it killed this doctor. He died of a broken heart. In his lifetime he often spoke of Fanny Crosby's hymn: "Safe in the arms of Jesus, safe on His gentle breast," as comforting more mothers and grandmothers who had been torn from their own children and grandchildren by death than any other hymn ever written.

I read this hymn often. No doubt when she wrote that hymn she had in her mind the verse in Isaiah, the Lamb of God shall come and gather the lambs with His arms and carry them in His bosom and shall gently lead those who are with young. O, how awful it is for any man to say that any baby born of a woman does not go to dwell safely in the bosom of Jesus.

We often sing and old hymn which Zwinglei always used the picture of a man falling overboard into a river. Did you ever read how that song, "Throw out the life line," came to us. I was given a little clipping of the history of that hymn. It told of a boat on the Mississippi River springing a leak and becoming full of water. The English captain said to them, "Throw out the life line." Somebody got hold of those words and wrote the hymn.

There is something about psalms and hymns and spiritual songs I confess it has impressed me very much since I came back from study in those foreign countries of the Holy Land. I wish to tell you about the history of another. Andrew Bomar, a Scottish preacher, was so dependent upon God that he went early on Sunday mornings and spent the whole time in prayer. Wilbur Chapman, another man who humbly bowed his head in prayer each Sunday morning continuously. Bomar always used these words in his prayer, "Lord, help me." One day Chapman wrote a hymn and put music to it: "From every stormy wind that blows, from ever every swelling tide that flows where there is a calm. There is a place where spirits blend; Where friends hold fellowship with man.

There is the hymn, "My faith looks up to Thee, Thou Lamb of Calvary, Saviour Divine." The man who wrote that song certainly lived close to Christ He must have felt that full trust and faith in God. There is the song which John Wright a London preacher, wrote. It breaks my heart to hear it. I am not criticising the writer. This song, "Abide with me, fast falls the eventide. The darkness deepens, Lord abide with me." O, my friends, how particular we ought to be to have Christ our Lord ABIDING with us.

Our pioneer ancestors endured a lot of hardships, but they never had to sit in a cold rain and watch a football game.—Indianapolis Star.

The old Puritan who trusted in the Lord and kept his powder dry has been succeeded by the modern pacifist who trusts in Russia and wants to make our own defenses all wet.

CAPITOL News

The theory prevailing in some quarters that alcoholic beverages are good for the "flu" has received a jolt from the State Health Department, which recently promulgated nine rules for keeping well during the influenza epidemic and four rules for preventing serious illness. One of the regulations warns against alcohol and other stimulants.

Evidence of the heavy toll which the epidemic is taking was shown for the second week of January, just compiled at the State Health Department. For the week, returns from local registrars covering 36 per cent of the State's population showed 321 deaths from influenza and 246 deaths from pneumonia, a total of 567. Assuming that deaths in the rest of the State were at the same rate, the total for the entire State would be 850. The average number of deaths in the entire State for the second week of the year for the last four years has been 32 from influenza and 92 from pneumonia, total 124. From this it will be seen that the deaths for the second week of this year have been more than six times the average. Reports so far received indicate an increase of 61 per cent in deaths for the second week of the present month over the first week of the month. Number of cases of influenza reported increased from 18,373 for the first week of the year to 19,987 for the second week. While it is believed that the influenza epidemic has now passed its peak, so far as number of cases is concerned, the increase in number of deaths is attributed to pneumonia getting in its deadly work on the heels of the "flu."

The Capitol has been hard hit by the epidemic and many of the State officials and employees have been on the sick list. Returns received at the Health Department to date indicate that the epidemic has been more serious in counties north of Montgomery than in those South of the Capitol.

The rules laid down by the State Department to keep off influenza, and to keep off serious illness, are as follows:

1. Securing adequate sleep and rest (eight to ten hours' sleep every night with windows open, but under enough covering to keep warm).

2. Eating a moderate, mixed diet and partaking freely at regular periods of pure water (six or eight glasses daily).

3. Wearing clothing to suit the enviroment, particularly clothing which prevents chilling of the body surfaces and which keeps the body dry.

4. Avoiding people with colds, especially, those who are sneezing or coughing. There is more danger from contact with those just beginning to feel sick than from those ill enough to be confined to bed.

5. Keeping out of crowds as far as possible, especially crowds in closed places.

6. Avoiding the use of common towels, wash basins, glasses, eating utensils, and toilet articles.

7. Washing the hands thoroughly before eating.

8. Avoiding the use of so-called preventatives. Vaccines, sera and advertised preventatives seem to be of no value and may be harmful in this disease.

9. Avoiding alcohol and stimulants of all sorts.

To Prevent Serious Illness

I. If you have a cold, feel badly, or are feverish, go to bed at once, cover up warmly and have the windows open; send for a physician and follow his instructions.

2. Do not take any so-called cures, there is no specific cure for this disease.

3. If you cannot get a doctor, remain in bed, eat a simple diet, take plenty of fluids, such as water, fruit juices, milk, bullion, hot soups, at frequent intervals. Use a mild cathartic, if needed.

4. Remember the most important measure of preventing pneumonia or other serious complications is to remain in bed until all symptoms have disappeared, and then, under the physician's advice, to return very gradually to your usual activities, being sure to rest before you get tired.

Recommendations for a number of changes in the law of the State were made by Attorney General Charlie C. McCall, in his biennial report, for the period from October 1, 1926, through September 30, 1928. The Attorney General recommended that the State Law Enforcement Department as such be abolished and its work be merged with the Attorney General's office in a State Department of Justice. Repeal of the advisory opinion act, under which the Supreme Court furnishes advisory opinons to the Governer without going through the procedure of a litigated case was also edvocated. Another recommendation was the repeal of the law giving rewards to officers of the law in prohibition cases. Mr. McCall held that there is no good reason for the State paying a reward in a liquor case, when there is no such statutory reward provided for the apprehension of robbers, murderers, burglars and other law violators. The present system of rewards in prohibition cases has resulted in "one-sided" law enforcement in Alabama, the Attorney General asserted. Other recommendations in the report included prohibiting the practice of persons receiving fees for aid in seeking clemency in cases before the pardon board; stronger laws to stamp out houses of ill-fame; a law to provide for confiscation of slot machines and gambling devices; and more forceful laws in the matter of imposing sentences on second offenders against the prohibition laws. On this latter point, the Attorney General said that in Montgomery County there are many persons who have been repeatedly convicted for violating prohibition laws, but have never received the heavier punishment provided in the present law for second offenders.

The report scored local officials as being responsible for the large number of cases brought in circuit courts in which convictions are not secured. The report showed that in the two-year period there were 16,348 criminal cases disposed of in the circuit courts of the State, of which 1,587 resulted in acquittal, 4,782 were nol prossed, and 677 abated or withdrawn, or a total of 7,046 cases in which there was no conviction. The Attorney General said that this condition is due to "lack of proper attention to duty on the part of local prosecuting officials, and that the officers entrusted with the duty of issuing warrants have been careless in not ascertaining if there was probable cause before issuance of warrants for arrest. "It was also charged that peace officers in making arrests have in many cases been careless in ascertaining whether the evidence against the party arrested was sufficient. The preomisuous issuance of warrants and bringing people into court without sufficient evidence costs the state many thousands of dollars and creates disrespect for law, the Attorney General declared.

The report showed that during the two years the Attorney General's office handled 1,140 appealed cases before the court of appeals and the supreme court, of which 700 were affirmed, 215 dismissed and 225 reversed. The total number of cases handled on appeal was the largest in the history of the State, while the percentage of reversals was the smallest on record except in 1915-1916.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the people of New Cedron and Macedonia for the many deeds of kindness and assistance which they rendered during the illness, death and burial of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Traywick, who died on January 2nd, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Cox, near Billingsley.

Everything was done for her that loyal friends and relatives could do, but she had fallen a victim to the flu and it was more than her frail body of 87 years could endure. God's will must be done, not ours.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cox and Children, Mrs. J. T. Traywick and family.

DINNERTIME SPOT NEWS FOR FARMERS

Daily spot news delivered with his dinner, will be the good fortune of Alabama farmers within a few days, according to news from the Alabama Department of Agriculture and Industries at Montgomery, which announces the early opening of their radio studio in their offices at the Capitol.

It has long been known that spot news on cotton especially, was the great "missing link" in Alabama agriculture. Farmers are entitled to as good market advantages as any class of persons and the radio will soon daily bring this message direct.

According to J. M. Moore, in charge of markets, the market service will consist of the following features:

The U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington collects from all parts of the United States daily market conditions. These facts are assembled at Washington and telegraphed direct to Montgomery over a special leased wire. into the State Department of Agriculture offices.

These reports will be edited and arranged by the Department and broadcast daily between noon and 1 o'clock.

BAD CUTTING LOSSES MAY EQUAL FIRE DAMAGE

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 21.—Improper harvesting of timber may equal, if not exceed, the losses sustained by Alabama landowners thru forest fires, says the State Commission of Forestry. This is somewhat at variance with the popular supposition that fire is practically the only enemy of the forest. However, investigations by the Commission indicate that the timber owner himself may be his own worst enemy in forestry matters.

In most cases a timber crop in Alabama represents very slight investment on the part of the landowner. When it is sufficiently grown to attract the attention of a buyer the owner is apt to sll at almost any price, since the amount received is practically all profit. As a result, much immature timber is being sold or worked for turpentine. In all cases, it is well for the owner to consider how much greater the profit will be if he allows the timber to grow for another five or ten years before sellign. With the passage of time, there is more timber on the tract, it is of better quality and the prevailing stumpage price per thousand feet is apt to be considerably higher.

In some parts of the state the conditions as to premature cutting are very bad, indeed. In such localities timber is practically never permitted to reach its full value. Landowners often can benefit themselves in a financial way by refraining from dumping their young growth on the market at the first opportunity. It is often alleged by buyers that if the sale is not made at once there will not be another opportunity. This is generally entirely incorrect, and the holding of young timber until its financial maturity is usually strictly feasible, points out the Commission.

WHAT DOES THE CHURCH HOUSE SAY?

By Prof. J. H. Chapman, of Howard College

A friend of fine sensibilities was driving with the writer a few weeks ago. As we passed a group of palatial country homes the conversation turned to the types of architecture. Pointing out one house that gave evidence of large cost I inquired, "What is your impression of this place?" "Why," came the answer as in surprise, "it does not say anything."

The greatest church building program in the history of American Christianity has gone forward this past decade. Southern Baptists have been prominent in this activity. As one views these buildings he is impressed with the fact that they have been erected at great cost, and often by congregations to whom the expenditure meant a distinct sacrifice. But, one asks, has the money been spent to best advantage? Does the church house say anything?

It is distressing enough to see individuals put large sums of money into houses that are inarticulate, but it is heart-rending to see congregations empty their coffers into a church building that is dumb. A home should reflect the personality of the owner, his tastes, his culture, his position perhaps. But a church should reflect not only the tastes and the culture of the people, but the character of the people, and the character of the faith to which they have committed their lives. Every passer-by should be able to read their poem in brick and stone. The church house speaks loudly to him who has ears to hear.

The church house should say, "THIS IS GOD'S HOUSE." It is not a bank, nor a barn, a mansion nor a movie house, a library nor a laboratory, a furnace nor a factory. It is a temple for the worship of God, and for the edification of His people. As such it is more than a long room with high walls. Unless its sweep is upward it does not suggest one who is "high and lifted up." Unless its construction speaks strength it does not suggest Him who is able to lift the load of the world. Unless its lines are harmonious it does not suggest the beauty of His holiness. Unless its spaciousness inspire a sense of inclusiveness it does not preach the idea of Him whose embrace includes all nations. Why be content with an auditorium when we can build a temple?

The church house should say, MY FAITH IS TRANSCENDANT." My faith rises above the world. It is spirit, and it is truth. The combination of lines and proportions should tend to stir the emotions. Sometimes they depress. Somehow they must translate space into spirit. They must translate ruggedness and massiveness into confidence in the eternal reality and permanence of soul. Arches and angles, and windows should speak of individuality in religion, and suggest release to imprisoned souls. God's vast domain as the home of the soul is but worked out in the picture in his building of stone.

The church house should say, "ENTER HERE AND WORSHIP." So cordial should be the invitation that men cannot pass by, so direct that they are unaware of the means of going in, so enticing that they will associate their entrance with reverent emotion. Unless the steps are just wide enough they will not be cordial. If they are too wide they suggest an exaggerated cordiality which lacks in sincerity. Unless the doors are in the center of the building, and reached by direct steps the effect of the invitation is lost, for the visitor is then confused in the maze of getting in. A sealed front cannot be atoned for by double steps leading to side entrances. A central front door into the basement misses the opportunity to entice one by gentle gestures into the sanctuary of the Most High. Unless the invitation to come in and worship, so cordial and so direct on the outside, is met by correct depth and height and finish on the inside, there will result a profound disappointment in the soul of the worshiper. The church will be cold and unspiritual, if not altogether uninviting. If the conditions are met men and women will "love to steal away from every cumbering care," and spend an hour in prayer "where none but God can hear."

TWO CLANTON PEOPLE GET UNIVERSITY DEGREES

The largest mid-year graduating class ever to present itself for degrees was graduated from the University of Alabama Saturday night when president Geo. H. Denny awarded 50 diplomas. Of this number, 3 were granted post-graduate degrees. Dr. W. B. Saffold, professor of History and Latin, delivered the commencement address.

Miss Molla Payne Tabb and Mr. Raymond C. Smith, both of Clanton, were members of the graduating class. Miss Tabb received an A. B. Degree. and Mr. Smith an L. L. B. Degree.

The course in public health and preventive medicine, announced recently by the State Health Board and the School of Medicine of the University of Alabama, will hold it first meeting on Monday, January 21, Dr. Douglas L. Cannon, acting State Health Officer, has announced. The first lecture will be given by Dr. Cannon, and will treat of public health administration.

This course will meet every Monday until late May, it was stated, and all physicians in the state are offered this course free of charge. It will be conducted by the State Board of Health and prominent physicians in the state. Control of malaria, food inspection, water supply, and many other important phases of public health will be discussed.

The course will be held in Nott Hall of the School of Medicine on the University campus, it has been announced.

Power Development and the Farmer

THE ALABAMA FARMER is directly interested in the development and utilization of power, for power is the key to industrial development, and industiral development is of vital importance to agricultural prosperity.

An average of 3.41 horsepower of electricity is employed by each worker in America, according to the U. S. Census of Manufactures, 1925.

An industry in Alabama with 100 workers must have approximately 325 horsepower of electricity to turn its wheels.

Every time 3¼ horsepower of additional electric power is utilized by a new or existing enterprise in Alabama, a new job is created, paying wages with which to buy products from the farmer, and others.

An average of 40c out of every $1 of family income in Huntsville, Ala., is expended for food products, according to statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor. Thirty cents out of every dollar goes for foods that are or could be grown in Alabama.

Thus power development means new payrolls, and new payrolls mean new markets for farm products.

It is therefore in the direct interest of the Alabama farmer that such power be made available as Alabama may need for its continued industrialization.

Pensacola
"In The Hill Country of The Gulf Coast"

Pensacola is a port where two trunk line railroads meet the deep water of the Gulf. It is the closest major U. S. port to the Panama Canal and to the Pacific Coast of North America, South America, and Asiatic ports. Steamers to major ports of the world exchange export and import freight here with the railroads which serve the Central West, North, and East by direct main line connections.

Pensacola is closer than any other Gulf port to all principal points in the Southeast, to practically all points on the Ohio River and points north, in Central Freight Assn. territory.

Combined rail and water distance from 12 of the principal shipping points in the Central West to 14 principal world ports is shortest through Pensacola in comparison with through distances via the principal Gulf, South Atlantic, and North Atlantic ports.

More than 100 industrial plants located here manufacture 175 different commodities from raw materials largely of local origin. Parsons, Klapp, Brinckerhoff & Douglas, New York engineers, recommend establishment in Pensacola of 32 additional key industries. These are discussed in detail in a survey made by this organization.

Fertile lands in back country offer advantages to fruit growers, truck, poultry, dairy, stock, and standard crop farmers.

Year 'round climate, modern schools, churches, parks, and other civic considerations make Pensacola one of the country's most attractive home cities.

METHODIST CHURCH
ERNEST A. CHILDS, Pastor

We are glad to note an increase in attendance on the Sunday School last Sunday over the Sunday before. But now that we are all about well of the flu we shall expect our average attendance at Sunday School and Church services next Sunday.

Sunday is "Junior Church Day" with us. At the eleven o'clock hour the Junior Church will have charge of the services. Members of the Junior Church will compose the choir, act as ushers and take the offering. The sermon will be an illustrated one with special interest for the children and young people.

If you or your children are not members of the Junior Church yet, meet us, or have them meet us, in the basement of the church just after Sunday School and let us have your name. All children and young people under fifteen years of age are eligible.

Regular services at 7:30 with special music by the Young People's choir. You want to hear their first performance.

Our doors and hearts are open to all. If you get nothing else out of the services you will get a big welcome. Come, worship with us next Sunday.

IN MEMORY

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Taylor of Clanton on Friday morning, January 11, at 7:28 o'clock, and took their only son, John Lee, to dwell with God eternally.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist church at Clanton on January 12th at 11 o'clock with Dr. S. J. Ezell in charge, with interment in Chestnut Creek cemetery at Cooper.

We loved little John dearly and we miss him so much, but we know we must say in our hearts, "God's will be done."

Weep not, dear father and mother, for little John has gone to that beautiful home where there is no sorrow or tears. He will be standing at the portal gates to receive us one by one. We know that the omnipotent power of God is the source of all happiness and all sorrow and through Him only can you get comfort.

We see him here no more, but we know he lives with God for He said, "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." What we have lost heaven has gained.

Left to mourn him are his father and mother and three little sisters, Jewell, Marzelle and Blanche. Loved ones, think with the poet, Tennyson, as he said:

"I hold it true whate'er befall,
I feel it when I sorrow most,
'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than ne'er to have loved at all."

MISS KATE DURBIN DEAD

Miss Kate Durbin, age 84, died Wednesday night, January 16th, at the home of Mrs. Laura Mims near Antioch. The remains were buried by Martin at Mt. Nebo Thursday of last week.

EAST VIEW CHURCH NOTICE

The Christian Endeavor services have been called in until the second Sunday night in February on account of so much flu in the community. There will be preaching on the 4th Sunday night in this month, and again on the second Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night in February. You are invited to attend these services.

MR. COWAN BOOSTING FOR CLANTON DRAINAGE

In The Birmingham Age-Herald Tuesday there was printed an interview from Mr. H. H. Cowan as follows:

Drainage of the swamps and lowlands around Clanton is a huge issue of the civic organizations in our city," declared H. H. Cowan, stopping at the Tutwiler Hotel. He said the Clanton Kiwanis Club has adopted the drainage project as one of its objectives for 1929. They have urged every citizen, business man and land owner to cooperate in this movement, Mr. Cowan added. He said that a committee had been appointed for this huge project and everything looks as though they are going to get some real results.

We are glad to note the enthusiasm of Mr. Cowan for Clanton's pet project. Which, by the way, prompts us to ask who is Mr. Cowan? We would like to meet this gentleman who "speaks out in meetin' " at the Tutwiler and commends the spirit of progress "in our city," meaning Clanton. We are glad to know that he is one of us.

Mr. Cowan has the right idea. Tell the world about Clanton. We have a town here that is worth bragging about anywhere. More and more every day we are coming into the light of modern progress and it is because our people have learned that it pays to be big-hearted and broad-minded and unite their efforts in behalf of measures that are worth while.

Clanton can make an example out of this drainage business that will be the model of Alabama. And we are going to do it. Just watch!

IN MEMORY

A gloom of sorrow overshadowed the country on January 11th when the spirit of Mr. W. H. Foshee Jr. had departed this life and returned to God who gave it.

We feel that all attention and medical aid that earthly hands could render was administered unto him, but to no avail.

Mr. Foshee was a man of sterling worth, kindly, generous, finding happiness for himself in contributing to the happiness of his loved ones and friends. He would have been 76 years old January 16, 1929. He leaves six children, Mrs. A. W. Lenoir, Maplesville, Ala.; Mrs. E. J. Lawley, Tuscaloosa; Mrs. Leonard Dyer, Tampa, Florida; Mrs. T. F. Johnson, Birmingham; Miss Lennie Foshee, Maplesville; Mr. John Foshee, Birmingham, and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

His remains were laid to rest on Saturday afternoon in Mt. Carmel cemetery to await the resurrection morning. Rev. Hand, his pastor, conducted the service.

"Oh, his gentle voice is hushed;
That warm, true heart is still;
And on his pale and peaceful face
Is resting death's cold chill.
Dear friends, we must not weep for him,
For he has gone to rest;
He fell asleep in Jesus,
The one he loved the best.

MRS. M. D. BLANKENSHIP

Mrs. M. D. Blankenship, age 76, died at her son's home near Elmore on the 12th of January. She had been ill about a week with the flu. She leaves a husband and seven children and a host of friends to mourn her loss. But our loss is heaven's gain.

The funeral was held on Sunday, at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery. Burial was in charge of Martin.

She has gone to a better home where she will have no sorrows, for she has been for many years preparing to have a better home when she was called. Her Bible was her comfort, and she was often telling about God and His love.

Her memory will live in the hearts of her friends forever. We hope to see her sweet face again. Sometimes we feel a hovering spirit near warning us against a world of woe. She is dead, yet she ever liveth in the home of the blest, she is waiting for her loved ones to meet her in that happy home, never to part any more. For God said there will be no parting there.

MR. AND MRS. J. D. ORR FIND CURB MARKET PROFITABLE

Opelika, Ala., Jan. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Orr, who live a few miles west of Opelika in Lee County, have found it profitable to produce and sell products on a curb market. In a letter to Miss Mary Bailey, home demonstration agent and leader in establishing and maintaining a curb market at both Opelika and Auburn, Mrs. Orr said that from November 1927 to November, 1928, her sales on the curb markets brought her $3,016.17.

Mrs. Orr explained that this does not mean clear profit for it costs to plant, fertilize, cultivate, harvest, and sell. It costs also to feed, house, and manage chicks. Mrs. Orr sells something of everything that grows on their farm except cotton and corn.

Mrs. Orr said that the income from the curb markets have been a great help to them. To give an idea of their expenses she said, "We are sending three boys to school, one to college, have to keep up two cars, we are paying on our farm, have several insurance policies to keep up; and, in addition, we used some of this money to improve our home and yards. We stuccoed our house, painted it inside and out, and bought some shrubbery to plant in our yard after sodding our lawn.

"Our boys help us with our garden, cows, and chickens.

"I want to say that I thank our home and county demonstration agents for making curb markets possible."—P. O. Davis.

Miss Eva Mae Lewis, Marbury high school student who was hurt in a basketball game at Equality last Saturday, left St. Margaret's hospital in Montgomery Monday night and went to her home at Marbury. Her condition was considerably improved late Monday morning and hospital attaches said that she would be able to resume her studies shortly.

She was brought to the hospital Sunday. The accident occurred during a game between the Equality and Marbury teams on the former's outdoor court. Miss Lewis is said to have collided with a post and injured her side.

UNION-BANNER

Chilton County the Heart of Alabama

VOLUME XVI. —TEN PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 31, 1929 NUMBER 41

Objectives Adopted By Clanton Kiwanis

Efforts of Club Will be Concentrated on Six Projects For This Year

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton has adopted a program of activity for the year 1929 which takes into consideration as objectives a number of measures considered very vital and important to Clanton and Chilton County.

As stated by the Board of Directors of the Club at its regular meeting this week, the objectives of the Club for 1929 shall be as follow:

1. Formation of the Clanton Drainage District for the drainage and reclamation of several thousand acres of swamp lands in close proximity to the city of Clanton. This work will be pursued through cooperation with landowners under authority of the State drainage act which was finally ratified by vote of the people of the State last November.

2. An organized effort on the part of the Club to get the county authorities to appropriate the necessary money to establish a county health unit under provisions and regulations of the State Health Department.

3. To back up a movement to secure the placing of a Federal building in Clanton for postoffice and other government purposes.

4. To sponsor a campaign to secure a white way for Clanton.

5. To secure designation of a suitable place in Clanton to be used as a public market place, where farmers may assemble whatever they have to sell and get in touch with buyers.

6. To further emphasize former policies of the Club in encouragement of agricultural development and progress by holding a number of meetings next summer with farmers in rural communities.

All of these projects have been outlined and placed in the hands of the proper committees of the Club. They will be pushed diligently for accomplishment this year.

PURE OIL CO. SPONSOR GOLDMAN BAND ON AIR

Famous Conductor to Broadcast over NBC Network with Regular Forty-Five-Piece Band

Beginning at 8 o'clock Eastern Standard Time on Saturday, February 2nd, radio listeners of WJZ and 18 other stations associated with the National Broadcasting Company will be treated to a half hour of band music sponsored by the Pure Oil Company, one of the major independent producers, refiners and markets of petroleum and its products.

Edwin Franko Goldman, celebrated conductor, will direct the band composed of forty-five pieces. This program which will be broadcast from New York, will continue for forty-two weeks, offering to the millions of lovers of band music, an opportunity of hearing their favorite selections played by the largest band now on the air. No longer will the popular music of Mr. Goldman and the band be confined to the Hall of Central Park, New York City, where they have delighted thousands each week during past sesion.

"We decided to become co-sponsors of a program with band music and signed Mr. Goldman for a fifty-two weeks period," said Mr. D. L. Gilland, Vice-President of the Wofford Oil Company, distributors in this section for Pure Oil Company products. "This decision came after a long and close study of the tastes of the radio audience, and of the nature of radio programs," continued Mr. Gilland, "and we feel confident that our action will be welcomed by the radio listeners. Each program will be carefully built around the type of music for which Mr. Goldman is so celebrated and will open and close with the Pure Oil March, which has been especially composed by Mr. Goldman."

1. Pure Oil Signature March, Goldman.
2. Semper Fidelis, Sousa.
3. Humoresque, Dvorak.
4. The Jolly Coppersmith, Peter.
5. Entre Acte, Mlle. Modiste, Herbert.
6. Music Box, Itzel.
7. March of the Toys, Herbert.
8. Hungarian Dance, No. 5, Brahams.
9. On the Mall, Goldman.
10. Signature, Goldman.

The following stations associated with the National Broadcasting Company will broadcast the program: WJZ, WJAX, WBT, KDKA, WLW, WRVA, WSM, WMC, WBAL, WHAS, WJR, KYW, KWK, WREN, WEBC, KSTP, WTMJ, WHAM, WSB.

HOOVER MAKES STUDY OF DRY LAW SITUATION

Will Select Investigation Body While in Florida; Plans for Better Enforcement Are Made

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 25.—President-Elect Hoover will select while in Florida the personnel of the commisison he will appoint for investigation of prohibiton and also will formulate a general program for tightening present enforcement.

The president-elect is canvassing a list of possible appointees for his prohibition investigation commission, which included representatives of various lines of endeavor. He wants to get capable men who have a reputation for impartial analysis. He intends for the commission to be truly impartial, so there will be no outcry from either drys or wets that the commission is "stacked" in favor of either partisan view.

Will Outline Program

Appointment of the commission is expected to be one of Hoover's first acts after he becomes president.

Hoover desires to institute the prohibition investigation and to enunciate his general prohibition enforcement program as soon as possible after he takes office in order that he may not be embarassed by activities of those who would make capital out of any delay or indecision on this problem.

According to reports from Washington, attempts apparently are being made to force Hoover's hand on this issue. Democrats have been conspicuous in the senate move resulting in adding $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement—tho Secretary of the Treasury Mellon disapproved this increase—and in voting $250,000 specifically for the president's use in an investigation of prohibition. Dry organization, likewise, are almost united in the effort for additional enforcement funds.

Will Seek Advice

While Hoover is expected to seek legal advice from authorities as to possible new means of tightening prohibition enforcement, he already has received a suggestion that dry administrators and agents be held to strict accountability in their territories, such as smuggling and diversion in large quantities from bonded warehouses.

Hoover is confronted here with an illustration of the line of attack which may be expected from some Democrats and wets over his investigation and his prohibition policy.

A demand that the Hoover commission investigate the relation between prohibition enforcement and politics is made in an editorial in the Miami Daily News, owned by James M. Cox, of Ohio, 1920 Democratic presidential candidate.

Dry agents, the editorial says, instead of bringing in bootleggers recently have been "engaged in rounding up votes for the party to which they were beholden for their jobs."

Hoover's investigation, also the paper adds, should include "the past and present relations of the bootleggers of politics."—By Thomas L. Stokes, United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHILD WELFARE BOARD ORGANIZED

First Meeting Held at Courthouse Tuesday; Will Meet Quarterly Hereafter

The organization of the Child Welfare Board for Chilton County has been completed with the following personnel:

Judge L. H. Reynolds, Chairman; B. Lawrence, C. C. Conway of Jemison; A. P. Vinson; Mrs. Mary A. Faber, Mt. Creek; Mrs. Lucy Parnell, Maplesville; Miss Ruth Jones; W. M. Wyatt and J. B. Atkinson, representing the newspapers of Clanton, were named by Judge Reynolds as honorary members of the board.

The first meeting of the board was held at the courthouse Tuesday morning. Mrs. Adams of the State Child Welfare Board was present to outline the work and plans of the county board.

Mrs. C. E. Stapp was elected as child welfare worker for Chilton County. She will also act as secretary of the county child welfare board.

Buford Lawrence was elected as Treasurer, to receive and disburse all funds collected or appropriated for child welfare work.

The board will hold meeting quarterly on the second Wednesday in January, April, July and October.

GLENN BOYD RETURNED FROM VACATION IN FLORIDA

Mr. H. G. Boyd, President of Peoples Savings Bank, has returned from a vacation of two weeks spent in Florida. He looks much improved physically and says he feels like he is young again.

NEGRO IN JAIL FOR RECKLESS DRIVING CAR

A negro from Birmingham was put in jail in Clanton last Saturday charged with reckless driving. He ran his car into a car owned by W. G. Conway on the highway Saturday morning. The car of Mr. Conway was badly damaged and two of his daughters who were in the car were hurt, but not seriously.

The negro agreed to pay all damages and to plead guilty to a charge of reckless driving.

HOOVER WILL BUILD G. O. P. IN THE SOUTH

Believes Gains Made In The Recent Election Can be Held Permanently

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 25.—Herbert Hoover hopes to rebuild the Republican party in the south and is giving much thought and attention to that problem. He believes that gains made in the recent election can be held and expanded.

It is Hoover's idea to make the party in the south something more than a patronage machine, the chief purpose of which is to deliver votes at the national convention every four years.

He hopes to eliminate patronage and other scandals and build on a basis of honesty and integrity. He will make his appointments in southern states with great care, and is expected to put Democrats in office if he is unable to find suitable Republicans.

Cramer Mentioned

Probably a southerner will be selected for a position in the cabinet, but Hoover has as yet made no decision. Stuart W. Cramer, of Charlotte, N. C., textile manufacturer and Annapolis graduate, has been metioned for secretary of the navy.

Hoover is particularly anxious to hold Republican gains in Texas and believes this is possible.

He regards his strength there as based less on religion and similar issues than in some other sections of the south. He believes Texas will become an increasingly large factor in national politics.

Hoover put politics and work behind him today to enjoy the first real rest he has had since he returned from South America. He was fishing on the Atlantic some 35 miles to the south at Angel Creek.

Before he started his fishing trip, Hoover conferred with Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, who stopped over on his way from Nassau to New York.

Morrow will not be appointed secretary of state, but will remain at his post in Mexico City, it was said here. —John M. Gleissner, Scripps-Howard Staff Writer.

Bullock County has had the misfortune to lose her sheriff and tax assessor within a period of four days. Sheriff A. B. Shehee died Monday, January 21st, after a prolonged illness, and on Thursday death claimed C. A. Owen, the County Tax Assessor. Both were popular officials and rated as very efficient in their lines of work. The vacancies will be filled by appointment by the Governor.

30 GOOD USED CARS ON SALE AT AUCTION

Mr. George Polk of Polk Bros. Motor Company announces that an auction sale of used cars will be put on at his place today, Thursday, beginning at 1 o'clock sharp. Their entire accumulation of about thirty used cars will be put on the block and sold at the buyers' own price.

This sale is being conducted by the National Sales Co., of Asheville, N. C. It will be in the personal charge of Mr. M. J. Freeman. The Wade home in Calnton will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapp. The Wade ice plant here will be operated under the direction of Mr. James Wade.

JONES WILL PREACH AT JEMISON NEXT SUNDAY

Rev. J. W. Jones will preach at Jemison Baptist Church next Sunday, in the morning at 11 o'clock, and in the evening at 7 o'clock. The subject at the morning service will be "Building a Strong Church," for the evening service, "Bought with a Price."

These will be Rev. Jones's first services as pastor of this church, and you are urged to be present at both services.

MALONE SAYS REPUBLICANS WON STATE

Dothan Citizen Says Hoover Counted out in Alabama Last November

Washington, Jan. 24. — Politics mixed with economics at the house ways and means committee hearing on tariff revision Wednesday when an Alabama witness who voted for Herbert Hoover claimed that the president-elect won in his state in the recent election but was counted out.

The assertion was made by George H. Malone, of Dothan, Ala., during his appeal for a higher duty on imported wrapper tobacca to protect Florida and Georgia growers of shade-grown tobacco.

Recalling that a Wisconsin witness, in urging a lower tariff, as an aid to filler tobacco growers, had referred to the fact that the state voted for Hoover, Malone said he wanted to thank the Wisconsin man for making that statement and added:

"Some people south of the Potomac river also voted for Hoover and I was one of them."

Mr. Hoover, Malone declared, carried Alabama but was counted out. He added that 50,000 voters stayed at home but would vote for Hoover next time if he carried out his promises made in his Tennessee speech and confined his appointments to "those who have the esteem of the communities they serve."

"We want a prohibitive tariff on everything the south produces," he declared.

"Do you believe that's what Mr. Hoover promises?" asked Representative Rainey, democrat, Illinois.

"That's what a telegram I got from Horace Mann (republican campaign worker in the south) said," Malone replied amid laughter.

"If he shuts out the negro," he added, "we are going to vote for him. We don't want to see any negro office holders in the south.

"You people up here," Malone continued, "can hardly realize the sacrifice that some of us in the south have made. Some years ago we would have been ostracized for seeking a higher tariff, but not now."

He added that the two Alabama senators "came sailing out of their offices to see me when I called on them and none of the democratic congressmen condemned me."

The gray-haired banker said he and his wife, "who is one of the puritanical Baptists," had voted for Hoover.

GREEN RETHERFORD IN ATLANTA THIS WEEK

Mr. Green Retherford is in Atlanta this week with his son, Billie, who is taking X-Ray treatments for a tumor of the brain.

Reports from Mr. Retherford say that the boy is getting along as well as can be expected. No progress has been noted toward recovering his sight, however.

NAVIGATION ON COOSA MAY BE ESTABLISHED

U. S. Becoming Interested In Alabama Stream; Survey Made

Gadsden, Ala., Jan. 24.—The Coosa-Alabama River, the third largest stream in the South, will serve as an outlet for the greatly increased manufactures of Northern Alabama under plans now under consideration.

During November and December of last year engineers of the War Department at Washington made a survey of the tonnage produced in factories in the 25 counties in North Alabama and Georgia that are tributary to the stream. The survey was made, officials said, with the view of ascertaining the amount that might move on the river should it be opened to navigation from Rome, Ga., by way of Gadsden, Selma and Montgomery to Mobile.

The original plans adopted by the federal government in 1872 to carry navigation over the rapids below Greensport to Wetumpka provided for 31 low-lift docks and dams, under which Locks 1, 2, 3 and 4 were built. The work was practically abandoned when it was decided that there was not enough commerce traffic on the river to justify the expense of opening it to navigation.

The completion of the new $10,000,000 state docks at Mobile and the industrial growth of Rome, Gadsden, Anniston, Talladega, Ragland, Birmingham, Selma, Montgomery and Mobile, industrial officials believe, will influence the War Department favorably to Alabama's river project.

DRISKILL CASE CONTINUED IN CIRCUIT COURT HERE

The case of Claud C. Driskill in the Circuit Court of Chilton County was continued this week on account of illness of Chas. E. Lucas, President of Bank of Thorsby and the absence of a bank examiner.

The case against Driskill was based upon alleged discrepancies in his records while he was cashier of Bank of Thorsby.

FRIDAY LAST DAY IN WHICH TO PAY YOUR POLL TAX

If you haven't paid your poll tax and intend to pay it, you had better hurry, for tomorrow, Friday, February 1st, it the las day on which you can pay this year. Some get the impression that the last day in January closes the paying time, but you can pay on February 1st.

All voters who are otherwise qualified should not fail to look after this important matter without fail. You will make a mistake if you allow your poll tax to elapse. There is very likely to be an election this year in which you will want to participate; and even if there is not, it will save you from having to do double duty next year when you go to pay. Remember, Friday, February 1st, is the last day!

LUMEY CREW KILLED BY A FALLING TREE

Sudden Death by Accident Wednesday Morning of Last Week

A gloom of sorrow over-shadowed the entire county January 23rd when the spirit of Mr. Lumey Crew departed from this life and returned to God who gave it. Mr. Crew was killed Wednesday morning about 9:30, when the butt of a tree which he and his brother had just sawed down gave him a deathly stroke across the chest. Mr. Crew never regained consciousness after the blow. All the tender bathing with camphor was to no avail.

Mr. Crew was a man of sterling worth, kindly, finding happiness for himself in contributing to the happiness of his wife and children at home. He was a loving father and husband. To know him was to love him.

He was 32 years of age and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Plas Crew. Mrs. Crew now survives him. He leaves to mourn his loss, a wife and four children, Willodene, 11 years, Katie, 8, Jen, 5, James 1.

Funeral services were conducted at Chestnut Creek church Thursday afternoon, where he has been a member for seven years. Rev. S. J. Ezell conducted the funeral and spoke comforting words of cheer. Martin was in charge.

Oh, sweet daddy, how we miss you,
No one can ever take your place;
But rest assured, daddy, that we
Will meet you on that happy day.
We loved you, yes, we loved you,
But Jesus loved you more and
He sweetly called you to yonder shining shore.

—Two loving friends, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Carroll.

Prof. H. C. McDonald Died At Wetumpka

Prominent Educator Is Taken Suddenly at Home in Wetumpka Sunday Night

News of the death of H. C. McDonald, principal of the State Secondary Agricultural School at Wetumpka at his home Sunday night, was received Monday morning with profound regret.

Mr. McDonald was 51 years of age and had been principal of the Wetumpka school for several years. He was a graduate of the University of Alabama and had occupied a number of important high school principalships in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. He was a member of the Alabama Education Association and was considered one of the leading educators in the state.

Prof. McDonald was principal of the Chilton County High School from 1915 until 1918. During the time he lived in Clanton Prof. McDonald and his noble family made hosts of friends, all of whom join Mrs. McDonald and her children with deepest sympathy in these sad hours of their bereavement.

The funeral was held at Wetumpka Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Services were conducted from the home. Several members of the staff of the state department of education attended. A number of close friends of the McDonalds from Clanton attended the funeral.

ALABAMA GETS COTTON STALK PULP FACTORIES

Plants to Represent Investment of Millions of Dollars

Alabama is going to get five great cotton stalk pulp plants according to announcement received from Washington. Sen. J. Thomas Heflin is working to have the plants included in the farm waste bill sponsored by Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota.

Alabama cities mentioned as possible locations for pulp plants were Anniston, Gadsden, Selma, Huntsville, and Tuscaloosa. These plants will represent an investment of several millions of dollars and will provide cheaper newsprint for newspapers of the South, the announcement read.

It read as follows:

"At the suggestion of Senator Thomas Heflin of Alabama, Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota author of the farm waste bill, has agreed that at least five cotton stalk pulp plants should be located in Alabama.

"While plans for their location are not definitely formed, it is believed that they will be erected at Anniston, Gedsden, Huntsville, Selma nd Tuscloosa. A survey of the state will have to be made before the actual locatons are fixed as they are to be placed at points which make them accessible to every planter in the state.

"Senator Heflin, as a member of the committee on agriculture, is leading the fight before that body for a favorable report on the Schall resolution to investigate the foreign newsprint trust which is gouging American publishers while cotton stalks which make the best paper pulp, are rotting on Alabama plantations.

"'I am going to see this thing through for the planters and publishers of my state' said Senator Heflin today. 'There are enough cotton stalks rotting in Alabama every year to-make all the paper our state needs and give the planters an increased financial revenue sufficient to make cotton growing a profitable business.

"'Unless something is done along this line, paper will soon be so expensive that some of our smaller papers will have to suspend publication. The planters of my state are growing poorer each year because they are forced to throw away their profit, which is in cotton stalks. It is high time that they should be given this aid and I intend to demand it for them.'"

ROCKETT BUILDING LUMBER YARD ON LOT NEAR HOME

Messrs. Tom and Dewey Rockett are preparing to open up a lumber yard on Third Avenue just behind theri residences. A large building is now almost completed in which they will store their dressed lumber.

Dewey says that they will carry lumber of every description, including rough framing as well as hardwood flooring, moulding and all sorts of finishing stuff.

When this is finished the Clanton Building Supply Company will be able to furnish every thing that is needed to go into the building of a house. They have a more complete announcement to appear in a big advertisement in The Union-Banner in a few days. Watch for it!

CAPITOL News

Interest in the proposal for a new bond issue to provide for continuance of road-building in Alabama was stimulated by the recent action of the Alabama Automotive Trades Association, in session at Montgomery, in endorsing a $25,000,000 road bond issue. During the past two years, highway construction in Alabama has gone on a scale never before equalled, and more funds are needed if the program is not to receive a setback. The next regular session of the Legislature is not until 1931, and an amendment to the Constitution cannot be voted upon until at least 90 days after final adjournment of the Legislature which submits the amendment to the people. This means that in the absence of a speical session the people cannot be given a chance to vote upon another good roads amendment before around the first of 1932, as the Legislature in regular session does not generally adjourn until some time in the fall of the year in which it meets. This situation has caused considerable agitation in the highway program. The State Highway Commission will have available for road-building during 1929-30, including federal aid, only about $8,000,000, which means a marked falling off in the scope of highway construction as compared with the two preceding years, unless more funds are authorized.

The present State Highway Commission, during the two years that it has been in office, has built, or has under construction, more miles of highways than were built by the State during all previous years. This is not to be construed as any reflection upon preceding highway commissions, on the contrary it is now generally recognized that the Highway Department under the Brandon and Kilby regimes did some splendid work. The old highway commission was a pioneer body in roadbuilding work and is given much credit for getting Alabama's highway program under way. The present commission headed by Judge Woolsey Finnell, is carrying on the work on an increasing scale. When the present commission took office some two years ago, the mileage of state highways under maintenance by the department was approximately 2,100. In the two-year period an additional 2,250 miles of State highways have been built or are under construction. This new mileage will be swelled to 2,600 or 2,700 by the end of 1930. Total mileage now under maintenance is aproximately 3,600, which will be increased to around 4,000 by April 1. Assurances have been given that the present highway commission will carry out the policy of completing county seat connections, and connections with roads from adjoining states; and that every county in the State will receive from the bond issue voted in the Spring of 1927 the quota of at least $250,000 allotted to each of the 67 counties by the 1927 amendment.

There are, however, several angles to the question of a special legislative session, aside from the question of whether the good roads program is to go ahead unabated. The question of whether the Solons, if called together, would submit a road bond issue to avote of the people and then go home, or whether they would linger on capitol hill and divert their energies in other directions, is a factor in the situation which cannot be overlooked. A special session would mean extra cost to the State in paying the expenses of the session. Also, good roads advocates are not united as to what sort of bond issue should be submitted, Colonel Lee Long, Speaker of the House, who has been active in the movement looking to a special session, has suggested a $50,000,000 bond amendment to be financed by an additional one-cent per gallon gasoline tax. The automobile men at their session here, however, went on record as favoring a $25,000,000 amendment, without additional taxation. It is claimed that a $25,000,000 issue can be financed without levying additional taxation.

The question of a special session is pending, and there is nothing at present to indicate whether such a session will be held.

News of the recent recapture of Roy Dickerson, Alabama's phantom crook, furnished an interesting topic of discussion in the capital city and over the State. Roy was caught at Salt Lake City charged with violating a federal statute in the theft of an expensive automobile in California. State officers have gone after the prisoner, and already wagers are reported as being offered on the streets here as to how long the notorious bank robber will stay in Kilby Prison after his return.

Dickerson was sent up for the Phenix-Girard bank robbery in 1922, receiving 25 years. He has manifested a pronounced aversion for prison life, however, and so far the best efforts of prison officials have failed to keep him in captivity for any considerable length of time. He has escaped repeatedly, his last getaway being made in October of last year when he and two confederates, Ivanhoe Silva and Frank Cook, made a sensational escape over the walls of Kilby prison. Silva and Cook are still at large.

Charles Bricken, Jr. has been appointed clerk of the Alabma Court of Appeals, by unanimous choice of the judges of the Court. Mr. Bricken, who is the son of Judge Charles Bricken, the presiding judge of the Court of Appeals, succeeds Colonel Alex Troy, who has been clerk of the court since its establishment in 1911. Ill health prevented Colonel Troy from continuing with his duties, it is stated. Mr. Bricken has for some time been acting as clerk of the court, and takes over the position of clerk already familiar with its duties. Miss Beryl Bricken, daughter of Judge Bricken, was elected Assistant Clerk of the Court, succeeding Gaston Troy, son of Colonel Troy.

NEW MODEL A FORD ABSORBS ROAD SHOCKS TO HIGH DEGREE

No feature of the new Ford car has been the subject of more enthusiastic approval than its riding qualities. To persons accustomed to ride in a car in the so-called light or medium weight class, the degree to which the Model A absorbs road shocks and resists side sway is little short of unbelievable.

It is possible to explain the new car's efficiency in these respects in a simple, non-technical way.

The transverse, semi-elliptic springs of the Model A are heavier, stronger, and more flexible than those used on any previous Ford car.

One of the chief essentials in riding comfort is a high proportion of sprung weight and a low proportion of unsprung weight. Sprung weight is all the weight suspended by the flexible ends of the springs; unsprung weight is the dead weight below those flexible ends. It follows that the higher the proportion of unsprung weight, the more powerful and violent will be the road shocks delivered against the frame, body, and motor of the car, and the more difficult to absorb.

Some semi-elliptic springs rest on their middle, or heaviest and thickest portions, below the line of sprung weight. Thus, the weightiest sections of the springs themselves form part of the unsprung weight, adding to the size of the "hammer" and the power of the blows dealt by the highway against the body, frame and motor of the car.

In the Ford design, the transverse springs rest on their flexible ends, with their heavy mid-portions uppermost, in which position they form part of the sprung or cushioned weight.

Aside from the question of weight, the transverse spring contributes again to the comfortable riding qualities of the Model A.

The ordinary car is pushed forward by way of the rear axle and the rear springs—the rear springs actually serve as driving members! The front halves of these springs must therefore be made stiff enough to serve this purpose, and their flexibility, which enables them to perform their cushioning function, is reduced in a corresponding degree. Moreover, in order to be efficient driving members, their front ends must be fastened firmly to the frame of the car. This means that the lengthening of the spring as shocks are encountered must be entirely toward the rear, for only the rear end of the spring can have a shackled and hinged mounting. As the spring flexes, therefore, the rear wheels are moved backward and forward, and neither a constant nor a uniform wheelbase can be maintained.

In the Model A the rear springs serve a cushioning function only. The car is pushed forward through the torque tube and radius rods, which carry the thrust to a point well forward on the chassis. Both ends of the springs, therefore, are shackled and hinged, and all leaves are as flexible as their efficiency and cushioning members require. The flexing of the springs has no effect on the length of the wheelbase whatever.

In addition to the special spring design, the Model A Ford has as standard equipment a very fine type of hydarulic shock absorbers which add materially to the smooth riding qualities of the car.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good people of Liberty Hill community for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our beloved mother and grandmother, Jane Milford. Also Mr. Mell Martin for his services and for the beautiful floral offering.—Mrs. J. W. Varden and Children.

IN MEMORY

On Monday, January 21, at 5:30 o'clock the death angel visited the home of Uncle Bob Milford and took from this world his beloved wife, Jane Milford, aged 86.

Surviving her are her husband, two sisters, Julia Oden and Laura Franklin, one daughter, Mrs. J. W. Varden, four grandchildren, Mrs. W. M. Pierce, of Overton, Mrs. J. R. Jones of Clanton, Mrs. O. N. Esco of Deatsville, and Evan M. Varden of Birmingham, and seven great-grandchildren.

We feel that all was done for her that loving hands could do. But God in his infinite wisdom saw fit to take her from our midst to a better home beyond. Weep not, dear loved ones, for our loss is heaven's gain. No more on earth will we see her face,
Her voice we'll hear no more;
But let us live to meet her
On that bright and happy shore.
—Mrs. Evan M. Varden.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MRS. JANE MILFORD

Just a few days ago we were happy because of the presence of a dear, sweet mother and grandmother.

Today she is happy in the presence of God and the angels, and we are sad and lonely because of her absence from us.

She had enjoyed fairly good health for one of her age up to January 14th. As she finished preparing breakfast for her husband and herself early in the morning she was stricken with pneumonia. She gradually grew worse until the last. Her devoted husband, loving daughters and grandchildren, relatives, friends and Dr. Johnson did all in their power to relieve her of the severe pain and restore her back to her normal health, but she had finished her work. God, in his infinite wisdom said, 'It is enough," and at 5:30 o'clock Monday evening, January 21, He wafted her spirit away to dwell forever in the haven of rest. She was 86 years and 3 days old, having been born January 18th, 1843.

She was married in 1872 to Joe Maddox with whom she lived happily until his death 5 years later, leaving his wife and one small daughter behind. On January 8th, 1892 she was married to Robert Milford with whom she lived happily until her death, more than 36 years. He had also been married and had two small children. She was a devoted wife, loving mother and model step-mother—in fact she was a real old-fashioned Christian whose light will shine on and on. She was a faithful member of Pleasant Grove Methodist Church where her remains were laid to rest on January 23rd, in the presence of a large crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives. Funeral services were conducted by Revs. Gibson and Foshee. Pall bearers were Messrs. Evan Varden, Oliver Esco, Renfroe Jones and Mack Pierce. The first one being the only grandson and the three last ones grandsons-in-law.

Mr. Samuel Martin was in charge.

She leaves to mourn their loss her husband, one daughter, Mrs. J. W. Varden and four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

It will always be a sweet memory to think of the many times she would ask God to bless each one of us on each visit we paid her. To know her was to love her. This was made manifest by the number of friends who came to see her and minister to her during her short illness.

May God bless, comfort and keep all of us in the hollow of His hand until the summons shall come to us. May we be found waiting and watching. Written by her granddaughter. —Mrs. Mack Pierce.

SAMARIA

The flu in the commuinty is some better, but there are still a few who are sick. The superintendent of the Sunday school has been absent for two Sundays, but were glad to see and have him with us again today.

We have a fine Sunday school and always invite and welcome visitors.

Bro. Nichols of Bessemer was to preach for us today, but on account of the death of a near relative he couldn't be with us.

The B. Y. P. U. meets every Sunday night at 6:30. We especially invite all young people to come and take part in this great work. A splendid program was rendered Sunday night. The program given by Group No. 1, was on the subject: "Bunyan, a Baptist Who Preached with His Pen."

Part 1 "Bunyan's Early Life," Georgia Wood.
Part 3 "The Wicket Gate," Orrville Popwell.
Part 3 Eunice Edwards.
Part 4 "Prison, a Place for Meditation," Sallie B. Wood.
Part 5 "The Immortal Allegory," Mr. J. Z. Mims.
Part 6 "Characters," Alton Harris.
Part 7 "Christians Reach That Celestial City by," Julia Edwards.

Miss Dessie Robinson, captian of Group No. 2, will render the program Sunday night, February 3rd.

Miss Eunice Edwards entertained a number of boys and girls at her home Friday night in honor of her 15th birthday. Games were enjoyed during the evening and at a late hour refreshments were served.

Miss Dessie Robinson who teaches school at Mt. Pisgah spent the week end with Miss Nora Wood. They attended the party at Miss Edwards Friday night.

Misses Nora, Sallie B., and Georgia Wood and Miss Dessie Robinson spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wood at Lock 12.

Misses Pearle and Lena Vinson and Gladys Thomas, Mr. Dock and Alton Harris and Orrville Popwell attended the party given by Miss Eunice Edwards Friday night.

Mr. K. Wells and family have moved from the Samaria community back to Thorsby.

A REAL HERO—"OVER A YEAR IN HOSPITAL—STILL SMILING"

The above is a likeness of Fulton Moore of Pleasant Grove in the western part of Chilton County, who has been a patient in the Baptist Hospital, Selma, since December 24th, 1927. (The nurse is Miss Minnie Cook of Marion.)

History of the Case

December 23, 1927, Mr. Moore was burned in a garage in Centreville, Ala. He was trying to start a fire and was using a brush to sprinkle some gasoline when evidently the brush caught fire and he dropped it back in the bucket of gasoline and it exploded. He was burned very badly, in fact his is a very marvelous case, in that he has lived as long as he has and has such a fine chance now to recover.

Mr. Moore, Twenty-One Years Old

He was born near Lawley in Chilton County and at an early age united with the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church of the Chilton County Association where his membership still is retained. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore, still live near Lawley, and are farmers who are not blessed with much of this world's goods, but are doing all they can to help in this critical hour. They are very appreciative of the service that is being rendered him.

Many People Ask about Fulton

Yes, he is a favorite with the nurses, doctors and many of his newly made friends during his stay in Selma. He is indeed a patient sufferer and to know him and his hours of agony and suffering makes one want to help him in any sacrificial way possible to get well and back on the job in REAL LIFE.

People Ask Will He Get Well

The doctor is very hopeful. Skin grafting will soon begin and then we hope he will improve more rapidly. It may take another year, but what of that if we can save this young man? We have already promised him a job on the big elevator when he is able to move around. Who knows but that he may be the Hospital Mechanic for many years to come.

What about the Hospital and Doctor's Bill

It is practically all benevolent work. The hospital bill would be more than two thousand dollars if charged at the regular rate and the doctor's bill more than a thousand dollars. The doctor and hospital gladly render this service.

Wanted Two Thousand Volunteers for Service Now!

You ask: "What of the coming year's hospital bill?" Here is where we need your help! Fulton has to have medical and nurses attention that cannot possibly be given at home. So we are asking for two thousand volunteers for real sacrifice now. We want each one to give from one to ten dollars each. You say, no money. Cut out a joy ride, show, big outing, and you will have the money. The hospital and doctor have done their part. (This is only one example of what the Hospital is really doing.) Come to the Hospital and see for yourself. Be one of the Heroes and send in your gift. No Charity Call, just an opportunity for real service to suffering humanity. We believe there are two thousand people somewhere that have a heart big enough to answer this call. Yours for service to suffering humanity.—W. R. Seymore, D. D. Supt.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

C. E. STAPP DISCUSSES PROFITABLE USE OF FARM LANDS

The three main uses to which farm land can be profitably put are crops, pastures and timber. For each acre to be most profitable to the owner it should be used in such a way as to make it pay the highest return above the cost of production.

Total acres in county	456,320
Acres owned by farmers	216,717
Acres crops harvested	79,532
Acres pastured	51,603
Farm acres not harvested or pastured	85,582

If the land producing cultivated crops is good enough that it can be economically kept in a high state of productivity it is probably the most profitable land on the farm.

But it is evident that poor or rough land which does not pay a reasonable profit in cultivation or pasture should be put to some other use. If it cannot be made to pay at least enough profit to take care of its taxes and interest on the money invested in it, then it should be disposed of as quickly as possible.

Bigger crops will be produced in future on fewer acres. It is more profitable. Some new land is being taken into cultivation in Alabama each year, but for each acre taken in another acre is turned out as too poor to cultivate. How are we to use the acres which will never be suitable or needed for cultivation.

Authorities tell us that such poor land if properly handled will pay a net income of $2 to $6 per acre per year in trees at present prices. And timber prices are bound to go up because trees are being used about four times as fast as they are being grown. There will never be an overproduction of good timber trees.

This offers an excellent opportunity for the farmer to make his poor land profitable. In Alabama we have as good condtions for tree growth as can be found anywhere in the world. We have lots of rainfall, a long growing season and relatively fertile soils. Also, it is seldom necessary for us to plant trees in order to get a stand. We have enough seed-producing trees that nature will in most cases do the planting for us. The returns from tree growth are therefore nearly all profit.

Although it is not necessary to fertilize or cultivate trees there are certain inexpensive operations which are necessary for good growth. Chief among these operations is prevention of fire. There was at one time a rather general idea that woods and grass fires destroyed boll weevils. Investigations have shown this to be untrue. It has also been shown that grass fires are extremely harmful to grazing. They destroy the most valuable pasture plants and leave the tougher kinds, as broom sedge and wire grass. Everybody loses when woods burn.

When trees become old enough that they are no longer growing a reasonable rate of interest they should be cut. The smaller trees should be protected for another crop.

Trees which would develop into the least value should be removed while small and used for the purposes for which they are best suited.

By all means protect your poor land from fire. Idle land is a liability to the owner and the county. Trees will make the poorest land pay.

CURB MARKET SALES TOTAL $827,650.14

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 28.—From the time they were started until the end of 1928 sales on the 26 curb markets of Alabama totaled $827,650.14, according to reports sent to Miss Helen Johnston at Auburn by the home demonstration agents. The year 1928 was the biggest and the best year for these markets because more of them were in operation and better products were offered for sale.

The first curb market in the state was opened in 1923, the second in 1924, the third in 1925, two in 1926, 13 in 1927, and 8 in 1928. They are operated on a cooperative basis by the farm people and urban people in towns and ctiies in which they are located. Home demonstration agents and county agents have made them major projects in the counties in which they are located.

From these markets hundreds of different kinds of products have been sold direct to the consumers. Practically everything produced on Alabama farms and in farm homes, except cotton, corn and similar crops, has been marketed successfully this way.

Many of the markets are running throughout the year. At first it was difficult for them to keep going thru the winter, but producers have learned what to produce and how to produce it, the result being that fresh products are offered for sale each market day. A severe freeze reduces the number of products for sale, but these are rare in Alabama.

Many interesting stories have been reported to the home demonstration agents of the value of these markets. Sellers have used the money received in numerous ways—for the improvement of their homes and farms, payment of debts, purchase of automobiles, etc. Meanwhile buyers have obtained nice fresh products at fair prices.

Home demonstration club women and girls in Alabama in 1928 made and preserved 852,526 quarts of food products, according to reports received at Auburn from the 41 home demonstration agents of the State.

The annual report of Miss Helen Johnston, state chairman of home demonstration extension work in Alabama with headquarters at Auburn, reveals that 18,326 women and girls were members of organized clubs conducted by the 41 home demonstration agents in 1928.

COOPERATIVE POULTRY MARKETING STARTS WELL IN 1929

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 26.—The first week of cooperative poultry marketing in the 1929 season was a great success. Statistics compiled in the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation office by J. B. Sylvester and J. D. Moore, marketing specialists of the Extension Service, Auburn, show that the week ending January 25th that farmers and growers sold approximately 122,431 pounds of birds and received about $24,400.00 for them.

Throughout the next 4 months, every section of the state will be reached by the cooperative sales, according to the marketing specialists. Two or more cars will be loaded each week. County agents, district agents, marketing specialists, county and state farm bureau officials, and other agricultural workers interested in poultry, will cooperate in advertising the sales. Good prices are being paid the growers at the car doors.

The birds loaded during the first week of the cooperative sales came from Conecuh, Butler, Geneva, Covington, Henry, Coffee, Dale, Chambers, Randolph and Clay Counties. The cars loaded as follows: Castleberry and Evergreen, 18,542 pounds; Greenville and Georgiania, 8,389 pounds; LaFayette, Roanoke, Wadley and Lineville, 25,000 pounds; Geneva, Samson, Opp, and Andalusia, 24,000 pounds; Elba, New Brockton, Enterprise and Ozark, 24,500 pounds; Abbeville, Newville, Headland and Midland City, 22,000 pounds. All of these points loaded more poultry than were expected at first and in most all instances, the second car was necessary where only one car had been planned.

During the second week of the sales, poultry cars are being loaded in Escambia, Monroe, Imore, Macon, Lee, Tallapoosa, Talladega, Coosa and Franklin Counties. The marketing specialists are at present arranging for cars during following weeks. They plan this year to reach sections of the state they have not reached during previous years.

Lest season, 43 cars of poultry were sold cooperatively. It is expected that the sales this year will exceed those of last year. Marketing specialists have said that they expect at least 50 cars and hope the number will be larger than this.

The Clay County Basket Association was organized less than two years ago under the direction of Mrs. J. E. S. Rudd, county home demonstration agent. Sales to date exceed $25,000.

Dried fruits, such as apples, raisins, prunes, dates, figs, peaches, and apricots, are particularly valuable at this time of year when fresh fruit is scarce and likely to be expensive.

Montgomery, Alabama, has been selected as the location for the only tactical aviation school in the world, according to Jesse B. Hearin of the Montgomery Chamber of Commerce.

C. O. Mann, of New Hope, Madison County, won a trip to Houston, Texas, and also into Mexico by making an average of 948 pounds of lint cotton per acre on 5 acres. The trip was awarded by the Alabama division of the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau.

In 1928 Clarence Goneka of Repton, Conecuh County, produced 590 pounds of lint cotton at a cost of 4 1-2 cents per pound, according to P. R. Pettis, county agent. He used Cook 307-6 variety and fertilized it with 400 pounds of superphosphate, 200 pounds of nitrate of soda, and 50 pounds of muriate of potash.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

A good radio receiving set in a farm home means that the farmer and his family are getting service and are being entertained from the air.

The fruit tree that is not sprayed this winter is sure to produce inferior fruit next summer. It may produce none at all.

Egg yolk is a necessary part of a little child's daily diet and can be used at breakfast, lunch or supper.

Save the small screw-top jars in which mayonnaise and other food products are packed. They are convenient food containers for next summer's picincs.

There are more ruts than those in roads; and the farmer, the businessman, the banker, or the professional man who allows himself to get into a rut is unfair to himself.

It is said that dairymen supplying Havana, Cuba, with milk are now spending one-half million dollars for equipment to comply with sanitary regulations.

At a cost of 6.38 cents per pound Alfred Montp, of Moundville, produced 705 pounds of lint cotton on an acre in 1928, accroding to J. L. Lawson, county agent. He planted the Half and Half variety and fertilized it with 400 pounds of superphosphate, 200 pounds nitrate of soda, and 50 pounds of muriate of potash.

PAULINE LYNCH HAS BEEN 4-H CLUB MEMBER 7 YEARS

Pauline Lynch of Clay County, Alabama, has been in 4-H club work under her home demonstration agent, Mrs. J. E. S. Rudd, seven years. She became a club member when she was 12 years old. She tells us a story of her work as follows:

"I have had gardening one year, canning every year, foods two years, and clothing four years. I began sewing when I first joined the club and have been doing all my sewing ever since. Have been doing the family sewing for five years. I did all the sewing for my two younger sisters until they joined the club and learned to sew. I still help them with their sewing though.

"I have all four Units in clothing. Have exhibited and won prizes in community, county, and state fairs, and three fashion shows for four years. I have won two trips to Auburn and one to Montgomery to the fair in 1926 where I demonstrated features in sewing.

"I had an individual exhibit of all the different things that I have learned in the club at the Montgomery State fair. Mrs. J. E. S. Rudd, my home demonstration agent, and I went to Montgomery Friday, November 2, and carried my exhibit. We went back again Wednesday to the fair. Imagine my feelings when I saw a blue ribbon on my exhibit, which meant first prize, a free trip to Chicago to the National Boys and Girls Club Congress the last of November valued at $100, and $10 in money.

"I was so thrilled over winning first prize. It all seemed too good to be true.

"I am so happy that the last pimple is gone—"

WITHOUT this handicap, there returns the very natural confidence, joy and cherished pride of possessing a clear skin.

Men and women both justly covet admiration, and you can expect such satisfaction only if you are happy in a clear, unblemished skin.

The sure way to reach this state is through the blood.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

Grand Jury Returns Fifteen True Bills

Asks That Investigation Be Made of Disorders and Drunkenness on Night of Last General Election

The following is a report of the Grand Jury of Circuit Court of Chilton County, January Term, which was in session last week:

State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court of said County and State.

To Hon. Geo. F. Smoot, as Judge of said Court:

Immediately after receiving your Honor's able and instructive charge the Grand Jury empanelled for the January term of the Circuit Court entered upon their investigations and herewith submit the following as the result of our finding:

During our deliberations we have considered 26 cases and have examined 60 witness and are returning herewith 15 true bills.

We have made a personal inspection of the County Jail and find it to be old, worn out and unsafe for the keeping of prisoners. We find that within the last two years five prisoners confined in the Jail have broken out and thus far have not been captured and that most or all of the prisoners breaking out of the Jail were confined therein on serious charges. We further find that the sheriff had to remove some prisoners to the jail of an adjoining county solely for the reason that there was grave danger of them making their escape if confined in our Jail. We feel that this matter deserves most serious study by our County officials and this Grand Jury wishes to go on record as recommending that a new modern jail and quarters for the Sheriff be built.

We find that the books of some of the County officials have not been examined by the state examiners in three or four years. We feel that this is an injustice to our County officials as well as to the public. The Grand Jury feels that the books of county officials should be examined at least once a year and we wish to go on record as making such recommendation. We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain.

We have examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public and in our examination of the sheriff's account with the state for feeding prisoners we find it being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the County Superintendent of Education we find that his books, records and papers are neatly kept and in so far as we ascertained were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

On our inspection of the alms house we find in our opinion that it is being well handled by those in charge and that the occupants get meals and attention in so far as the arrangements for taking care of the inmates will reasonably permit. The Grand Jury suggest that shades be placed on the windows in the court room.

The Grand Jury wishes especially to thank your Honor for the very able charge given us when we were first empanelled as it has been most helpful to us throughout all our investigations. We also wish to thank Solicitor Huddleston for his able help during our investigation. Sheriff Collins and his deputies and Mr. Lett, the bailiff for the Grand Jury, were most courteous to us during our inventigations and rendered us valuable assistance in the dispatch of the business before us all of which we greatly appreciate.

We find that there was considerable disorder and drunkenness on the last election night in Clanton but have been unable with the time at our disposal during this week to secure the names of the witnesses desired. We urge that the matter be thoroughly investigated by the authorities and that a report of the investigation be laid before this body at some convenient date.

We having complied to the best of our ability with your Honor's charge we respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us to again convene.

This January 24th, 1929.

H. B. ROPER, Foreman.

They Shake Hands at Miami

Herbert C. Hoover

"THE HAPPY WARRIOR"

Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Nominee of Democratic National Convention For the Presidency

Gov. Alfred Smith, Democracy's "Happy Warrior," and his Republican conqueror, President-elect Herbert Hoover, joked about amusing incidents of the recent campaign, when they met at Miami Beach Tuesday. That much Smith told reporters, after the meeting. But their exact words and actions were not revealed, eager though the public might be for details of the first meeting in eight years between the two political standard-bearers.

Hoover and Smith Joke about Race

"Al" Wishes Conqueror "Luck, Success and Health"

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 29.—The defeated champion of the Democratic party became plain "Al" Smith of his campaign days when he called Tuesday upon President-elect Hoover, his successful rival.

He put on his brown derby, cocked his cigar at a rakish angle, and left his Coral Gables Hotel without his breakfast in order to arrive at the Hoover Winter Home, 12 miles away, at the appointed hour of meeting, 11 o'clock.

The former New York Governor and democratic presidential candidate, aside from his brown derby, made his call with all the trappings. He wore formal morning attire, with frock coat, and rode up to the Penney estate in the big blue automobile which belongs to Joseph M. Smoot, president of the Miami Jockey Club, and one of Smith's hosts here.

Raskob and Kenny Along

His two close friends, Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National Committee and William F. Kenny, accompanied Smith on the visit, which has received so much publicity.

They arrived on time. In fact it was two minutes before time when the car turned into the Penney driveway. The car slid in quietly without the motorcycle—police escort, whose screaming sirens have blazed the paths about this neighborhood for the defeated presidential candidate.

The big question about these parts has been: "What will they say to each other?"

This question still remains unanswered, except for meagre details, supplied after the meeting by Smith.

"I congratulated him—and I meant it," Smith said. "I wished him luck and success and good health. We talked a little about amusing incidents of the campaign."

The conversation of the four men—the two principals and Raskob and Kenny—lasted for 25 minutes. The setting was a spacious sun parlor of the Penney home—but there was no sun.

Pleasant Conversation

It was a pleasant conversation. The president-elect and Smith recalled campaign experiences, some of which have never been published.

The two men who have received more publicity in the last few months than anybody else in the country, the principal figures in one of the country's most dramatic campaigns, and also one of the bitterest, seemed to find common ground, though they had met only once before, and that casually.

But just what was said in the sun parlor is lost to political history for the present. The picture is lost for all time, for no photographs were allowed, not even one of the principals after the meeting was over.

The president-elect banned the photographers. He also requested that newspaper men should not gather about the house.

FROM MRS. CLARA LITTIE, OF CHUNCHULA, ALABAMA

Editor Union-Banner:

We would like to have a space in the paper this week as we want to tell our friends around Chilton that we don't like down here as good as we do up there. We are planning on coming back up there this summer on a trip. We are going to the Mobile Bay on a picnic Sunday. Wish all of our friends were here to go with us. We went to the Tombigbee River Sunday and had some pictures made. We enjoyed ourselves. Loretta Kenny and Marshall Wooley and also Hester Little, William Wright, her fellow, Clara Little and her husband, Arthur Little and Maggie Littlefield and I could not tell who all was along. We started to the saw mill yesterday and saw a gopher; it ran in its hole.

I hope Mrs. Flora Little and Mrs. Dora Glass are enjoying themselves now at Clanton. They left Sunday was a week ago to move back to Clanton. Mr. Martin and Mr. Green and Mr. Spark and Mr. Little are living in tents. We like just fine only when it comes up a cloud. O, I forgot, we went to Mr. Littlefield's mill the other day and saw a deer. We are planning on a big trip way down in Florida this summer. Wish you all were here to go with us.—

Well, I guess we better close for this time—Miss Loretta Kenny, Miss Hester Little and Mrs. Clara Little, Chinchula, Ala.

Growth of Cable Service

The first successful cable to be laid was to Calias from Dover, about 1850, by Jacob and John Brett. In 1858 the first cable messages were exchanged between England and America. There are now over 300,000 miles of cable over which messages can be sent at the rate of 100 words a minute.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

The music pupils of Miss Kathryn Dick will give their first recital at Helen Jenkins Hall Saturday, February 2nd at 7:30 p. m. While such affairs are not usually exhilirating as high art exhibitions, they do serve to show a certain amount of talent among those who are wrestling with and to some extent overcoming the intricacies of producing instrumental music and laying the foundation on which to build something that will give pleasure and inspiration to themselves and to many others according to the proficiency attained and the tenacity with which they pursue practice and study in the years to come. Admission is free.

Both teacher and pupils should receive the encouragement of the attendance of all who are interested in the educational progress of young folks in an accomplishment that means much to them and to the community.

Prof. and Mrs. C. M. Williams of Port Hugh were in Thorsby last Saturday afternoon.

Ronald Lucas, a student at Auburn, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lucas, in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzpatrick of Ensley were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper.

The Y. W. A. met at the Public School Building Tuesday afternoon. They had an interesting meeting. The topic for discussion was Personal Consecration. Mrs. Lillian Deason and Miss Clara Vines were hostesses.

Harry Petersen and family of Prattville Junction were week end visitors at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Petersen.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each had as dinner guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen and Jack, also Miss Fairbank.

George Mims and wife have so far recovered from flu as to be able to sit up. Mrs. Pate, their daughter, has been assiduous in her attentions during their serious illness for several weeks past.

Mr. C. E. Lucas has been quite ill with flu for several days. He was reported to be somewhat improved Tuesday.

Miss Helen C. Jenkins has been confined to her bed for the past three days with a severe cold. She was able to be up Tuesday.

The Congregational Ladies Aid social will be held Thursday afternoon, February 7th, at the home of Mrs. J. E. Each.

The annual meeting of the Congregational Ladies Aid Society was held at the church last Friday afternoon. Reports showed a successful year and considerable money collected and disbursed for church expenses and other benevolent purposes. Officers elected for the ensuing year were Mrs. E. W. Butler, President; Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, Vice President; Mrs. S. E. Norton, Secretary and Mrs. C. C. Petersen, Treasurer.

Next Sunday at 7:15 p. m. Mr. Each will give another illustrated lecture at the Congregational church. The title of the lecture is "From the Great Lakes to Puget Sound." The writer has traveled over the territory that will be displayed in the pictures and can say there are many beautiful scenes along the way. Admission is free, but a collection will be taken to defray expenses. If more than that is received it will go to missionary work of the denomination.

Mr. Robert Dickson spent the week end in Birmingham.

Bob Jones, noted evangelist and lecturer, is expected to be in Thorsby Friday, February 6th, and will deliver his lecture on "The Perils of America" at 7:30 p. m. in the public school auditorium. Admission free.

Mrs. Anna Parnell, mother of Mrs. S. C. Wood, is visiting in Selma this week.

Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association will meet at the public school auditorium at 3 p. m. Friday, February 1st. Everybody come!

Mr. and Mrs. Wood had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. S. King of Selma and Mr. John VanDerveer of Clanton.

Mrs. C. C. Driskell and children spent Monday with Mrs. S. C. Wood, returning to Birmingham Monday evening.

Mrs. John Bean had an operation at Baptist Hospital in Birmingham last Friday and is reported doing well.

Indications are that flu is slowly subsiding in and about Thorsby.

Mrs. A. P. Villadsen has been removed from South Highlands Hospital where she had an operation for Mastoid and is now recuperating at the home of her mother, Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Those who were present were Mr. Roscoe Maddox, Miss Mary Ella Gerald, Mrs. Carl Chambers, of Flint, Michigan, Russell Peterson, Jewell Beane and Christina Bosworth, together with the Meade family. The evening was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Barham of Birmingham were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Bentley.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF LITTLE DELENE WILLIAMS

Just a bud of a beautiful flower when the good Father called her home up there somewhere, nevermore to suffer; and safe forever beyond the foam.

Of course we all loved her dearly, friends, parents, and all her kin, but let's console our hearts fully for we are out and she is in. Jesus said: "Suffer them to come to me for of such is My home up there." There she'll play with the other cherubims shielded from every sorrow and care.

Warnnig us against a world of woe she is dead yet she ever liveth in the home which is the best. There she is waiting for papa and mamma.—Written by a friend, Mrs. C. Williams, Plantersville, Ala.

HOOVER WILL GIVE EAR TO SOUTHERN POLITICS

An Associated Press dispatch from Miami, Florida, where president-elect Hoover, is spending a vacation, indicates that Mr. Hoover "has something on his mind" in regard to the Republican party's future in the South. The news dispatch says:

"President-elect Hoover had scarcely gotten settled for his Southern vacation today before he began inquiring into future prospects of the Republican party in the South.

Stuart W. Cramer, of Charlotte, N. C., wealthy textile manufacturer and Republican leader, told him the outlook in North Carolina bore promise as the Republicans had made substantial gains in the election of members of the state Legislature and county officers, winning a third of the seats in the former and 40 per cent of the latter, while the 63,000 majority for Hoover was far better than expected.

"That forms the nucleus of an organization upon which to work," Mr. Cramer said after he had been a luncheon guest of the president-elect and had talked at length with Mr. Hoover."

It should be no surprise to know that Republican politicians are looking toward the South. In view of what happened down here last November, we would say they are a dumb lot of politicians if they do not take notice of the South in their future political calculations.

While it is true that the result of last November's balloting cannot be taken to mean that the South has changed to the Republican faith in the sense that some other sections of the country are appraised. Yet there is no denying the fact that the "solid south" of so much fame in the past has gone out of existence in the sense the term has been used for many years.

Last November proved that it is not impossible for the South to vote Republican if it wants to. Now, for the present we will leave the subject by saying that the South offers an attractive study for Mr. Hoover when he feels inclined to amuse himself with a little political by-play. Much interest will be aroused by the manner in which he approaches the subject.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Officials of the School of Medicine of the University of Alabama have anounced that plans are under consideration for the development of a standard four-year course in medicine at the University.

Officials declare that it is possible to afford to the students of the state a medical school on a par with any in the country. They point out that the present two-year medical course at the University is rated as Class A by the American Medical Association; that there are far more candidates for admisiso nto the medical school rejected each year than are accepted, and that the medical library at the University now contains ten thousand volumes of scientific publications and more than a hundred current journals and periodicals.

Any plans for developing a four-year course in medicine at the Capstone would call, officials stated, for a standard which would be accepted by the American Medical Association, would operate under the supervision of the best medical educators available, and would give preference to boys and girls of the state in the matter of entrance.

The Crimson White, student publication at the University, carried a story recently commenting upon the predominance of Smiths on the campus. According to the student reporter who made the tabulation, there are 47 Smiths on the University rolls, 19 Browns, and only 17 Joneses.

In a model-boat contest held in the schools of Baltimore last year, 2,000 boats were made by pupils in elementary and junior and senior high schools. Much interest was shown by parents in work of the children, and in carrying out the project the Maryland Yacht Club and many departments of the city government cooperated with the division of vocational education.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

FRANK P. LITSCHERT

One subject in which the average American is always interested is taxes. All of us are affected by taxes whether we pay them directly or not. For if we do not pay them through the treasurer's office ourselves, we pay them indirectly in added costs of the things we buy and consume. It is interesting and significant to note, therefore, that our tax bill for the year 1927 was the biggest in the history of the world. According to the Tax Division of the National Industrial Conference Board the Federal, state and local governments in the United States collected in the way of taxes during the year 1927 the sizeable sum of $9,074,000,000. This is a world's record although it is to be admitted that the tax burden per capita is not yet so great as that in some European countries, notably Great Britain and Germany.

Now since our total tax bill has been increasing steadily it is only fair to assume that when the statistics for the year 1928 are available, the records will show an even greater tax collection than in 1927 and another world's record will be hung up. Not only have the taxes increased but since 1923 the proportion of taxes paid to total national income has been increasing. In 1923 the tax paid amounted to 10.1 per cent of the national income. In 1927 it had risen to twelve per cent. The total taxes per capita in 1923 were $64.77, while in 1927 they had risen to $76.50.

Total governmental expenditures have been increasing since 1923 too. It is estimated that in 1928 these expenditures were twelve billions of dollars, an incrase of a half billion over 1927. In 1927 they increased a half billion over 1926. But the expenditures of the federal government are not growing in proportion to state and local expenditures. In 1926 they were only $51,000,000 greater than in 1923, and it is to be noted that while federal expenditures in 1926 amounted to 33.9 per cent of total expenditures, they were 37.9 per cent of total expenditures in 1923.

This indicates of course that while federal expenditures have been greatly curtailed, the state and local expenditures have been increasing at a merry pace. Another sad fact is to be pointed out. The showing is even more extravagant than the figures indicate for the reason that prices have been decreasing for several years. The taxpayer's dollar therefore buys more for the county, state and nation than it formerly did, but in spite of this fact the outlay of dollars has increased. It would be only natural to suppose that with the dollar buying more, the total amount of expenditures would be less. But somehow or other, it fails to work out that way.

The attention of the taxpayers has been called repeatedly to this increase in local expenditures, by newspapers, business and civic organizations, but the increase seems to continue just the same. This is of course a growing nation and a steadily prospering nation. We have the highest standard of living the world has ever known, and on our showing of national earnings and national savings, are entitled to the best there is in a material way. Improvements naturally call for a large outlay of money, and many improvements are necessary. But it is well occassionally to call attention to the lavish way in which money is spent by many state and local governments on improvements which may not be vitally essential at the time.

Federal expenditures have been checked, as the report above shows, but there are questions in the offing which may necessitate an increase in federal taxes without any commensurate benefit to the public if certain policies are adopted. First, there is in the offing a renewal of the attempt to win the public to the notion of cancelling the European war debts. If this is done the American taxpayer will have to pay these European debts. The money has been spent and somebody must make good. If Europe doesn't the American taxpayer will have to come to time. Greater American investments in Europe presage the coming of the time when powerful interests in America will call for a lowering of our tariff barriers so that Europe may pay the American bondholders in goods at the expense of the American producer. A general lowering of the tariff below the danger point might result in less revenue from customs, and here again the American taxpayer would have to make good, and make good at a time when he was least able to do so. These, of course are matters for the future, but it is just as well to think them over occasionally.

Federal prohibition is now ten years old and we don't know of any other youngster of that age who has succeeded in getting himself more talked about.

It is said that college girls spend on the average $300 a year for their clothes. And it's our judgment that they don't get very much for their money.

Brother Bryan's Bible Story

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

GOD—A GOD OF ALL NATIONS

The Bible, the inspired Word of God is an inspired story of missions. Someone has said that the missionary books of the Bible are Genesis, Isaiah, Acts, Revelation. The whole Bible teaches us that God is God of all the nations of the earth, that Jesus Christ is the Saviour of all men who believe and trust in Him. Christ, the Saviour of all men at Penteeost, the birthplace of the Christian church in Jerusalem, on the birthday of the Christian Church, was manifest by the Holy Spirit which came upon all flesh.

That was the fulfillment of prophecy in Joel. "Ye shall know that I am the Lord your God. I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh." In John 6:51 we read these words of Christ: "I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever and the bread which I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world." He meant that He would die on the cross, His hands would be pierced by nails, His side would be pierced by the sword for the salvation of the whole world.

The blessings of the teaching of this chapter of the Father and His Eternal Son, the only Saviour of the world and of the Holy Spirit the agent in redemption are clearly prophesied. The expressions in such sentences as we read in Psalm 67:1-2, "God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us. That thy way may be known upon the earth, thy saving health among all nations," is truly to all the earth, all nations.

The salvation of the world is in answer to prayer we are told in several places in the Bible. In Psalm 2:8 God says, "Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy posssion." Remember that we pray the prayer given by Christ Himself in Matthew 6:10: "Thy Kingdom Come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."

Christ commands us to bear witness for Him. In Acts 1:8 we read these words of Christ: "Ye shall receive power after the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." A witness is one who tells all he knows about anything. We really must know Christ to be able to tell about Him. We must be a witness-bearer in our homes, our neighborhoods, our cities, our country districts, and then we must bear witness for Him unto the uttermost parts of the world.

These words were uttered by Christ just before His ascension to the right hand of God. To me this makes this command very important. We must remember that in Jerusalem after the ascension of Christ, there were people filled with the Holy Spirit from every nation under heaven. The list of the people is given in the 2nd chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. There were Parthians, Medes, Elamites, dwellers in Mesopotamia, and in Judea, Cappadocia, in Pontus, Asia, Phrygia, Pamphylia, in Egypt, parts of Libyia about Cyrene and strangers of Rome, Jews and Proselytes and Arabians.

You remember that Jerusalem is called by all students the capital of the Jewish Christian Church, and Antioche in Syria is called the capital of the Gentile Christian Church. It was from Antioch the first missionaries were sent really to the Gentile world. The Holy Spirit was the agent in sending them out. The men who were sent were Paul and Barnabas whose names fill chapters in the missionary history of the Bible.

In Acts 4:12 we read that there is salvation in no one except Christ; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved. Christ is the only Saviour of men from their sins. Budha cannot save men from sin, Confuscius cannot save men from sin, Mohammed cannot save us from sin. In Matthew 25:32 we read these words: "And before Him shall be gathered all nations: and He shall separate them one from the other, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats." This is one of the most solemn statements in the Bible. It means that before Christ shall be gathered all nations. Christ shall be the judge, and He will separate these nations one from another as the shepherd separates his sheep from the goats.

We read that in heaven there will be a great multitude which no man can number of all nations and kindred and tribe and tongue. These perishing millions in the homeland and in the foreign lands are calling unto us, "Come over and help us lest we die without Christ." Are we making any sacrifice to help people who are without this Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Saviour of the world? Are we praying for them? Are we giving our means to send the Gospel to these be-nighted people? Are we giving of our time and money to take the Gospel to those right at our doors?

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture. A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

A further improvement in braking performance is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes — an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in steady, uniform contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent in operation.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

MORE STATE TREES FOR FARM PLANTING

Landowners may obtain additional young trees of certain species from the State Forest Nursery, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. There is still a considerable supply of Long-leaf Pine, Red Pine, Yellow Wood and Box Elder for forest planting. For experimental purposes, there are also limited amounts of Japanese Red Pine, Japanese Black Pine, Austrian Pine, Scotch Pine, Mexican White Pine, Jack Pine and Pitch Pine.

The season's distribution will end about February 28. The limit that can be issued free to each planter is temporarily raised to 1,200 young trees. Any person who has received a smaller quantity of the seedlings may make application for enough additional to make up this total. Special application blanks for this purpose will be furnished by the State Forester, Montgomery, Alabama, upon request.

THE VALUE OF TREES

There are two kinds of wood. The ornamental woods, mainly south of the pine belt, are used in making furniture. They are such woods as White Oak, Black Walnut, Maple Chestnut and Mahogany.

The practical woods grow mainly between the firtieth and sixtieth parallels. Lumber is made from the practical woods which are used for the framework oh houses and in other building purposes.

The medicines that are obtained from trees are Opium, and quinine which are found in Asia Minor and British India; Camphor in Japan and Chinchona Sarsaparilla and Cocoa, all tropical American plants.

There are many kinds of dyestuffs obtained from trees or plants. Indigo is one of the oldest dyes known It is a rich blue substance prepared from a plant or tree in Colonial times, and was a very important article of commerce. It is now grown in the East Indies. Logwood is a tropical wood from which black dyes are made. Aniline colors are prepared from coal tar. Practically all the colors used in arts are prepared from it. Most of these dyes are made in Germany.

Rubber and coffee trees grow mainly in Brazil, Venezuela and other South American countries. Common rubber is the prepared juice of shrubs and trees. Although a small sample of rubber trees was discovered in Montevallo by one of the Junior III. boys, which was very interesting.

The naval stores of pine trees are turpentine, resin and pitch. Turpentine is made from the sap of the long leaf pine of the Atlantic Coast. Plain resin is used in manufacturing wrapping paper. Pitch is the substance given off after pine has been burned.

Fruit is another thing that is yielded by trees. A food we could hardly do without. Most of the fruits are grown in the western states and South Alabama.

There are many kinds of wood grown in Alabama. The Junior III Georgraphy Class of Calera Junior High School have made an entire study of trees, as the study was so interesting each student of the class had to get a sample of every kind of tree possible.

The neatest and the most uniform collection was brought in by Dewey Finley. The largest collection of wood samples, which was ninety, was turned in by Jessie Splawn and Carol Eddins ranking next.

The class also has made a collection of tree products. By this study we learned what the products were and how they are used. Some of the products that we have studied are Gutta Percha, is the material of marine telegraph cables. It is found in the Malay Peninsula. Rubber which is used for the manufacture of automoblie tires and other things. Dental rubber is used in making the gums of false teeth. Turpentine is a medicine. Resin is used for manufacturing paper. Cake coloring is the color you put in a cake to color it, which is usually red. This liquid is made of juice out of ground up bugs. Lumber also was a very important product which we made a study of and what the different kinds were used for.

The reasons why wood is valuable i sthat ti is used for the frame work of house and to make furniture. Civilized man now requires the materials for shelter. In rural communities ones things are usually built of lumber. No other material can take the place of wood as a building material.—Vera Comer, Calera Junior High School.

IN MEMORY

Of our beloved father, Mr. L. W. Johnson, who died January 22, 1929, seven o'clock, at his home near Plantersville. His death was caused from heart trouble. He had had the flu and pneumonia, but had recovered from that. He leaves five sons and two daughters and companion to mourn his death. He has been a citizen of Chilton County the greater part of his life. To know him was to love him, for his great kindness and good will for his fellow man.

Football Supports All Other Undergraduate Sports

Football at Yale University pays the cost of carrying on all other undergraduate sports and makes possible free outdoor athletics for everybody that wants to play, according to the Yale Alumni Weekly. Football gross receipts last year were $1,033,211. Out of this sum, after paying expenses of $137,291, and $352,835 to visiting teams, the net profit was $543,084. The only other undergraduate organization that made a profit last year was the gun club, with a balance of $13.11. Deficits for the other activities included $64,639 for rowing, $29,309 for track, $19,824 for baseball, and $12,719 for swimming. Hockey, boxing, basketball, soccer, tennis, polo, fencing, and lacrosse, all lost more than $5,000 each. Golf, with a deficit of $2,737, was the smallest loser.

History Syllabus Sets Forth Man's Whole Life

A tentative syllabus in history for grades 4 to 8, which is thought in some respects to blaze a new trail in the study of history, has been published by the New York State Education Department, and has been distributed to superintendents of the schools. In the syllabus the continuity of history is emphasized and the development of the present from the past is traced. The whole life of man is set forth—not merely his political and military achievements. Material for the eighth grade is devoted to the study of history since the Civil War, with values shifted from wars to the cultural thread of development of civilized society. The aim is to promote in the pupil an understanding of the present from knowledge of the past, appreciation of the operation of cause and effect, and interpretation of the contributions of the past in culture, institutions, and social procedure, to the end that conditions in the present social order may be improved and a spirit of tolerance and good will engendered toward peoples in other lands. The syllabus is the work of school men and women actively engaged in teaching in public schools and higher institutions of New York, in cooperation with representatives of the State Education Department. —School Life.

THERE'S no mistaking the true maple flavor in this new breakfast syrup! You know it's real the minute it touches your tongue. And it costs you less than you pay for other maple blends!

But see how much better it tastes on 'cakes, waffles and hot biscuits . . . how the children enjoy it on their bread.

The secret of this finer flavor lies in a special way of blending real Canadian maple and pure corn syrup.

No other syrup takes the true maple flavor so well, because pure corn syrup itself is neutral in taste. But blended in these exact proportions and at certain temperatures, it adds a smoothness and delicacy not to be found in other syrups. Note, too, how clear this syrup is, as the result of extra care in its making.

Your family will enjoy Staley's Honey Flavored and Sorghum Flavored Syrup, too. No artificial flavors are used in them. Only real honey, made by bees . . . and the best quality of pure sorghum.

Staley's syrups are so healthful, too! They contain 40% dextrose and maltose, practically predigested sugars, wholesome sources of quick energy.

Ask for these Staley's Syrups at your grocer's today! And be sure that you get Staley's. No other kind can give their matchless flavors at such a big saving.

Also ask for Staley's famous Crystal White and Golden Syrups.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for February 3

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

LESSON TEXT—II Tim. 3:14-17; Ps. 19:7-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Bible.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Bible.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Read the Bible?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the Bible is For.

I. The Scriptures Are Divinely Inspired. (II Tim. 3:16).

The first thing to be settled concerning the Canonical Scriptures is their inspiration and authority. In the Scriptures God is at "sundry times and in divers manners" speaking to man (Heb. 1:1). Paul in this passage declares them to be "God breathed," meaning that the utterances of Holy Writ were God's breath in men's mouths. The Holy Scriptures do not merely contain the Word of God, but are in verity the message of God to men.

The main cause of the moral breakdown of society is that men have been robbed of their faith in the Bible as the authoritative message from God.

II. The Value of the Scriptures (II Tim. 3:14-17).

1. Able to make wise unto salvation (v. 15).

Salvation is in Christ alone. It is secured through faith in His finished work on the cross. True wisdom leads to Christ crucified, since there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved (Acts 4:12), and without the shedding of blood there is no remission (Heb 9:22).

2. Disciplines the life (vv. 16, 17).

In this "doctrine" is set forth the necessary standard of conduct. The only place to find the teaching of God is in His Holy Word. It not only sets forth a standard of life, but it reproves—confutes error. The way to deal with error is not by denunciation but with a positive presentation of truth. The Word corrects (sets straight the dislocations of personal and social conduct), instructs in righteousness, and equips for service.

III. The Nature and Effects of God's Law (Psa. 19:7-11).

1. Perfect.

It is without flaw; converts and restores the soul; turns man back to holiness and to God.

2. Sure.

It is absolutely dependable. God cannot lie. Man's reasoning changes, but God's Word endures forever. It makes wise the simple. Not only does it makes wise unto salvation, but wise regarding the legitimate things of this world.

3. Right.

The precepts and judgments of the Lord are expressions of absolute righteousness. They fill the believer with rejoicing.

4. Pure.

There is in it no mixture of error. It makes no compromise with that which is untrue. Because of this it enlightens the eyes.

5. Clean.

6. True and righteous

The decisions of God's Word are true, without exception. The judgments of God's Word are unimpeachable. Because of these qualities God's Word is more to be desired than the choicest gold. Obedience thereto brings great reward.

IV. The Prayer of the Believer (Psa. 19:12-14).

The life brought face to face with God's Word is seen as sinful. The soul cries out for

1. Cleansing (v. 12.)

The perfect laws reveal the imperfections of the life. The Word of God reveals sins of which the individual may be ignorant (Isa. 6:5).

2. To be kept from presumptuous sin (v. 13).

Presumptuous, arrogant sins are peculiarly dangerous. In the Mosaic economy no sacrifice was provided for such sins.

3. Freedom from the dominion of such sins (v. 13).

How awful is the slavery of those who are in bondage to presumptuous sins.

4 That the words of the mouth and meditation of the heart be kept acceptable in God's sight. From how many dangers the believer would be freed if the words and meditations of the heart were kept in line with the Holy Scriptures.

Our Possessions

I will place no value on anything I have or possess, except in its relation to the Kingdom of Jesus Christ. —David Livingstone.

IN MEMORY

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Williams of Pletcher on Wednesday morning, January 23, about 7 o'clock and took their little 6-year old darling, Delene, to dwell with God eternally. We feel that all attention and medical aid that loving hands could render was adminisered unto her, but to no avail.

She was laid away at Pilgrim's Rest January 24th. Weep not, dear father and mother, for little Delene has gone to that beautiful home where there is no sorrow nor tears. We know that the omnipotent power of God is the source of all happiness and all sorrow and through him only can you get comfort. We see her no more on earth, but we know she lives with God for He said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." What we have lost heaven has gained.

Left to mourn her loss are her father and mother, two sisters, one brother, one half brother. They are Madgie and Orrville and Mrs. E. M. Ousley of Pletcher and Marvin of Breddenburg, Ala., and a host of friends and close relatives.

We miss her, oh, we miss her,
For our Saviour called her away;
But we are praying to meet her
In a better world some day.

No more on earth we'll see her face,
Her voice we'll hear no more,
But let us live to meet her
On that bright, happy shore.

We loved her, yes, we loved her,
But Jesus loved her more,
And He sweetly called her
To yonder shining shore.

—One Who Loved Her.

C. C. Conway, Chairman of the County Board of Education, was in Clanton Tuesday. Mr. Conway is also a member of the Child Welfare Board of Chilton County. He attended a meeting of the latter while here Tuesday.

Two Thorough Examinations for Every Pupil

As part of the medical service in schools of Toronto, Canada, each pupil has two complete physical examinations during the course of his school life. The first examination is made during the "junior first" year and is for the detection of physical defects; and the second, made during the "junior fourth" year, is to ascertain to what extent the defects previously found have been corrected, if other defects have developed, and for the purpose of vocational guidance. Such examinations are considered the most valuable means of health teaching given by the schools to parents and children. Each morning from 12 to 14 children are examined by the medical officer of the school, assisted by the school nurse. Parents are notified several days in advance of the examination and are requested to be present. The child is weighed and measured, his sight tested, and he is subjected to a thorough physical examiniation. Comments are freely made as the examination proceeds, and if defects are found they are explained to the mother and she is told the probable cause and what she should do to correct them. After it is all over the parent receives a card, signed by the principal of the school, emphasizing the importance of early correction of defects by the family physician if necessary, or, if necessary at the school clinic.

The examinations offer an opportunity to encourage mothers to bring the younger children to the school for examination, and at least one afternoon a week is set aside for the examination of children of preschool age. Durin gone year complete physical examinations were given to 21,340 children and special examinations to 5,143.—School Life.

IN REMBRANCE

On January the 28, 1929, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Williams and bore away the sweet spirit of the loved one, little Delene. She was the loving sunshine of their home. None knew her but to love her. She seemed only as a bright shining star to all whom she knew. Weep not dear friends and parents, for God has said in His blessed words, "Suffer litte children to come unto me, for such is the Kingdom of Heaven," and again he has said, "Let not your hearts be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my father's house are many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you."

Little Delene was only six years of age and her little body was laid to rest in Pilgrims Rest cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Bro. Deason. Dear parents, you have my greatest sympathy and prayers. —Earl Williams.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

AS YOU FEED SO SHALL THEY LAY

Records Show Egg Prdouction Often Doubled or Trebled by the Addition of One Simple Element to the Feed—Extra Profits from Correct Feeding More Than Offset the Slight Additional Cost.

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

From somewhere way back in my third reader days, I recall the story of a miser who tried to feed his horse shavings. It would save the price of hay, he reasoned, and if the change was made gradually the beast would never know the difference. Maybe the horse was fooled, but Nature most certainly was not. Long before the diet got to be all shavings the poor old horse gave up the ghost.

As I observe the way a great many people feed their chickens, I am often reminded of that story. I don't mean they are stingy, but their lack of knowledge about feeding is just as great. They are expecting the impossible and wonder greatly why they are so consistently disappoined.

The first thing that must be thoroughly understood is that from the hen's point of view egg laying is a secondary matter. She eats first of all to build up and maintain her own body. If, after enough has been eaten for that purpose, she can be persuaded to eat still more of the right kind of food correctly proportioned, she will lay eggs. That's all there is to the theory of scientific poultry feeding.

The next essential fact to be mastered is that different kinds of feeds produce widely different results. Grains furnish, for the most part, substances called carbohydrates that are transformed into fat for the fowl's body and albumen or egg whites. Other substances, known as proteins, build up the muscles of the bird and furnish yolks for eggs. Proteins are usually fed in the form of meat scraps, milk, or tankage. There are some proteins in grains but not enough for the hen's body and eggs too.

For the egg shells and bones of the fowl, minerals are required, calcium carbonate being the principal one. For that purpose, crushed oyster shell or limestone is kept before the fowls at all times.

A certain amount of green feed is also required. It helps prevent digestive disorders and contains the two valuable vitamins, A and D, so essential to the proper assimilation of other food. Without vitamin D, for example, the minerals in the feed cannot be made over into bone and egg shell.

Once it is clearly understood that each different kind of feed has its own individual job to do, the very term, "balanced ration," ceases to sound quite so much like a foreign language. It becomes plain that the ration must consist of just so much material containing carbohydrates and a proportionate amount containing proteins.

An example of what I consider a well balanced ration is the one given below, which I have used successfully for a number of years. For the sake of those not familiar with this method of feeding, I shall explain that mashes are customarily put in hoppers and kept constantly before the hens at all times. The grains are preferably fed by hand with the feedings far enough apart so the hens will eat plenty of mash in between times. The grains are called scratch feeds, by the way, because they are usually buried in deep litter. That makes the hens have to scratch it out, thus getting much needed exercise.

A Balanced Poultry Ration

Scratch Feed

100 lbs. yellow corn.
100 lbs. wheat or heavy oats.

Mash Feed

100 lbs. wheat bran.
100 lbs. middlings.
100 lbs. yellow corn meal.
50 lbs. ground oats.
100 lbs. meat scraps.

Plenty of seasonable green stuff should accompany this ration. Grit, charcoal and oyster shell should be kept before the hens at all times. And water! Yes, of course. Eggs are 65 per cent water and a plentiful supply of fresh, clean water should always be on hand to supply that requirement. It is also essential for the health of the flock.

The feeding of a balanced ration will work wonders. There are plenty of examples of flocks that were fed all-grain rations with only fair results, but which doubled or even trebled their output as soon as a good mash with the necessary protein element was added. It is not enough however, to feed a 50-50 mash and scratch feed ration all the time. The successful poultry man will study his flock. He will know whether they are producing beyond their normal capacity, or whether they are getting too fat and lazy so they are not laying as much as they should. If the former, he will cut down on the grain and increase the mash to make the birds consume more protein.

Note:—I will gladly answer questions about any phase of poultry feeding which may be addressed to me in care of the editor of this newspaper.

THE FARMER AND HIS BANK--

Ask any successful business man what a good banking connection has done for him. He will tell you that the cooperation and assistance of his banker has been one of the greatest factors in his success.

You, the farmers of Chilton County, are, in every sense of the word, business men, and, as business men, you should establish a connection with some bank that has shown an interest in you and your line of business. This bank has for 27 years made a conscientious effort to aid the farmers in every possible way. In fact it has been our aim to have this bank recognized as THE FARMER'S BANK.

We want the farmer's business and we know we can make your connection with us profitable to you.

Carload Poultry to be Shipped Feb. 6th

Car Will Be At Maplesville From Eleven O'clock Until Five

In view of the good market on poultry, the Chilton County Farm Bureau has made arrangements to have a poultry car at Maplesville, on February 6th. This car will be there from 11 o'clock to 5 o'clock. The prices to be paid are as follows: Colored hens, 22 1-2c; leghorn hens, 19 1-2c; friers, 32c; rooster, 10c; stags, 22 1-2c; turkeys, 20c; geese and ducks, 18c.

Four men, all well dressed, and driving a small touring car, were being sought by police after several unsuccessful attempts to pass counterfeit $10 bills on Birmingham merchants.

A building program to cost not less than $6,000,000 within the next 15 years was recommended for Alabama State Normal schools by Dr. George Trayer, of Columbia university, chairman of a committee appointed to make a study of needs in the state.

Chicago University Extend Dormitory System

With the purpose of outlining a course of study for primary children of slower-moving minds than the average children, but who are not subnormal, experimental classes are conducted in schools of Baltimore, Md. The purpose is to enrich the curriculum by increased use of educational activities and experiences, and to adjust it to the normal interests of such children. The study will be carried on for three years, and the movement in curriculum adjustment will follow the children as they advance to the second and third grades.

Seeing Nellie Home

By JANE OSBORN

CLARA GRAY was forty, but it had never occurred to her that age was creeping upon her or that she was no longer a girl until that winter when her twenty-year-old niece came to share her apartment in the city with her. Madge had secured a position in the city and from having accepted the day bed in Clara's apartment living room as a temporary shelter she had become a permanent fixture.

"It seems so cosy, living here together, Aunt Clara," Madge said. "Let's always go on just this way. I shan't ever care to marry and we do have such fun."

Clara fortunately hid her look of surprise, yet the prospect of continuing to play the role of Aunt Clara to Madge's friends, of being just an older woman looking after an attractive young niece, was a little staggering. There were so many things she wanted to do—maturer, older, more interesting people she wanted to invite to her apartment, where now there seemed to be room only for Madge's tiresome young friends.

One night Clara came home from her office in a pensive mood and when Madge suggested to Clara that she join her at the Y. W. C. A. for a bit of a swim, Clara begged off. As soon as the younger girl was out of the apartment and had started across the five blocks that led to the new Y building, Clara seized the telephone, called a number and was not particularly surprised when the young man at the other end called back. "Oh, hello, Aunt Clara, is that you?"

"Madge had gone to the Y to swim," said Clara, and the "Oh" that came back did not indicate that Larry Tate cared in the least whether Madge swam or didn't swim. "Still," reflected Clara, "he's the only one in the crowd that could even support her. "Yes," she went on aloud, "she'll be there until half-past ten and, do you know, it doesn't seem quite safe. It occurred to me that you might be going out and coming in again at about that time and you might call for her at the Y and see her home."

"So it's seeing Nellie home, is it?" asked Larry. "Well, I thought that sort of thing was as out of date as—as going to quilting parties."

Larry, to his own surprise, felt no special resentment toward Aunt Clara for giving him this assignment. It wasn't as if she had asked him to see herself home. Madge was young and she was pretty and he had been unsuccessful in his efforts that evening to persuade another young girl to go to the theater with him. It hadn't occurred to him then to ask Madge. Funny thing, reflected Larry, that he'd never even thought of Madge.

It occurred to Larry as he was sitting in the hall of the Y building that Madge might resent the idea of being sent for. So it was with a casual sort of "Hello, Madge," that he greeted the pretty girl as she passed toward the front door at half-past ten. He led her to his waiting car. "Just happened to be talking with Aunt Clara on the phone," he remarked. "She spoke of your being down here and as I happened to be passing I stopped in."

Larry drove three miles in order to reach Madge's apartment six blocks away. He had very little to say, but some of the time he whistled—an old air that Madge had heard before but could not place.

Later as Madge was preparing for bed in the little room she hummed gaily to herself.

"That's the tune that Larry was whistling," she told Aunt Clara, "and I can't seem to place it. Larry's so funny. He asked me if I knew what a quilting party was. I told him I didn't and he said to ask Aunt Clara. He said he thought girls went to husking parties when you were young."

"Larry ought to be spanked," said Aunt Clara.

"I hope you don't really dislike him," said Madge, and turned her blushing face away when Aunt Clara looked through the door at her.

"It does seem rather old-fashioned—your coming to see me home this way after swimming class," Madge told Larry a month later when for the fourth time he had called at the Y at half-past ten on Wednesday night. "I hope you don't think I am in need of an escort for protection. Aunt Clara used to come, but not because she thought it wasn't safe for me to come alone. I dare say Aunt Clara's getting too old to like to swim. But she's young in spirit, Larry—and she's often told me that a girl was as capable of taking care of herself anywhere as a man if she just kept her head."

"I don't care a bit about where you keep your head," said Larry, who had been waiting some time for a suitable point of departure for what he wanted to say. "All I care about, Madge, is your heart. I wish you'd let me keep it for you."

"That's a funny sort of proposal," said Madge.

"At least you knew it was one," offered Larry.

"That's probably because I was just hoping and praying that you'd come across with one." Larry stopped his car and kissed Madge. Then as he went on driving he whistled.

"What is the name of that tune you're always whistling?" said Madge.

"It's an old-fashioned song they sang when Aunt Clara was a girl," said Larry.

DON'T TAKE WRONG ROAD IN 1929

"Farm success or failure in 1929 will very largely depend on planting decisions made during the next few weeks," declared H. G. Hastings, of Atlanta, recognized leader of farm thought and president of the Georgia Association, a state-wide development organization having for its principal object the betterment of farm conditions in Georgia.

"Despite all urging to the contrary, despite repeated disaster years following increased cotton acreage, our farmers generally increased cotton acreage in 1928, and decreased food and grain crops, gardens and meat animals. Providence stepped in with unfavorable seasons and cut yields, otherwise we would be facing 10 to 12 cent cotton now.

"There is a great scarcity of food, grain and forage on most farms of the South, a great scarcity of cows, hogs and chickens. Plenty of empty corn cribs, empty barns, empty shelves in the closet and a great plenty of unpaid store bills carried over as a direct result of overplanting cotton. Big cotton acreage, big yields of cotton and farm hard times go together.

"Time to face facts! Georgia and the Southeast cannot compete with Texas and Oklahoma cotton-growing on bought food and grain and third to half bale per acre yields. You must grow on home acres your full home needs in food, grain and forage.

"The home garden, a big, all-year-round one, will help amazingly in cutting both store and drug bills. Cows, hogs and chickens all come in handy both for food and something to take to town to sell whenever you go. The manure from the animals will help step up your fewer acres to the three-quarters to bale per acre class. With home-produced food and grain, you will own your cotton instead of owe it when made.

"It will be easy to take the wrong road in 1929, because it's the old road we have traveled so long. The right and only safe road for 1929 farm prosperity is the road to full, or practically full, production of food for the home table, full corn cribs, big hay and forage stacks, eggs and fried chicken from the flocks, meat from the hogs, milk from the cows and something extra to sell every time the auto or wagon goes to town. This, and this only, is the safe road."

Hopelessness of Hypocrisy

Character Development Emphasized in Denver Schools

"The most important objective of all the Denver public school courses of study is character education," according to a statement in a recent issue of School Review, the official publication of the Denver school. Each course of study used in the schools is organized for the definite purpose of contributing to character education, and report cards in certain grades have sections in which pupils may be marked in reliability, social attitudes, and clear thinking, as well as in health, thrift, and the usual school subjects.—School Life.

State School Superintendents Discuss Statistics

Increased demand for books of a serious or practical nature is reported in the use of books on sociology, history, literature, fine arts, science, biography, and technology. At the central library the use of art and music books was greatly increased due in large measure to gifts during the year of 13,500 pieces of music. Thirty per cent of the city's population are listed as home readers. Of the 2,230,128 books issued, two-thirds were lent by the branch libraries.—School Life.

Bob Jones to Speak Here Sunday Night

Famous Preacher Will Address A Meeting at Courthouse in Clanton

Rev. Bob Jones, the famous evangelist, preacher, reformer, and educator, will speak at the courthouse in Clanton next Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. This information is obtained from placards which have been displayed in Clanton this week.

Mr. Jones has spoken at Clanton many times in the past. The last time he was here was just prior to the election last November when he was head over heels in the crusade against Al Smith for president.

It is announced that his subject for next Sunday night will be, "American Homes." Everybody is invited to hear the address. It is a foregone conclusion that he will have a full house.

PLANT MORE STRAWBERRIES

Mr. J. N. Dennis urges that the farmers around Clanton put out more strawberry plants this spring. This is a good suggestion, and one which we hope our farmers will take seriously.

There ought to be a hundred more farmers growing strawberries for market at Clanton. The marketing association is organized. It handled the berries which were put on the market last spring in fine shape. It could handle double that amount even better.

JONES BLACKSMITH SHOP IS LOCATED HERE NOW

Clanton now has another good blacksmith shop. This one is being operated by Messrs. J. S. Jones and Reedie Jones, and is located in Dr. Gowan's building facing the railroad, just north of where Burns Goodgame did operate a planing mill.

J. S. Jones is an old resident of Chilton County, and Reedie Jones is his son-in-law. The latter has had several years experience in big machine shops, and is well fitted for the work. They have recently moved from Coopers to Clanton.

BAKER BOYS WIN FROM ENTERPRISE IN 12-10 BATTLE

The Baker Junior High boys nosed out a victory on the Enterprise court last Friday by a score of 12 to 10, in one of the closest fought games played this season. The contest was nip and tuck throughout the entire period, the score being tied at the end of nearly every quarter. Lawrence Edwards received the scoring honors for the Baker team.

L. N. DUNCAN TO SPEAK AT COURTHOUSE SATURDAY

Mr. L. N. Duncan of Auburn, head of Farm Extension Department of that institution, will speak at the court house in Clanton next Saturday, February 9th, at 10 o'clock a. m. Mr. Duncan will speak along the lines of cooperative farming and marketing.

It will be to the interest of the farmers of this county to hear Mr. Duncan, because regardless of what subject he chooses, he will have something to say that will help any farmer who may hear him.

CARY HUBBARD IS BACK IN CLANTON

Mr. Cary Hubbard has moved back to Clanton from Birmingham and has bought out the grist mill of Mr. G. G. Gray. Mr. Hubbard is an old mill man having lived in Clanton and operated a mill here for many years before going to Birmingham. His many friends throughout the county will be glad to know that he is back in Clanton.

His mill will continue at the same place where Mr. Gray has been located, near the residence of Mrs. Heath. Mr. Hubbard will live in the house just west of Wilson Hotel.

BASKET BALL GAME TO BE HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

Circle No. 3 of the Clanton Baptist Church is sponsoring a basket ball game which will come off in the indoor court at Maddox's warehouse Saturdaynight beginning about 7:30 o'clock. The game will be played between the Birmingham Presbyterians and the county high school.

Sweet sacred songs, sung as they SHOULD BE SUNG! McDonald Quartette, Gennett recording artists, will appear at Chilton County High School Friday night, February 15, at 7:30 sharp!

AUTOMOBILE DEALERS ENDORSE PROPOSED BOND ISSUE

Resolutions Passed at the Annual Meeting of Alabama Automotive Trades Association

At the annual meeting of the Alabama Automotive Trades Association, the following resolutions were passed relative to the proposed additonal bond issue of $25,000,000 for roads and highways in Alabama.

Whereas, it has come to the attention of the Alabama Automotive Trades Association that Gevernor Graves contemplates an extra session of the Legislature for the submission of a Road Bond Issue for the purpose of constructing good roads;

And whereas, a survey made by this Association in 1926 and given to the State of Alabama at that time shows that the present rate of taxation on automobiles, while excessive, might be continued if proper expenditure insures adequate roads.

Therefore, be it resolved by this Association that:

First: In the event that an extra session of the Legislature be called, and through its acts a Road Bond Issue, not exceeding 25 Million Dollars, be submitted to the people for vote, that this Association favor such a Bond Issue, provided:

1st. That the issue can be financed without increasing taxes, either directly or indirectly, on gasoline or any other property.

2nd. That the entire proceeds of this 25 Million Road Bond Issue be used only in the construction of hard surfaced trunk line roads, under direction and administration of the State Highway Commission.

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be spread on the records of the Association, another copy be sent to Governor Bibb Graves, a copy to the State Highway Commission, a copy to each member of the Legislature and to the daily papers of the State.

The Association stated further: "We have been assured by Governor Graves that the Road Bond Issue which his administration would put before the Legislature, should the people of the State of Alabama request that the Legislature be called into extra session for such purpose, would positively not increase the gasoline or the automotive taxes in any way, either directly or indirectly. It is his purpose to allow the accumulation of funds from the present 4 cent gasoline tax to take care of these new road bonds."

TWO IN RACE FOR SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Tunstall and Tompkins Make Bids For Job in Legislature

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 5.—Discussion of candidates for the speakership of the house of representatives to succeed the late J. Lee Long for whom funeral services were held Monday at his home in Greenville, centers around Alfred Tunstall, veteran legislator from Hale County, and a former speaker of the house, and Oscar L. Tompkins, of Dothan, who was one of Mr. Long's opponents in the last race for the office.

Judge Hugh D. Merrill, of Anniston, the other opponent of Mr. Long for the seat of speaker of the house, and who has been prominently mentioned as a strong possibility for the post, has declared that he definitely will not consider becoming a candidate for the speaker's chair.

Vacancy Has Importance

Discussion of candidates for Mr. Long's office assumed importance after the funeral when state officials recognized as a certainty the proposed special session of the Legislature to consider another road bond issue.

Friends of Mr. Tompkins believe that he will seek the office again, though no definite word has been received from him. When asked if he is a candidate for the speakership Mr. Tunstall said he had not had any time to give thought to Mr. Long's successor. Several of his friends in the Legislature, though, he said, had asked him to consider the post after announcement was made that Judge Merrill will not be a candidate.

Tunstall Favorite

Opinion at the capitol is that Mr. Tunstall would be a decided favorite should he run, considering his experience as a former speaker of the house.

Mr. Tunstall said he has information in his possession that would indicate that the governor has been or will soon be assured the wholehearted support of the State Senate in agreeing to consider only stipulations which might be included in an extraordinary session of the Legislature.

Since already the governor has the assurance of the House that it will abide by the rules of a call should he make it, state officials believe no further hindrance remains to issuance of the call.

FARMERS ENJOY RADIO WON IN COTTON CONTEST

The two evening schools, Pleasant Grove and Freeman's schoolhouse, who won a radio jointly agreed to let the radio stay in one community one month and in the other community one month. They agreed to visit the radio only three evenings in the week, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. At present the radio is at the home of Mr. W. L. Lenoir. He reports that the radio is worknig fine and that there are large crowds listening to it. Mr. Lenoir also said that they really need a community center so as to accommodate larger crowds and to have all the beneficial results that come from having a community building and a good program committee.

WALLACE COX WILL OPERATE AUTO LAUNDRY IN CLANTON

Mr. Wallace Cox has opened up a business on the highway just north of Clanton Motors. He will cater especially to the washing and cleaning of automobiles, as well as rendering a doping and alemite service and the selling of gasoline and oils. He will also maintain an expert brake service.

The name of Mr. Cox's business will be Central Auto Laundry. He will occupy the building where Woodyard's Garage was located. He will handle Texaco and Good Gulf gasoline.

As a special for next Saturday Mr. Cox announces that he will give away free a quart of oil with each five gallons of gasoline sold. The new place is open for business now and Mr. Cox invites his friends to come to see him.

VERMONT WINS OVER BILLINGSLEY WITH A SCORE OF 15 TO 5

Another victory was added to the list of the Vermont basket ball team when they played the Billingsley Junior boys Friday, February 1st, on the Vermont court.

The visiting team played well, but they were not strong enough to hold Vermont in check.

Mr. Upton was referee for both teams calling the game with a fairness that was greatly appreciated.

The Vermont girls also conquered the Billingsley girls the same day with a score of 29 to 14.

RADISHES BY RADIO

Radishes by radio, and Alabama radishes too, will soon be a reality, as far as price quotations are concerned, according to information from the State Department of Agriculture, which on Monday made its formal opening on the air from the State studio at the Capitol.

At the formal opening, addresses were made by Governor Bibb Graves, S. M. Dunwoody, Commisisoner of Agriculture, J. M. Moore, in charge of markets for the Department, Howard C. Smith, editor, W. H. Binkley, market specialist, R. J. Goode, member of the State Board of Agriculture, and others, with an opening prayer by Rev. Donald MacGuire.

The radio service from the State studio is transmitted by direct telephone wire to station WAPI at Birmingham, where in cooperation with Auburn Polytechnic Institute, it is broadcast. Broadcasting from Auburn will also go direct to Montgomery over a special leased wire and after passing through the input station of the Department of Agriculture, it will be likewise put on the air.

This station will daily give reports on Montgomery, Birmingham; also other markets in Alabama, when in season, such as for peaches, potatoes, radishes, strawberries, etc., etc. Cotton will receive marked attention, especially during the fall season. Livestock, poultry, eggs, dairy products, and in general, everything that grows in Alabama will be given special attention in season.

The daily weather conditions, with forecasts will be given by the Montgomery section director, P. H. Smyth, in charge. Weekly reviews of the markets will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. A mailing list of those to whom market news will be sent, will be maintained daily. County agents may receive special market news by telegraph, with regard to hog, poultry, or other special sales, as it is the desire of the markets division in charge of J. M. Moore to cooperate with every agricultural worker in Alabama.

DORCAS CLASS MEETING

The Dorcas Class of the Clanton Baptist Sunday School will hold their monthly business and social meeting next Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Loren Smith. The meeting is of great importance and every member is urged to attend.

An evening high school, with a trained faculty and fully accredited, has been opened in San Juan, Porto Rico.

CARNES IS GIVEN TERM OF FIVE YEARS

Former Baptist Mission Board Treasurer Pleads Guilty to Charge

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 5.—Clinton S. Carnes, who rose from ex-convict to a position of prominence as treasurer of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board and decamped after nine years, leaving an alleged shortage of nearly a million dollars, pleaded guilty to embezzlement here Tuesday and was sentenced to from five to seven years' imprisonment.

His plea was accepted on recommendation of board officials, who said Carnes had turned over all his resources for restitution, that it would save the state a long, expensive trial and that justice would be served by the sentence due to his age. It was added that Carnes had agreed to aid in untangling the board's accounts on which auditors have been working since he disappeared last summer.

Only One Charge Up

Only one of the 20 indictments returned against him—that charging misappropriation of $80,000—figured in the proceedings. The State announced that the others would be dismissed if the 51-year old former layman did not seek a pardon or parole before the expiration of his minimum sentence.

Carnes, who had been confined to the county jail since his arrest last September in Winnipeg, Manitoba, appeared in court in custody of deputy sheriffs, accompanied by his attorneys and younger son, Robert. He made no statement and his only participation in the brief formalities was to sign the indictment.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore passed sentence with the statement that it seemed "inadequate" but that he assented in the solicitor general's recommendation "in view of the circumstances and the recommendation of the Home Mission Board, which is most directly involved financially."

Quick Trial Wanted

Dr. L. R. Christie, president of the mission board, submitted a written statement to Judge Moore, saying "that the board does not palliate nor condone in any degree Mr. Carnes offense, but we are persuaded that swift, certain and prompt sentence and punishment is the vital thing rather than carrying on the trial of a number of criminal cases against Mr. Carnes."

It was as an obscure auditor that Carnes first became affiliated with the Home Mission Board. A year later in 1919 his business ability won for him the post of treasurer.

Successful Financier

Then he joined the Capitol Avenue Baptist Church, became chairman of its finance and building committees, was invited to membership in several clubs and established a home in the fashionable Druid Hills section. He became the head of several private business enterprises here and generally was regarded as a successful financier.

On August 15 last he mysteriously disappeared and 10 days later a search was instituted for him in the belief he had met with foul play. Auditors soon were set to work on his books.

Coincident with the discovery of a shortage placed by the examiners at $953,000, it developed that Carnes had a record of two prison sentences, one of which he served in a Missouri prison and the other in the Federal Penitentiary here for using the mails to defraud some five years before he became connected with the mission board.

McDonald Quartet Sings Here Feb. 15

Luther Patrick Will Tell Funny Stories in Connection with Program

Many good entertainments have been held at the Chilton County High School in the past, but every music lover in this entire section will be interested to learn that arrangements have been completed and announcement is made definitely at this time that the McDonald Quartet "Southland's Sweetest Singers" will appear at the High School in person on Friday inght, February 15th.

Many music lovers here know something of these singers through their wonderful voices being heard on Gennett "Electrobeam" Records as well as over the radio. It will be of interest to many to learn that Mr. Homer Dye, who as a boy lived in Thorsby, is the pianist of this organization and what Homer doesn't know about a piano is not worth the learning. Old friends will surely be glad to get this chance to hear him play, as well as to hear the many beautiful songs rendered by the entire McDonald Quartet. Sacred songs and music as it should be sung, and old time "spirituals" will be rendered.

An added attraction, and one that it sure to please those that want a good laugh, is that of Mr. Luther Patrick whose droll stories have been broadcasted over radio station WBRC each Saturday night out of Birmingham. Mr. Patrick is a monologuist of the funniest type, and those who hear him are sure to get their "funny bone" scratched. We understand that the Parent-Teachers Association are sponsors for this entertainment and that arrangements for the appearance of this attraction were made by the help of Mr. G. W. Moore, who is the local representative for the Starr Piano Sales Corporation of Birmingham.

MRS. RETHERFORD DIED ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Maggie Retherford, wife of Green D. Retherford of Clanton, died at midnight Tuesday. She had been in ill health for the past two years. While her death was not altogether unexpected, it came as a shock to her family and friends who were so hopeful that she would win her long battle for restored health.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. W. M. Wyatt, two sons, Courtland and Billie Retherford, all of Clanton; two brothers, Charley Robinson of Jemison, and Walter Robinson of Lock 12; three sisters, Mrs. Ab Retherford and Mrs. Henry Dobbs of Mineral Springs and Mrs. Will Martin of Enterprise. Her aged father, Mordecai Robinson, of Mineral Spring also survives her.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 at Clanton Methodist Church, conducted by Rev. E. A. Childs, Rev. S. J. Ezell and Rev. S. M. Adams. Burial was in charge of Martin at Clanton cemetery.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT TUSKEGEE

The Eastern District Baptist Sunday School Convention will meet at the Baptist church in Tuskegee Friday of this week. Chilton County is included in this district and it is hoped that every Baptist Sunday school will send a representative.

W. J. Billingsley of Thorsby is president of the District Convention. Mr. Billingsley will attend the meeting taking with him delegates from Thorsby and Jemison. Dr. S. J. Ezell and W. M. Wyatt will head a delegation representing Clanton Baptist Sunday School.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Mims and Mr. and Mrs. Grady Harris will go to represent Samaria Sunday School.

DROWNING OF BABY IN SHELBY COUNTY TO BE PROBED INTO

The grand jury of Shelby County will probe the death of the 6-weeks old infant found drowned in a well at Helena, Ala., when it meets next Monday at Columbiana, Paul Luck, county solicitor, announced Tuesday. Officials of the county have hinted that foul play is suspected, Mr. Luck is reported to have said.

The body was discovered in the well of a church yard at Helena last Saturday when a number of children playing about the well peered in and thought they had found a doll floating on the water.

Dr. J. M. Ryan, who examined the body at the request of J. E. Ruffin, justice of the peace at Helena, told authorities the baby had been dead about one week and that death had resulted by drowning.

Al Smith was greeted with a brass band and an elephant when he arrived in Florida. The brass band was all right but it seems to us that the elephant was rubbing it in a little.

The pacifists want to make Uncle Sam the international punching bag. And the punching bag, it will be remembered, makes a lot of noise when it is punched, but never gets any place.

We have a sneaking idea that if any of these European diplomats believe President Hoover is going to play Santa Claus, he is doomed to disappointment.

The city which is now troubling about parking spaces will probably be worrying about airports ten years hence.

The Chinese have been killing each other for ten years, yet according to the theory of the pacifists, they must be peaceful because they haven't any navy.

Judging from the amount of clothes they wear it ought not take a woman as long to dress for dinner as it used to, but it does just the same.

Some people seem to think that the way to exercise thrift is to buy a lot of things a dollar down and a dollar a week.

A number of European scientists have started on an expedition to find a lost world. When they discover it, you can bet the first thing the lost world will try to do will be to float a loan in the United States.

Maybe some of our pacifists who are so sure Europe will never start trouble with us again would like to offer themselves as hostages on the proposition.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court in Equity:
Madolin Bice, Complainant, vs. Isaac Bice, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Percy M. Pitts that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that his place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Isaac Bice, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 26th day of February, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, this 25th, day of January, 1929.

WE ARE GROWING

When we stop for a moment to take a sort of national inventory we begin to see at once why our progress and prosperity and our purchasing ability are the wonder and admiration of the world. For instance: a report recently made public by the Department of Commerce at Washington shows that during the past ten years the American people have purchased radio sets to the number of more than thirteen million, iceless refrigerators to the extent of 1,250,000, over five million power washing machines and more than eight million vacuum cleaners. This taken in conjunction with the great number of automobiles bought for pleasure during the past decade gives one some sort of a faint idea of what is going on in America.

But not only have our comforts and conveniences as a people increased in the past generation. We have become more affluent in other ways. Since 1880 and up to and including the year 1927 our bank deposits increased more than twenty-three times. Enrollment in the public schools had increased nearly 300 per cent since 1880 while the enrollment in colleges and universities increased more than 600 per cent.

Our manufacturing industries have increased greatly too. Back in 1880 nearly half of our exports consisted of foodstuffs while in 1927 the proportion was a little less than 19 per cent. Our exports of manufactured products increased at the same time from 15 per cent to 42 per cent of the whole. But it is to be remembered while the amount of foodstuffs exported to the whole was less in 1927 its value was a great deal more. But at the same time our imports of foodstuffs and manufactured articles decreased in proportion while our imports of raw materials increased, this again indicating the development of our manufactures.

But to sum up, and most important of all, is the fact that during the past fifty years our national wealth has increased sevenfold while our total population has been doubling. This gives a better idea of how our wealth has been increasing. That this increased wealth is not concentrated in a few hands is evidenced by the great purchases of radios, automobiles and other equipment for the home and for the pleasure and comfort of the individual, and again by the great increase in life insurance and savings accounts.

As a matter of fact the average wage earner today has more comforts and conveniences than were possessed by the man of wealth fifty years ago. This is due in part to the fact that the total of comforts and conveniences have so increased during the past half century and to the additional fact that our American system has enabled our wage earners to have high wages and steady employment so that they may purchase comforts which are regarded as luxuries in Europe and beyond the reach of working people. This very system of high wages and steady employment has so increased the demand for our goods, and consequently so increased production, that the cost of living has been lowered in many directions while wages were going up. Here is a condition which was regarded as impossible to attain by European economists and it has proved time and again that America is on the right track. Old Man Poverty may not be entirely eliminated during the next generation but he is in for a terrific lot of punishment.

Mrs. Catt talks about the "fallacy of the defense theory." We suggest that she tell this to the navyless Chinese.

The death of Oscar Underwood has removed another of the comparatively few men who seem to know what it is all about.

Lesson for February 10

REPENTANCE AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:32-39; Luke 15:11-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, and believe in the gospel.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Was Sorry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Was Sorry.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Turning From Sin to God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Way to Forgiveness.

I. Jesus Is Lord and Christ (Acts 2:32-36).

In order to induce repentance and faith, Jesus must be presented as both Lord and Christ. The presentation of Jesus as even the unusual son of Joseph and Mary will not convict of sin. One reason for the vanishing sense of sin is the failure of ministers and Sunday School teachers to declare the Lordship and Messiahship of Jesus of Nazareth. Peter proved Jesus to be Lord and Christ by

1. The miracles which He wrought (Acts 2:22).

He performed before the very eyes of the people such mighty deeds as to demonstrate His Lordship.

2. His resurrection from the dead (Acts 2:24-32).

By His resurrection He was declared to be the Son of God with power (Rom. 1:4). His resurrection was attested to by many witnesses.

3. The outpouring of the Spirit (Acts 2:15-21).

Peter declared that the coming of the Spirit on Pentecost was the fulfillment of Joel's prophecy.

II. Repent and Believe the Gospel (Acts 2:37-39).

Peter's gospel message convicted the Jews of their sins. When they cried out, he commanded them to repent and be baptized. The evidence of their faith in Christ was manifested in their conviction of sin, and their penitence was shown in their confession of Christ in baptism.

III. The Forgiving God (Luke 15:11-24).

The center of things in this parable is not the prodigal son, nor his brother, but the "certain man who had two sons." This narrative is a most picturesque and dramatic portrayal of the history of man from his fall to his reconciliation with God.

1. The son's insubordination (v. 12)

He became tired of the restraints of home. His desire for freedom moved him wilfully to choose to leave home—to throw off the constraint of his father's rule. Sin is the desire to indulge selfish purposes, free from the restraint of rightful authority.

At the request of the son, the father "divided unto them his living." Man is a free being. God has committed unto man his own destiny.

2. The son's departure (v. 13).

Having made the fateful decision, he immediately sought the fulfillment of his cherished purpose. The son could not now endure the presence of his father, so he gathered all together and hastened away. When the sinner casts off allegiance to God, he takes all that he has with him.

3. The son's degeneration (vv. 13-14).

He had a good time while his money lasted, but the end came quickly. From plenty in his father's house to destitution in a far country was a short journey.

4. The son's degradation (vv. 15, 16)

His money exhausted, he was driven to hire himself to a citizen to feed swine. It is ever so. Those who will not serve God are made slaves to the devil to do his bidding (Rom. 6:16). In his shame and disgrace he could not get necessary food.

5. The son's restoration (vv. 17-24)

(1) He came to himself (v. 17). Reflection made him conscious that though he had wronged his father and ruined himself, he was still his father's son.

(2) His resolution (v. 18).

Memory's picture of his home, where even the hired servants had a superabundance, moved him to make a decision to leave the far country and go home.

(3) His confession (vv. 18, 19).

He acknowledged that his sin was against heaven and his father, that he had forfeited his right to be called a son, and begged to be given a place as a hired servant.

(4) His action (v. 20).

Resolution does not avail unless accompanied with action. When the confession is genuine, action will follow.

(5) His reception by his father (vv. 20-24).

So anxious was he for him that he ran to meet him and fell upon his neck and kissed him.

Why Judge Thy Brother?

Why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ. For it is written, As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.—Rom. 14:10, 11.

Brother Bryan's Bible Story

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

The inspired Word of God was written to every man, woman and child on the face of the earth. Many times we sit down by the side of the road and fail to receive the blessings God has for us. We fail to follow the upward road and keep our faces to the light which is taught in this precious book, the Bible. We fail to think high thoughts as we travel our ways, and do just what the Bible teaches us is right. We fail when we say this Bible is for the Hebrews only, when we say it is for America only. All of this is sin and is due to ignorance entirely.

Last Sabbath morning I studied with you the promise concerning the coming of Christ which was literally fulfilled in Christ's birth in Bethlehem, His life at Nazareth, work in Capernaum, death on that hill outside the gate of Jerusalem, ascension to the right hand of God from Mt. Olivet. I wish to study with you this morning what the New Testament teaches about this. Of course when we speak of the Old and New Testaments one is just as important as the other. In like manner one is just as new as the other to us.

God says that this Bible is My Word, the Scriptures. He calls it the Word of God in Ephesians 6:17. In the very beginning of the New Testament He calls it the Scriptures: Matthew 21:42. You friends who are here this rainy morning have come with a desire to know more of Christ of Bethlehem and to accept God's call to advance in His Word and with a world loving heart in obedience to His command carry this Gospel to all.

In studying Bethlehem one gets a world vision of what we are studying. The people of Bethlehem were Hebrews. The shepherds were Hebrews. I know not what nationality the angels were. No doubt the one angel who announced the birth to the shepherds was Gabriel who had visited Mary in her home in the hill country of Galilee making the announcement to her that she would be the mother of the Messiah. Now we find the angel at Bethlehem making the announcement of Christ's birth to the shepherds who no doubt were of blood kin to Mary. There this angel gave the very words to those sturdy shepherds we must take to every man, woman and child in Alabama. Yes, we must carry it to every man, woman and child not only in all Alabama, but to the uttermost parts of the earth: "Fear not, for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour who is Christ the Lord." Right there was introduced the incarnate, the fleshly life of Jesus Christ the Saviour of the world.

At the birth of Christ in Bethlehem I believe every nationality of the earth was represented. The angels of heaven were there. The Jewish shepherds from the hills near Bethlehem came. About thirty-five days afterwards the Gentiles in the persons of the Wise men came. The shepherds worshipped Him because they loved Him. They also gladly heralded His birth to the world.

If you read the 2nd, 19th, 60th chapters of Isaiah and then stop there, turn to the Psalms and read you will know that every one of the songs that they sang teaches that the Messiah would be the world's Saviour of every man who believes on Him. "O thou that hearest prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come. O sing unto the Lord a new song; everything that hath breath praise the Lord."

The next thing I wish you to think about is this: when we are thinking that we are doing our very best in spreading God's Kingdom on earth we should stop and think of Samuel Lapsley of Anniston who accepted the call to go to Africa, a most strenuous task for a young missionary. Then I wish you to think of David Livingston who went to the same country and labored incessantly there among those heathens. While on my pilgrimage I think I saw the place where David Livingston was born. I saw his grave. Excepting the unknown soldier's grave, David Livingston's grave ranked next among all those young partiot's tomb. On his tomb was these words: "Other sheep I have are not of this fold." No other epithet could better express this good under-shepherd of Jesus Christ.

The danger in America is we receive so many blessings materially that we do not stop and think of the little lost sheep on the dark mountain side dying for the need of our love of Christ. Christ in God's plan was taken to Egypt, world ground. The people of Egypt are actually singing praises to God. They are sending their children to schools where they are taught to memorize the Bible to know of the world's God. Another great statement I wish to make is that all these "isms" such as Buddahism, Confusciusism, etc. are crumbling and offering the blood of the spirit, life instead.

Christ did not stop at Egypt, world ground. He did not stop at Nazareth. He lived there I believe twenty-eigth years and was rejected because He taught that the Kingdom of God was for all nations. He went forward to give light to them that sit in darkness and the shadow of death, and to guide our feet into the way of peace. In His earthly ministry the people who sat in darkness saw great light in the person of the Saviour who came to seek and save the whole lost world.

Right here it is interesting to note that the synagogue of Capernaum was built by a Gentile. Gadara we remember as the place that Christ cast evil spirits out of the demoniacs, dwellers of the tombs, and these evil spirits entered swine and ran violently down the hill into the sea and were drowned; was a Gentile country. The region of Chenerith was a Gentile country. We cannot doubt that Christ came to all nations.

In Zechariah 13:1 the prophet looked down through the centuries and saw on that hill the atonement I have asked you to look to many times. There on that hill outside the northern gate of Jerusalem Christ's death was a fulfillment of the words of this verse: "In that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for uncleanness." The paraphrasing of it is this: Christ came to Bethlehem, the city of David in the sight of the Hebrews. In the city of Jerusalem this fountain was opened to the Jews and also to every nationality there on the day of Pentecost.

If you will read the 1st and 2nd chapters of the Acts you will learn that on the day of Pentecost there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews and devout men of every nation under heaven. There the Holy Spirit descended upon them. O, how I do long for it now. One of the greatest incentives of the out-pouring of the Holy Spirit in America is the fact that I have seen in this building on a fair day seven nationalities congregated. The other day I counted thirteen nationalities in Jefferson while another man counted fifteen.

I believe this is a call to us, just like the Flu is a call to get some people to church and bring them closer to God. There is a call in everything we experience. The spirit of God moves on the providences of men's lives. If you have had enough to eat, it is a call to a higher and nobler service for God. If you have not had enough to eat, it is also a call from God. Right here I wish to impress upon your mind that no man makes a sacrifice for God. He may deny himself many times, but he makes no sacrifice for Christ. I believe every time the clock ticks it tells us of our duty to God and our fellow-man.

In all of this think of the scene of the cross and of Christ's words: "I if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." We will do well to lift Him up to hundreds, to introduce Him to the last man and woman on the face of the earth. God help us to do so.

A VALUABLE MAN GONE

The death of Lee Long, Speaker of the House of Representatives of Alabama, removes from the stage of action one of the most valuable men of our commonwealth. He was intimately and vitally connected in the fabric of state affairs. His ability for constructive public service was above the ordinary. There is no other man who can take his place in anything like the manner which he filled it.

The hand of death could not have fallen upon any man whose going away will mean as much as the passing of Lee Long.

Why suffer with Rheumatism?

You know it cannot be rubbed away

ARE you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testifed to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered with rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . . then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best."—Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

CAPITOL News

Alabama's progress in public health work is described as "phenomenal" by Dr. John A. Ferrell, associate director of the Rockefeller Foundation, which cooperates with the State Health Department in carrying out its program.

In a letter received at the State Health Department Dr. Ferrell said:

"You have three projects under way in Alabama which we are watching with keen interest. That contemplating the state-wide expansion of county health work and the application of the principle of equalization of facilities for poor counties through State aid is unique. I sincerely trust that you may be able within the next few months to carry it to completion. Your project for training of new field workers and many of those already at work through the facilities of a State Training Station likewise is extremely important. Moreover, the extension of your sanitary laws and regulations should be far-reaching in its influence on public health. The progress made in Alabama has been phenomenal."

In connection with the progress of health work in Alabama, it is of interest to note that three counties are considering the establishment of County Health Units. The county Commisioners of Marion and Clay counties will consider proposals to establish health units, in their respective counties on February 11, and a movement is on foot in Chilton County to secure similar action. Already fifty of the 67 counties in the State are giving their citizens the protection of organized county health work under full-time health officers. Action by the three counties mentioned above would leave only 14 counties in the State unorganized.

Influenza is one the wane in Alabama, as shown by cases reported to the State Health Department. For the week ending January 26, a total of 11,700 cases were reported, as compared with 12,450 for the preceding week.

Governor Bibb Graves and members of his staff, and a detachment of the Alabama National Guard comprising aproximately 200 officers and men, will attend the inauguration of President Hoover at Washington, on March 4. The military force which will represent this state in the inaugural parade will be composed of picked men selected from the various National Guard Units over the State, and keen interest is being manifested in military circles over the selection of men for this duty.

Officials of the State Convict Department and particularly Dr. R. A. Burns, the new warden at Kilby Prison, are being commended for their successful drive against dope smugglers who have been slipping narcotics in to addicts in Kilby Prison. Recently four arrests have been made on charges of violating the anti-narcotic law, two of those arrested being men formerly employed as guards at Kilby, and two women. It is believed that the dope smuggling ring has been badly shattered as a result of these activities.

A new method of suppressing bootleggers, by indirect tactics, will strengthen the enforcement of the prohibition law in this State in the opinion of observers here. This method is the bringing of vagrancy charges against men engaged in the whiskey business, but against whom direct evidence is not available. The Alabama Court of Appeals recently affirmed decisions in three vagrancy cases from Montgomery County in which hard labor sentences were imposed upon the defendants, who were well known characters and each of whom had been previously convicted of violating the prohibition law. The Alabama law specifically provides that any person who engages in the unlawful sale of liquor is a vagrant and also defines as a vagrant, "any person over the age of twenty-one years, able to work and who does not work, and has no property sufficient for his support, and has not some means of a fair, honest and reputable livelihood. "It is further provided in the Code that the burden of proof shall not be upon the State to establish the fact that a defendant has no reputable means of support. Application of this vagrancy statute to professional bootleggers promises to make life less enjoyable for those engaged in this business in the future.

Collections from the fifteen per cent sales tax levied on cigars and cigarettes by the last Legislature are increasing, while the cost of collection is declining, figures from the State Tax Commission show. During the last three months of 1928, the Tobacco Tax brought into the State Treasury the sum of $328,636.78, the largest amount ever collected during any quarter since the tax went into effect. This increase was effected at a much lower expense of collection than the State incurred in earlier collections.

Alabama's system of collecting the tax on "smokes" with the cooperation of wholesalers and without the objectionable stamp feature, has attracted widespread attention. Recently Governor Horton of Tennessee urged the Legislature of that State to adopt the Alabama method. The net revenue derived from the tax in this State goes to the public schools.

IN MEMORY OF A LOVING WIFE AND MOTHER

The death angel visited the home of Mr. C. R. Mims of Pleasant Grove on January 18th, about 3:45 o'clock and bore away the sweet spirit of the loved one, Mary. She was the sunshine of their home. She seemed only as a bright shining star to all whom she knew. Weep not, dear husband and children, for God has said in his blessed word, "Let not your hearts be troubled; ye believe in God, believe in me also. In my father's house there are many mansions, if it were not so, I would have told you.

She was laid to rest at Pleasant Grove cemetery Saturday, January 19th. Funeral services were conducted by Bro. Gibson and Bro. Metcalf.

We feel that every thing was done for her that loving hands could do. But God in his infinite wisdom saw fit to take her from our midst to a better home beyond.

Of course we all loved her dearly. Friends, husbant and children and all her kin loved her, but let's console our hearts, for we are out and she is in. What we have lost heaven has gained.

Dear husband and children you have my greatest sympathy and prayer.—One Who Loved Her.

VERMONT DEFEATS STANTON

The Vermont boys clung to the Stanton team in bulldog fashion in a game played on the Stanton court January 30th, coming to the end of the game with a 15 to 11 victory.

Carson Williams led his team to victory in spite of the fact that at the end of the first half the Stanton boys were swamping them with a score of 8 to 5.

Vermont played well and there are bright prospects ahead for them.

Prof. Einstein has now announced a new theory which a lot of people are trying to understand. For our part, we are willing to take his word for it.

MRS. T. A. GAY

Mrs. Mary Ann Gay, 71, wife of T. A. Gay of Plantersville, whose death occurred in a Selma hospital at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, January 26, was buried at Plantersville Sunday following, services at 2:30 o'clock from the Baptist church of which she was a member, the Rev. A. H. Mahaffey, Baptist pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Gay had spent her entire life at Plantersville and in that vicinity, where she was born and reared, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mitchell. She leaves besides her husband a large family connection, consisting of her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Davis, of Demopolis, three sons, J. W. Gay, and C. C. Gay of Plantersville and O. T. Gay of Wilton; three brothers, the Rev. John Mitchell of Brent, Ala., W. T. Mitchell of San Antonio, Texas, and J. W. Mitchell of Harlingen, Texas, and the following sisters: Mrs. John Martin and Mrs. J. C. Merchant of Centerville, Ala., Mrs. Lizzie Milling of Mobile, Mrs. J. G. Gay of Selma, Mrs. Jennie Hays of Meridan, Miss., and Mrs. T. G. Milling of Riderville.

Grandchildren who survive her are Mrs. H. E. Biscoe, J. T. Little, Robert Earl Gay, Claudie C. Gay, Howard Gay, William Gay, Eva Gay, Claudine Gay, J. D. Gay, C. C. Gay, Jr., and Ila Ruth Gay, all of Plantersville, Marie and Aubrey Davis of Demopolis, Ala., and John T. Gay of Wilton.

Mother Gay was a loving wife and mother and was always interested in her husband's work, and the welfare of their children. She was a devout Christian, Bible reader, Sunday school and church worker. She taught the little children's Sunday school class for many years. These children all dearlyloved Mrs. Gay, as they called her. They knew her and she knew them every day in the week wherever they happened to meet.

I believe this is true of this good woman and feel that her children will say "She Did It All." Yes, it is true.

She carried me under her heart;
Loved me before I was born;
Took God's hand in hers and walked thru the Valley of Shadows that I might live;
Bathed me when I was helpless;
Clothed me when I was naked;
Gave me warm milk from her own body when I was hungry;
Rocked me to sleep when I was weary;
Pillowed me on pillows softer than down and sang to me in the voice of an angel;
Held my hands when I learned to walk;
Nursed me when I was sick;
Suffered with my sorrow;
Laughed with my joy;
Glowed with my triumph, and while I knelt at her side she taught my lips to pray;
Through all the days of my youth she gave strength for my weakness, courage for my despair and hope to fill my hopeless heart;
Was loyal when others failed;
Was my friend when other friends were gone;
Prayed for me through all the days when flooded with sunshine or saddened by shadows;
Loved me when I was unlovely, and led me into man's estate to walk triumphant on the King's highway and play a manly part.
Though we may lay down our lives for her, we can never pay the debt we owe a Christian mother.
—A Loving Daughter-in-law, Mrs. C. C. Gay.

The Day of Specialization

A colored man was brought into court charged with stealing chickens. He had plead guilty and received sentence, when the judge asked how it was that he had been able to lift the fowls from right under the window of the owner's house when there was a savage dog in the yard.

"It wouldn't be no use, jedge," said the culprit, "to try to 'splain this thing to you a-tall. Ef you wuz to try it like as not you'd get yo' hide full o' shot an' you wouldn't get no chickens, nuther. Ef you want to engage in any rascality, jedge, you better stick to de bench, whah yo' am familiar."

Testimonial.—"Which is your favorite cigarette?" inquired the hostess as she opened the humidor.

"Sorry," returned her prominent guest firmly, "but I'm not talking for publication this evening."

Mr. Ocie Webb of Jasper, Ala., was a visitor to Clanton first of the week.

CHILTON COUNTY HAS HAD 83 STUDENTS AT AUBURN 1920-28

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 4.—During the nine collegiate years, 1920 to 1928 inclusive, Chilton County had 83 young men and young women trained at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, according to statistics compiled by Chas. W. Edwards, assistant registrar and released by President Bradford Knapp. Total Alabama students trained at Auburn during the same period was 11,437. They were trained along technical lines including all the courses given at Auburn. Students from other states increased this total to 12,975.

The annual average enrollment for Alabama during these nine years was 1271; for all states it was 1441.6. The present enrollment of 1723 is the largest on record. As in the past, the big majority of Auburn students live in Alabama.

Jefferson was the leading county in enrollment with 1719 during the nine years; Lee County (in which Auburn is located) was next with 1324; Montgomery was third with 750; and Mobile fourth with 453.

Commenting on these figures, President Knapp said that men and women trained at Auburn are filling lucrative positions throughout America as well as in foreign countries. The demeand was never better than at present for young men and young women trained at Auburn. He foresees a steady enrollment increase of both young men and young women who wish to train themselves to fill positions of responsibility and leadership.

CAMPBELL REUNION

Thursday, January 31, was a happy day for Uncle John Campbell and family of Jemison Route 2.

He celebrated his 79th birthday by having a family reunion, which was attended by all his children except Mrs. Elizabeth Thrash of Sylacauga. Those present were Mrs. Eliza Martin, Jemison; Mr. John Campbell and wife of Calera; Mr. James Campbell and wife of Jemison; Mr. George Campbell and wife of Siluria; Mr. Thomas Campbell and wife of Jemison; and Miss Lula Campbell.

A large number of grandchildren were also present: Miss Dora Campbell of Calera; Mrs. Homer Martin and children; Howard and Mary Frances of Calera; Mr. Leonard Martin and little son, Whitman, of Jemison; Mrs. W. D. Niblett and little son, Raymond, of Bessemer; Mr. Marvin Campbell of Bessemer; Miss Emma Campbell of Jemison; Master Stanley and Jimmie Campbell of Jemison; Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Campbell and sons, Howard and Allison, of Jemison; Mr .and Mrs. Z. B. Merrell of Siluria; Mr. and Mrs. I. Jefferson and son of Siluria; Misses Rilla and Bessie Campbell of Siluria; Mr. Walter Campbell of Siluria; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Campbell and daughter, Mabelline, of Acton; Misses Bertha and Neomia Campbell of Jemison; Mrs. O. B. Robinson of Jemison, and Miss Lula Campbell, a neice, of Siluria.

There were also a number of friends present, who wished Uncle John a happy birthday and hoped he would have many more.

He received many gifts which were useful and appreciated very much.

At noon a bountiful dinner was served which was enjoyed by all because Aunt Lucy, wife of Uncle John, is a cook that would tempt the palate of a king, and all the wives who were present brought well filled baskets of delicious food.

The day was beautiful and was spent in making pictures and playing games o fvarious kinds.

Some of the younger ones present found the old loom and spinning wheel very amusing.

About three o'clock the crowd began to leave for their various homes wishing Grand-daddy many more happy birthdays.

GET PULLETS TO LAY EARLY FOR HIGH PROFITS

Whether a farmer is to get 70 cents an hour for his labor with his poultry flock, or 24 cents an hour, depends largely upon whether he can get his pullets into production in time to take advantage of high winter egg prices, it is shown by a recent experiment conducted in Ohio.

A large percentage of the farmers throughout the country can nearly triple the labor income from their chickens, merely by managing the flocks so that at least 25 per cent of the year's egg production comes between October 1 and January 31, according to the results of this test.

A group of farmers were united for this experiment. Half of them managed their poultry flocks so that 25 per cent of the total yearly production was disposed of in October, November, December and January, when eggs are highest in price. Figures showed that this practice boosted their year-round average price to 38.7 cents a dozen for all eggs sold, and gave them a return of 70 cents for every hour of labor on poultry, after allowing for all other costs.

A second group of farmers, who did not get their pullets in condition for fall egg production, selling only four per cent of their eggs in the four high-price months, received only 30.8 cents a dozen for their year-round average price and made only 24.5 cents an hour in labor income.

The secret of obtaining fall egg production lies in securing chicks early, from good parent stock, so the pullets will be laying in early October, when the demand is heavy and the prices start to mount.

Endorsement of this policy is made by leading hatcherymen throughout the country, who recently united under the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks For Greater rofits." They pledge better quality chicks to their customers, and every assistance in helping customers raise their chicks into profitable poultry flocks.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

THORSBY INSTITUTE NEWS

On Monday, February 4, Thorsby Institute started a library contest week. The library needs eight dollars more with which to purchase a new dictionary and it also needs more new books.

Each class is represented by an automobile picture and the contest is to see which can run the most miles. One dollar represents a mile. The contest will last one week and at the end of that time a report will be made showing which class raised the most money. People in town may be asked to help. There are a good many who appreciate having the library and use it. Anyone is invited to draw books from the library, as the library is not limited merely to school reference books. At least two dozen magazines are taken by the library.

Paul Cox of Clanton has enrolled as a new student at the Institute.

The winner of the prize offered for the best note book in the first semester Bible Class was announced by the teacher of the class, Miss Klingelhoefer, during the chapel period Monday morning. The note books were judged on three points, thoroughness, neatness and originality. John VanDerveer, a member of the Senior Class, was the winner of the prize, which was a copy of the American Standard version of the Bible. The note books of Hazel Maddox and Louise Gibbons were close seconds in neatness, those of Hazel Maddox and Sallye Thompson in thoroughness and that of Lloyd Howard in originality.

The Senior Class of Thorsby Institute has elected the following officers: President, John VanDerveer; Vice President, Clinton Arthur, of Midland City; Secretary, Beatrice Kirkland of Headland; Treasurer, Lloyd Howard of Thorsby.

Wednesday night of last week the annual meeting of the United Protestant Church of Thorsby (Congregational) was held at thechurch, preceded by a dinner served by the ladies of the church, members and friends, which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

The treasurer's report showed that for home expenses, improvements and benevolences during the past year upwards of $1,700 had been collected and disbursed, except for about $75 now in the treasury, with all current obligations met, and only $45 yet to pay on the parsonage and $100 on the organ, which, during the past year has added much to interest in our church music.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were S. E. Norton, Clerk; E. W. Butler, Treasurer; E. R. Steiner and R. L. Primm, Deacons; Mrs. S. E. Norton and Mrs. C. C. Petersen, Deaconnesses; Miss Marian Fairbank, Trustee for three years; Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, Sunday School Superintendent in charge ofnowFU, now is tendent; Mrs. S. E. Norton Assistant Superintendent in charge of Primary Department.

Reports of officers showed the Sunday school, the Christian Endeavor society and the Ladies Aid Society had been active during the past year and withal there has been prominent in the church a spirit of Christian fellowship and good will toward other churches and community interests.

Last Sunday night Rev. Each gave another of his always interesting stereopticon lectures to a full house. His subject was "From the Great Lakes to Puget Sound." The pictures vividly portrayed the activities of the Congregational Home Missionary Societies and Church Building Society in the great Northwest during the past fifty years.

WAPI PROGRAMS ARE FROM THREE CITIES

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 4.—From three studios radio station WAPI located in Birmingham is now broadcasting daily except Sunday. When the station began broadcasting December 31, 1928, only studios in Birmingham were used but on Monday, February 4, the Montgomery studio, in the department of agriculture and industry building, presented its initial program and the day following regular broadcasting began from the studio at Auburn.

The present schedule of broadcasting began from the studio at Auburn.

The present schedule of broadcasting from Auburn is from 12:00 to 12:30 p. m. daily except Sunday. Immediately following the Auburn broadcast, Montgomery will come on the air and finish the hour until 1 p. m. In addition Auburn plans a one-hour night program Thursday of each week.

Broadcasting from Montgomery will be along agricultural lines, being largely market reports for the benefit of farmers. A leased wire will bring market information direct from Washington where it will be sent by air to the vast radio audience.

The programs from Auburn will represent all departments of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, including music and other entertainment features. The plan is to make it literally a "college of the air."

These programs from Auburn and Montgomery are in addition to a vast amount of broadcasting done from the studio in Birmingham where the station is located. The present schedule includes an early morning program, a noon program, an evening program, and a night program. Vesper service is being broadcast each Sunday evening and later Church services will be broadcast each Sunday.

The garicultural appropriation bill recently approved by congress includes $137,281 for the Bureau of Home Economics. This is an increase of $19,000 over theappropriation for the current year.

Gen. Robert L. Bullard, alumnus of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and second in command in the World War, will deliver a series of lectures at Auburn, beginning February 12, President Bradford Knapp announced.

CUT DOWN ACREAGE OF IDLE LAND IS ADVICE TO FARMERS

Everybody knows that idle land is like idle money, it pays no interest. In addition, taxes must be paid on idle land.

Since a farmer's land makes up a big part of his investment it is very important that every acre he owns be made to pay if possible.

According to the latest census farmers in Chilton County own 85-582 acres which are either growing timber or idle. Some of this land is being protected from fire and paying a good rate if interest in tree growth. Although fire prevention is the first and most important thing to be done there are other operations which will materially increase the yield of good timber.

A few farmers are now cutting their sorriest trees for firewood but many of us are still cutting the best young trees we have for this purpose. They split easier.

We cull our hens and eat or sell the "boarders," saving the ones that will lay the most eggs. The same principle should be applied to timber. In nearly every farm woods there will be found certain trees that are doaty, crooked, knotty, disaesed, slow-growing or of undesirable kinds. All of these should be cut and used, especially if they are interefering with the growth of straight, tall, healthy, fast-growing trees of good timber kinds.

But enough trees should be left for practically a full stand at all times. A full stand is necessary to crowd off branches and make the trees grow tall and straight. But if the stand is too thick the growth is slow. So trees should be thinned like any other crop but all the thinning should not be done at one time.

By increasing in size the trees will become crowded and need thinning about every ten to fifteen yars.

By doing this we keep a full stand of timber on the ground at all times and therefore get the maximum growth, while we are cutting.

Whether or not a farmer cuts a few trees each year or thins his entire woods in a single season depends on the use he has for the material he is cutting. For farm use or local market some trees will probably be cut every year but there are many cases where it is desirable to cut much more in one year than in others.

To keep down trouble from insects, it is better to do all cutting so far as possible between November and March.

By preventing woods and grass fires and cutting the right trees at the right time, every acre of poor land in the county should pay a net income of several dollars per year to the owner.

FARMERS INSURE ON MUTUAL PLAN

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 4.—During the last decade farmers' mutual fire insurance has grown steadily in the United States. This is revealed by a summary conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, report of which has been received at Auburn.

From 1916 to 1926 the amount of mutual fire insurance in force on farms increased from six billion dollars to ten billion dollars. The number of companies increased from 1,-883 to 1,911. Many of the smaller companies were combined to form larger companies and new companies were started during the decade.

Growth in membership and an increased average amount of insurance per member chiefly accounted for the increase in the volume of risks in force between 1916 and 1926. Part of the increase in the average insurance per member was due to increased valuations of buildings and personal property, and part to quantitative increase in insurable property.

The business of 1926 was done at the remarkably low average cost of about 26 cents per $100 of insurance in force. The average membership of 1,060 companies was 1,762, compared with an average of 1,532 members for 1,116 companies in 1916. Insurance per member in 1926, for companies reporting both membership and risks, was $3,144. No corresponding figure for the country as a whole is available for 1916.

The investigation revealed also that nearly all of the insurable farm property in the northern states is covered by insurance—either mutual or commercial concerns or joint stock companies. On the other hand, a majority of the farmers in the southern states carry no fire insurance on their farm property.

Last year 170 farm boys engaged in 4-H cotton club work in Randolph County and averaged 1,329 pounds of seed cotton per acre, according to G. B. Phillips, county agent.

A survey of cotton production in Limestone County revealed that on 15,000 acres home-mixing produced an average of seveen-tenths bale per acre, which was three-tenths bale per acre more than the average for the county. Fred Stewart and J. T. Belue made the survey. The difference in value was $36.00.

FARM CO-OPERATION

For the special benefit of all farmers we should strive to co-operate more and try to help take care of our farmer fellow-men in the most eronomical way. We have a good county agent thats always ready to help us in any way he ian, and advise on various things, such as land poultry and cattle.

Mr. Stap has been a great help and friend to the farmer in the past year, so lets show our appreciation by co-operating with him and helping each other in the right way. We have been too eager to pay the other fel low's prices without considering things. We should be well posted on all prices and compare them with others. We have agents and a farm bureau to buy our fertilizer and soda, as much as we want and terms that are reasonable.

We can raise most of our food, and feed our own cattle.

We have a Farm Bureau to sell our cotton through, and will sell at any time they are authorized to, and that means more money to the farmer. So, why not let's try to live at home on our farms. Who supports the small towns? The farmers. We all know they are supported and kept up by the farming class of people.

That is another reason why the farmers should cooperate to help one another. Suppose we try it just one year, and see if our expenses are not less than they have been. So, Hurrah for the Old Clod Hopper farmer. Stapp will back us, come on, boys.—A Farmer.

FERTILIZER FACTS

An additional expenditure of $2.85 for fertilizer for cotton brought an additional return of $29.52 an acre in Shelby County, says A. A. Lauderdale, county agent.

Demonstrations in corn production in Bibb County resulted in an increase of 8 bushels per acre, County Agent T. P. Lee reported. This included 150 demonstrations.

In Marengo County 4-H club boys average 1,000 to 1,500 pounds seed cotton per acre, according to E. E. Hale, who attributes much of it to home-mixing and larger applications of fertilizer.

Conecuh County farmers who fertilized their cotton as recommended by P. R. Pettis, county agent, averaged one-third of a bale per acre while those who did not follow his recommendation averaged one-fifth of a bale per acre.

In Chilton County 94 farmers averaged 271 pounds lint cotton per acre compared with an average of 185 pounds for the county. Eighty-six club boys who home-mixed their fertilizer and used more of it averaged 367 pounds of lint cotton per acre.

From November, 1927, to November, 1928, Mrs. R. M. Rawlinson of Elmore County cleared $1,700.00 on her poultry.

It is said that the City of Chicago uses 4,000,000 eggs daily and the City of New York, 7,000,000 daily.

NEWS IN BRIEF

During the last year 484 bank failures were recorded as against 831 the previous year.

St. Clair County farmers who used the Auburn mixture of 400 pounds superphosphate, 200 pounds nitrate of soda and 50 pounds muriate of potash averaged 1,400 pounds seed cotton per acre last year, according to R. M. Reaves, county agent.

The Jasper Mountain Eagle and the Ozark Southern Star won the loving cups offered to the best weekly newspapers in Alabama in 1928 by Victor Hanson, publisher of the Birmingham News and Age-Herald. The Jesper paper was awarded the cup for the best weekly newspaper, and the Ozark paper was awarded the cup for rendering the greatest community service in 1928.

Motherhood

no longer dreaded by thousands of women

LOOKING towards maternity should always be a period of joyful anticipation in a woman's life, rather than one of dread and doubt, as is so commonly the case.

However, the conditions of pending motherhood, existing as they do, over a protracted period of months, create almost a new state of being for a woman. Just as she prepares herself for it, so will most favorable conditions prevail when her child is born.

As an aid for the relief of the distressing phases of expectancy, and in the alleviations of the hardships that usually come with childbirth, Mother's Friend is a benefaction to womankind that has all but worked miracles.

"I used Mother's Friend with all my babies and I think it is the grandest help that has ever been discovered for expectant mothers," write Mrs. Laura Hendrix, Gracemont, Okla.

"Mother's Friend did wonders for me," writes Mrs. John S. Herr, Manheim, Pa. "I can almost say my baby was born without pain."

Externally applied, Mother's Friend, relieves prenatal distress by relaxing tight tissues and muscles. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

Mother's Friend is the discovery of an eminent physician. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. For over three generations Mother's Friend has relieved expectant mothers of much suffering. Begin using Mother's Friend today. The sooner the better. Sold by drug stores—everywhere.

Shall Attacking Hands Destroy American Railroads?

The record of accomplishment by the U. S. railroads during the past nine years stands as a monument to their managerial efficiency. Shall this monument be destroyed or disfigured----chipped away by the continuation of a national policy of rate reduction which is constantly cutting down the revenues, or the enactment of unjust laws which inevitably impose further hardships on railroad operations?

The unparalleled public service in these nine years has been produced largely through the investment of over $6,500,000,000 in improving and modernizing their transportation plants. Yet, notwithstanding this huge expenditure, coupled with vastly greater economies of operation, the railroads are not earning the fair return sanctioned by law and recognized in all good business. Such return in 1928 was only 4.65 per cent. Under the Transportation Act, they are entitled to earn 5¾ per cent, and it is a fact that they have fallen short of earning such return since the law was passed in 1920. The aggregate shortage amounts to over three billion dollars. Since there is no guarantee to the railroads of this fair return, no claim against the government has been made, or could be enforced.

Must the railroads always be restricted to an income less than the measure of return set up by the Transportation Act? The indefinite continuance of such a policy is not only unjust and unfair to the investors who have assumed the risk and responsibility of making the railroad possible, but it must in the long run prove detrimental to the entire business structure of this country.

THE NEW FORD AN EASY RIDING AUTOMOBILE

One of the things for which the new Ford car has already become famous is its exceptionally easy riding qualities over rough roads. Many factors contribute to this, especially the lowratio of unsprung weight to sprung weight, the flexible transverse springs, Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers, etc., but perhaps none more than the so-called torque tube drive. This principle of taking the thrust from the rear axle was first introduced into automotive practice by the Ford Motor Company on the Model T car and has later been adopted on many of the finest European and American cars including the Lincoln.

The torque tube is a metal housing surrounding the driving shaft. It takes the driving thrust from the rear axle and carries it to the universal joint housing, a point well forward on the chassis so that the car is really pulled rather than pushed over the road. This construction also relieves the rear spring of any function except that of supporting the load. This permits the leaves of the spring to be made flexible and shackled at both ends, resulting in free and normal action and an easy absorption of road shocks.

Radius rods join the torque tube at the forged steel housing of the universal joint adding strength and rigidity, keeping the rear wheels in perfect alignment, and further resulting in improved riding qualities.

INDIAN GRAVE NEWS

It has been quite a while since I have seen any news from this place so I guess I better let the folks know a little of the news from here.

Everybody seems to be about rid of the flu now, and are ready to go to farming.

Sunday was our regular preaching day. We had two real good services Sunday a. m. and Sunday night. Pleasant Valley put on a real good B. Y. P. U. program here Sunday night, which was enjoyed by everybody. We were so glad to have them with us and invite them back any time. We have a right good B. Y. P. U. here and invite visitors to come and be with us any time.

Miss Everee Coggins was the guest of Miss Clara Belle Jones Sunday for dinner.

Miss Alma Askins spent last week in Prattville with her sister, Mrs. H. G. Carter.

There is to be an oyster supper at Boone Deramus's Saturday night, February 9th, for the benefit of the church. We invite everyone to come and be with us. Don't forget the date.

SAWMILL AND TURPENTINE NON-PAYMENT OF LICENSE IS A CRIMINAL OFFENSE

Failure to pay the State and County license fees for operating turpentine stills, sawmills, lumberyards or lumber exporting concerns is a criminal offense, it is pointed out by State officials. This circumstance can easily develop into serious embarrassment to opeartors who heretofore may not have been aware of the legal status of such omissions.

At the close of the State fiscal year which ends September 30, each owner or operator of a turpentine still or stills must make and file with the State Auditor a sworn statement showing the number of stills operated by him or them at any time during the preceding twelve months and the capacity of each still. From this statement the Auditor will determine the amount of license tax due, and it is incumbent upon the operator to make immediate payment. After thirty daysfro m the date of the notice to the operator, ten per cent per month is added to the amount of the license until paid.

However this does not necessarily end the matter, since under Section 309 of the Revenue Laws of Alabama any person who fails to pay the license required, may, in addition, be fined not less than the amount of all licenses required of them and, if convicted of refusing to take out the license, he may be fined an additional amount up to one hundred dollars and may be sentenced to hard labor for the county up to six months.

Operators of sawmills, lumberyards and lumber exporting concerns obtain their licenses, not through the State Auditor, but directly from the Probate Judge of the county in which the business is located. In these cases the licenses must be taken out before beginning operations and become delinquent November 1 of each year. Criminal penalties for failure or refusal to take out licenses hold good in these cases as with turpentine stills.

BOX SUPPER AT PINE DALE

There will be a box supper given at Pine Dale Schoolhouse Saturday night, February 9th. Please come and enjoy the fun. Boys, bring a pocket full of money. Proceeds to go for benefit of the school.

SAMARIA

We are very glad to know that our Sunday school is almost back to normal after the epidemic of flu.

The B. Y. P. U. put on a good program Sunday night. We had 31 present including visitors. We are always glad to have visitors. We feel that a visitor can give us a lift in our work. We are engaged in a great work in the sight of God. We, as young Christians, are enjoying a great opportunity that the older people didn't have. We realize that the boys and girls will have the great responsibility of carrying on the work of God placed on our shoulders tomorrow.

The following program was rendered by Group No. 2 last Sunday night:

Scripture reading, Nora Wood.
Sentence prayers by Nora Wood, Dessie Robinson and Hugh Dupree.
Quiz, Nora Wood.
Introduction, Dessie Robinson.
Part No. 1, Mr. G. F. Harris.
Part No. 2, Doc Harris.
Part No. 3, Gladys Thomas.
Part No. 4, Harman Harris.
Part N. 5, Bert Roper.
Part No. 6, Ollie Hayes.
Song and then dismissed by the president, Dock Harris.

Miss Dessie Robinson and Miss Nora Wood returned to Mt. Pisgah to take up their school Monday morning.—A Reader.

D. M. Apperson says he is glad to report the flu on the wane around his section on Maplesville Route 2. He says he was beginning to get scared, as there are so many big men dropping out recently.

NEW SALEM

Everybody around this place is about to recover from the flu.

Last Sunday was our regular preaching day and a very large crowd attended. We did not have any services Sunday night on account of the weather.

We want to urge every body around the church to come to Sunday school next Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. We invite all to come and help us build up our Sunday school again.

Don't forget the social of W. M. U. on Thursday before the third Sunday. Every member is urged to attend.

Mrs. Carl Chambers and Miss Pauline Beane were the guests of Miss Lena Bean Saturday night.

Mr. Hollie Jones and Vernon Robinson motored home from Monegomery this week end.

Mr. Luther Vines of Birmingham was a visitor at his home Sunday.—A Reader.

Now that the Florida real estate boom has died down, we don't see why some enterprising Yankee real estate firm doesn't plat the Sahara desert and sell lots on the slogan, "plenty of parking space."

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

THE NEW A-B-C OF POULTRY RAISING

The Question of Vitamines and Their Value in Poultry Feeding is of Paramount Importance

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

"Professor," inquired a student in one of our agricultural collges, "you say we don't know what vitamines are; then, how do we know there are any?" "Do you know what life is?" retaliated the instructor. When the pupil admitted that he did not, the professor crisply retorted, "Still, you are reasonably sure that you're living, aren't you?" In that reply lies the key to a proper understanding of the subject of vitamines by poultry raisers. True, we don't know what they are, but we know what they will accomplish and that is the main thing after all.

Of the four known vitamines, A, B, C and D, proper understanding of the functions of the first and fourth is of paramount importance to poultry raisers. The other two may be ignored, as B is present in the outer covering of all grains and chickens do not seem to need vitamine C at all.

If feed is deficient in vitamine A, a disease called nutritional roup may develop. Mature birds affected in this way will die in from four to twelve months and young chicks in from four to eight weeks. Since feeding the proper ration of vitamine A means a very considerable protection against this disease, it may be seen that a proper understanding of the sources of this important vitamine is something worth considering.

Vitamine A is produced in all plants that grow in sunlight and is stored in the part that shows a green or yellow color at maturity. Thus we find it in yellow corn, the outer laeves of cabbage, the leaves of alfalfa and similar plants, in yellow carrots and in sprouted oats, if they are sprouted in the presence of enough sunlight to insure a good green color. Any other kind are valueless. These are not the only sources of vitamine A, but they are the ones principally used in poultry feeding. Strangely enough, drying does not affect the vitamine content of vegetable products, a fact which accounts for the value of alfalfa hay, and meal, when used for winter feeding.

Another valuable source of vitamine A is Cid Liver Oil. When a sufficient quantity of the products mentioned above cannot be obtained, Cod Liver Oil at the rate of about 2 per cent may be added to the mash to provide the necessary vitamine A content and also the equally valuable vitamine D.

Vitamine D, just mentioned, is important because without it the mineral elements of the fowls' ration intended to supply bone and egg shell will simply pass through the system unused. In young chicks this appears as "leg weakness" or, more properly, rickets. Older fowls show a similar weakness when they are not getting enough vitamine D. They will also lay eggs with soft or extremely thin shells. Their eggs will also prove deficient in hatching qualities.

A pecularity of vitamine D is that it can be formed both in the feed or in the bodies of the birds themselves when exposed to direct sunlight. It must be direct sunlight, however, as only the ultra-violet rays produce vitamine D and they cannot pass through ordinary window glass. The part played by ultra-violet rays in developing this necessary vitamine has been definitely established by experiments in the University of Kansas. Hens which were kept away from natural sunlight but exposed 20 minutes daily to artificially produced ultra-violet rays laid a normal number of eggs with satisfactory hatchability.

As previously mentioned, Cod Liver Oil contains vitamine D and if mixed in the same proportion as recommended for supplying vitamine A, it will supply the other one also. The oil is not an altogether dependable source of vitamine D, however. Some grades do not contain enough of it to be of any real value. So, whether you feed oil or not, see that your fowls get as much sunshine as possible. Let them out in the open whenever possible. Shelter them in the open front type of house and keep it open as much as the weather will permit. When the house must be closed totally or in part, instead of glass use the new glass substitutes, which allow the ultra violet rays to pass through. Then your hens will be healthy and strong. They will lay more plentifully; then eggs will hatch better and the chicks will be free from many weaknesses.

Thus it appears that the subject of vitamines is a fairly simple one, after all. Even if nobody does know anything about their chemical make-up, it is easy to see how they work and how to utilize their valuable properties in the proper nourishing of the poultry flock.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

The campus-wide "Go to Church" campaign put on recently by the University of Alabama Y. M. C. A. is bearing fruit, it is reported. The various churches in Tuscaloosa which hold semi-weekly meetings in the evenings, and around which student attendance is built, have stated that the enrollment is considerably larger than ever before.

The college Y. M. C. A. has offered a handsome loving cup to the fraternity that has the best church attendance during the present semester. This same cup was offered last eyar, and was won by the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. This semester the Y. M. C. A. has widened its scope and is offering a cup to other units of the university. A strict check is taken each Sunday at all dormitories and fraternity houses to ascertain what percentage is attending church. President Geo. H. Denny met during the week with the Tuscaloosa Ministerial Association to help formulate plans for increasing the church attendance of the university students. A recent survey showed that the University of Alabama ranked high among state and private institutions of learning in the number of church goers.

Dr. Jack Montgomery of the chemistry department of the University of Alabama has recently made a report on investigations he has been carrying on for some time in regard to the possibility of securing sugar from the Callacarpa Americana, of "Fox Berry" so common in Alabama. Dr. Montgomery stated that it had been determined in his laboratories that this berry was rich in sugar. He pointed out that it was ripe at a season when most other crops were out of the way, and he predicted that in the near future it would have commercial development.

Here is a Partner to help you make more MONEY

THIS is a special advertisement to cotton farmers who have never used Chilean Nitrate of Soda to fertilize their crops.

You may be making good crops . . . but Chilean Nitrate will help you make better ones.

You may be making money on your farm, but Chilean Nitrate will help you make more.

For Example:

"I was convinced, after putting all my Chilean Nitrate down at planting time for two years, that I would make more cotton by using about one-fourth of my Chilean Nitrate at planting time and the other as a side dressing. I put a side application of 100 pounds of Chilean Nitrate and produced ten bales on eighteen acres. The next year I used this same method and produced eleven bales on fourteen acres. Chilean Nitrate of Soda is the cheapest fertilizer I have ever used."
J. C. BAILEY
Wadley, Ala., Route 3

Chilean Nitrate is the best partner a farmer can have. It is the natural nitrogen fertilizer—not synthetic—the good old "Soda" that 800,000 farmers used last year.

Ask your county agent about Chilean Nitrate. He is familiar with many demonstrations conducted here last year. Each demonstration was official and impartial.

Order your supply now. If you don't know where and how to get it, simply write to the address below. Your inquiry will have prompt attention.

Valuable Book—Free

Our new 44-page book, "How to Use Chilean Nitrate of Soda" tells how to fertilize cotton and all other crops. It is free. Ask for Book No. 1 or tear out this ad and mail it with your name and address written on the margin.

"IT'S SODA Profitable Crops NOT LUCK"

HOME BEAUTY HAS CASH VALUE

"The lack of flowers, grass, roses and shrubbery around most farm houses in the South is the most depressing fact of our farm life. We need to 'brighten up' things around our farm homes," said H. G. Hastings, of Atlanta, recognized agricultural authority and president of the Georgia Association, an organization working for the better development of farm conditions and the bringing in of desirable settlers from other states.

"One of the greatest obstacles we have in our work of getting new settlers located in Georgia is the lack of any attempt to beautify the home surroundings by our own people. Weather-beaten, unpainted houses, front and side yards bare of flowers, grass, shrubbery, roses and shade trees give a black eye to the farm or community.

"Not only rural Georgia but the entire rural South needs the biggest kind of a 'Clean Up, Plant Up, Paint Up' campaign. Go down almost any country road in Georgia or other sister states and hardly one house in ten shows any attempt towards beautifying the home surroundings.

"This is not right. This is not fair to wife, mother or daughter. This is not fair to the boys growing up. Bare, unattractive home surroundings just naturally encourage the women folks to want to pick up and move to town. The boys have no pride in a home with unsightly, unattractive surroundings.

"Further, attractive home surroundings add real cash value to the place. Without attractive home surroundings, almost any farm is unsalable at anywhere near its value. Well-planted-up, attractive places often sell far beyond their real value. Once made attractive, the owner is usually so proud of it that desire to sell ceases.

"Making homes and home surroundings attractive in either country or town is not expensive. Not necessary to do it all at once. Make a start with beds of easily-grown flowers, add a few roses, flowering shrubs and vines each year; put in a grass plot or small lawn, and almost before one knows it you will have home surroundings so beautiful and attractive that it is the talk of the whole neighborhood.

"Clean up, plant up, and, if you can afford it, paint up in 1929."

DON'T TAKE WRONG ROAD IN 1929

"Farm success or failure in 1929 will very largely depend on planting decisions made during the next few weeks," declared H. G. Hastings, of Atlanta, recognized leader of farm thought and president of the Georgia Association, a state-wide development organization having for its principal object the betterment of farm conditions in Georgia.

"Despite all urging to the contrary, despite repeated disaster years following increased cotton acreage, our farmers generally increased cotton acreage in 1928, and decreased food and grain crops, gardens and meat animals. Providence stepped in with unfavorable seasons and cut yields, otherwise we would be facing 10 to 12 cent cotton now.

"There is a great scarcity of food, grain and forage on most farms of the South, a great scarcity of cows, hogs and chickens. Plenty of empty corn cribs, empty barns, empty shelves in the closet and a great plenty of unpaid store bills carried over as a direct result of overplanting cotton. Big cotton acreage, big yields of cotton and farm hard times go together.

"Time to face facts! Georgia and the Southeast cannot compete with Texas and Oklahoma cotton-growing on bought food and grain and third to half bale per acre yields. You must grow on home acres your full home needs in food, grain and forage.

"The home garden, a big, all-year-round one, will help amazingly in cutting both store and drug bills. Cows, hogs and chickens all come in handy both for food and something to take to town to sell whenever you go. The manure from the animals will help step up your fewer acres to the three-quarters to bale per acre class. With home-produced food and grain, you will own your cotton instead of owe it when made.

"It will be easy to take the wrong road in 1929, because it's the old road we have traveled so long. The right and only safe road for 1929 farm prosperity is the road to full, or practically full, production of food for the home table, full corn cribs, big hay and forage stacks, eggs and fried chicken from the flocks, meat from the hogs, milk from the cows and something extra to sell every time the auto or wagon goes to town. This, and this only, is the safe road."

CROP ROTATION INCREASES YIELD

That proper crop rotation leads to an increased yield is brought out by a recent bulletin by the North Carolina Experimental station. Working with Norfolk sandy loam soil anl using a 3 year rotation of corn followed and corn and cotton continuously, the experimenters obtained as an average yield over 9 years 38.3 bushels of corn as compared with 16.8 bushels for the continuous corn area and 1,630 lbs. of cotton on the rotated area compared with 1,327 pounds for the continuous cotton area.

With further reference to the importance of crop rotation, Mr. J. O. M. Smith of Commerce, Georgia who is known as one of the most successful farmers in the state, and who actually produced 30 bales of cotton on 10 acres in 1919, or an average of better than 1,360 pounds of lint cotton in the acre, says that, "in 25 years we have planted two acres in cotton in every five in cultivation, the remaining three acres are planted in crops that make food for the men and their families and the mules that work our land. Most feed crops are legumes that serve the double purpose of making ou rfood and improving our land. We sell food instead of buying it and have averaged making a bale of cotton per acre all these years.

If we were to plant all cotton instead of rotating as we do, it would take at least one-thrd more labor and soon take the whole place to make as much cotton as two acres in every five does now, and instead of selling feed we would have to buy it.

War On Rum By Prohibition Officers

Sheriffs of 20 Counties Confer With State and Federal Authorities

REPORT SAYS THAT STILLS ARE DECREASING

Federal, state, county and city law enforcement officers of the middle Alabama federal court district, embracing 23 counties, met in conference Thursday to map out a new plan of warfare against law violation. Special emphasis was laid on the enforcement of the prohibition laws, state and federal.

The morning session was held at the federal building in Montgomery with Chief Walter K. McAdory, of the state law enforcement department, presiding. Officers from about 20 of the 23 counties were in attendance. The conference was sponsored by C. H. Kellog, deputy U. S. administrator in charge of the Montgomery office, who was the first speaker. He outlined the purposes of the meeting.

Stills On Decline

That the manufacture and sale of whisky throughout the district is on the decline, was the report that a number of the sheriffs, deputies, chiefs of police and other officers brought to the meeting. Some of the officers said the "pocket-bootlegger" is causing them greatest trouble, while a few others reported that the small stills, dotting the swamps and marshes of many places, are their worst menace.

From the extreme southern part of the district the officers said that rum-runner with supplies from Florida are bothering them more than any other type of offender of the dry laws.

A spirit of cooperation between the state and federal forces of the district is found nearly everywhere, the officers told the conference.

Among the visitors was O. D. Jackson, of New Orleans, prohibition administrator in charge of the tenth federal district which embraces Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and the northern judicial district of Florida. He was one of the principal speakers at a luncheon at the Greystone hotel at 12:30 o'clock.

Kellogg Speaks

In his brief address Deputy Administrator Kellogg said the primary purpose of the conference was to coordinate the work and to eliminate as much lost motion in law enforcement as possible.

"I wanted the federal men in the district to know you sheriffs and other officers of the state better. This will certainly increase the efficiency of the service of the departments," Mr. Kellog stated.

One of the principal speakers at the morning session was J. O. Middleton, assistant district attorney, who told the officers that enforcement of the national prohibition act is making rapid progress throughout the nation. Denying the many reports that are made from time to time that officers are failing in their attempt to enforce the 18th amendment.

Mr. Midleton, in a ringing speech said this law can be enforced and is being enforced throughout the nation. He commended the services of the sheriffs, federal agents and municipal officers for their work in this district in fighting the illicit traffic. "You have made wonderful progress," he asserted.

BIRTHDAY DINNER AT CHUNCHULA LAST SUNDAY

Last Sunday, February 10th, was the 79th birthday of Mr. Akins Mims, at Chunchula. February 5th was the 62nd birthday of John Harrison Collins, who also lives at Chunchula now.

Mrs. Harrison Collins, who is a daughter of Akins Mims, gave a joint birthday dinner on Sunday for her husband and father. All of the children of Mr. Mims were present except two. All of the children of Mrs. Collins were present.

The dinner was a feast of joy, not alone in good things to eat, but in pleasant associations for the members of these families. Large cakes with candles were appropriately placed for both Mr. Mims and Mr. Collins.

Misses Genie and Hilma Collins, Mrs. Leonard Hays, Thomas Hays, and Mr. and Mrs. Earle Marcus, of Thorsby went to Chunchula to take part in the celebration.

LOUIS BRACKEN HERE AT FARM BUREAU MEETING

Mr. Louis Bracken, editor of Farm Bureau News, of Montgomery was in Clanton last Saturday attending the annual business meeting of the Chilton County Farm Bureau.

Mr. Bracken expressed his pleasure at the showing which the Farm Bureau has made in this county during the past year as shown by reports of officials at the Saturday meeting.

Chilton was among the last of the counties in Alabama to organize the Farm Bureau work. There are now a total of 200 farmers enlisted in the work. Every indication is that the business done is satisfactory and that it will continue to grow.

JOHN S. CATTS DIED AT HOME IN VERBENA

Was Prominent Citizen and Official of Chilton County For Many Years

John Smyly Catts, 77, died at 6 o'clock Friday evening at his residence in Verbena. He was born in 1851 at Pleasant Hill, Dallas County, the oldest son of Capt. Samuel Walker Catts, of Alexandria, Va., and Adeline Rebecca Smyly Catts. Her father, John Smyly, was one of the earliest pioneers into Alabama from South Carolina. He took out the 99th land patent in this state. The deceased was a brother of Sidney J. Catts, former governor of Florida.

Funeral services were held at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Verbena. Interment was in Verbena cemetery.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Maude M. Catts, he s survived by three sons, Samuel W. Catts, of Montgomery; Hugh W. Catts, of Birmingham, and Lieut. Col. Gordon R. Catts, of San Antonio, Texas; and one brother, Sidney J. Catts, of DeFuniak Springs, Florida.

Mr. Catts served as Sheriff of Chilton County from about August, 1907 to January, 1911. He was appointed to the office upon the death of Felix Fitts. At the time of his death he was license inspector for Chilton County, which office he has held for the past few years.

16 YEAR OLD BOY BURIED AT BILLINGSLEY

John Henry Tindall, the 16 year old son of Daniel J. Tindall of Billingsley, died of pneumonia at the home last Sunday afternoon, February 3. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at Billingsley and interment made in the Billingsley cemetery. Rev. S. J. Ezell of Clanton, conducted the funeral.

There will be a plate supper at Shiloh schoolhouse, 8 miles southwest of Clanton on Saturday night, Feb. 16th. Mr. B. Lawrence, county superintendent of education, will be there to speak on Consolidation, beginning at 6:30 o'colck.

REV. F. B. TICKNOR DIED JANUARY 31

A letter from Miss Ellen Stanley at Columbus, Georgia, this week to The Union-Banner tells us the sad news that Rev. F. B. Ticknor died in that city on January 31st.

Mr. Ticknor had a great number of friends in Clanton and throughout Chilton County who will be greived to know of his departure from this life.

Going as he did at an advanced age, Mr. Ticknor leaves behind him a life of great usefulness and a most wonderful wealth of good deeds and lasting joy to those whose pleasure it was to know him.

The Union-Banner feels that in his death we have lost a godfather whose counseling and friendly advice has been a blessing to us for many years. Mr. Ticknor was editor of The Union-Banner for quite a while. The present publishers of the paper worked under him while he was at the head of the business. In that capacity we learned from him most valuable lessons of patience, kindliness, and forbearance. His life was a great moving force that pointed with a profound reverence toward God and Godliness in all things which he undertook.

No greater satisfaction can be expressed by his friends in parting the ways of earth with him than that which is given to us in the assurance that he has laid down this life with its toils and cares to take up that sweeter life for which he was most eminently prepared.

Public Health Meeting At Clanton Saturday

Special Session of the Commissioners Court Will Consider Putting on Health Unit for Chilton County

The Commissioners Court of Chilton County, Alabama, is hereby ordered to convene at a special session at the Court House of Chilton County, Alabama, on Saturday, 16th day of February, 1929, at two o'clock P. M. at which time the question and discussion of an all-time health unit for Chilton County, will be made. The Commissioners Court further request that the general public attend this meeting in order that we might have a full discussion regarding the proposition of establishing an all-time health unit for Chilton County. The Court would like all who are interested in this proposition, both men and women, and both for and against said proposition, be present as everyone will be given a chance to be heard on this matter. Dr. Austin of the State Health Department will be here at that time and will fully explain to the people the health unit. This health unit will cost the county $5,000.00 each year, and we would like to get the opinion of all the people as nearly as possible on this proposition.

L. H. REYNOLDS, Judge of Probate,
J. P. BEAN, T. A. MADDOX,
J. L. BURNETT, A. P. VINSON,
Commissioners.

Come To This Meeting!

Every citizen of Chilton County should attend this meeting. The matter of establishing a health unit for Chilton County is a most important question. The Commissioners Court want to do what the people want done about it. It is a big question, and the people should give a public expression to guide the Court in their action.

Don't forget the time and the place. Two o'clock next Saturday afternoon at the courthouse. It makes no difference whether you are for the health unit or against it. The Commissioners want to hear you express yourself on the subject. Dr. Austin of the State Health Department will be there to talk on the subject and answer any question you may want to ask about the operation of the health plan.

SARTOR BUYS INTEREST OF V. J. ELMORE IN STORE

Mr. W. H. Sartor announces this week that he has bought out the interest and good-will of Mr. V. J. Elmore in the store which has been operated in Clanton for several years under the name of Elmore's.

The business will be continued at the same location on the corner of Seventh Street and Second Avenue. The future name of the business will be "The Fair."

Mr. Sartor is one of the pioneer business men of Clanton. He has built up a large following of satisfied customers on his perpetual policy of fair treatment to everybody and selling his goods at a "live and let live price."

In recent years Elmore's under the management of Mr. Sartor, has become one of the leading ready-to-wear and dry goods stores in Chilton County. Mr. Sartor will be glad to have all friends of Elmore's to continue as customers and friends of "The Fair."

HENRY JOHNSON BURIED AT TEMPLE LAST SATURDAY

Henry Johnson, age 80, died at the home of his son, Will Johnson, in Gowan Addition, Clanton, Friday night a little past midnight. The remains were buried Saturday afternoon at Temple Church. Rev. Lynch pastor at Walnut Creek, conducted the funeral. The body was prepared and buried by Martin.

The deceased leaves three children: Jim Johnson of Sylacauga, Will Johnson of Clanton and Mrs. Mary Jane Mims of Temple community, widow of the late James W. Mims. The first wife of E. P. Mims was another daughter of Henry Johnson. She died ten or twelve years ago.

The wife of the deceased, Mrs. Tyne Johnson, preceded him to the grave about four years ago.

MOORE AND PACE HERE IN INTEREST OF DRAINAGE

Mr. J. M. Moore of the State Department of Agriculture, and drainage engineer, Fulton Pace, were in Clanton last Thursday in the interest of Clanton's proposed drainage project.

These gentlemen attended the weekly luncheon of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, and spoke to the members relative to the progress of the drainage program.

Kiwanians were delighted with the assurances of Mr. Moore that Clanton would have every possible assistance that can be given by the State Department of Agriculture in carrying forward the plans for our drainage district. He expressed the appreciation of his department for the splendid work done by the Clanton Club in carrying the drainage amendment in the last election, and gave assurance that the claims of the Clanton district would come first.

There are several drainage districts under consideration in the State. The fact that the State Department of Agriculture is so kindly disposed toward the Clanton project should give added impetus to the formulation of our preliminary plans and aid us much in carrying them to final execution.

A committee of local citizens headed by W. W. Fox is at work on the proposition to arrange preliminary details. Three petitions are being circulated among landowners for their signatures. Mr. Fox will make a report of the progress of his committee at the luncheon of Clanton Kiwanis Club Thursday.

JOHN CRUMPTON DEAD

We learn that John Crumpton died at his home near Macedonia wast of Jemison Monday night. It is said his death was sudden and entirely unexpected. He was buried Wednesday at Macedonia.

The deceased was the only brother of Mr. C. C. Crumpton. Dr. J. P. Crumpton of Clanton attended the funeral services.

Miss Lois Wamm, teacher at Lock 12, was a Clanton visitor Tuesday.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPALS TO MEET NEXT SATURDAY

A special meeting of the Junior High School principals association will be held at the courthouse next Saturday at one o'clock for the purpose of discussing a Field Day Basket Ball tournament and the collection of incidental fees. We would appreciate the presence of as many trustees as we can get to attend.

Let us urge that every Junior High School principal in the county meet with us. This organization has been functioning for about one year and has already accomplished much good. The last meeting was a very enthusiastic one in which there was a splendid spirit manifested. We can do more good if we can enroll all the principals.

226 ARRESTED BY STATE OFFICERS

$13,125.50 In Fines Collected During Month of January This Year

Fines aggregating $13,125.50 were assessed in Alabama in cases made by state law enforcement officers in January, it was shown in the monthly report of the bureau which was submitted to Governor Bibb Graves Saturday. Expenses of the bureau in the same period were $8,567.09.

There were 201 stills destroyed in the state during the month, 114,850 gallons of beer and 1,205 of whisky.

A total of 276 arests were made. of these 150 were on charges of violating the prohibition law; 42 for distilling; five for transporting liquor, and four for possession of a still. Five arrests were made for driving a car while intoxicated, two for public drunkenness and two on narcotic charges.

Of cases made by officers and tried in court in January 13 resulted in convictions. One was dismissed and six were nolle prossed.

Mr. Ivy O. Blalock is now with the Newt Gray Barber Shop, where he invites his friends and patrons to come to see him. Mr. Blalock and Leon Sanford made a swap recently whereby Blalock takes Sanford's place at Gray's and Sanford takes Blalock's place at the Sanford Shop.

ERROR IN REPORT OF COUNTY TREASURER

County Commissioner A. P. Vinson calls our attention to an error in the report of the County Treasurer published in The Union-Banner on Jan. 10, 1929. In the paid out part of the Special Gas Tax Fund, date of November 20, it read: "A. P. Vinson, $114.27." This should have read: "A. P. Robinson, $114.27."

THE BOB JONES MEETING LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

Rev. Bob Jones spoke to a capacity audience at the courthouse in Clanton last Sunday night. Services at the churches of the city were suspended in order to give everyone a chance to attend the Jones meeting.

The subject of the speaker was "American Homes."

Farm Bureau Elects Officers For Year

Important Meeting Held Last Saturday at Courthouse In Clanton

INTERESTING TALKS BY VISITING OFFICIALS

The members of the Chilton County Farm Bureau held a meeting at the courthouse last Saturday, at which some visiting speakers addressed the farmers on important farm topics.

Mr. W. D. Barton, director of Field Service of the Farm Bureau in Alabama was the first speaker. He discussed co-operative marketing and its place in our agricultural system. He brought out the fact that it is just as important for farmers to buy certain raw materials for their farms as it is to sell what they produce at the right price.

"When the farmer prospers, the bankers, merchants, and other business men, including our industries, prosper," said Mr. Barton. He concluded his address by a stirring appeal for closer and more diligent cooperation among farmers and all other classes of business men, urging that those who have not studied cooperative principles do so, thereby helping to gain the desired results of better conditions of business in every way.

The second speaker was Mr. M. H. Pearson, formerly with the Extension Service at Auburn, now State manager for the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau in Alabama. Mr. Pearson made a splendid talk on the kind of fertilizer to use, how much we can afford to use, and when to use it. Many farmers present acclaimed the address of Mr. Pearson to be the best fertilizer advise they ever listened to.

After the speakers had concluded their addresses the members of the local organization went into its business meeting and elected officers for the coming year as follows:

President, W. L. Popwell; first vice president, T. F. Patterson; second vice president, J. S. Weldon; Secretary and Treasurer, J. N. Dennis; Board of Directors in addition to the above named officers, H. G. Boyd, H. R. Oden, L. G. Posey, Ellis Mims, I. M. Deason, E. R. Piper, Judson Strock, W. L. Parrish, R. M. Foshee, J. L. Smith.

Mr. H. G. Boyd, who has been Treasurer of the Chilton County Farm Bureau for the past year, made a financial report of the year's business, revealing a favorable and profitable operation in the several lines of business done for members.

BAKER BOYS WIN FROM CONCORD BOYS 14 TO 8

The Baker boys hung another scalp to their belt in a basket ball game with Concord last Friday on the latter's court. The score was 14 to 8. Most of the scores that were made by the Baker boys were made on field throws. This is the third game the Baker boys have won in succession.

GREEN RETHERFORD NOW WITH POLK BROTHERS

Mr. Green Retherford has accepted a position with Polk Brothers Motor Company, local Chevrolet dealers. He will be engaged in selling new and used automobiles.

Mr. Retherford will appreciate the help of his friends and will be glad to talk business with anyone who may be interested in buying or trading automobiles.

BOYS ORGANIZE FARM CLUB

The students of vocational agriculture have formed a local chapter of the Future Farmers of America. The chapter will in time affiliate with the state and national organization.

Among the functions of this organization are, the development of rural leadership among its members, the practice of thrift and good business methods, the rendering of service to the community, improved recreations and social life and the development and imporvement of vocational agriculture.

The following officers were elected: President, Lloyd Veazy, vice president, Ensley Atkinson; secretary, Hollis Merchant; treasurer, Billie Thomas; advisor, J. P. Montgomery; reporter, Osteen Lenoir; executive committee, Robert Martin, Emeral Davis, and Edward Glasscock.

Don't forget to come to the concert at the high school Friday night. Singing will be by McDonald Quartet.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Over in Europe during the past few years it has become the popular pastime to call Americans dollar chasers and to characterize Uncle Sam as the world's great modern Shylick. Doubtless some of the ill feeling which has engendered thus is due to misunderstanding and envy of our prosperity and progress during the years following the war. And there have been men and women in America, of the class which likes to ape all things European, who have followed this lead from across the seas and have been disposed to criticise things which originate in America.

It might be well to pause for a moment and reflect on just what sort of dollar chasers we are. It is true that in America we have at present a prosperity which surpasess anything in the history of the world. Never before has the standard of living been so high anywhere as it is today in the United States. But these conditions are not due to any grasping spirit but to the fact that we have evolved a new economic structure, one based on the theory that a country is well off not when it can produce cheaply at the expense of its workers but when it can produce cheaply by creating and maintaining a great home market which is built up on the prosperity and buying power of its own people. There is nothing of Shylock's nature in this policy.

To go a little further. According to the John Price Jones Corporation, of New York, fund raising consultants, the charitable gifts in the United States during the year 1928 amounted approximately to $2,330,600,000. This surpasses the gifts of the year previous which amounted to $2,219,700,000. Here are some figures worth meditating over for a moment. More than two and a quarter billions in a year for charitable purposes! Isn't this doing pretty well for a nation of dollar chasers, for a nation which our European brethren like to caricature as Shylock?

The greatest amount of the contributions, we are told went to religious denominations as in the past, but large gifts were made to organized charity relief, for educational purposes and for the advancement of health. Certainly even the most critical man will have little fault to find with this method of spending money.

Certainly no other nation has ever equalled this record in charitable giving. And be it remembered that in the past, when occasion warranted, the American people have not hesitated to open their purse strings and give to alleviate the sufferings of unfortunate people in other lands as well as in America. The socialist of course will decry this lavish giving away of funds and will declare that it should have been all "divided up" in the first place. But the American people will never agree with this theory. They prefer to act on the established principal that the best sort of prosperity is built upon individual effort, upon giving to each man the reward of his labor in accordance with his own ability, the effort he puts and the value of his service to humanity. No theory that has as its cornerstone the giving to all alike, regardless of their service to the community, will ever do anything but sink all to the level of the lowest stratum of society. We have a good example of this in communist Russia today. Russia is only able to exist at all as an organized state through the fact that it is governed by a band of autocrats who have comprised with their theories and adopted just enough of the working principles of their capitalist "enemies" to keep their heads above water.

After all it must be fairly said that the American people are a generous people. This is not said in a boasting way. But somebody ought to say it in contradiction of the anti-American propaganda which is to be heard on every hand, coming from the internationalists and pro-Europeans in our own country. That they are a generous people is proved not only by the figures quoted above but by the evidences we see on every hand of fine libraries, magnificent hospitals, majestic parks and children's playgrounds; and of modern school houses and comfortable churches not only in the cities but in every cross roads hamlet in America. These things did not "just happen."

They grew through the generosity and open mindedness of the American people who are used to "giving until it hurts." And they were made possible because of the American system of government which has given a prosperity which seems to make all material things possible to us as a nation.

IT PAYS TO LOOK UP

Arno B. Cammerer, assistant director of the national parks of the Untied States, tells of an old preacher in Virginia, who in a manner most original, put a quietus on a smart-aleck who made sport of religion.

"Parson," said this fresh chap, "I am as good as I need be. I can't help thinking so, because God blesses me as much as he does you Christians, and I don't know what more I want than he gives me."

The old preacher looked at him for a moment, and then in kindly tones replied:

"That is exactly the case with hogs. I have often looked at them rooting in the woods, and finding just as many acorns as they needed. And yet I never saw one of them look up to the tree whence the acorns fell." — National Capital Yarns, in National Republic.

WORK AFTER SIXTY

The recent order of the President advancing the age for appointment of first, second and third-class postmasters from 65 to 68 ought to help the whole army of men with silver threads in their hair who complain they are turned away from industry because "young blood" is demanded.

In the last few years the expectancy on life has been greatly increased. A man of 50, or 60, or 65 is not as old as a man of that age was considered a couple of decades ago. Perhaps the agitation old-age retirement pensions, carried on in public service and out, may be subtly responsible for the idea that past a certain age a man is no good and his job should go to a youngster.

The more such opportunities as the President's order gives the less we shall hear about industry not wanting men past middle age. The more opportunity there is for employment the less we shall hear about age retirement pension. And the less we hear about old-age pensions the less industry will be prejudiced against men old in years only.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Brother Bryan's Bible Story

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

THE WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT

I wish to speak to you tonight on the work of the Holy Spirit, not the Holy Ghost. There is nothing ghostly about the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit should never be spoken of as it. The Holy Spirit is as much a person as God is God. The three persons of the Godhead: "Father, Son and Holy Spirit." The three in one, the same in substance, eternal in power and glory, the Father in the counsels of eternity, the God and Father you and I will have in the counsels of eternity.

God planned a plan by which you and I could be saved from sin and its direful consequences. Jesus Christ worked out that plan, God's eternal Son and God. I cannot explain that neither can any man explain it. When Christ died on the cross of Calvary an atoning death overcoming everything pertaining to our sin. He arose from Joseph's tomb thus overcoming death and the grave, assuring us of a glorious ressurrection day. He ascended to the right hand of God where you and I shall, if faithful to Him, enter mansions prepared for us. Thus Christ worked out the plan of salvation for you and me.

The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Truly it is a great thing. I read a little book by Mr. Moody titled, "The Way to God." The Holy Spirit is in person and He applies all we study to our hearts and lives. The first work of the Holy Spirit is to convict men of sin. Jesus Christ says when He comes He will convict the world of sin and righteousness. In the judgment to come Christ will convict the world of sin. All the sins we have committed, the times we have missed prayer meetings, the times we have criticised men.

I saw a man this morning who was convicted of sin. He told me so and expressed a deep desire to find salvation to his soul, yet he could not give up the sins which were so easily overcoming him, malice, envy, jealousy, hatred, strife. When Peter preached the great pentecostal sermon it was not his sermon that convicted men but the Holy Spirit did. My preaching has never convicted men of sin. The Holy Spirit is the one who convicts men of sin. He will convict the world of sin. He, that powerful Spirit of God, will convict the world of sin and righteousness on the judgment day which is to come.

I pray that the Holy Spirit will convict men who are running radios all day on Sunday and other days to keep people away from the worship services of God. On the day of Pentecost while Peter preached the Holy Spirit came upon men. They turned and said, "What shall we do to be saved?" Peter said, "Repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ." Now, that they were convicted of sin and had repented, they knew they were not lost. It is a great thing to know you are out of hell.

Jonothan Edwards was a professor of Yale after his graduation from the same college. After he accepted the work of preaching he was a laborer of intense zeal and was nobly conscientious. In reading his books we learn that he was an outstanding man and brilliant scholar of his time. He got an invitation to go to a certain place to preach. At first he declined the invitation, but decided one cold day to make the trip. He found a neighbor sick with no wood, freezing from the cold. He went where he was needed so badly.

I sometimes think the reason some people do not come to our church on Avenue G and 22nd street is because they are afraid they will contaminate some of these little devils down here. Thousands of men sit at home on Sunday nights when any other night of the week they are out at a picture show, the devil's work shop. If anyone does not love to pray they are not right with God. I love to talk to Him. I love to pray, to talk to the Father. If you are not on pleading terms with God your Father, you are on dangerous territory.

Jonothan Edwards accepted an invitation to preach by telling the brethren that he had only Saturday night to go and asked them to meet him in the little local church to pray from 7 o'clock till 9 o'clock. The people did this and Mr. Edwards text was, "A Sinner in the Hands of an Angry God." We do not hear a text like that now-a-days. In this sermon he explained that the sinner could not treat Christ unkind and escape punishment. People were so convicted of sin that they even screamed and expressed their conviction in many different ways.

What we need to-day is conviction of sin. It is a sin for people to stay away from church when they can go. It is a sin for men and women to keep their children away from Sunday School when they could easily send them there. In the Judgment Day God will say could you have gone to church? Could you have sent your children to Sunday School and preaching? If I had not gone to the hospital to see a girl's cousin when invited to go, I would have sinned.

A man told me the other day that he did not think it was so much his duty to go to church. He was all right out of the church because he was an observer of the golden rule. I asked him where he lived because I sure wanted to go to see such a family, but he never did tell me. I expect he did not want me to see his wife for fear she might betray that he was not an observer of the golden rule. The Spirit of God holds up God. Mr. Loveless says the Spirit of God convicts men of sin. He testifies of Christ. That is, He shows men this praying Jesus who died for me and you with spikes in His hands and a javelin in his heart.

The Holy Spirit convicted Wall Street, New York. They did not take time to preach, but just prayed. O, if you and I could just get a vision of this Christ of Calvary how much better prepared we would be to hold up Him to the millions without Him. I would not take a million dollars for this statement: "Unless a men be born again, he can not be saved." He cannot be born again by living in a palace. He can be saved only by the Holy Spirit applied to his heart through the blood of Jesus Christ. Jeremiah McCauley labored in a prison to be saved. After his conviction of sin his life was changed and he was a saved man. He was not satisfied to be still and not labor for Christ. He at once began to let his light shine to those around him.

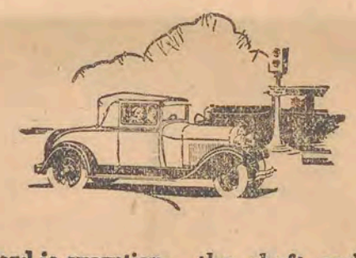
Unless we are striving to let our lights shine that others may see and know we have been with Jesus it is a shame and a disgrace to Christianity and American civilization. No man can say he knows when he was born again. My mother told me I was born March the 16th. But Jesus Christ said: "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is everyone that is born of the Spirit."

You say "How can I get to be a child of God?" Paul writes, "Ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, "Abba, Father." When this happens, you and I can look up into the Father's face and say "My Father, my Father." There is something about being in the family of God and having Jesus Christ my elder brother. O, to be a child of God and to be faithful to the end.

NOT 13 MONTHS

Of course no progress ever is made unless we try to invert the old order, but what good excuse is there for making thirteen months in a year that Julius Caesar said should have twelve? Not you understand, that we are a partisan of Caesar's, but we have got along so comfortably under his calendar system for so many centuries that we hesitate to experiment. Also there appear to be excellent reasons against the proposal, chief of which is that bills will come due too often by reason of their being too many firsts of the month. Also, supposing you are a renter, that means you must pay rent, or more, thirteen times in a year instead of twelve. That is not so good.

And it would of course, speed up this credit business a good deal. It would mean that the tenth of the month was shoved down a little closer to the first of the month.



But speaking from the standpoint of hose who prefer to adhere to old customs, old manners, and are perfectly content with twelve instead of the proposed speeded-up thirteen months of the year, we are not only against the suggested innovation, but what is much more important, a-gin it.

It's hard enough to pay bills 12 months a year—if at all.—Muncie Evening Press.

There are many reasons for the ease of steering the new Ford

THE new Ford is exceptionally easy to steer because of the well-proportioned weight of the car, the steel-spoke wheels, the co-ordinated design of springs and shock absorbers, the size and design of the steering wheel, and the simple mechanical construction of the steering gear.

The Ford steering gear is of the worm and sector type used on high-priced cars and is three-quarter irreversible.

In simple, non-technical language, this means that the car responds easily and quickly to the steering wheel, yet there is no danger of the wheel being jerked from the hands of the driver by ruts or bumps in the road. A light touch guides the car, yet you always have that necessary feel-of-the-road so essential to good driving.

Strength of materials and careful workmanship give unusual stability to the Ford steering gear and housing.

The steering worm, for instance, is splined to the steering worm shaft and is stronger, of course, than if a single key were used to hold the shaft and worm together. The steering worm sector is forged and machined in the same piece with its shaft.

The housing of the steering gear mechanism is made of three steel forgings, electrically welded together. This housing is then electrically welded to the steering column. Such a one-piece steel unit is naturally much sturdier than if several parts were used and bolted or riveted together.

Throughout, the new Ford steering mechanism is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no attention.

The only thing for you to do is to have the front steering spindles, spindle connecting rods, and drag link lubricated every 500 miles and the steering gear lubricated every 2000 miles.

For this work, you will find it best to consult the Ford dealer. He has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Cotton, corn, wheat, hogs, rice, and tobacco are grouped as the "six basic farm commodities" of the United States from which 44 per cent of the entire farm income in the United States was derived in 1926.

Promotion of farm machinery business through local and county shows conducted by dealers in cooperation with county agents is proposed by the National Association of Farm Equipment manufacturers. Agricultural engineers at Auburn favor the proposal.

The world's supply of wheat is now said to be 5 per cent greater than the supply a year ago. This is sufficient to affect prices and it is sufficient to discourage expansion of spring seeding unless the winter should be unusually hard on autumn seeding, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Southerners and democrats in congress are requesting an increase in the tariff duties on jute and jute products sufficient to portend the substitution of cotton for nearly a billion pounds of jute imported annually in various forms. New Englanders and Republicans are reported to be opposed to the increase.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

COTTON SHOULD BRING HIGHER PRICES

"Hold your cotton," was the keynote of an address authorized by Commissioner S. M. Dunwoody, as broadcast fram the Studio of the Department of Agriculture, on February 7, over WAPI. Mr. Dunwoody has studied the statistical position of the cotton market. He believes cotton is selling about 3 cents under what it should. He bases his belief, in part, on the following facts.

"The reported carryover in January, 1929 was given at two and one half million bales. The final production for 1928 will be about 14,200,000 bales. This gives a supply of 16,700,000 bales of American cotton for the present year."

"It is important to remember that two crops within the past 5 years have been of practically the same size. In 1927, the supply was reported as 16,500,000 bales. In 1924, the crop was practically the same."

"The point to consider now is that the average price for 1927 was 20.2 cents. For 1924, the price was 22.9 cents. At present cotton is bringing a little more than 18 cents.

"Futhermore, American consumption of cotton, of the current crop to the end of January, was 258,000 bales less than the previous year. Of still greater importance is the export amount which was 948,000 bales greater. This means that 690,000 bales more of American cotton were taken this year, than last year."

In all good reasons then, the present price should be somewhere between the prices for cotton in 1927 and 1924. In other words, cotton should bring about 21 cents, instead of around 18 cents."

In the light of the above situation as set forth by well known statistics, Mr. Dunwoody does not hesitate to say that cotton should be held for higher prices by farmers. He further says that if cotton farmers again plant another large acreage this year, it will still further tend to lower the price of the remainder of the 1928 crop and depress the coming crop of 1929.

The 1929 Alabama high school dramatic tournament will be held at Auburn, April 13, according to Prof. J. R. Rutland. All Alabama high schools are invited to take part.

FARMERS SHOULD STUDY FERTILIZER NEEDS IS ADVICE

Each farmer in every Alabama county should at this time seriously consider the proper method of fertilization before buying fertilizer, according to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. For 6 years President O'Neal has been making an extensive study as to how farmers can improve their production, finance and marketing. After this extensive study, Mr. O'Neal has recently said to members of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation:

"We Alabama farmers have learned to practice what is known as the 'Auburn Plan' of fertilization. The farmer buys the ingredients needed and mixes them himself. I believe this plan is one of the principal reasons our state, in spite of the boll weevil, has advanced so high in rank among cotton states. The results are so outstanding that it is hardly believable.

"One of our leading farmer cooperators reports an increase of $59.50 per acre in cotton production by using the 'Auburn Plan' against no fertilizer on adjoining land. This is applied to 50,000 acres in each county would amount to a startling sum of about three million dollars per county.

"There is another angle to cooperative buying of fertilizer," Mr. O'Neal declared. "Farmers buy for cash saving the enormous credit price he used to pay. Buying in large volume, he gets one sack as cheap as a train load and has the advantage of a collective bargaining power in lowering his generl price levels. Last season we bought 3 1-4 million dollars worth of fertilizer cooperatively—102,000 tons—probably the largest seasonal purchase of fertilizer ever put over in this country. In seven years, over 400,000 tons costing over $12,400,000 have been handled cooperatively without a cent lost."

Preparations are being made for a great grain exposition at Regina, Saskatchewan, August 1, 1932, at which a total of $90,000 will be awarded for wheat prizes, $30,000 for oats, $21,000 for barley, and $19,000 for corn and proportionate amounts for other grains and seeds.

Students from 18 foreign countries have been trained at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, according to statistics announced by the registrar.

FOUR CLUB BOYS GET RADIO SETS

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 11.—For outstanding activities in the production of cotton last year, four Alabama boys engaged in 4-H club work under direction of the county agents were awarded radio receiving sets offered by the Alabama Division of Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educaaional Bureau. These four boys are Thomas Bottoms of Limestone County; Boyd Gibbs of Etowah County; Alfred Montz of Hale County; and Clarence Goneka of Conecuh County.

Each reported his work to his county demonstration agent. Thomas Bottoms made more cotton than either of the others. On one acre he gathered 3034 pounds of seed cotton which ginned 1177 pounds of lint. It cost him 4.43 cents per pound to make this cotton.

Boyd Gibbs made 2767 pounds seed cotton which ginned 1106 pounds of lint. It cost him only 2.5 cents per pound. After deducting production cost from what he received from his cotton he had netted $209.73. The value of his cotton was $237.40 from which he deducted his cost of production, $27.67, leaving him a net profit of $209.73.

Alfred Montz produced only 1705 pounds which ginned 705 pounds of lint. Weather conditions in his section were less favorable. His production cost was 6.38 cents per pound; his profit was $105.90.

Clarence Goneka had unfavorable weather but he made 1596 pounds seed cotton which ginned 590 pounds of lint. His cost was 4.5 cents per pound which left him a profit of $97.85.

Each of these boys had good land which he prepared well before planting. Each mixed his fertilizer at home, using the Auburn maximum as recommended by his county agent.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION

Editor Union-Banner:

Please announce through the columns of your paper that there will be a fiddlers convention at the court house next Saturday night, February 16th. Here's a New Guide For You

Guaranteed analysis assures the quantity of plant food in fertilizers, but what assures the quality?

Now, on each bag of Swift's Red Steer Fertilizer you will find a Certificate of Quality. It says, "Best Materials, Double Mixed, Triple Tested."

This Certificate is important to you. Briefly explained, it means:

Best Materials—plant food from the most productive sources.

Double Mixed—to make sure of easy drilling and that each plant will get its share of plant food.

Triple Tested—to assure the right kind of plant food in the right form and correct amount.

This year you will want to buy fertilizers with the Certificate of Quality attached to each bag.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

The average annual value of crops produced in Alabama over the last five years amounted to $215,293,000. This is exclusive of animal produtcs.

The wool growing industry is declared by E. C. McCarroll, of the National Bank of Commerce, New York, to be on a sounder basis today than ever before. He declares that 60 years of prosperity has completely restored its producing capacity.

Plans are now under way for holding at Auburn in the summer of 1929 an Alabama Press Institute. It is being sponsored jointly by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and the Alabama Press Association.

STAPP WRITES TO POULTRY RAISERS

Urges Farmers to Sell Non-Productive Birds Now; Gives Pointers on Culling

Dear Poultry Raiser:

This letter is to bring to your attention the importance of poultry on the farm.

Number of flocks reported on 73; average No. birds per flock, 244; average No. eggs per bird, 152; average value of eggs produced per bird for year, $4.60; average cost of grain and mash per bird for year, 2.27c; average return above feed cost, 2.33c.

A good flock of hens well fed and cared for will pay their keeper good returns for his labor.

LOOK! LOOK!

Last week we ran a cooperative poultry car over the M. & O. railroad and paid cash for the chickens at the car door. Next week we will run a car over the L. & N. road and cash will be paid for all poultry weighed in at the car door.

We will likely run another car or cars, later in the spring to pick up breeding hens and friers, culls and roosters. I added roosters, because you should by all means sell off, or separate your roosters from your hens after hatching season as nonfertile eggs keep better and sell better than do fertile eggs.

I cannot possibly cull everybody's chickens, so I want to give you a few simple points to go by when you decide to sell.

Chickens to Sell:

Sell all that are inactive, undersized, lacking in vigor, poor eaters, with shrunken, hard, dull or whitish colored comb; with thick, stiff pelvic bones and breast bones that are close together, and full, firm or hard abdomen.

Chickens to Keep:

Keep the hens that are active, vigorous, good eaters, with plump, and bright red combs, large moist vents, thin, pliable pelvic and breast bones spread well apart, large, soft pliable abdomen. Only well developed pullets should be kept, but you should try to keep twice as many good pullets as you do of good hens. Only your very best hens are worth keeping over two years. All sick birds should be killed and buried.

Now is a good time to sell your unprofitable chickens. Cull them now and put them on cornmeal made into a wet mash with milk and water for four to eight days before you sell them.

Do not feed them corn on the day you sell them, as chickens cooped up with corn in their crops often die before reaching market.

Trusting the above will be of some value to you, I am. Yours very truly.
—C. E. Stapp, County Agent.

PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 6:5-13; Luke 18:9-14; I John 5:14, 15.

GOLDEN TEXT—If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Talking With God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Talking With God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Should We Pray?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian's Prayer Life.

I. False Prayer (Matt. 6:5-7).

This consists in

1. Praying to be seen and heard of men (v. 5). Many prayers uttered in a public sanctuary are false for there is more consideration given to what the people think than to what God thinks.

2. In using vain repetitions (vv 7, 8).

This does not mean that we should ask but once for the thing desired, for we have examples of both Christ and Paul praying three times for the same thing (Matt. 26:39-46, II Cor. 12:7, 8), but rather, it means the use of meaningless repetitions.

II. True Prayer (Matt. 6:6).

Since true prayer is a definite transaction of the soul with God, the communion of the human personality with the divine personality, there should be a real desire for fellowship with God, and then a going to Him in secret. God will abundantly reward those who thus seek His fellowship. We should have our closet prayers when all the world and its cares and pleasures are shut out, and we are shut in with God. We should meet with God's children and pray together.

III. The Model Prayer (Matt. 6:9-13).

1. A right relationship (v. 9) "Our Father."

Only those who have become children of God by faith in Jesus Christ can pray aright (Gal. 3:26). One must be a child of God before he can have communion with God.

2. A right attitude (vv. 9, 10) "Hallowed be Thy name."

When one realizes that he has been delivered from the power of darkness and translated into the kingdom of His dear Son (Col. 1:13), he cannot help pouring out his soul in gratitude and praise, intensely longing for the righteous rule of Christ on earth.

3. A right spirit (vv. 11-13).

(1) That of faith, which looks to God for the supply of daily bread. We are dependent upon Him for our daily food.

(2) That of love, which results in forgiveness of others. God will not listen to the prayers of one who has an unforgiving spirit.

(3) That of holiness which moves one to pray not to be led into temptation, and longs to be delivered from the evil one.

IV. The Proper Attitude of Soul in Prayer (Luke 18:9-14).

This is illustrated in the prayer of the Pharisee in contrast with the prayer of the publican. Observe

1. The prayer of the proud Pharisee (vv. 9-12).

He took a striking attitude (v. 11). He was self-righteous and trusted in himself. He congratulated himself upon his morality. He thanked God that he was not as other men. He congratulated himself for his religious merits (v. 12). He fasted twice a week and gave tithes of all he possessed. He thus informed God that he did more than what was required, implying that God was under obligation to him.

2. The prayer of the humble publican (v. 13).

In striking contrast with the Pharisee, the publican was too ashamed of his sins to even lift his eyes to heaven. He beat upon his breast as a sign of soul anguish and cried out to God to be merciful to him, a sinner. Christ declared that the publican went away justified, rather than the Pharisee.

V. Confidence in Prayer (I John 5:14, 15).

1. Its basis (v. 13).

Only those who have knowledge of the reality of salvation can pray with confidence. If one has assurance that he is God's child and possesses eternal life, he will come into the presence of his Father with boldness.

2. The scope of his prayer (v. 14) "Anything according to His will."

The believer has a right to bring to God in prayer anything within the scope of the divine will.

3. The blessed issue of the believer's prayer (v. 15).

"We know that we have the petition that we desired of Him." God's children coming to Him for that which is included in His will can be assured of receiving the things needed.

False Security of the Wicked

And your covenant with death shall be disannulled, and your agreement with hell shall not stand: when the overflowing scourge shall pass through then ye shall be trodden down by it. —Isa. 28:18.

Faith

Out of suffering comes the serious mind; out of salvation, the grateful heart; out of endurance, fortitude; out of deliverance, faith.—Modern Painters (Ruskin).

LIVESTOCK FARMING CALLS FOR PASTURES

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 13.—Realizing that success of the livestock farming in Alabama is based on good pastures, J. C. Lowery, agronomist of the extension service at Auburn, and county agents throughout the State are emphasizing the importance of pastures. They hope to have the maximum number of pastures started in Alabama this spring. The livestock industry, they say, is based on good pastures. The general farmer should have pastures for his milk cows, hogs, poultry, and other animals including workstock.

Early spring is the season for starting permanent pastures in Alabama. Land should be cleared and fenced during the winter. Clearing is not complete until the land is in shape for mowing to control weeds. Unless mowing is done noxious weeds will take control.

To have good permanent pastures two things are essential. One is, land capable of good production and the other is the same kind of interest and care as is given to successful crop production. Poor gullied land and carelessness will not make good pastures, whereas, good land and proper attention will bring success.

Making and maintaining pastures is not difficult in Alabama, Mr. Lowery said. Tests have revealed that Alabama farmers may have good pastures three-fourths of the year. Several good plants may be used. Bermuda grass, lespedeza, carpet grass, dallas grass, and in some sections redtop and white clover thrive in Alabama. The best permanent pastures are made by combining grasses and clovers.

In view of the fact that the requirements vary on different soils farmers should advise with their county agents.

COTTON MAJOR CASH CROP IN MANY SECTIONS

WHOLE SYSTEM OF FARMING BUILT AROUND IT — MANY OVERCOME DIFFICULTIES

Southern farmers grow cotton and will continue to grow cotton as a major cash crop. The whole system of farming in many sections is built up around its production. That means that successful farming in the South depends to a large extent on growing cotton at a profit.

It is not always easy to raise cotton, despite a common idea that it is a matter of a few acres of land, a mule, a plow and some slight man labor. The boll weevil, for instance, is now a factor. There are many other difficulties, but, in spite of these handicaps, farmers in large numbers do make a profit every year.

They do this by seeking land that will grow good cotton; by preparing the seed bed well; by securing good seed, cleaned and free from disease; by selecting varieties that produce uniform staple; by using well-balanced fertilizer in liberal quantities; by cultivating at the proper time; and by marketing in a business-like way.

The director of a Southern experiment station has said that "When cotton is to be produced at a low cost per pound, fertilizer is the last point at which to begin economizing." The agricultural experiment stations have carried on many carefully planned experiments to determine the right proportions and amounts of complete fertilizer to use for the most economical growing of cotton. The county agent knows local conditions and can advise regarding the fertilizer requirements of the soils of this county.

Experiments Show Value of Fertilizer

gricultural experiment stations are doing much to develop new facts tha are passed on to the farmers. One of the important pieces of work bein done has to do with proper amounts and kinds of fertilizer to use on variou crops on various soils under different conditions. The picture shows an ex periment conducted by the Pee Dee Experiment Station at Florence, S. C and is typical of experiments being conducted in every State in the Sout The cotton on the right received no fertilizer, while that on the left re ceived an application of 800 pounds per acre of an 8-4-4, 8% phosphori acid, 4% nitrogen, and 4% potash. The difference can be plainly see

No Conflict

No conflict exists between the idea that a large surplus of any farm product such as cotton is not desirable to the producer and the idea of larger yields per acre.

At first thought those who are urging larger yields per acre would appear to be encouraging the farmer in the direction of a greater total production and even larger surplus. However, the agricultural leaders who are advocating higher yields per acre are doing so with the thought not of increasing total production but with the thought that by increasing yields the cotton that is produced can be made at a low cost per pound.

Many times a fair-sized crop has a larger total value than a large crop as illustrated by the cotton crops of 1926 and 1927. All who are interested in improving the farming situation hope to avoid large surpluses so that there will be less tendency to force the farmer to take a low price for his cotton.

Yields Affect Cost

But it has been clearly shown by the United States Department of Agriculture that farmers with only low yields of cotton per acre have such high costs for producing cotton that they cannot make a profit even when fair prices prevail. Surveys of thousands of farms conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture to determine the cost of producing cotton have shown that on farms with high yields per acre, cotton is produced at a low cost per pound, while on farms with low yields the cost is high.

The survey in 1926 showed that on the farms where about one-quarter bale per acre was produced the lint cost 20 cents per pound, while on the farms where almost a bale per acre was produced the cost of a pound of lint was only 9 cents. The importance of increasing yield per acre in order to lower cost of production is seen, for profit is the diference between the selling price of the product and what it costs. Commercial fertilizers afford a profitable means of producing high acre yields.

By making larger yields per acre on a fewer number of acres, cotton can be produced at a low cost per pound and land and labor will be released for use in growing feed. The production of more home-grown feed will, in turn, tend to make still cheaper cotton production possible and will help to furnish the feed that is vital for the growing dairy industry.

CENTER HILL

Health in this community is greatly improved at present. Most every one is able to be about except Mr. T. J. Cobb, and he is much better.

Sunday was our regular preaching day. Quite a large crowd attended and enjoyed a Christian arousing sermon on "Home and Foreign Missions." The theme being, "I Am Debtor," and the subject, "Christian Obligation." About ten or fifteen minutes were spent in going over the church covenant and the Christian's duties were carefully mapped out. I'm sure every one went away realizing more fully that we are a debtor to Christ and the significance of passage, "Even as you have done it to the least of these, my brethren, you have done it to me." We invite everyone to come on the second Sunday of each month and hear our minister, Rev. Huett, of East Lake. We feel certain that they learn many truths to be stored in their hearts for meditation for days to come.

Rev. Huett, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley White and sons, Rebuen, Archie, and Arnold, and Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Jackson dined with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb Sunday.

Mr. Rufus Scott of Sylacauga spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Barnett and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Crowson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sims.

Messrs. B. L. Cobb and U. T. Cobb motored to Birmingham Monday on business.

The community was shocked to learn of the death of Mr. Albert Thomaston, which occurred last Thursday night. He is survived by his wife and eight children.

The colored people of Clanton were highly uplifted Friday night when Prof. B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, came to their school and gave them a fine address concerning school affairs and education. He mentioned a new school building. Come again, Mr. Lawrence, we thank you.

CAPITOL News

Annouucement of the detailing of a squad of officers of the State Law Enforcement Department to patrol the State highways on motorcycles has stimulated interest in the State laws governing the use of highways. The action of the governor in directing that state officers get busy in breaking up violations of road laws which endanger the lives and property of others has been received with general approval over the State. The Law Enforcement Officers are already busy and beginning to show results.

It is of course impossible to enumerate here the various highway regulations embodied in the State Highway Code. It is of interest to note, however, that while the law allows a maximum seed of 45 miles per hour under the most favorable conditions, there are a number of qualifying clauses which regulate the speed on the highways. It is provided that the driver of a vehicle on a highway "shall drive the same at a careful and prudent speed not greater than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic, surface and width of the highway and of other conditions then existing, and no person shall drive any vehicle upon a highway at such speed as to endanger the life, limb or property of any person." In other words, while 45 miles an hour may be all right under certain conditions of traffic, etc., it maybe all wrong under other conditions. The law specifically provides a speed limit not to exceed fifteen miles an hour under the following conditions: when approaching within fifty feet of a grade crossing, or of a highway intersection, where the driver's view is obstructed, or in traversing curves or grades where the driver's view is obstructed; or in passing a school during recess, or while children are going to or leaving school. A fifteen mile limit is also provided in a business district; a limit of 20 miles an hour in a business district where traffic is controlled by traffic officers or stop and go signals; and 20 miles an hour in a residence district. It is provided that local authorities in their respective jurisdictions are hereby authorized to increase the speed which shall be prima facie lawful upon through highways at the entrance to which vehicles are by ordinance of such local authorities required to stop." It is provided further that where local authorities increase the speed permitted, adequate signs shall be placed giving notice of such special regulations.

The highway code of 1927 provides stiff penalties for driving under influenece of liquor or narcotic drugs. For a first conviction the penalty is a fine of not less than $100 or more than $1,000, or imprisonment for not less than thirty days or more than one year, or both the fine and imprisonment; while for a second or subsequent convictions, the punishment is imprisonment at hard labor for not less than 90 days or more than one year, and in the discretion of the court a fine of not less than $200 or more than $1,000, in addition to which the person so convicted shall be prohibited from driving a motor vehicle on the public highways for a period of not exceeding one year.

Evidences of the increasing speed with which people go about their business today, as compared with 20 years ago, is to be found in comparing Alabama's present highway law with its maximum speed limit of 45 miles an hour, with the limit imposed by law two decades ago. Alabama's code of 1907, Section 6324, contained the following provision: "No person shall run, operate or drive an automobile or motor vehicle of any kind on any public road or highway at a greater rate of speed than eight miles an hour."

Another interesting feature showing the development of highways and of automobiles is contained in a statement recently furnished by the American Automobile Association, which shows that the average day's run of motor tourists is now 234 miles, as compared with about 100 miles a day ten years ago. This figure was arrived at through the medium of a questionaire addressed to thousands of motorists over the country. Outstanding reasons given for this increase in mileage were as follows: better highways throughout the country; improvement of the motor car from the standpoint of ease of operation, comfort, safety, and stability; more adequate signposting and marking of important highways; improved motoring facilities, including standardized services in all sections and up-to-the-minute reports on road conditions; and a nation-wide tendency to liberalize speed laws, and the passing of the roadside justice of the peace courts.

The recent death of Colonel J. Lee Long, Speaker of the House of Representatives, not noly deprived the State of one of the best known statesmen, but also changed the aspect of the situation with reference to the next race for Governor. Col. Long had informed his friends that he expected to be a candidate for governor in 1930, and his death removes from the field one of the three or four most frequently mentioned potential candidates for the gubernatorial seat.

Speaker Long was regarded as one of the most fearless men in the public life of this State, his legislative record showing that he always battled for his convictions and his idea of what was right, regardless of whether the majority were with him or on the other side. One of his recent achievements, at the 1927 session was the authorship of the act authorizing construction of fifteen toll bridges in the State. His sudden death came as a distinct shock to his friends at the capitol and over the State.

In case the legislature is called in extra session, it will be necessary for the house to elect a speaker to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Colonel Long. Among those who have been mentioned for the post are A. M. Tunstall, veteran legislator from Hale, and Representatives Tompkins of Houston, Miller of Sumter and Goode of Wilcox.

Commisisoner I. T. Quinn of the State Department of Game and Fisheries is endeavoring to have the governing body of each incorporated city and town in the State declare their city a bird sanctuary. He is also urging all citizens of the State, and especially the parents of all boys to cooperate in protecting the birds. This action is meeting with hearty response throughout the State. Many of the cities which have not already done so, plan to pass such ordinances, which means a great step forward in the protection of our birds. All wild life needs a haven in which it can nest and rear its young without molestation. This important principle is embodied in the Norbeck Bill, to which Congress is at present giving its attention, and is said by conservationists to be the most practical way of preserving wild life.

It is regarded as particularly fitting that birds be protected by the cities, as there is no other single factor which contributes as much toward preserving the life of the trees and shrubs in and around cities and towns. In addition to resident birds, Alabama will be visited this spring by the usual Migratory birds, which are traveling to their summer homes to nest, and which stop in this state to feed and rest. It is a violation of both State and Federal law to injure one of them, the State statute providing a penalty of from $10 to $25 for each bird killed, and the federal statute, in addition to a heavy fine, making provision also for a prison sentence. These birds should be protected, however, not from any fear of consequences, but because they are of much value, both economically and esthetically.

GRAVES PROCLAIMS ARBOR DAY FOR MARCH FIRST

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 11.—Gov. Bibb Graves has designated Friday, March 1, for general observance throughout the state as Arbor Day. The Governor's proclamation setting aside this date is as follows:

Whereas, trees and forests are among the bounties of Providence at the disposal of mankind to fill numerous needs of humanity; and

Whereas, in developing the life and progress of the nation, wood and other tree products furnish the raw material for approximately forty per cent of our industries, and the depletion of the forests for such material is proceeding at a rate four times faster than annual replacement by growth; and

Whereas, trees and forests render exceptional and important benefits to the health of individuals and communities and to the civic, social and recreational welfare of the state, now

Therefore, I, Bibb Graves, Governor of the tSate of Alabama, do hereby designate and set apart the day of Friday, March 1, 1929, as Arbor Day, and do hereby earnestly recommend and urge that all citizens, individually or in association, and particularly the schools of the state, by appropriate exercises render due observance of this occasion in the interest of the commonwealth and the nation.

The State Commission of Forestry is preparing to issue an Arbor Day program for the use of schools, clubs, and other organizations. Copies may be obtained by writing to the State Forester, 500 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Alabama.

REFUGE NEWS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space for a few words as I haven't noticed anything from this place in quite a while.

Only a few have escaped the flu, but everybody is about to get on foot again.

Our Sunday School is moving along nicely. There was about as many out last Sunday as usual, although there were a good many absent whom we would like to get interested in attending Sunday school, not for our good only, but for them and their children. Next Saturday and Sunday are meeting days here and we hope to see a large crowd out. There will also be singing in the afternoon. Everybody is cordially invited.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mr. G. D. Retherford desire to express their sincere thanks to friends and neighbors who were so kind and helpful during the illness and death of Mrs. Retherford.

His pure herbal remedies which have stood the test for many years are still among the "best sellers." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a stomach alterative which makes the blood richer. It clears the skin, beautifies it; pimples and eruptions vanish quickly. This Discovery, or "G M D", of Dr. Pierce's puts you in fine condition. All dealers have it in liquid or tablets.

Send 10 cents for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., and write for free medical advice.

Dr. Amzi Gowan of Brewton was in Clanton for a short while Sunday morning. His friends were glad to see him at the Baptist Sunday school, but were sorry that his visit had to be such a short one.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

SAMARIA

We had a large crowd out for Sunday school last Sunday. Next Sunday is our regular preaching Sunday and we hope to have Bro. Nichols with us. On account of sickness in his family he was unable to attend the third Sunday in January.

Group No. 1 gave an interesting program last Sunday night. The following program was rendered:

Scripture reading, Georgia Wood.
Quiz, Nora Wood.

Sentence Prayers, Hugh Dupree, J. Z. Mims, Dock Harris, and Georgia Wood.

Part No. 1. Eunice Edwards.
Part No. 2. Mrs. Boockholdt.
Part No. 3. Orville Popwell.
Part No. 4. Julia Edwards.
Part No. 5. Hugh Dupree.
Part No. 6. J. Z. Mims.

After the program was rendered Mr. J. Z. Mims made an interesting talk to the group of young people. We are always glad to have these talks by the older people. This is a young peoples meeting, but we are always glad to have the older people with us.

The following program will be rendered Sunday night, February 17th, by group No. 2, Dessie Robinson, captain:

Daily Bible Quiz, J. Z. Mims.
Part No. 1. Herman Harris.
Part No. 2. Nora Wood.
Part No. 3. Elliot Frazier.
Part No. 4. Louise Boockholdt.
Part No. 5. Lawrence Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Mims and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harris attended the Sunday School Convention of the Eastern District at Tuskegee last week. They made a report at Sunday school, and we all feel like we missed lots by not attending.

Mr. Alton Harris is expected to leave for Birmingham this week to enter the barber school.

Miss Nora Wood spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Boockholdt.

Julia and Eunice Edwards spent Sunday with Georgia and Sallie B. Wood.

Mr. Orville Popwell and Alton Harris attended the singing at Poplar Springs Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Archie Devaughn was a visitor at our Sunday School last Sunday. We welcome him back.

The news has already reached here that Bro. Nichols will fill his regular appointment here next Sunday and Sunday night. A welcome is extended to all visitors.

High School News

Reverend E. A. Childs began a series of lectures at the Chilton County High School last Monday on "Sights in the Holy Land." His first speech was on "The Ship That Went Across." These lectures are educational and interesting and we wish to thank him publicly for them.

Mr. L. C. Warr, our principal, was a visitor to Birmingham last Saturday.

The Senior class regrets that Mrs. Thomas Sims (Mary Nell Goodgame) was forced to have an operation for appendicitis.

After studying the "House and Its Care" in the Home Economics class, it was our pleasure to visit the new home of Mrs. C. Fenn Jones last Thursday. As we had recently completed the chapter on "Bedrooms," a special study was made of her rooms which enabled us to understand our lesson better.

Mr. B. Lawrence was a visitor to our school last Monday.

After Dick Kemp had resigned as President of the Senior class it unanimously elected Grover Harris, Jr., as its president.

A Who's Who contest will be started soon to determine who is the prettiest girl, the most handsome boy, the most popular girl and boy. After these are determined other contests will be added.

A class has been organized in Buisness Law. Mr. J. C. Page, President of the First National Bank, spoke to us on "Banking" last week. Special lectures will be given at various times by the business men and attorneys in Clanton. This is a very interesting and practical course.

Mr. R. B. Johnson has been added to our faculty. He was a former teacher of Mt. Pleasat Junior High but after this building was destroyed by fire, he was transferred to the Junior Department of our High School.

The members of the faculty were pleasantly surprised and delighted at the regular, but unusual faculty meeting last Monday afternoon. They were entertained by an impromptu party given by Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Warr. The party was held in the office at the High School. The table was artistically arranged with hearts, cupids and arrows. Mr. B. Lawrence was guest of honor.

A plate consisting of pineapple, pimiento and cheese sandwiches with red hearts on white mints, hot coffee, with cream and sugar were served.

HOUSE BURNED SUNDAY NIGHT

The house occupied by Walter Benjamin, colored, was destroyed by fire about ten o'clock Sunday night. The building with all contents was a complete loss.

The family was at church when the fire got started, and it gained such headway before discovered that it was impossible to save anything. The building was located on Sixth Street south of the Mullins and Popwell Gin—the last house next to the creek.

Elery L. Hansen of Lock 12 was in Clanton Monday. Mrs. Hansen is suffering with some kind of infection in one of her eyes. At present she is at the home of her father, Mr. E. N. Steiner, at Thorsby.

Life has its disappointments on every hand. The air is so full of telephone, telegraph, and radio wires that a boy can hardly find a place to fly a kite. That is a mighty big problem to lots of young Americans.

If fruit trees are allowed to go unpruned several years it is not likely that they will be pruned at all.

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 13

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow a small space in the dear old Banner to say a few words regarding this place, as we haven't seen or heard anything from here in quite a while.

We are glad to report that the health of this community is very good at present after a long seige of illness caused from the spread of the flu.

There is not very much progress yet being made towards farming owing to the unfavorable weather.

We wish to say that we are very much enthused and well pleased with the efforts and progress pertaining to our church work. Our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. are moving along very nicely.

The singing society of this place came together the 2nd Sunday evening, their appointed time, with renewed energy. Mr. Berl Martin as president came in with his arms full of new books. Mr. Martin is a very energetic young man with musical talents and higher aspirations and our singing was just fine. We had quite a number of visitors from various places. Among those were Prof. Woods of Calera, Mr. George Cobb, D. L. Langston and others too numerous to mention. We extend a verp cordial invitation to all singers and lovers of music, so don't forget the 2nd Sunday evening at Providence, Beat 13.

With best wishes to The Union-Banner and its many readers, I am.—Just A Reader.

ATTENDANCE RATINGS FOR CHILTON COUNTY SCHOOLS

The usual high attendance for the county fell down for the month of January on account of flu and bad weather. Only four schools rank with highest honors. County Line school still holds the attendance banner, while Union Grove and Maplesville tie for the banner for the larger schools.

County Line	98.00
Mitchell Dam	97.98
Lock 12	97.12
Shoults	94.68

The following schools have an average attendance of between 80 and 90 per cent:

Pine Dale	84.03
Union Grove	80.57
Maplesville	80.57

The following schools have an average of from 70 to 80 per cent of attendance based on enrollment:

Isabella	77.87
Coopers	76.71
Mars Hill	76.13
Stanton	74.02
Flint Hill	73.62
Chilton County High	72.70
Jackson's Chapel	72.67
Morganville	72.39
Adams	72.20
Thomas Jr. High	72.03
Enterprise	71.70
Cross Roads	71.00
Corinth	70.37

The following schools have an average of from 60 to 70 per cent of attendance:

Jemison	69.76
Smith	69.76
Verbena	69.21
Mullins	68.38
Baker	67.28
Concord 38	66.25
Thorsby	65.11
Vermont	64.92
Clanton Grammar	63.78
Shiloh	63.56
Collins Chapel	63.43
Chestnut Grove	61.03
Oak Grove	60.55
Providence 58-C	60.46

These schools rank below 60 in attendance:

Mt. Pisgah	59.65
Mineral Springs	59.17
Providence 33-B	58.55
Free Springs	57.82
West Chilton	57.73
East View	56.35
Union Point	56.32
Popwell	55.83
Minooka	55.66
Cane Creek	54.77
New Cedron	54.70
Culp	52.95
Pilgrim's Rest	46.07
Fair View	44.57
Concord 59-C	43.00
Macedonia	40.73
Freeman	39.44
Pate's Chapel	35.19
New Harmony	22.57

The average per cent of attendance for all white schools of the county for the month of January was 66.26 per cent.

Mrs. C. E. STAPP,
Attendance Officer.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank everyone who helped us in any way during the sickness and death of our dear husband and father. And we pray God's blessings may rest on every one of them.

He was sick nearly six months, most of the time, but he bore it with patience. He prayed to get easy and he did. He died the 7th of February. Oh, it's so hard to part with him, but the joy of meeting again where we'll never part any more. We ask the prayers of all Christian people.—Mrs. A. M. Thomaston and Children.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonza Robinson have moved back to Clanton from Wetumpka. They were welcomed back into the fellowship of Clanton Baptist Church upon presentation of their letters last Sunday.

Mr. Will Plier has finished up his work at Gorgas and is at home again near Clanton.

MINERAL SPRINGS NEWS

We are very glad to know that Sunday school is almost normal again after the epidemic of flu. Next Sunday, February 17th, is our regular preaching day. Rev. E. A. Trice, pastor. Everybody is invited to attend.

We have had to postpone our singing owing to so much illness. But we are glad to say we will start again the first Sunday in March. Everyone is invited to come and bring some good singers. If you can't sing come along anyway. We will try not to disappoint you too badly.

Mr. Grady Giles is improving after a severe illness of flu and appendicitis.

Mrs. Pallie Gore is slowly improving since her return from a Birmingham hospital.

Mrs. Nettie Bean is reported to be doing nicely since her operation for cancer.

Mrs. Nancy Dison is seriously ill.

Miss Gracie Paschal had as her guest Miss Irene Hilyer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dobbs and daughter, Mildred, motored to Shelby Sunday afternoon to visit their sister, Mrs. Arnold Davis.

Let's all stick together and make the first Sunday in March our best singing of all. Show people we have got some voice as well as so much tongue. When we meet to sing we want to sing and not take up so much time talking. Everybody is specially invited to come and help us and bring books if you wish.

POPLAR SPRING B. Y. P. U.

The following program was rendered by Poplar Springs B. Y. P. U. Sunday night, February 10th.

1. Devotional by the president.
2. Bible reading by Jim Miller.
3. "Blood in Old Testament Times," Mrs. Crew.
4. "The Cross No Mere Creed," by Romie Devaughn.
5. "Applied to My Heart," Mr. J. E. McDowell.
6. "Sin Angers God," Hercerie Jones.
7. "Paying the Penalty," Thomas Carroll.
8. "Full Satisfaction Made for Sin," Mrs. Everee Duke.
9. Poems and lecture, J. Hardy Jones.

The quartets rendered by W. M. Devaughn and children and the lectures of J. E. McDowell and J. Hardy Jones were thoroughly enjoyed by the sixty odd persons present.

Soil Erosion

Soil washing or erosion is one of the biggest problems facing the farmers who are farming rolling lands. H. H. Bennett, of the United States Bureau of Soils, has stated that an annual loss of at least $200,000,000 is sustained by farmers of the United States as a result of soil erosion.

Although some types of erosion are readily noticed, there are forms of erosion, such as sheet washing, that are taking place so gradualy that the loss is overlooked. Some soil washing takes place in a cultivated field, even when there is little slope to the land.

The severe erosion resulting in the formation of gullies is readily noticed. In many sections of the country gullying has progressed until millions of acres of formerly cultivated land have been thrown out of cultivation and under present conditions could not be profitably reclaimed.

The character of the rainfall has much to do with the amount of washing. If rains come in heavy downpours, much more soil washing will result than under similar conditions where gentle rains are the rule. Some soils are more affected by run-off water than others, due to their different abilities to absorb water and for their soil grains to hold together and stay in place.

First Step

Much of the loss from soil erosion can be prevented. By checking erosion the farmer is not only able to hold the soil that he now has in its place, but he is also taking the first step in a program of soil improvement.

Building of terraces and growing of cover crops are probably two of the most important means of checking erosion in cultivated fields. Terraces help to reduce damage from run-off water by slowing down its movement over the soil surfaces, and thereby reduce the amount of soil that can be picked up by the water. This slowing down of the rate of run-off enables the soil to absorb more of the rainfall and at least on compact heavy soils this will be of benefit to the crop grown. Winter cover crops, such as small grains, vetch or other suitable winter legumes, will not only reduce loss of soil through erosion, but also will conserve soluble plant food which would otherwise be lost from the soil through leaching.

EATS BIG STEAK AND FRIED ONIONS—NO GAS

"Every time I ate I had terrible stomach gas. Now, thanks to Adlerika, I eat steak and fried onions and feel fine."—Mrs. J. Julian.

Just ONE spoonful Adlerika relieves gas and that bloated feeling so that you can eat and sleep well. Acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes old waste matter you never thought was there. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you.—Upchurch Drug Co.

MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

Our Sunday school is doing very nice work now. We have large crowds every Sunday.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days, and in the afternoon we will have singing. Mr. Lorenza Sanders, Mr. Enoch Traywick, and Mr. Tom Frank Teel will be with us. Everybody is cordially invited to come and be with us and bring your 1929 song books.—Maggie Coggins, Secretary.

LIBERTY SINGING SOCIETY

At our singing last Sunday afternoon we had a real nice crowd and we had some splendid singing. The directors were Dennis Culpepper, Elmore Rawlinson, Edward Jones, Albert Culpepper, Wade White and Riley Culpepper.

A nice quartet was rendered by Dennis Culpepper, Albert Culpepper, and Misses Dollie Culpepper and Cora Bowden.

BIG RABBIT HUNT

Jemison, Ala., Feb. 11, 1929.
Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a little space in your paper to say that there will be a big rabbit hunt around here the 22nd of this month, and we want everyone who would like to be with us to meet at Mr. Wesley Smith's and we will start from there, but remember now to leave your guns at home, but bring all the dogs you can get and let's enjoy the day for we may never see it again. Be sure, now, not to forget the date and the place, the 22nd, and at Wesley Smith's. That's the time we want to celebrate that day by taking a big rabbit hunt, but leave our guns at home. We don't object to you bringing a pocket of rocks and clubs or something like that, but the first fellow who walks up with a gun we will all get hold of him and run him back home. So think of that and leave your guns at home. Yours truly.—G. W. Smith.

Next Sunday evening..

Treat your friends to waffles and Honey-Syrup

WHAT fun they are—those friendly, informal Sunday evening suppers. Ask the folks in for next Sunday . . . and don't worry about what to serve.

Just have the makings for waffles, and plenty of butter and Staley's Honey Flavored Syrup. That's an easy meal to get . . . and how they will enjoy it!

For Staley's has the real honey flavor. It's made with pure honey and fine corn syrup, blended in a special way.

No other syrup takes the true honey flavor so well, because pure corn syrup is neutral in taste. But blended by this secret process . . . in exact proportions and at certain temperatures . . . it adds a smoothness and delicacy not to be found in other syrups. Note, too, how clear this syrup is, as the result of extra care in its making. And it's so very inexpensive! Only about half the price you've paid for honey before.

Your family will enjoy Staley's Maple Flavored and Sorghum Flavored Syrup, too. They contain real Canadian maple . . . and the best quality of pure sorghum.

Ask for these Staley's Syrups at your grocer's today! And be sure that you get Staley's. No other kind can give their matchless flavors at such a big saving. Also ask for Staley's famous Crystal White and Golden syrups.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

BEATING TROUBLE TO THE DRAW

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

Poultry Raisers Find That the Least Expensive Trouble Is That Which Is Never Allowed to Happen—Preventive Measures Cost Little Compared With What They Save.

In the roistering days of the old Wild West, the fellow who was the quickest at getting his gun into action had the best chance for long life. Consequently, it was not surprising that men spent hours practicing the art of beating the other fellow to the draw. Their lives might some day depend on it. Today, far less effort invested in preventive measures would save the lives of thousands of fowls that now are sacrificed annually.

For one thing, too little attention is often paid to weeding out the unfit. Chicks that are obviously deformed or hopeless weaklings should be killed at once. Weaklings contract diseases that healthy, well developed chicks would throw off easily, thus making eacy the spread of trouble among the rest of the flock. It is most certainly false economy or none at all to save some of the fowls one often sees in flocks otherwise fairly well cared for.

Another way to beat trouble to the draw is to adopt every possible means for eliminating vermin of every description. Lice, mites, ticks and all other such pests sap the vitality of fowls to a point where they easily become prey to all sorts of diseases. Constant vigilance is needed to guard fowls against these tiny enemies. They should be inspected periodically and dusted with a good Lice Powder if there are any parasites on their bodies. Lice Powder should be added to the dust bath and let the hens use this at will. Their quarters should be thoroughly cleaned out at frequent intervals and every nook and cranny should be sprayed with a strong solution of dip and disinfectant. Whitewash is another preventive that is not used nearly so much as it should be. It is well to apply it at least twice a year and put it on hot. If two or three ounces of dip and disinfectant is mixed in each gallon of whitewash it will be very effective in killing mites and other insects. It should be forcibly sprayed on if possible, as that will drive it into every crack and crevice where parasites might find a hiding place.

Tainted foods, too, can cause no end of trouble. Mouldy grains are particularly dangerous. Damaged or cheap inferior feeds of any kind should not be fed at all. Cheap feed is dear at any price. Limberneck, bowel disorders and other troubles are caused by eating spoiled feed. Feed of the best quality only should be fed.

In plain everyday cleanliness, however, comes the greatest protection against the possible invasion of disease. Houses should be so constructed that they can easily be kept clean, and have either solid board or concrete floors that will permit of easy cleaning and disinfecting. Clean quarters con not very well harbor disease germs. Special care should be exercised in disposition of droppings. Noxious gases arising from droppings are very harmful to the fowls. Furthermore, the droppings harbor disease germs without number, and intestinal worms besides. Droppings should be removed frequently and used for fertilizer away from the flock. Dead birds should be burned or buried deeply, and a regular cleanup program should be carried out often. This, with the regular use of a good coal tar dip and disinfectant, will prove very effective in preventing many diseases and insect pests.

Of course, disease may take its toll of any flock, no matter how carefully care for. As a rule, however, any extra effort invested in such preventive measures as those described above will pay big dividends. Strong, healthy fowls, protected as much as possible from the various sources of disease, will resist epidemics that would wipe out others. They are also more vigorous and productive in every way.

HOW CHEVROLET CHANGED MODEL FROM FOUR TO SIX

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9.—The first comprehensive answer yet obtained to the question, "How did Chevrolet succeed in effecting one of the most mammoth turnovers in industrial history?" was revealed here today.

Since mid-November when Chevrolet announced that it would discontinue producing four cylinder cars and would produce instead, a six in the price range of the four, speculation in automobile circles was rife as to how this was to be accomplished. Other manufacturers who had attempted turnovers had required as long as 18 months to two years to swing back into capacity prduction. There were many skeptics.

When Chevrolet followed up its announcement of a six with the announcement that deliveries on the new models were to begin January 1, few outside the company believed the feat would be accomplished. But deliveries in quantity numbers did begin January 1. On that date practically every Chevrolet dealer in the country displayed the new six. Once more the question re-echoed throughout trade circles. "How did they do it,"

The answer as it now comes to light can be epitomized in a single word—"foresight." The foresighted policies of General Motors and Chevrolet have never been known to countenance any blind gestures. The Chevrolet Six, which is today speeding over the highways in thousands, was born four years ago.

At that time General Motors began considering, with an open mind, whether a six cylinder car could be produced to sell in the price range of the four. Shortly afterward Chevrolet engineers designed the first of the 100 engines which was to precede the one which today powers the new Chevrolet. One by one these engines were tested, redesigned, improved, torn down. From each experiment the Chevrolet engineers were learning.

Then, one day last May after over a million miles of test driving, and four years of the most intensive sort of checking, Chevrolet engineers expressed themselves as satisfied that they had perfected a six cylinder engine of exceptional merit. It was a momentous occasion in the history of the company, and marked the achievement of one of the greatest engineering triumphs in the history of the industry.

Meantime Fisher Body engineers, working in close cooperation with Chevrolet, announced that they had a body, rugged and attractive—in every way worthy of the sensational new engine. An then it was that the Chevrolet board of strategy expressed themselves as finally satisfied.

Then began the process of making ready 20 widely scattered Chevrolet plants for the advent of the new six. It meant that an entirely new set of machine tools, patterns and dies had to be developed in the shops and on the drafting boards. It meant that Chevrolet's 40,000 employees had to be adapted to the change over.

And all of this had to be done while the company's resources were involved chiefly at the time, with the production of four cylinder gear shift cars in numbers never before equalled in the industry. It is to be remembered that last year Chevrolet again sustained its position as the "world's largest builder of automobiles" with a production of 1,200,000 cars.

Recognizing the fact that men had to be trained to handle the new work, and that preliminary practice was necessary in the handling of tools and fixtures, the company built an experimental motor plant at Saginaw, Michigan, containing a complete equipment of new machinery purely for research, experiment and establishment of production practice. This plant started last September 1 and continued in operation until November 15.

Meantime, the Flint Motor plant was shut down from October 1 until November 15, and the task went forward of installing new machinery, rebuilding old machines for new work and re-educating in precision methods thousands of employees.

On November 15, the machinery used in the experimental motor plant was removed to the main production line and the Saginaw plant was dismantled. So well grounded were all the plans that 12,000 motors were produced between November 15 and December 1, an average of more than 1,000 a day. During December 60,000 motors were produced, an average of more than 2,000 a day.

The assembly plants continued operations on the old models until October 25 when the last one closed down to prepare for the new car. The first assemblies of the new car started December 11th.

Today thousands of the new Chevrolet sixes are moving along the highways of America. Owners have reported that the engine is everything its designers knew it would be. The acceleration is not surpassed by that of any other on the road. It has ample speed for any emergency. It has an economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon. It is beautiful in appearance. It is exceptionally easy riding.

Engineers and all those who can, in detail, visualize what a truly tremendous industrial achievement this incredibly fast turnover comprises, marvel at its great accomplishment. It stands as a brilliant tribute to two great organizations—General Motors and its Chevrolet Division.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Announcement has been made that the new College of Education building at the University of Alabama will be named "Graves Hall" in honor of Governor Bibb Graves.

The honor was bestowed upon Governor Graves in recognition of his invaluable service in behalf of public education in Alabama. It was under his matchless leadership, it was stated, that the equalization fund became a reality. This fund made it possible to extend the minimum length of the public school term in the state to seven months. Previously, the minimum term had been between four and six months.

University officials pointed out that Governor Graves has been an enthusiastic worker in the development of vocational education child welfare, and the training of teachers in Alabama. It is conceded, they declared, that no previous Governor or Legislature has done so much for the cause of public education in the state.

During Governor Graves' administration a building fund of more than $1,000,000 annually has been made available for distribution between the normal schools and three institutions of higher education in Alabama, it was stated.

Governor Graves was graduated from the University of Alabama in 1893. He is also a graduate of the Yale Law School.

The completion of Graves Hall marks a new era in educational history in the state, it is declared. The College of Education, which will occupy the new building, is designed to furnish higher professional training for educational leaders in Alabama. It offers 4 full years of undergraduate courses leading to A. B. and B. S. degrees and one year of graduate work with the degree of Master of Arts.

MILLIONTH MODEL A FORD COMPLETED ON FEBRUARY 4

Detroit, Feb., 4.—Production of the new Ford reached the first million this afternoon when Model A engine No. 1,000,000 came off the assembly line of the Motors Building at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company. The occasion was marked by the gathering of officials of the company who have been active in the production of the new car since its inception.

On October 20, 1927 Henry Ford stamped the figure 1 on the first Model A motor to be assembled, and building of the new engine was under way. It was slow at first, but Ford coordination of men, materials and machinery soon sent the output to higher levels, until it has now reached the total of a million new automotive power units, a remarkable achievement for the industry.

The history of the Ford Motor Company presents a striking contrast between this production record and that when the old Model T was introduced. It required seven years and two months to produce the first million Model T motors, while the first million Model A engines were made in slightly over fifteen months.

It was on October 1, 1908 that the first million mark was obtained. From then on production grew rapidly, until in 1927 when the fifteen millionth car was built, the company had facilities for producing two million Model T cars and trucks a year. Then came the decision to build a new car. Manufacture of the Model T, except for service parts, ceased. The new Model A was developed.

It was necessary to change over all the plants to meet the building requirements of the new car. New machinery had to be installed. Other machinery was specially designed, developed and built, and old machines remodelled, all to meet the closer limit and higher precision demand required for the manufacture of the Model A car parts. Another task involved the training of thousands upon thousands of new workers, an enromous undertaking in itself. And it is one that still goes on as additional hundreds of workers are being hired to bring factory production up to the six day basis. Today with the first million Model A engines already built production is proceeding at the rate of 7,000 units per day.

Skin Eruptions

successfully treated from within

SKILLED physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

In building rich, red blood cells, S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples, and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy."—Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

We Want You to Enjoy Best Electric Rates

Alabama Public Service Commission, at the time it ordered the new low domestic electric rates, issued a statement in which it urged all domestic consumers to watch their first bills under the new rates and to compare same with their bills under the old schedule, in order that they might intelligently determine whether or not they wished to exercise their rights under the optional provisions of the order. With a view to assisting its customers in obtaining the very best rate possible under the Commission's order, Alabama Power Company, on January 16th, last, submitted the following notice to the Commission for approval. The Commission immediately approved the form of notice and same is now being mailed out with February bills to all domestic customers affected by the order of the Commission.

February 1st, 1929.

TO OUR DOMESTIC CONSUMERS:

The February bill enclosed for your residence electric service is figured on the new domestic rate in accordance with the order of the Alabama Public Service Commission under Dockets 5454 and 5494.

The Commission in prescribing this rate ordered "that all consumers as of the date of this order (December 31, 1928) may, on receipt of the first bill under the new rate, have the right for a period of forty-five (45) days from date of such bill, to elect to return to the schedule previously applicable for his service," and that "notice in writing must be given to the Commission and to the nearest office of the Company within said prescribed time, that he desires to remain on old rate."

If you were a customer of Alabama Power Company prior to January 1st, 1929, you are entitled to a choice of rates, and proper adjustment will be made on your next bill if you have already notified us or do so within the time prescribed for exercising such option.

Before making any decision, however, as to your preference of rates, we suggest that you compare very carefully the billing on the new rate with several of your old bills, preferably taking an entire twelve months period. The new rate is so constructed that additional service may be purchased at a cost very much below the old rate, and even though the enclosed bill may appear to be an increase, it is probable that an estimate of your future requirements for electric service will show a substantial saving under the new rate as compared with the old.

We are interested in seeing that you obtain the very best rate possible under the Commission's order and will, upon request, send you a printed copy of the order or have a representatvie of the Company call upon you.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY.

(Copy of New Residential Rate is on Reserve Side.)

Intelligent knowledge and application of the new rates to your domestic requirements will convince you of their superior advantages over the old schedule in the matter of increasing the comforts, economy and efficiency of your home at much lower cost for such additional service than under the old rates. To this end, we invite your earnest co-operation.

What Chilton Co. Farmers Think of Strawberries Here

About eight years ago, Mr. J. D. Price bought a farm about four miles south of Thorsby, and I have been told that it was in a very run down condition. Six years ago, Mr. Price set one acre with strawberries. Since his berries have begun to bear, he has paid off his indebtedness on his farm, $200.00, re-covered his old house and built and painted a good country home worth over a thousand dollars, and has done much other general improvement on the place.

Mr. Price says that growing strawberries in addition to his cotton has enabled him to make what progress he has made. From one acre in 1927, he harvested one hundred crates of berries, and in 1928, he harvested 104 crates. Mr. Price says his one acre in strawberries makes him more clear money than two or three acres in cotton does.

Mr. Perry Gore of Collins Chapel community has been growing berries continuously for 15 years. He, too, reports that one acre of berries on the average, makes as much clear money as two or three acres of cotton.

In 1927 Mr. Gore made ten bales of cotton and 500 crates of berries. In 1928 he made nine bales of cotton and 100 crates of berries. Mr. Gore recommends one acre of berries for the average farmer. He says that one acre does not interfere with the cotton crop, but does delay his fishing season a little.

Mrs. William Dorminey of Union Grove community reports that from one acre of berries in 1927, she gathered 154 crates and in 1928 made 174 crates, for which they received $613.00. More than half of this $613.00 in 1928 was clear profit.

What other crop can you figure a net profit of more than $300.00 per acre?

Mr. Dennis visited the above berry growers Tuesday of this week and secured this information. He says it was interesting to note that each of the above farmers had cotton stored in their barns and were not worrying about having to sell it.

CORN SHORTAGE DUE TO LOW ACREAGE YIELD

In spite of the fact that with the exception of cotton the South plants more acres to corn than all other crops combined, corn is shipped into the South for feed. The shortage of corn is due largely to the low average acre yield.

The average yield of corn in the Southern States is only 17 bushels per acre. This low acre yield not only results in insufficient feed, but also in high cost of production per bushel Cost studies made on a large number of farms by the United States Department of Agriculture have indicated that where a yield of 17 bushels per acre was obtained, the corn cost more than one dollar per bushel, while on farms where a yield of 41 bushels per acre was secured the cost was only 65 cents per bushel.

Proper fertilization is one of the means for increasing yield per acre and lowering cost per bushel. Experiments all over the South and experiences of farmers as well have shown that money wisely spent for plant food to be used under corn will produce much more corn than it would buy.

Under usual conditions a complete fertilizer gives best results with corn A fertilizer such as 10–4–4 or one which has given satisfactory results on similar land under cotton may be used at planting at the rate of 200 to 400 pounds per acre. This may be followed, when the corn is knee to waist high, with an application of 100 pounds of nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime or three-fourths this amount of sulphate of ammonia. On thin land two such applications of available nitrogen are sometimes made. Under these conditions the first may be applied when the corn is knee high, and the second when the corn is bunching to tassel.

Higher yields per acre will give more and cheaper corn and enable the Southern farmer to reduce his feed bill.

Experiments have shown that sufficient potash will usually control rust of cotton.

THIRD PURE OIL BAND CONCERT NEXT SATURDAY

Spurred to attain greater heights of radio approval as a result of the enthusiastic reception of his first and second programs, Edwin Franko Goldman and his Pure Oil Band promise lovers of band music a rare treat Saturday evening at eight o'clock Eastern Standard Time; seven o'clock Central Standard Time.

This unique program coming to millions of listeners over WJZ and eighteen stations of the National Broadcasting Company's network is sponsored by the Pure Oil Company, one of the nation's greatest Independent producers, refiners and marketers of petroleum and its products, and its co-sponsors in this section, The Wofford Oil Company, favorably known thru the medium of their famous Woco-Pep, the King of Motor Fuel.

Every member of Mr. Goldman's celebrated Pure Oil Band is a finished solo artist on his particular instrument, and the ensemble has played together for a good many years. Many of the radio audience who have heard Mr. Goldman's Band on concert tour, we believe will find in this weekly Saturday evening program the fulfillment of their desire for fine band music and will dial in any of the following stations Saturday evening:

WJZ, WJAX, WBT, KDKA, WLW, WRVA, WSM, WMC, WBAL, WHAS, WJR, KYW, KWK, WREN, WEBC, KSTP, WTMJ, WHAM, WSB.

LEGUME CROPS HELP INCREASE SOIL FERTILITY

TURNING UNDER GREEN MANURES ADVOCATED AS SOIL IMPROVEMENT PRACTICE.

Green manuring is a practice growing in favor among Southern farmers. Farmers realize that this is an excellent method for increasing the fertility of their crop lands. However, the fact that this is a method of soil improvement and fertilization sometimes leads farmers to try the practice under conditions in which it cannot be successful.

The object in growing a green manure crop, according to forage crop specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, is to produce especially on poor soil as much material as possible to turn under. On very poor soils it frequently happens that even the strongest feeders can make but a poor growth, and consequently the benefit from the crop is decreased.

Even cowpeas will sometimes make only a poor growth unless the plants are supplemented by commercial fertilizer. When a legume is grown the addition of nitrogen is not usually necessary, as the legume will gather its own nitrogen; but an application of phosphoric acid and potash often increases the crop greatly and thus enables the plants to gather more nitrogen.

SQUIRE DENNIS VISITOR TO CLANTON MONDAY

Squire John S. Dennis of Beat 11 was among the visitors to Clanton Monday. When he arrived at The Union-Banner office to pay up for his paper another year he was cold, Monday being one of the coldest days we have had this winter.

We had a good fire and Mr. Dennis soon got thawed out and began to talk. Like many of our older citizens, it is very entertaining to us younger fellows for him to get warmed up and talking about things in general. We are living in a great age at present, but there were many things in the younger years of men like Squire Dennis which hold more charm for the young man of today than many of the fast things of the present.

Automobiles, airplanes, radios, moving pictures, and many other wonders of recent years are somewhat commonplace to the young folks of today. What was commonplace to Mr. Dennis when he was a boy is great romance to the boy of today.

Rev. A. D. Huett of Howard College filled his regular appointment at Center Hill, Jemison, last Sunday.

Mr. Julian Evans of Birmingham was here last week end.

A complete stock of McDonald Quartette records are on sale at MOORE'S. Your phonograph will take on NEW LIFE if you play these sacred songs on it.

Roberta Curry Will Lead In New Play

Clanton Girl Will Play "Difference In Gods" Broadway New York

MISS CURRY'S PART IS STRICTLY DRAMATIC

Under the caption, "Slightly Off Broadway," a New York press critic devotes more than a column in a recent issue of the New York Evening Post to Butler Davenports' and Maugham's "Tenth Man," and Davenport's "Difference in Gods."

"Mr. Butler Davenport is preparing to sally forth from his citadel of dramatic art on East Twenty-Seventh Street to show Broadway, the crassly commercial, a couple of things. One of them is a lay by Somerset Maughn, no less, which has never been produced in America before. The other is his own "Difference in Gods," now in the midst of one of its perennial revivals in the Davenport Theatre.

"Difference in Gods" will move uptown as soon as negotiations for a theatre in the Times Square are completed.

But what will interest Clanton and Chilton County people more than the New York critic's lengthy write up of the Maughams and Davenport plays, is the fact that Clanton's own Roberta Curry plays the lead in "Difference in Gods."

Miss Curry's part is strictly dramatic—not a line is given in her singing voice.

According to the New York critic, "Difference in Gods" carries more messages than a Western Union boy on Mother's Day.

The last act finds Amzi a doddering old man, and if you have never seen Butler Davenport dodder, you don't know what that is. The daughter, now a mother herself, sends her young son to convert him to sweetness and light.

"This cherub bounces onto the scene shouting: 'I'm so happy, I'm so happy,' jerks off his grandfather's specs, so he can see the 'twinkle in his eyes,' and finally melts his stony heart by feeding him peanuts. The latter touch alone would make "Difference in Gods," a unique contribution to the stage. There are others almost equally priceless."

DR. P. C. WILSON VISITOR HERE

Dr. P. C. Wilson of Montevallo was a business visitor to Clanton last Friday. He says he is about ready to open his new drug store which has been built since the fire which destroyed his place of business last fall. "My new store is something of which I am proud," said Dr. Wilson, "and I want to invite my Clanton friends to come to see me when they are around Montevallo."

ALABAMA EDUCATORS WILL GO TO CLEVELAND, OHIO

A hundred or more Alabama educators and others interested in education will leave the state on the morning of Saturday, February 23, to attend the annual meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association that will be held in Cleveland February 24-28. The trip north is being made under the direction of Frank L. Grove, secretary of the Alabama Education Association.

Included in the party are the state superintendent of education and several members of his staff, representatives of the three institutions of higher learning, the presidents of the five normal schools, officers of the Alabama Education Association, city and county superintendents, and representatives of textbook and school equipment companies. Supt. B. Lawrence of Chilton County has also made plans to go to Cleveland as a member of the party.

The five Pullman cars and diner provided for the Alabama Party, will be operated as a special section of the Pan American train of the Louisville and Nashville system as far as Cincinnati, where it will be assigned to the Pennsylvania railroad company. Mr. W. M. Hays, of Montgomery, and Mr. H. E. Cain, of Birmingham, traveling passenger agents for the Louisville and Nashville and the Pennsylvania railroads respectively will accompany the party to Cleveland.

GRESHAM LOWERY NOW WITH RADIO STATION

Editor Union-Banner:

Just thought probably it would be of interest to some of my friends in old Clanton to know that one week ago I became connected with radio station KTSL (formerly KGGH) of this city as assistant manager.

I am liking my new position better than any thing I have ever done, for my work is a real pleasure.

Our hours of broadcasting are from 2 to 4:30 and 7:30 to 10:30 P. M. and I am announcer for the afternoon programs, also sing every day and also in the evening.

The fun lady is a special feature of the afternoon program during which time from 3:30 to 4:30 a young lady tells the children and her audience funny stories.

If it is possible for any of my friends to get this station on their radios I shall appreciate a letter from them P. O. Box 307 c|o KTSL Shreveport, Louisiana. Dial between 10 and 15 and we operate on a frequency of 1310 kilocycles.

With best wishes, I am.—Gresham Lowery.

PEOPLE RESPOND TO THE BAPTIST HOSPITAL

The Union-Banner is in receipt of the following letter of thanks from Dr. Seymore, superintendent of the Baptist Hospital at Selma. The patient referred to is Fulton Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore of the western part of Chilton County, whose picture and a story of whom was carried in The Union-Banner a few weeks ago. Dr. Seymore's letter reads:

People ask me how the dirve is coming. February 12th, our cashier advises that we have received gifts from 52 people and the amount to this date is 211.65. We are very appreciative and gifts are still coming in. They have come from various parts of the State and as far off as Washington, D. C. This is a very worthy case and we sincerely believe that the people will take care of it.

The Hospital and doctors are doing all they can and he is certainly being taken care of. Even though he has been in the Hospital for more than one year he is a favorite and a very patient sufferer. We believe he will get well. Thanking you again. —W. R. Seymore, Selma, Ala.

TROY MAN TELLS OF COLDEST DAY IN 1898

Troy, Ala., Feb. 16.—Speaking of cold weather, F. L. Zimmermann, who has been Troy's weather observer since about 1888, tells of a cold spell in 1899 that he says has not yet been beaten. Mr. Zimmermann says that 30 years ago Wednesday, the 13th, was an unlucky day for this section for the temperature dropped to 8 below in Troy. It was 5 below zero in Montgomery and 6 below in Eufaula. Conecuh river froze over and the fish were killed; even the gray moss on the trees was killed. The ground was covered in snow and long icicles hung from roofs and trees. Roads were frozen and slippery.

Thirty years later, Troy registered 33 degrees with the coldest day of the winter only going down to 25 degrees, on February 12.

BANKERS MEETING AT ALEXANDER CITY

State Financiers Will Back Up Program For Better Farming

A meeting of interest to farmers in this section of Alabama is being held in Alexander City this week. It is sponsored by a group of bankers of the Alabama Bankers Association in co-operation with demonstration agents and farm leaders in several counties.

An invitation has been sent to each bank in Chilton County urging that they send a representative to the meeting.

County agent C. E. Stapp is attending the meeting to represent the farm interests of the county. Mr. H. G. Boyd, who is the Key banker for the Alabama Bankers Association in Chilton County, has urged the importance of such meetings as this one on the grounds that it is in pursuance of the adopted policy of Alabama Banks to render the best service possible in aid of agricultural and farm development. That the banks are trying to help the farmers in such a way is indeed an encouraging fact to those who depend upon agriculture for their prosperity of business.

The store of Thomas M. Parrish in Clanton was closed Monday by order of M. Hugh Stuart, of the Bankrupt Court.

THREE BOYS CAUGHT WITH THREE GALLONS

Officers Gillespie and Murrah went out into Beat 16 last Wednesday night and spread their net for liquor law violators. It was not long before somebody got tangled up and when they drew in their catch they found that they had Russell Cleckler, Dewey Cleckler, and Cleveland Driver, who were coming along the road with three gallons of liquor in a Ford car. The boys were brought to jail and released on bond.

PERCY PITTS WILL SING OVER RADIO TO-NIGHT

Beginning at 7:15 tonight, Thursday, February 21st, Mr. Percy M. Pitts will sing over radio station WAPI at Birmingham. His broadcasting will consist of six numbers and will last over a period of about 30 minutes. Mr. Pitts will be accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Pitts.

If you have a radio set be sure to tune in on WAPI at this time and hear Clanton's best male soloist.

Reed and Borah Debate On Prohibition Question

Two Senators Lock Horns On Big Question of Law Enforcement

REED AGAINST LAW; BORAH IS FOR LAW

Washington, Feb. 18.—Two masters of oratory—Jim Reed, of Missouri, and William E. Borah, of Idaho—took opposing sides in the Senate Monday and for three and a half hours spoke to a tensely listening chamber on the problems of prohibition.

Reed denounced the law in a continuation of the speech he began on Saturday. Borah made a thundering appeal for law enforcement. Neither was interrupted and the promise of thrust and counter thrust which had filled the galleries, faded as the Missourian walked over to the seat of the Senator from Idaho at the end of the discussion and warmly grasped his hand.

Reed began his speech Monday by again describing the law as "a hideous crime." After two hours, he took his seat and Borah claimed the floor. Reed was on his feet again when the Idahoan had concluded, but Senator Heflin, of Alabama, was ahead of him. Whatever Reed had intended to say went unsaid.

The silver haired Missourian retires from the Senate on March 4 by his own dictate and as if to express an eulogy on behalf of the Senate, Senator Borah at the outset of his remarks expressed regret at the passing of the man "whose industry, courage and genius have placed him among the foremost men in his day."

Senators Shake Hands

Sitting as usual beside Senator Sheppard, of Texas, the father of the eighteenth amendment, Senator Reed, his face flushed, listened to his colleague on the Republican side of the aisle and, when he was unable to get in a reply, he walked over to shake hands with Borah at the finish.

There was nothing personal in their discusison. Reed in his measured words pled for state control as the answer to law violation and as a means of ridding America of its "snoopers and spies, its sneaks and criminals, who have been employed with our money to haunt our doors."

Borah in thundering tones, his hair disheveled as he shook his head and pounded home his points, pled for observance of the constitution.

No Surrender

Prohibition is not a problem of 10 days or 10 years, he said, and "possibly we cannot prevent the use of alcohol entirely, but shall we surrender or shall we fight?" He answered: "Fight."

He said state control would multiply the problems of national prohibition 48 times. Later in the day Senator Caraway (D), Arkansas, called attention to a statement given out by Reed at Houston at the time the Missourian was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"The same senator," Caraway declared, "who has for the last two days been denouncing hypocrites gave out an interview at Houston in which he himself offered to lead the drys to victory."

Floor Crowded

The floor was crowded with House members who had deserted their side of the Capitol. Steps leading down to the seats in the gallery were jammed with men and women. More stood in doorways in defiance of Senate rules. Outside long lines waited with a forlorn hope that perhaps some would leave before the oratorical display was over.

But scarcely a soul stirred thruout the nearly four hours that Reed and Borah held the floor. The air in the poorly ventilated Senate chamber became heavy, but still the crowd, listening with rapt attention, stayed on until the final word had been spoken.

Miss Mary Farley left Clanton last week for Nashville, Tenn., to take up a clerical job for the Seventh Day Adventists. Miss Farley has been working in the Alabama Book and Bible House here for the past four or five years. A card from her says that she is liking Nashville fine.

Public Health Meet Here Last Saturday

Attendance Small On Account of Bad Weather. All Vote For Health Unit

On account of the bad weather last Saturday the attendance of citizens at the public health meeting at the courthouse was not as large as was hoped for. The meeting was called by the Commissioners Court to consider the matter of putting on a health unit for Chilton County, and the whole citizenship of the county was invited to appear for or against the proposition as they might choose to view the matter.

A number of short talks were made by different citizens of the county—all of whom expressed themselves in favor of the proposition. Dr. Austin of the State Health Department was the principal speaker. He explained all details of how the health unit would function if it should be put on.

The cost of the halth unit to the county would be $5,000 a year. An additional $4,000 would be furnished by the State, making a total budget of $9,000 a year for operating the unit in the county.

The matter of deciding the question is still before the Commissioners Court.

Every person present at the meeting Saturday voted in favor of the health unit when the question was put to a vote by Mr. Percy M. Pitts.

Mr. J. B. Hill of Birmingham, president of Hill Grocery Co., was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday night. He had been on a hunting trip down in this part of the country and stopped for a few minutes to see Mr. McEathern before going back to Birmingham.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING OF ALABAMA MILLS MARCH 4

Stockholders of Alabama Mills Company in Clanton have received by mail this week notice of the annual meeting of stockholders of Alabama Mills Company, which will be held at No. 808 Pioneer Building, in the city of Birmingham, State of Alabama, on the fourth day of March, 1929, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. The purpose of the meeting is to hear reports of officers, elect directors of the company for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of any other business that may come before the meeting.

Together with the notice of the meeting, each stockholder is receiving a blank proxy, with instructions to fill it out and name someone as proxy in case the stockholder himself is unable to attend the meeting.

EMMETT THOMAS ARRESTED WITH LIQUOR

Officers Gillespie and Murrah arrested Emmett Thomas just before daybreak last Thursday morning as he was coming into town in his car with three gallons of liquor. The officers stopped him at the bridge east of town.

They took charge of the big Nash car he was driving and brought Thomas to jail. He was released on bond Thursday.

J. D. HARRIS BURIED SATURDAY

Joseph D. Harris, age 53, died Friday morning at his home in South Clanton; he died suddenly. The remains were buried at Samaria Saturday, Rev. J. A. Raines officiating, assisted by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Martin was in charge of the body.

Mr. Harris is survived by his widow and three children—2 boys and one girl. He was born in Coosa County, where he lived until a few years ago when he moved to Chilton. He has been running a store at South Clanton. He is a brother of Jim Harris formerly of Clanton but who now lives in Birmingham.

MULLINS AND MOORE TO ERECT NEW BUILDING

Excavation is being made for a new brick business structure on the northwest corner of the intersection of Seventh Street and Third Avenue. The building will be erected by Renfroe Mullins and J. Watts Moore, owners of the lot.

When asked about the plans, Mr. Mullins stated, "It is practically assured that we will proceed with the erection of the building right away. At present we do not know who will occupy the place. Two or three concerns have been considering a lease on the property, but so far we have reached no definite agreement with anyone."

This is a very desirable piece of business property, the improvement of which will add greatly to the impressiveness of Clanton's business district. It is directly across the highway from the new plant of Clanton Motors.

FRIENDSHIP

The weather permitting, there will be singing at Friendship church next Sunday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. All singers are invited to come and bring your new Showalter and Stamps books.

Rev. A. L. Foshee filled his regular appointment at this place last Sunday at 11 o'clock. The attendance was small but the service was exceptionally good. Rev. Foshee is doing his part toward Friendship church and community, and if he fails to accomplish much the fault will be heaped at the feet of those who could attend his services but do not.

Don't forget the singing the fourth Sunday afternoon, and also remember that Rev. Foshee will preach again the first Sunday at 11 o'clock.

PAUL C. MIMS WITH CLANTON MOTORS NOW

Paul C. Mims is now connected with Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers, and asks the Union-Banner to tell all his friends to come to see him when wanting a new Ford or a good used car.

THREE JOY RIDERS ARRESTED; PUT IN JAIL

Three men from Jasper, names Cole, Bates, and Roberts, were arrested Monday night by Sheriff Collins and City officer, Carl Boockholdt. The visitors were engaged in a general celebration, occassioned by a somewhat over supply of the oil of joy. They were in a Ford car, by which they gained ready locomotion to different parts of the city and up and down the paved highway.

According to Sheriff Collins, the men were tuned up to a high pitch, and seemed not to realize just what a big time they were having. Two of them unloaded from their car down the highway about the Jasper Dennis place. The other one sped on southward and was overtaken at Verbena.

All three were brought to jail in Clanton. The officers took their car as they found it contained some contraband liquor.

FOUR BOYS READY FOR FINAL TESTS

One of the Four Will Be Appointed To U. S. Naval Academy

Four Alabama boys ambitious to attend the United States Naval Academy have qualified for the final examination through which Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama will make his next selection to the Naval Academy. The boys are Ezra G. Howard of Verbena, Chilton County, Alabama; Elliott L. James of Lowndesboro, Lowndes County, Alabama; Seaton Buell of Huntsville, Madison County, Alabama, and Thomas Julian Skinner, Jr., of Bessemer, Jefferson County, Alabama. These boys will go up for a final examination held by the Naval authorities on April 17th. The boy who makes the highest grade in this final examination and who is otherwise physically qualified will be sent to the Naval Academy by Senator Black.

Senator Black decided when he entered the Senate that he would hold competitive examinations for his appointments both to the Naval Academy and the Military Academy. This plan, the Senator pointed out gives to every boy in Alabama who is ambitious to attend one of the Academies, the opportunity to compete for the appointment. Senator Black has held three examinations, two for the Navy and one for the Military Academy. Approximately one hundred and fifty Alabama boys have applied for appointment, and a large number have taken the three preliminary examinations.

38 Plants Located In Ala. Last Year

Total Outlay For New Industry Represents Investments of $35,000,000

WILL INCREASE STATE POPULATION BY 30,000

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 18.—Nineteen major industries, including 38 plants, were located in 24 Alabama communities in 1928, according to a report of the New Industries Division of Alabama Power Company made public here today.

The 39 new plants represent a capital investment of over $35,000,000, will employ 8,500 people, and will expend annually about $7,800,000 for payrolls, the Power Company estimates.

Diversity in the location of the new enterprises is a feature of Alabama's industrial expansion for the year, the report states, all sections of the state and small towns as well as the larger cities being represented.

Wide diversity in the class of industries and products to be manufactured is also indicated. Twenty-nine different products, including several not heretofore made in Alabama, will be manufactured by the 38 new plants. Chief among the new products are braid and ribbon, fine cotton goods, cotton bags, broad silks, copper wire, rubber tires and goods, furniture kraft paper and bags, condensed milk, electric stoves, fuller's earth, enamelware, dairy products, rubber tile, building stone, etc.

Increased activity in the building supply trades and industries is looked for as expenditures for the construction of additional industrial units gets under way. Large supplies of iron and steel, cement, brick, lime, lumber, paint, etc., will be required for plant construction. Two of the new plants will consume large quantities of coal and one will require heavy shipments of lime. In addition, employment will be given to a large number of skilled and unskilled workers in all sections of the state, and the resulting construction payrolls will add considerably to the measure of general prosperity.

An immediate increase of 30,000 in the population of the various communities affected is looked for by the Power Company as a result of the location of the new industries, though expansion programs, already projected, are expected to treble this population increase within the next five years.

The communities involved, however, will be most directly benefitted by the annual distribution of the $7,800,000 of new payrolls. The expenditure of this new money with local merchants and nearby farmers is expected to further stimulate local business conditions and add to local wealth.

Agriculture will also benefit from the new payrolls. The 5,000 families which will receive their support from the new industrial enterprises will be now customers for the farmers in the surrounding localities. In addition, the kraft paper mills will expend large sums with Alabama farmers for pine cord wood, and the newly established condensary will purchase $1,000,000 or more of milk.

Prospects for industrial expansion in 1929 are stated by engineers of the Power Company's New Industries Division to be exceptionally bright. A number of industrial interests are known to be investigating Alabama conditions looking to the establishment of plants of vast magnitude, and there has been a substantial increase in the number of prospects visiting the State, as well as in the inquiries for literature and special information about Alabama.

SPECIAL MEETING OF KIWANIS CLUB FRIDAY NIGHT

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton will not have the regular luncheon on Thursday of this week. Instead of the regular Thursday meeting the club will have a special meeting Friday night at 7:30 at which they will have as guests the members of the Kiwanis Club of Bessemer.

There will be a large representation of Bessemer Kiwanians in attendance with the Clanton Club, and the local Club is bending every effort toward showing the visitors a good time.

The meeting will be held at the Clanton Baptist Church. Dinner will be served by the ladies of the Baptist Missionary Society. The program for the week will be arranged to stress the subject of "Citizenship." District Trustee, S. J. Ezell, is in charge of the program.

Mr. O. K. McSwain of Montgomery was in Clanton Monday. Olvin is now with Peoples Auto Company and is selling Chrysler automobiles.

A plan has been proposed in New York State to measure the craniums of the New York Legislators and compare them with the craniums of legislators in other states. Looks to us like these are small matters to bother with.

According to scientists, Prof. Einstein has now reduced all the laws of physics to one. Maybe we had better hire him to come over here and work on our criminal codes.

Hungarian police at Budapest the other day arrested two women who were getting ready to stage a duel in the park. Probably they didn't want hair scattered all over the place.

The Fascisti have forbidden the operation of bear movements in the Italian stock exchange. Evidently they are trying to repeal the old law which decrees that everything which goes up has to come down.

Two dry agents are said to have consumed 53 high balls in one evening in getting evidence against the proprietor of a New York night club. Doubtless they now have a nice interior coat of varnish.

Reports from Montreal are to the effect that the consumption of cheese has increased greatly in Canada due to the tourist trade. As a humble American who never gets to Canada we wonder what they take with the cheese?

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court in Equity;
Madolin Bice, Complainant, vs. Isaac Bice, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Percy M. Pitts that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that his place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Isaac Bice, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 26th day of February, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, this 25th, day of January, 1929.

MR. HOOVER OPPOSES MULTITUDE OF BUREAUS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—President-elect Hoover has been stated as considering the multitude of unnecessary contacts with Government bureaus and overlapping of authority as being one of the greatest difficulties of business in its dealing with the Government. His contention is, it was stated, that if these scattered activities could be grouped under one single authority, it would promote efficiency and reduce expenses. He further contends that divided responsibility, with the absence of centralized authority, prevents constructive and consistent development of broad national policies.

For a number of years educators and those interested in the progress of education in the United States have realized the inadequacy of bureaus to cope with the national problems relative to public education and have sought the enactment of legislation providing for a Department of Education with a Secretary in the President's Cabinet. Yet Congress has taken no action on the Curtis-Reed bill providing for such a department. The supporters of this measure expect that favorable action will be taken by Congress during Mr. Hoover's administration.

In a recent misunderstanding at the National Capitol Congressman Blanton of Texas was struck by a copy of the Congressional Record thrown by Congressman Elliot, of Indiana, but was uninjured. Those Texans surely are a hardy race.

It is said that President Coolidge is preparing to publish a book after he gets out of office. We don't know what it is about but we are willing to bet that it won't meet the approval of either Henry Mencken of Sinclair Lewis.

The tariff is now a burning issue in Congress and speaking as an ultimate consumer, so far as we are concerned they can put a prohibitive tariff on spinach and carrots.

According to the male fashion experts a man must have twenty suits of clothes and at least twelve hats to be well dressed. But he doesn't have to wear them all at one time.

They may talk about putting business principles in agriculture, but the farmer will never be a real business man until he knocks off work at noon and goes out to play golf.

The pacifists seem to be very much in favor of paper ships for the navy if we are to have any ships at all, and doubtless they are just as much in favor of red rubber balloons for the air service.

A recent society event at Palm Beach was a beefsteak dinner. And it must be admitted that the present price of steer meats puts the beefsteak in the aristocratic class.

It must be admitted that these cold winter mornings it is hard to improve on a wife who can fill the breakfast table with hot buckwheat cakes, maple syrup and a pot of steaming coffee.

MR. JOHN CRUMPTON

On the morning of February 12th the people of Macedonia were shocked to learn that Mr. John Crumpton was dead. His death was very sudden. He was 78 years old and with the exception of a few years at Childersburg he had spent his life here.

He was a good man, an excellent neighbor. He was baptized in the early seventies by Rev. William Lee of Mulberry.

His funeral was attended by a large gathering of his friends. The funral sermon was preached by Rev. Lawrence. The music was by Prof. Cofer and was sweet and inspiring, consisting of such compositions as "Beautiful Land," "Sweet Bye and Bye," "I'm Going Home," "Home Over There," songs of Mr. Crumpton's young manhood.

We miss him, but we have for him a hope of life in the beautiful future. In the time of the "restitution of all things."

His children were all present at the burial except Mrs. Tubb who lives in Florida.

He was a descendant of one of the pioneer families locating here in the long ago.

The body was laid away at Macedonia February 13. Floral offerings were beautiful. "O Death, I will be thy plague; O, Grave, I will be thy destruction."

NEW MODEL A FORD IS SIMPLE

Simplicity of design, which helped make the model T Ford car famous all over the world for its dependable performance and economical maintainance cost, is equally characteristic in the new model A Ford.

This simplicity is particularly noticeable in the ignition system of the new car. This ignition system is standard but the units are new in design and construction and somewhat revolutionary, but there is nothing complicated about it. being in effect the very lifestream of the car, it was designed by Henry Ford and his associates to give a maxium amount of service with a minimum amount of trouble and the thousands of model A Fords which already have seen hard service under all sorts of conditions have vindicated the judgement of the designers.

One of the unique features of this new system is the elimination of high tension cables from the distributor to the spark plugs, Thin bronze springs, short, sturdy and easly kept in place, are used for the connections between spark-plugs and distributor.

There is but one high tension cable and this connects the coil, placed on the dash, with the distributor which is on the right hand side and at the top of the engine cylinder head. The one primary wire from the switch to the distributor passes through the dash in a steel conduit which eliminates wear and danger from possible short circuits and which makes it impossible for any thief to cut the wires at the ignition lock and wire around it, so as to start the car without a key.

Ignition troubles, with this design, are rare and those few which may occur can easily be detected and readily remedied. For example, if the condensor which is a part of the ignition system should fail it is so designed that it can be replaced in two minutes. Likewise the breaker arm can be removed and replaced without the assistance of any tools whatever in less than a minute's time.

According to reports current in Clanton during the past week, Mr. J. L. Johnson, received the appointment as license inspector of Chilton County to succeed the late John S. Catts.

A later report being circulated Monday said that Mr. Johnson had sent his commission back to Montgomery and declined to accept the job.

Brother Bryan's Bible Story

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

MARRIAGE

I wish to speak to you this morning on the subject of marriage. Marriage is an ordained institution. It is a God instituted institution. Marriage was ordained by God Himself in the time of man's entire innocency before the fall. The place of this institution was in the garden of Eden. A man and his wife were put there to dress and to keep it.

These two people were one. They were one in their prayer life. They were one in their purpose. They were one in their labors. Thus marriage in its divine origin, its great object and its possibilities and influences for good or evil. The idea of a family or a home is taught all through the sacred Scriptures. In Genesis 2:24 we read these words: "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh."

The family ordained and instituted by God was the basis of the nation, the foundation of the nation. It is the corner-stone of civilization. It has been truly said, "A church within a church, a republic within a republic, a world within a world, is spelled with four letters—H-O-M-E." If God rules there things go right there and everywhere, but if evil reigns in the home things go wrong there and they go wrong everywhere.

The greeatest need of America today is for her families to have God rule them. The happy home is where Jesus rules, where He is the chief guest, the hearer of every conversation, the judge of every act. If you read your Bible you will see a family obeying the instructions and command of God going into the ark. No doubt then the family altar was in this ark. No doubt lambs were offered which pointed to the Lamb of God.

The real home now has been cleansed by the blood of Christ the Lamb of God. Remember as we pass on we read the early Messianic promise in the 12th chapter of Genesis. God called Abraham out of Ur of Caldee a heathen country where people were worshipping idols. Abraham obeyed the call of God and made the Messianic promise clear to a family when He said to Abraham, "In thee shall all families of the earth be blessed." The same promise was made to the seed of Isaac and Jacob.

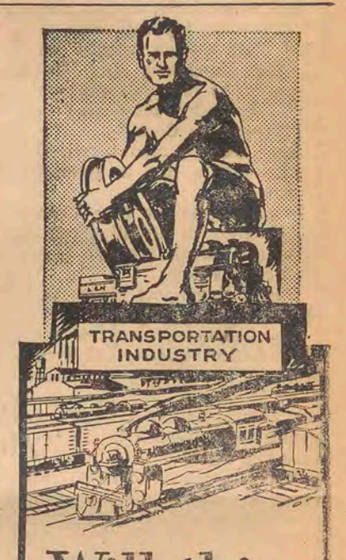
Only the family buds out into a nation. You find a family again emphasized in the home of Amram and Jocobed in far away Egypt. They were slaves in Egypt, children were born in their humble home. Into this family Moses was born. He was trained to worship, honor and love the people of God more than the pleasure of Egypt. This training he never forgot. John Quincy Adams said that as long as he lived he never forgot the little prayer his mother taught him from infancy:

"Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray thee Lord my soul to keep.
If I should die before I wake
I pray the Lord my soul to take."

Abraham Lincoln said that all he was and had was due to his mother's Chrisitian influence. O the influence of a Christian home over a child, a son or a daughter. Notwithsanding the idolatry in Egypt that Hebrew family of Amram and Jocebed did not lose their sense of the presence of God. They had no written Bible, but in later years God used their son to write the first five books of the Bible and two of the Psalms.

Think of the home of Elkanah and Hannah. It stands out in the Old Testament as a home of prayer. They prayed night and morning in their home. Do you pray night and morning in your home? The man who fears the Lord and prays in his home has been given a precious promise in Psalm 128:2-3, these words: "Happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with thee. Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine by the sides of thine house: thy children like olive plants about thy table."

Are you training your children up in the way they should go so that when they are old they will not depart from it? A child is a gift from God and we should be very careful in handling the gift. We read in Psalm 68:6 these words, "God setteth the solitary in families," meaning a family is distinguished from any other institution.



In Paul's writings in the New Testament four times he speaks of the church as thy house. They did not have church buildings at that time. Maybe we have too many church buildings now. Maybe the prayer meeting room is too large or perhaps the Sunday school rooms are too large. Perhaps the church auditorium is too large. I wonder if this could be the reason why so many of us fail to recognize it as God's house built and bought with the precious blood of the bride of the church which is Christ.

Christ was born in a family Himself. His mother was named Mary and His Father was God. Mary as the wife of Joseph the step-father of Christ, trained Jesus. He went to the synagogue on the Sabbath. She took Him with her to the synagogue at Nazareth which was between the hill country of Galilee and Mary's Well on the side of the road. We read that He, Christ, was subject to His parents. She taught Him to obey them.

His father taught Him the carpenter trade. Like all Hebrew children He was taught a trade while yet young. No doubt many times His thoughts were crowded with a vision of the great mission which was before Him. I think we cannot get any idea of the time Mary devoted to the spiritual growth of her son. When Jesus hung on the cross, the home appealed to Him when He turned over His own mother in love to the beloved disciple John.

It was in this home He ate the last Passover meal. It was here in this home He instituted the Lord's Supper, where He comforted the disciples. It was in this home where He delivered the greatest sermon of His ministry the night before the crucifixion. It was in this home where a member expressed her love for Christ by anointing Him for His burial.

Mr. J. B. Wells of Selma was a visitor to Clanton Monday. While here he went bird hunting.

Will this structure survive?

Will the enormous industry of American steam railroads, the most efficient transportation system in the history of the world, survive the continuing effects of unfair competition, rate reductions, and other influences which are constantly undermining their earning capacity and tending seriously to impair their public service?

This is the great problem which concerns not only the managements of the railroads, but, because of their tremendous value in our economic progress, vitally interests every man, woman, and child in this country.

The inroads on railroad revenues being made by competing forms of transportation, which are not subjected to the same character of regulation as the railroads and are not required to share proportionately in the public burden; the constant rise in the level of wages and in other operating costs; the increasing assessments for railroad taxes, which in 1928 were higher relatively than in any previous period; the gradual tendency downward of rates which, measured by the ton-mile revenue, have declined over 15 per cent since 1921 ---- through the constant whittling away of the rate structure----these are some of the prominent causes which are decreasing the income of the railroads and preventing them from earning the fair return to which they are legally entitled under the Transportation Act.

Unless, through the force of sound public sentiment, a halt is made in encroachments of these kinds, it is feared that before long the American railroads will face one of the greatest crises in their history. You should interest yourself in these matters and use your influence to establish a public policy more just to the railroads.

To keep up the high standard of service and make provision for the future, there must be an adequate margin between railroad revenues and railroad expenses. This can be secured only as the public makes its influence felt so as to insure to the railroad equitable taxation, fair rates and regulations, and just laws.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

LET US SPRAY

Kill the Vermin or the Vermin Will Kill Your Profits—Fowls That Are Free From Vermin Lay Better and Resist Disease More Easily.

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

Not long ago I was asked by an amateur poultry raiser, whom I know slightly, if I would look over his flock and see what made them so droopy, dispirited and unproductive. They were "all outa pep" was the way he put it. It took only a moment's examination to disclose the reason for this undesirable state of affairs. His hens were just about being eaten up by chicken lice.

I asked to see the hen house and what I saw was what is all too often seen. An old roughly built shed had been hastily converted into a hen houses. To say there were ten thousand hiding places for vermin would be a most conservative estimate. No attempt at sanitation or disinfection had ever beene made. Ancient table scraps in various stages of decomposition proved attractive tidbits for myriads of flies. Mouldy straw lay about on the dirt floor, and dropping boards being something this chap had never heard about, the droppings served to still further befoul the already disgusting litter. In short, if I had wanted a particularly horrible example of almost anything one should not do in poultry raising, I could have found it here. I really marveled that the poor birds had been so lucky as to suffer nothing worse than their painful burdens of lice.

Turning to my acquaintance, I said: "Charley, there are a lot of things that ought to be done here, but I have a little story that will help you to remember one of the most important." Then I told him that story about the mother skunk and several of her little ones who were being pursued by a hunter. The hunter gained ground quite rapidly, which alarmed the youngsters not a little. "Just be patient, children," admonished the mother, "I'll tell you what to do when the time comes." The hunter continued to gain, and finally the mother called a sudden halt. As the hunter, seeing success at hand plunged boldly forward, the mother skunk remarked calmly and confidently, "Now children, let us spray!"

Of course the first thing to do was to make a thorough clean up of the whole place. Then, a strong solution of Dip and Disinfectant was sprayed into every crack and crevice. Lime was dusted liberally over the dirt floor in order to neutralize its sour odor and make the place still more uncomfortable for lice, mites, bedbugs and other insect pests. Then the hens were dusted well with Lice Powder to kill the parasites on their bodies, and the dusting was repeated in seven days time. Now, whenever I meet my friend, Charley, he invariably greets me with a gesture which indicates the manipulation of a spray pump and with an air of mock piety exclaims, "Doctor, let us spray!" He also has a tale to tell of a reborn flock that is taking a new interest in life and actually seems to be trying to make up for the time the lost before Charley learned his lesson.

While this case was an extreme one, the same story is being enacted many times over and not always with a happy ending. With proper construction of houses and equipment, proper sanitary arrangements and an occasional clean-up and disinfecting campaign, the problem of vermin is seldom encountered.

Where those three points are not observed, however, vermin take possession and profits suffer with the poultry. Lice, fleas, ticks, mites, bedbugs and many other pests in infinite variety either suck the life blood right out of their unwilling hosts or cause almost unbearable irritation. In either case, the fowl is seriously weakened, and the various bodily functions, including that of egg laying, are seriously hampered. Furthermore, while parasites are seldom directly responsible for death, except in cases of extreme neglect, they do often sap the vitality to such an extent that fowls become easy prey to disease.

These pests are preventable. It is no disgrace to have them show up on your premises, but it is a disgrace to let them remain. Not only that, aside from humane considerations which are too plain to need emphasis, it is mighty poor business to take a cut in the profits of any business when the cause of such a cut can be so easily removed.

POULTRY SALES GREAT SUCCESS THIS YEAR

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 18,—Cooperative poultry marketing in Alabama is a greater success this year than ever before. Farmers have already sold 22 solid car loads for which they received $78,000 and are still selling 3 to 5 cars per week, according to information coming from county agents to the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

Statistics compiled by J. B. Sylvest and J. D. Moore, marketing specialists of Auburn, show that the 22 cars sold cooperatively contained about 100,000 birds, which weighed 396,000 pounds. Approximately 8,400 farmers loaded the birds and received checks at the car doors, All sales are cleared through the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. Sales are conducted by county agents, county farm bureaus, marketing specialists, district agents, home agents, vocational teachers and others.

"What has cooperative marketing of poultry meant to Alabama farmers?" is a question often asked. To answer this question, the marketing specialists say that there has been a decided increase in the quality of the birds. They point to Clarke County as an example of what has been done. Three years ago, when the first cooperative car of the state was being loaded in the county, the majority of the fowls were of low quality. This year when loading in the same county, the car man, representing the company buying the birds, said: "We have a car of poultry that is a credit to any section of the country." Other counties have witnessed similar improvements.

Another outcome of the sales has been that farmers are paid a better and more uniform price for their poultry than they were before the cooperative movement started. The movement has aided in doing away with local fluctuations due to the surplus birds during certain seasons of the year. Again it has made possible for the farmer with one bird to receive as good a price as the grower wit hone hundred and more birdh.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, is very much pleased with the outcome of the poultry sales in the state. Today when commenting upon the marketing of miscellaneous products, which includes poultry and eggs, Mr. O'Neal said:

"The extension service in its program has given us most valuable assistance in the marketing of agricultural products. The policy with reference to the Marketing Specialists is to have the farm organization handle the business of the marketing transaction. This line of service I consider, most spectular in our state. It has grown by leaps and bounds. There is a slogan in the great industrial centers, that are so rapidly growing with us, to buy Alabama products in preference to those grown outside of the state."

CHRISTIAN GROWTH

LESSON TEXT—John 1:40-42; Matt 16:15-18; John 21:15-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Growing Like Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Growing Like Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Growing Up—To What?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Conditions of Christian Growth.

I. Following Jesus (John 1:40).

As a result of the testimony of John the Baptist, that Jesus was the Lamb of God (v. 36), Andrew followed Jesus. The proof that he really believed is that he followed Christ. This is the first essential in the Christian life.

II. Leading Others to Christ (v. 41)

As soon as Andrew had found and become acquainted with Christ, he brought his brother Peter to Christ Christian growth can only be truly realized in the giving of oneself to the winning of souls. The one who has received the gospel, the good news, cannot help but proclaim it.

III. Confessing Jesus as the Messiah, the Son of God (Matt. 16:15-18).

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard His wonderful words and seen His mighty works. Various opinions were extant about Him. It was now necessary for them to have a definite conception of Him. Examination came after the period of school life. As the Master Teacher, Jesus knew what it meant to the disciples to have a right conception of Himself. He knew the trying ordeal through which they would be called upon to pass as the time of his crucifixion drew near. Only as they perceived His deity would they be strong in the hour of trial. In answer to Jesus' pointed personal question, Peter confessed to the absolute deity and Messiahship of Jesus. This conception of Christ is essential to salvation (John 20:31).

No one lacking it will ever be interested in the winning of souls. Besides, the denial of His deity is the supreme lie (I John 2:22).

1. What Peter confessed (v. 16).

"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." It therefore involved His Messiahship and deity. This is the burning question of today. Those who have the right conception of Christ's person and mission have no trouble in the realm of science, philosophy or ethics.

2. Christ's commendation (v. 17).

He pronounced him blessed. The evidence that Peter was blessed was that he was in spiritual touch with the heavenly Father. His conception of Christ was not revealed by flesh and blood.

3. Peter's blessing (v. 18).

Christ declared that he should become a foundation stone in His church. Christ Himself is the chief cornerstone on which the church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter, and on this rock is laid the foundation of apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). All believers are living stones of this house (I Peter 2:5).

IV. Peter's Restoration (John 21:15-19).

Peter grievously sinned in denying the Lord, but he made confession, shedding bitter tears over his sin and folly. The Lord tenderly dealt with His erring disciple and restored him. In his restoration, Jesus brought to Peter's mind the essential qualification for his ministry. Love is the preeminent gift for Christian service. To impress upon his mind this fact He three times asked the question, "Lovest thou me?" He not only asked the question three times to show the supreme qualification for service to Him but to show that there are three classes of persons demanding His service, and that these classes need special care as well as food adapted to their state.

1. Those beginning the Christian life, babes in Christ, "Feed my lambs." The word "feed" means more than instruction. It applies to the surroundings, influences and examples.

2. The mature ones, "Feed my sheep."

This seems to mean "shepherd my sheep." The mature class of believers not only need food, but discipline. They need correction and guidance.

3. The aged Christians, "Feed My Sheep."

The word "feed" here is much the same as in the first case. This is a service greatly needed today. In many places the old people are greatly neglected. All provision is made for the young people. Love is the supreme need in service to the old folks.

FOREST FIRE PROTECTION FUND CONSIDERED

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 18.—Timber growers over the state regard protection of forest lands against fire of the same necessity as better cutting and turpentining methods, according to information gathered by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. They also point out that, while the chief resposibility for protecting their lands rests squarely upon the owners themselves, nevertheless the public, as such, inflicts extra hazard upon their holdings and should bear a part of the cost of their protection. This view is further strengthened by the fact that the public, in addition to the owner, receives a great deal of benefit from the existence of the forest industries which can prosper only when the forest is protected as the source of the raw materials.

Most states have special appropriations for public forest fire protection work. In Alabama, however, no such appropriation has been made, the forestry department merely being authorized to expend a certain portion of the genral forestry fund for protection, either independently or in cooperation with the Federal Government. The funds available from this source are altogether inadequate. However, even with the limited amount available, enough has been accomplished to show that, if properly backed by a reasonable appropriation for the urpose, public forest fire protection in Alabama can be achieved with a high degree of success. The limited amount spared from the general forestry fund, together with contributions from private owners, from a few of the counties and from the Federal Government, has accomplished a great deal in certain parts of the state. Further progress, however, appears mainly dependent upon a special State appropriation for this particular purpose.

Miss Carrie Foshee, student at Alabama College, Montevallo, spent last Sunday at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Foshee, in Clanton.

PEOPLE OF BEAT ELEVEN ASKED TO PUT UP STOCK

Mr. Sam Littleton of Beat 11, speaking for a number of citizens of his Beat, requests that everybody put up their stock in compliance with the law. "It is now time to begin gardening," said Mr. Littleton, "and of course we can not make much progress with cattle running at large. This matter has been widely discussed in Beat 11, and I am acting for a number of my neighbors in having this request published in The Banner."

MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

Our Sunday school is doing very nice work now. Saturday and Sunday was our regular preaching days, and were very bad days, but our pastor, Bro. Nelson, rendered us a very nice Sermon Sunday. Our singing was very good in the afternoon. Mr. Lorenza Sanders was elected chairman, Mr. Tom Frank Teel and Miss Meady Lambert were elected as committee and a program was arranged. Directors for the afternoon were Mr. Lorenza Sanders, Enoch Traywick, I. D. Huett, Annie Boswell, Miss Delene Lambert, Lillie Mae Weldon, Sarah Collins. Organists for the afternoon were Lilile Mae Weldon and Annie Boswell. We hope to have them back with us again soon.—Secretary.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles S. Howard Thursday afternoon, February 28th.

Dr. S. C. Wood expects to leave about March 1st to visit his home folks in Texas, and also to take a special course lasting six weeks in New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin and Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway will go to Montgomery Friday to meet Mr. and Mrs. Jones of Greenville.

Dr. Wood and wife spent Wednesday in Birmingham.

An important item of news was omitted last week when we failed to announce the arrival of a boy baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Villadsen, named Henry Arthur, born February 5th, at the home of Mrs. Villadsen's mother, Mrs. T. W. Robinson. Everybody says he is a fine boy.

Mrs. A. D. Leckie will entertain the Baptist Y. W. A. on Tuesday afternoon, February 26th.

Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association are making preparations to harvest a big crop of strawberries within a few weeks. Carloads of crates are coming in and being distributed that at least a part of them may be made ready before the rush of spring work begins.

Sunday, February 24th, is preaching Sunday at the Baptist church by the pastor, J. W. Jones.

Special Meetings

The series of special meetings planned for several weeks ago, to be held in Thorsby Congregational Church, and postponed on account of so much sickness in the community, will be held during the week of Feb. 24th to March 3rd, inclusive, except Saturday.

Sunday services will be held at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m., week days at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m.

Rev. James Davenport of Daisy, Tenn., who preceded Rev. J. E. Each as pastor of this church for five years, will do the preaching.

Brother Davenport has a host of friends in and about Thorsby who will be glad of this opportunity to meet and hear him again. And to those who have never met him we can say, ask some one who knew him. And you need not be particular to pick one who sat under his ministry, because he had no enemies in the whole community.

Miss Agnes Gerald of Fort Payne spent Saturday night and Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

It is the desire of Mr. Davenport and of all the officers and members of this church that these meetings shall be for all the people of Thorsby and vicinity regardless of whether the are or are not members of any church. "Come with us and we will do you good."

The Lutheran Ladies Aid will meet this week Thursday, February 21st, with Mrs. J. O. Johnson.

Messrs. Rascoe Maddox, Roland Morgan and Cecil Each were visitors in Birmingham last week Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Niswander left Monday morning for their new home at Marion Junction, near Selma.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen and son, Roland, spent Sunday in Birmingham visiting Mrs. Louise Self, daughter of Mr. ad Mrs. Petersen.

Mrs. Gregory of Chicago is spending some time as the guest of Mrs. Hulda Gren.

Mr. Ed Piper made a business trip to Birmingham Monday.

The Baptist Congregation gave their minister a "pounding" on Tuesday and left a liberal donation which was greatly appreciated by Rev. and Mrs. Jones.

Mr. Herbert Johnson of Howard College and the Misses McNeil of Jemison were visitors at the home of Miss Ruth Martin last Sunday.

Mr. Adams of Birmingham was a visitor in Thorsby Sunday.

Miss Mamie Sue Stewart spent Sunday visiting friends in Thorsby.

Thorsby Institute News

Last Saturday night the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute held a contest program. Two plays were presented. One, "What Men Live By" by the Philomatics under the direction of Mr. Dickson assisted by Miss Klingehoefer. The other play "Silas Marner" by George Eliot was given by the Pushmetahas, formerly the Invincibles. Miss Fairbank was in charge of this play. Both were very interesting plays and well given. The Philomatics won the contest. No one had to be prompted in their play and the play went on without hesitation. The closing scene was particularly effective.

In Silas Marner the part of Silas Marner was very well taken by Konrad Mims and that of Eppie by Claudie Smith. They knew their parts and acted them very well.

Next Friday night at 7:30 at the Thorsby Institute Auditorium the annual Declamatory Contest will take place. The following will take part in it: Louise Gibbons, Beatrice Kirkland, Eleanor Rowell, Addie Surles, Martin Bakke, Byron Bean, Albert Mims and Willis Peterson. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged. Every one is invited.

Miss S. M. Fairbanks of Jacksonville, Illinois, is visiting for a few days her cousin, Miss Marion Fairbank, Librarian at Thorsby Institute. She gave a very interesting talk Monday morning at Chapel about Washington, D. C.

Monday morning Rev. and Mrs. M. S. Freeman, who were driving to Florida, stopped to visit the school a few minutes. They had not seen the new Recitation Building, Helen Jenkins Hall. Dr. Freeman gave the Commencement Address a few years ago and was very much liked.

Miss Helen Jenkins, principal of Thorsby Institute, has been recently elected to Pi Gamma Mu, a National Social Service Honor Society. This honor came as a surprise to her. While at Syracuse University she was elected a member of Phi Kappa Phi, another National Honor Society.

Radio Program Put on by I. G. A. Stores

National Hook-Up Arranged for the Members All Over Country

For the first time in history, radio was used in conducting a national business meeting last Monday evening, February 18, 1929.

The Independent Grocers' Alliance of America, a national organization of independent wholesale and retail grocers, has grown so rapidly and extensively since its origin three years ago, that a national radio hook-up was the only method by which J. Frank Grimes, its founder, could address the thousands of members scattered across the continent at one and the same time.

"In 32 states there were local territorial mass meetings of wholesale and retail members of the I. G. A. on Monday night and these meetings were directed from the New York studio of the Columbia National Broadcasting chain.

From the Great Lakes to the gulf, from the Atlantic Seaboard to the Rocky Mountains, these members were gathered together Monday night at the mass meeting in their local areas, for the first national radio convention of its kind on record.

In addition to the novelty of the occasion a program of keen interest to the general public was arranged. A message that every thinking American wanted to hear was delivered, and this was topped off by music by the big I. G. A. symphony orchestra.

Owing to the extent of the territory covered by the H. M. Hobbie Grocery Company, wholesale supply depot, it was necessary to have three group meetings, one being held in the I. G. A. office of the H. M. Hobbie Grocery Company, Montgomery, Ala., one at the Newson Hotel, Dothan and the other at the I. G. A. Store of Mr. Charles R. Taliaferro of Evergreen.

SIX SOUTHERN COUNTY AGENTS WIN AWARDS

REWARDED FOR OUTSTANDING COUNTY SOIL IMPROVEMENT PROGRAMS.

Six Southern county agricultural agents who have put into effect and are continuing an outstanding soil improvement program and who were rewarded with a free trip to the annual meeting of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers in Houston, Texas, have been named. These agents come from North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Arkansas, and are being awarded the trips by the Southern Division, Soil Improvement Committee, the National Fertilizer Association.

First place was awarded to H. K. Sanders, Roxboro, Person county, North Carolina. The other five places are listed alphabetically, as no rankings were made of these five: W. L. Hall, Conway, Faulkner county, Arkansas; H. C. Heath, Lafayette, Chambers county, Alabama; C. L. McNeil, Canton, Madison county, Mississippi; Earl W. Smith, Muskogee, Muskogee county, Oklahoma; and W. G. Yeager, Salisbury, Rowan county, N. C.

To Stimulate Interest

"These awards were made to stimulate interest in soil improvement programs, as recommended and approved by the various State experiment stations and agricultural extension services," according to J. C. Pridmore, director of the Soil Improvement Committee. "The six outstanding reports were selected by a committee of agricultural college workers in co-operation with the extension service officials who have charge of county agent work in the various States. Winners were selected on the basis of a uniform score card which took into consideration accomplished results in soil improvement in the county, methods of putting the programs into effect, and plans for future soil improvement efforts based on an analysis of the situation as it exists in the county."

The winning county agents were given an opportunity of attending the Southern Agricultural Workers meeting and also the agricultural extension workers' jubilee convention commemorating the establishment of the first agricultural extension office in the country at Houston 25 years ago.

The awards include gold medal fobs presented by the Soil Improvement Committee as permanent trophies of accomplishment, along with certificates that may become the property of the county represented by the winning agent.

Members of the judging committee were O. S. Fisher, extension agronomist United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.; W. B. Mercier, director of extension, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge; I. O. Schaub, dean of agriculture and director of extension in North Carolina State College, Raleigh; T. S. Buie, head of the department of agronomy, Clemson College, S. C.; and J. R. Ricks, director of the experiment station, A. and M. College, Mississippi.

Mr. Roscoe Connell of Arkansas is spending a few days this week with his father, F. M. Connell.

JACIE BAKER ARRESTED FOR VIOLATING PROHIBITION LAW

Continuing their investigation of things in Beat 16 last Thursday, officers Gillespie and Murrah went to the home of Jacie Baker, and found a small quantity of liquor in his house. About the place they also found a number of kegs and other containers that showed evidences of having had liquor in them. Baker was placed under bond for violating the prohibition law.

"EYES OF LOVE" AT WHITE CITY SCHOOL, MARCH 2ND

A comedy drama, in 2 acts to be presented at White City school on Saturday night, March 2, 1929, at 7 o'clock.

This is a charming tale of a father's love and a daughter's devotion under adverse circumstances. The action moves swiftly and the suspense is so well sustained that the audience sits on the edges of their chairs, breathless over the uncertainty of the fate of big-hearted unfortunate Trusty Jim. A play rich in thrills and tears and laughs, and bound to grip an audience with its motif of generous self-sacrifice. The cast includes: a charming heroine; her treacherous friend, of the adventuress type; a high-minded lover; an unfavored suitor, of the evil-hearted type; a faithful old negro "Mammy", a pert and flirtatious housemaid; a detective disguised as a butler, with o cockney accent; and Trusty Jim, the man of mystery.

Admission 10 and 25 cents.

CITIZENS INVITED TO JOIN IN WAR ON RATS IN CLANTON

The Town Council of Clanton has declared war on our undesirable rat population. This is a righteous cause in which everybody should cooperate. Chief of Police, John Boockholdt, is the man designated to check up the rats killed. The city will pay 5 cents apiece for all wharf rats killed inside the city limits and brought to Mr. Boockholdt.

BISHOP HOYT M. DOBBS COMING

Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs of Birmingham will preach at the local Methodist Church next Sunday night at 7 o'clock. Bishop Dobbs, who is president of the Alabama, the North Alabama and the Florida Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, is one of the outstandisg ministers of the Methodist church and Clanton is honored in having him as a guest.

The public is invited to hear this distinguished minister.

CAPITOL News

The State Department of Education plans to establish this summer "opportunity schools" in all of the counties of the State. These schools are the medium through which the State is waging war against adult illiteracy, and are showing gratifying results, especially since the Legislature of 1927 largely increased the appropriation for the support of this phase of educational work. To date there are only ten counties which have not had schools for adult white illiterates: Bullock, Choctaw, Colbert, Dallas, Lowndes Marengo, Monroe, Russell, Sumter and Wilcox. Of these counties, Bullock, Dallas and Sumter have practically no white illiteracy, and these three counties have been particularly active in work on behalf of negro illiterates, which has also been carried on in a number of other counties of the State.

Miss Clutie Bloodworth, director of exceptional education of the State Department of Education, has given some interesting data on the progress of the drive to wipe out illiteracy in the three counties of Calhoun, Cleburne, and Randolph.

Eight years of effort to free their white citizens of the handicap of illiteracy has become a part of the educational history of these three counties. Cleburne alone has made eight successive struggles to place in the hands of those needing them the three-R tools. During the eight years Calhoun had a total enrollment of 1,395 in 42 schools. The 1920 census showed 10.1 per cent of Calhoun's white population twenty-one years of age and over could not read a ballot and that 10.3 per cent of Randolph's citizens were similarly disabled. Randolph enrolled 830 of her ambitious citizens in 36 schools. Cleburne had fewer white illiterates in 1920 but the number was 13.6 per cent of her voting population, and perhaps because of that fact Cleburne has surpassed Calhoun and Randolph in the total enrollment and in the number of schools, for Cleburne had a total enrollment of 1662 pupils in 77 schools. Supt. S. B. Gibson of Calhoun was responsible for several of the eight campaigns for the removal of illiteracy in his county, and Supt M. A. Vickers of Cleburne and Supt I. G. Hendon of Randolph have been closely connected with the whole endeavor to make their counties literate. Supt. Vickers has used the schools as a lever to raise one-room school communities out of their indifference. He organized with the help of interested citizens an Educational Council whose mottos is: "Help us wipe out illiteracy." Supt. Hendon was one of the first volunteer teachers in his county and as superintendent a few years later saw his former pupils assist in the formal opening of a consolidated school housed in an attractive state-aided building. Supt. Hendon states that these improved facilities for the children came as the result of three schools for adults.

The first scattered and unrelated attempts to teach adults took place in 1914. The school census of 1914 gave a total of 3391 illiterate white children from 8 to 20 years of age in Calhoun, Cleburne and Randolph. In 1928 the total of illiterate white children from 7 to 20 years of age is only 1772. It is to be hoped the 1930 U. S. Census will reveal an even greater reduction in the illiteracy of the white voting population.

M. L. Tucker has been appointed associate member of the State Tax Commission by Governor Graves, succeeding W. L. Harrison. Mr. Tucker is a veteran newspaperman, and one of the best known members of the profession in the State. Prior to his appointment as a member of the State Tax body, he was in charge of gasoline tax collection work, where he made a splendid record. Mr. Harrison, who resigned as a member of the Commission, has accepted a place with the State Tax Commission in Birmingham, which is his home town.

Immediately after February 1st, when poll tax books are closed, tax collectors will begin returning poll tax books and unused receipts to the State Auditor's office, for checking there. Sec. 3033 of the Code provides that all of these books shall have been returned to the State Auditor by February 15th.

As soon as the books are checked by the State Auditor the stubs are then sent to the Probate Judges in the counties where the poll taxes were paid, for reference at any time needed in checking poll lists, etc.

The State Auditor after certifying the poll tax money into the State Treasury, makes report to the State Superintendent of Education, showing the amount of poll tax collected in each county in the State. This money, according to Section 3029 of the Code, is "applied exclusively in aid of the public school fund in the counties in which it is levied and collected." It, therefore, behooves each county to encourage large poll tax payments, as the county school fund receives the entire amount.

State Auditor S. H. Blan says that poll tax payments have been much lighter this year than last year. A year ago he had many calls for extra tax books, but this year has had but few calls for extra books. This may be explained, however, by the fact that important elections occurred during last year. 1928 is an "off year politically," unless special elections are called on important issues.

MISS FANNIE SMITHERMAN

On January 20th at her home near Pleasant Grove in West Chilton Miss Fannie Smitherman very suddenly passed away. She was about 31 years old.

Her friends were many. She was kind, lovely and friendly to all. We regarded her as one of the best girls we ever knew. She was a Christian. The great ransom price has been paid for her and all the human race. Therefore, she will live again. We hope for her eternal life in the Golden age and through ages to come, where everybody will be happy, where the death shades will never fall. In the land of the olive and rose. Where the aged ones will return to the vigor of youth. In the beautiful uncloudded day. Under the administration of the coming heavenly kingdom.

We sympathize with her relatives in this sad bereavement.

Her body was buried at Pleasant Grove January 21st. Rev. Honeycutt conducted the funeral.

"He that believeth in me though he were dead, yet shall he live."

'KING OF KINGS' ALL WEEK IN MONTGOMERY

Spectators Easily Visualize Galilee and Judea of Jesus's Time

To be transported back to the ways of Galilee and the streets of Judea at a time when a Man gave to the world a great opportunity. . . . To follow the path of that Man through an amazing series of engrossing epochal events—

Such is the great central throne of Cecil B. De Mille's motion picture, "The King of Kings," which reverently pictures the wondrous drama from the date when the world knew Him only as an itenerant preacher and the poor and afflicted hastened to Him for healing and succor. This great picture is on view at the Tivoli theater all this week.

Filming Began in June, 1926

Cecil B. De Mille began this great work in June, 1926. For ten months the fields of research, authorial creation, production and technic were kept busy. His final determination to make the picture was announced only after he had discussed the subject with leaders of public sentiment, scholars and savants, and theater advisers.

Representatives of the studio went to the Holy Land to study at first hand architecture and costumes and topography. Fifty acres of land were purchased adjacent to the Cecil B. De Mille studio at Culver City. Here were reproduced, to exact measurement, the scenes or locales of the temple—the Via Dolorosa—the Hill of Calvary and other scenes familiar to all who have traveled in Palestine.

Great Co-operative Effort

As the work progressed it developed into the greatest cooperative effort that the united picture industry has yet achieved. The technical and architectural resources of every great California studio was placed at the producer's disposal, and eminent actors from many companies vied with one another for the leading parts. Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, made a special trip to California to correlate the many studio activities and to bring about, in behalf of the production, favorable action by the organized social, religious and educational institutions of the country.

Fifty Featured Players

There are more than fifty featured actors, including eighteen stars, in the production, of which the following is a partial list:

H. B. Warner, Jacquline Logan, Dorothy Cumming, Kenneth Thomson, Ernest Torrence, Julia Faye, Rudolph Schildkraut, Victor Varconi, Robert Edeson, Majel Coleman, Montagu Love, George Siegmann, Sydney D'Albrook, William Boyd, Sam De Grasse, Jetta Goudal, May Robson, Bryant Washburn, Theodore Kosloff, Josef Swickard.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

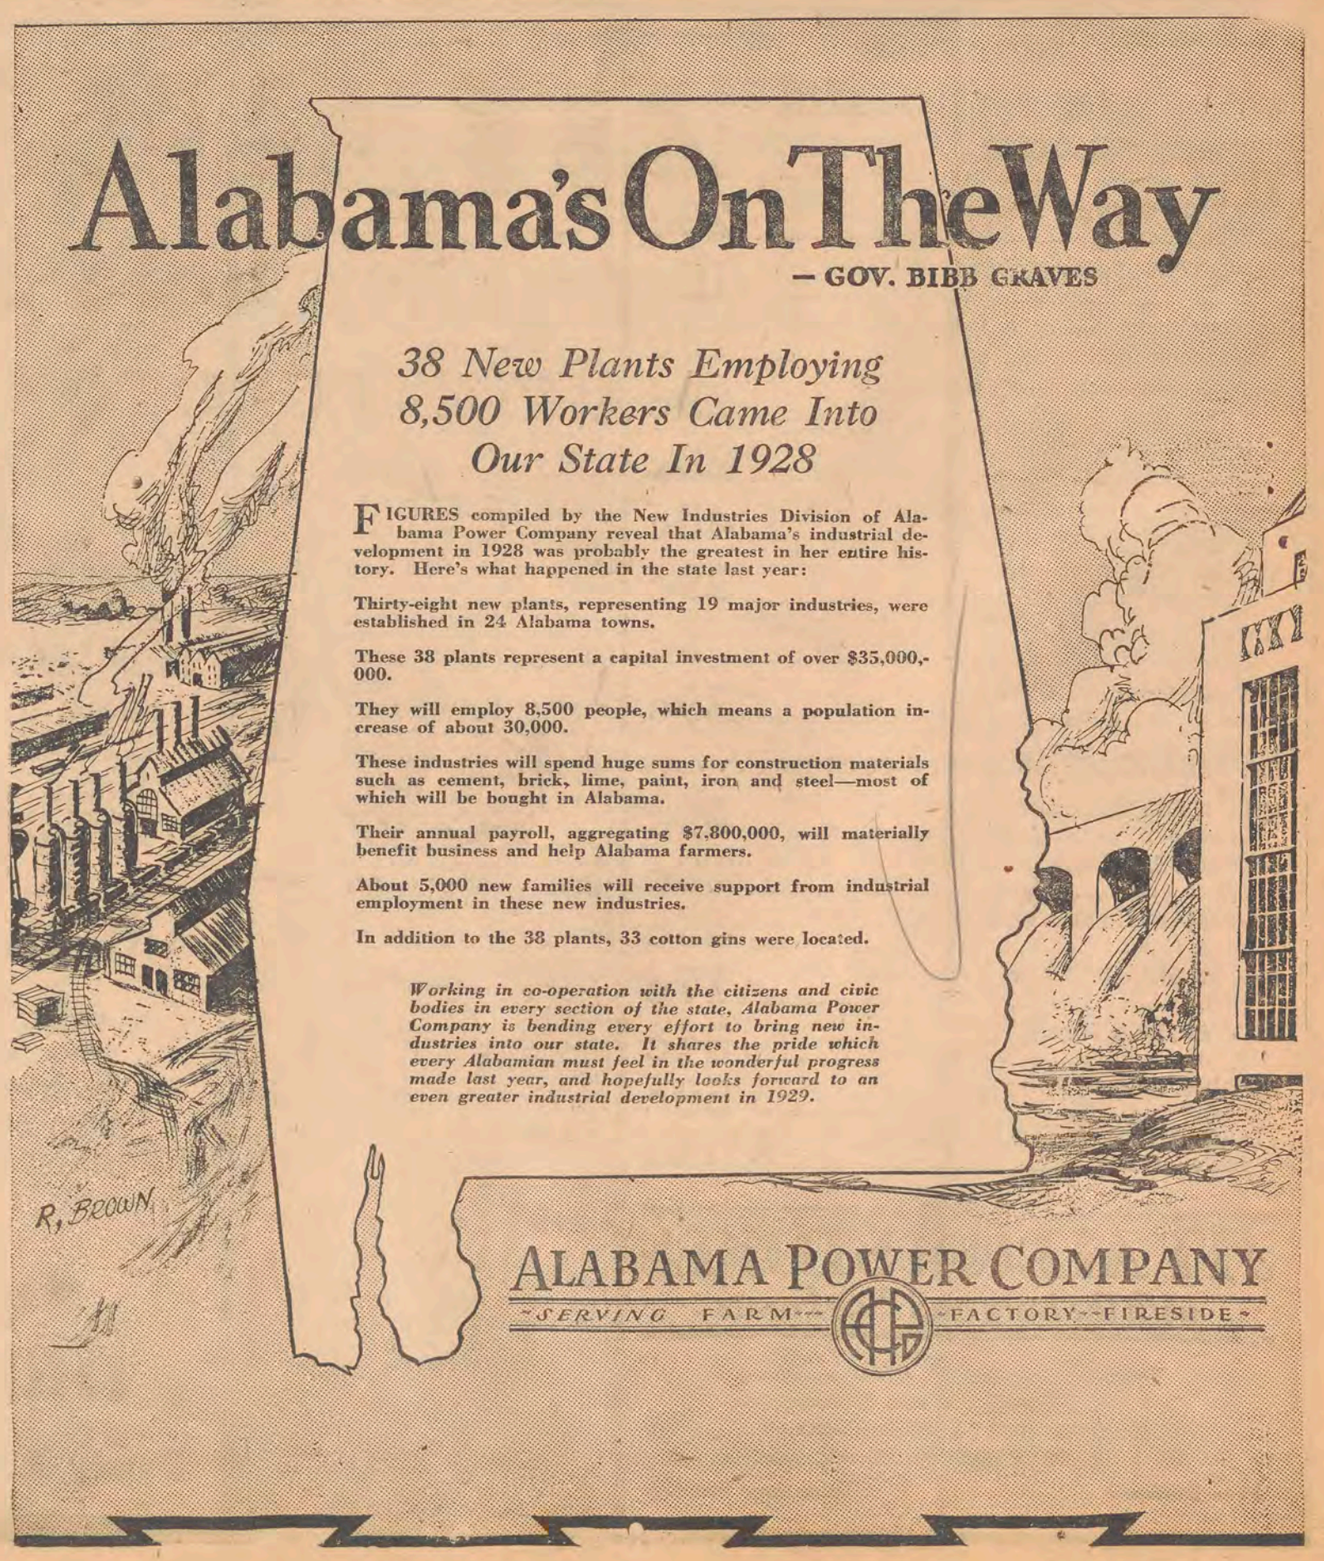
38 New Plants Employing 8,500 Workers Came Into Our State In 1928

FIGURES compiled by the New Industries Division of Alabama Power Company reveal that Alabama's industrial development in 1928 was probably the greatest in her entire history. Here's what happened in the state last year:

Thirty-eight new plants, representing 19 major industries, were established in 24 Alabama towns.

These 38 plants represent a capital investment of over $35,000,000.

They will employ 8,500 people, which means a population increase of about 30,000.



These industries will spend huge sums for construction materials such as cement, brick, lime, paint, iron and steel—most of which will be bought in Alabama.

Their annual payroll, aggregating $7,800,000, will materially benefit business and help Alabama farmers.

About 5,000 new families will receive support from industrial employment in these new industries.

In addition to the 38 plants, 33 cotton gins were located.

Working in co-operation with the citizens and civic bodies in every section of the state, Alabama Power Company is bending every effort to bring new industries into our state. It shares the pride which every Alabamian must feel in the wonderful progress made last year, and hopefully looks forward to an even greater industrial development in 1929.

OLET DEALERS MET IN NGHAM A FEW DAYS AGO

More than four hundred Chevrolet Dealers, sales managers and bankers from Alabama and western Florida were guests at an elaborate sales meeting and banquet given by the Chevrolet Motor Company in Birmingham at the Tutwiler Hotel a few days ago. Following the banquet an excellent vaudeville show was provided for the visitors.

Mr. M. D. Douglas, Assistant General Sales Manager of the Company, was toastmaster. The principle speaker was Mr. P. Sever the Zone Sales Manager, who pointed out that the Birmingham Zone would share in a large measure in the success of the company this year.

"In Birmingham Zone it may be truthfully said that when the automobile business is on a sound basis, other industries also show progress," said Mr. Sever. "It is in this region that we have the great cotton belt and the largest center in the world for coal and iron industries," concluded this Zone Manager.

Mr. Geo. C. Polk, local Chevrolet dealer, declared after a careful observation of the playlets portraying new and effective marketing ideas for the dealers he was sure that 1929 would be a banner year for Chevrolet dealers. "The excellent suggestions given us by the high Chevrolet officials will enable the Chevrolet dealer to render the highest type of service to his community," said the local dealer.

Among the speakers at the meeting were M. D. Douglass, assistant General Sales Manager, P. Sever, Zone Sales Manager, Wm. A. Blees, Manager Dealers Finance and Accounting, J. H. Blackmore, assistant Sales Promotion Manager, T. E. Chancellor, assistant Manager Truck Division, J. P. Little, Manager Parts and Service Division and Will Power, Manager of Show Productions.

JOTS FROM ISABELLA HIGH

Wednesday afternoon, February 13th, the Isabella basket ball team, boys, played Jemison High on the latter's court. Jemison scored 18 points and Isabella 13. It was a fast game, a display of much skill and training.

A very interesting program was rendered by the Wilsonian Literary society Wednesday as follows:

A fine will be placed on the one not dressed in complete costume.

"Feeding Dairy Cows" is the name of a bulletin published by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn and available for distribution upon request. F. W. Burns, livestock specialist, is author of it.

In 1927 Texas led all states in sweet potato production. Georgia was a close second and North Carolina was third. Each of these states exceeded 10,000,000 bushels.

In the early days of agriculture 300 man hours were required to produce one acre of corn. By 1890 this had been reduced to 30 man hours, and in 1928 it was 3.6 man hours. The change was due largely to an increase in the use of farm machinery.

The per capita circulation of money in the United States on January 31 was $39.07. On December 31, 1928, it amounted to $41.76. The total money in circulation in the United States on January 31 was $8,211,579,725. Just after the Christmas holidays the total was $8,431,099,373 of which $3,694,397,003 was held in the treasury.

A good way to spend a rainy day is to overhaul and repair tools and implements so that they will be ready when needed.

Complete the terracing job. This should have been done last fall but doing it in spring is better than not doing it at all.

Fences and gates out of condition should be repaired. A gate that drags is a nuisance. It will continue such until it is made to open and close freely.

The farmer who must buy feed for his workstock should consider feeding a small amount of cottonseed meal. Your county agent will advise you about it.

There are in the United States 2,000 county agents and 1,400 demonstration agents, according to Dr. Bradford Knapp, of Auburn, whose father founded the work and who himself succeeded his father. The annual expenditure for extension work in agriculture and home economics is now $23,000,000, Dr. Knapp said.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

BETTER SEED WILL INCREASE PRODUCTION

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 18.—Alabama farmers could greatly increase their production and make money by planting better varieties of cotton seed, according to Edward A. O'Neal president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

Mr. O'Neal called attention to the fact that Covington County farmers have this year purchased 5,200 bushels of Cook 307 cotton seed cooperatively. It is possible for these seed to increase their income $127,576.80 next fall. "How can this be done?" might be asked.

According to experiments carried out by the experiment station of Auburn at Prattville, Andalusia, Benton and Auburn, these seed last year made an average production per acre of 468.4 pounds lint cotton per acre on land that would produce between one half and one bale of cotton per acre. The lowest producing variety on tests averaged 332.1 pounds of lint per acre. Subtracting the latter yield from the first, there is an increase of 136.3 pounds of lint in favor of the better variety.

Fifty-two hundred bushels will plant 5,200 acres. Therefore, the possible increase for planting the seed is 5,200 times 136.3 pounds or a total increase of 708,760 pounds of lint. At 18c er pound, this increase would be worth $127,576.80. Several other counties are making and many others could make similar increases.

Last year the Dallas County Farm Bureau handled 3,800 bushels of cotton seed for its members. These better varieties of seed have been an important factor in growing more and better cotton in Dallas County, Cullman, Marion, Madison, Limestone, Etowah, St. Clair and Calhoun Counties have this year purchased cotton seed through the Farm Bureau, which is endeavoring to assist in furnishing the source of supply and distribution of good seed.

When commenting upon using better cotton seed, Mr. O'Neal said:

"I can see the day when we will in this way standardize our cotton to meet market demands and remove the burden of just bales of cotton counted against us in our crop yields and not spinnable. We will maintain our natural world monoply in the spinnable quality of our cotton."

Baby chicks should be allowed to stay on nest 24 hours after hatching. To allow young chicks to get too hot or too cold is fatal.

COTTON FARMERS FACE NEW PERIL IN ALABAMA

Ginners and growers of cotton in Alabama are today facing a problem greater than the boll weevil was 15 years ago, according to a statement issued from the State Department of Agriculture and Industries on Monday by S. M. Dunwoody, commissioner of Agriculture, in an announcement regarding the coming State Ginners' Convention.

"It appears that the West is now producing cotton without fertilizer, and picking it by machinery. Western farm workers grow on an average of 16 acres per farm worker, while Alabama grows 6 acres per farm worker. Cotton is produced at a much lower cost in the West than in Alabama. Therefore, Alabama farmers must produce cotton more cheaply in order to meet this competition, or lose money."

"The Department has been studying the ginning problem and has found that great savings can be made for farmers, especially, by improved methods of ginning. These problems will be thoroughly discussed by experts at the coming Ginner's Convention which meets on February 25 in Montgomery at the New Jefferson Davis Hotel."

Three experts on ginning, cotton fiber and cotton marketing will come from the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C. especially to bring the latest developments in cotton. Addresses are expected from J. D. Pope, economist of Auburn, F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician, and members of the Alabama Farm Bureau cotton Association. President J. N. Poole of Butler Springs will preside.

The months of research of the State Department with respect to present ginning methods and projects for improvement of ginning will be an important question for action. Montgomery hotels will be notified of the approaching convention and the largest attendance on record is expected at this fifth annual convention, which meets at 9:30 A. M. February 25th.

Immediately following the closing of the Ginners' Convention the State warehousemen will meet on Tuesday afternoon.

ALABAMA HENS LEAD IN EGG-LAYING RACE

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 18.—At the end of the 15th week of the fifth national egg-laying contest at Auburn a pen of 10 white leghorns owned by Marshall Farm of Mobile was leading in egg production with 774 eggs to their credit. Another pen of the same breed owned by the B. & D. Poultry Farm at Napoleonville, La., was second with 776 eggs; while another pen of the same breed owned by Etheredge Farm of Ashford, Ala., was third with 763.

Other high pens in the order named were Pratt Experiment Farm at Morton, Pa., with 746; Hollywood Poultry Farm, Woodinville, Wash., with 746; Harris Pedigree Farm, Pelham, Ga., with 735; Frank Holcombe, Oneonta, Ala., with 725; and Kintrey Farm, Verbena, Ala., 721.

Outside of the white leghorn group a pen of Australorps owned by Lone Star Poultry Farm, San Antonio, Texas, was leading with 737 eggs to their cerdit.

The leading Rhode Island red pen is owned by T. W. Nations, Elberton, Ga., with 637 eggs. The second place was held by E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, with 598 eggs.

In the Barred Rock section Gardner Bros., Auburn, are leading with 681 eggs, and W. W. Whitcher, Bridgeport, Ala., second with 637.

The leading individual hen is a white leghorn owned by Frank Holcombe, Oneonta, Ala., with 96 eggs to her credit, during the 15th week. An Australorp owned by Lone Star Poultry Farm was second with 91.

In making this progress report Prof. J. E. Ivey, head of the poultry department, and Arthur Gannon, manager, said that it is establishing a new high record for an Auburn contest. At the end of the 15th week the 1,000 birds in the contest had produced 54,835 eggs. This is 2,000 eggs ahead of the record of either of the four former contests on the same date.

MARCH FARM SUGGESTIONS

Cull poultry and sell the culls thru the cooperative sales.

Repair harness for the heavy farm work of spring and summer.

Winter legumes should not be disturbed until they make enough growth to enrich the land. Consult your county agent.

Prune and spray the fruit trees. This is the last call for winter spraying.

The successful gardner plants, works, and fertilizes each week, and he harvests fresh vegetables throughout the year.

Cotton spindles in 11 southern states increased 331,692 during 1928. Alabama gained more than any other state, her gain being 169,604. Alabama also led in gain of looms with 4,277, showing a total of 32,782 for the state.

SHILOH NEWS

The singing society met at this place last Sunday and rendered a good singing. The society was called to order by the chairman. Prof. F. I. Popwell sang two songs while the program committee arranged the following program: Masters Vesta Bice, Arnold Mullins, Misses Etta Mullins, Esther Ray, Elmae Williams, Agnes Mullins and Bertha Cagle.

We wish to thank the visitors from Bethsalem and other places.

The B. Y. P. U. at this place rendered their program with much interest, group two having charge of the program under their group captain, Miss Etta Mullins, and also giving the introduction: "Learn Baptist Language," by Geneva Deason; "How Baptist Churches Cooperate," by Ethel Mullins; "Loyalty Is Obedience to Christ," by Myra Moore; "Loyalty and Efficiency," by Julius Mullins; "Loyalty Not Narrowness," by Agnes Mullins; "Never too old to Learn," by Esther Ray, and closing prayer by our president, Miss Myra Moore.

We would be glad to have more join our B. Y. P. U. We have lost some members and need some one to fill their vacant places.

The plate supper was splendid and attended by a large crowd regardless of the weather Saturday night at Shiloh Scholhouse. Mr. L. C. Warr, principal of Chilton County High School and Mr. Lawrence gave some excellent talks on consolidation of schools. Miss Zula Nelson received the cake for prettiest girl and Mr. Luther Traywick got the guess cake.

The following from this community attended the Valentine party on Thursday night given by Misses Mildred and Edna Durbin: Messrs. Arnold Mullins, Leonard Traywick, and Misses Myra Moore, Esther Ray, Etta and Ethel Mullins.

Miss Beulah Deason of Clanton was the guest of Miss Geneva Deason this week end.

We are sorry to larn that Miss Minnie Bice is on the sick list this week.

Quite a crowd enjoyed being at the home of Mr. Ben Deason Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bice and son, Vesta, spent a few hours Sunday night at the home of Mr. John Mullins.

SINGING AT OAK HILL

Do you enjoy your food?

IF you do not enjoy your food it is a true sign that you are losing your appetite. And when your appetite is "gone" it means you haven't the resistance to ward off disease. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong; and your nerves become steady.

Now! meal time is a happy event

Will Have Annual Rabbit Hunt 22nd

BIG RABBIT HUNT AT REFUGE

Come on, boys and men, let us celebrate the rabbit hunt, Friday, February 22nd. So, come, bring every dog you have, in any shape or form of a dog. Be sure to bring all of the defromed ones for that indicates good luck, but leave your guns at home. Be sure and not miss it. If you do, you will miss a sack of fun. Cheer up, everybody, don't delay Friday for you may not have a chance to latch on to another day's sack of fun. Let's meet promptly at 8 o'clock at the place of E. L. Mims. —J. C. Miner.

BIG RABBIT HUNT

Jemison, Ala., Feb. 11, 1929.
Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a little space in your paper to say that there will be a big rabbit hunt around here the 22nd of this month, and we want everyone who would like to be with us to meet at Mr. Wesley Smith's and we will start from there, but remember now to leave your guns at home, but bring all the dogs you can get and let's enjoy the day for we may never see it again. Be sure, now, not to forget the date and the place, the 22nd, and at Wesley Smith's. That's the time we want to celebrate that day by taking a big rabbit hunt, but leave our guns at home. We don't object to you bringing a pocket of rocks and clubs or something like that, but the first fellow who walks up with a gun we will all get hold of him and run him back home. So think of that and leave your guns at home. Yours truly.—G. W. Smith.

Mrs. W. J. Watson and son, Theran, Mrs. A. L. Watson, Mrs. W. L. Hampton and children spent last week in Florida.

RABBIT HUNT

There is going to be an annual rabbit hunt and those that want to join us we will be glad for you to meet us at the New Harmony school house, Friday morning Feb. 22 at seven-thirty oclock.

Bring all the dogs you can and no guns.—M. Headley.

NEWS FROM CHUNCHULA

Editor Union-Banner:

We would like to have room in this week's paper for a few words.

Hello, Dear old Chilton folks, just wonder how everybody is up there, and wishing we were up there with you. We like down here very well, but nothing like dear old Clanton.

Mr. Zeb Lockhart and Mr. Ocie Barnett left last Saturday for Thorsby. Hope they had a nice time.

We enjoyed a very nice time Saturday night and Sunday. We had with us Mrs. Zeb Lockhart and her three boys, James and Junior and Billy, and Archie D. Hilyer, Marshall Wooley, Grelly Collins, William Wright, David Merchant, Mr. Sam Wooley and his mother. I never get lonesome as long as I am up at Mrs. Littlefield's with her and Maggie, Pauline, Hester and Junior.

Hoping to see you all soon, from two readers at Chunchula. — Mrs. Zeb Lockhart and Miss Maggie Littelfield.

Here's syrup flavored with real maple

... at a price that saves you half!

NOW you can get that real maple flavor your family likes so well in a breakfast syrup of moderate price! Staley's.

Try it, tomorrow, on cakes or waffles or hot biscuits. Let the youngsters have all they want on their bread... it spreads so easily. Note the richer, smoother flavor of this pure syrup.

Only in Staley's Maple Flavored Syrup can you get this special taste. It comes from a secret way of blending real Canadian maple and pure corn syrup.

No other syrup takes the true maple flavor so well, because pure corn syrup itself is neutral in taste. But blended in these exact proportions and at definite temperatures, it adds a smoothness and delicacy lacking in other maple blends. Note, too, how clear this syrup is, as the result of extra care in its making.

Your family will enjoy Staley's Honey Flavored and Sorghum Flavored Syrup too. No artificial flavors are used in them. Only real honey made by bees . . . and the best quality of pure sorghum... give them their taste.

Staley's Syrups are so healthful, too! They contain 40% dextrose and maltose . . . practically pre-digested sugars... wholesome sources of quick energy.

Ask for these Staley's Syrups at your grocer's today! And be sure that you get Staley's. No other kind can give their matchless flavors at such a big saving.

Also ask for Staley's famous Crystal White and Golden Syrups.

Pan Am Wrecked In Calera Yards

Three Persons Slightly Hurt When Fast Passenger Train Hits Open Switch

One person was in a hospital and two others in their homes at Birmingham Monday afternoon with slight injuries received at 6:43 a. m. Monday morning, when the engine of the Pan-American, fast passenger train, operated by the L. & N. railway, sideswiped a freight train in the Calera yards and overturned.

The engineer of the passenger train, A. E. Hobbs, of 820 N. 39th Street, was in St. Vincent's hospital, with a fractured wrist and an injured back, while two women passengers, who suffered mostly from shock, were at home recovering from abrasions.

They were Miss Kathleen Seymour of 1028 18th Street, S.; Mrs. C. G. Winston, 1004 12th Street, S.

The train, northbound, had just left Calera, according to Engineer Hobbs, and was proceeding at between 10 and 15 miles an hour, when it ran into an open switch and crashed into a line of freight cars.

The engine and baggage car, and the club car, at the end of the train were derailed, the engine turning over on its right side, and throwing Hobbs clear. The negro fireman was unhurt.

A freight engine in the Calera yard was attached and the passenger train came into Birmingham at 8:05 a. m., only 38 minutes late.

SOME FIGURES RELATING TO CHICKENS IN ALABAMA

During the year 1928 the total value of chickens sold and eaten in Alabama was $5,635,000. The total eggs produced was 54,500,000 dozen, valued at $16,350,000.

Among the counties of the state, DeKalb was the leading one in poultry production. The value of the chickens sold and eaten in that county was $234,000, while the production of eggs was 1,851,000 dozen valued at $555,000.

The figures for Chilton County were as follows: Chickens sold and eaten, $90,000; eggs produced, 845,000 dozen, valued at $253,000.

Farm Bureau Official Back From Capital

Special Session of Congress To Be Devoted to Agriculture Says Edward A. O'Neal

After spending a week in Washington conferring with agricultural leaders in the senate and house, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, is back in his office in Montgomery this week and has expressed himself as being optimistic regarding agricultural legislation during the special session of Congress.

In an interview the first of the week, he said:

"Our leaders in Congress expect organized agriculture to again take a leading part in formulating agricultural legislation. They seem to be just as sympathetic as ever to our needs and desires."

Mr. O'Neal said that he understood the special session will treat very largely with the agricultural problem. He said that he hopes that congress will write a national policy for agriculture which included adequate agricultural tariffs, surplus control and Muscle Shoals.

In this connection President O'Neal called attention to an important resolution passed at the Tenth Annual Meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which set forth the policy of the national organization. An excerpt from this resolution read:

"We are willing to consider these subjects with the forthcoming national administration from time to time to find if possible, a better way than we have heretofore supported, of effectuating adequate control of agricultural surpluses, of protecting and advancing co-operative commodity marketing, and of establishing on our farms the benefits of the American Protective System, all of which secure that American standard of living which agriculture and industry alike desire."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE HERE NEXT SUNDAY

The regular monthly conference of Sunday School workers of the Unity and Chilton Baptist Associations will be held at the Clanton Baptist church next Sunday afternoon, beginning at two o'clock. Every officer, teacher and worker of every Sunday school in the two associations is urged to come to the meeting.

Subjects of interest and importance to the Sunday School work will be discussed by prominent leaders including Prof. H. A. Harris, J. Z. Mims, John Maguire, and Prof. A. E. Davis.

All superintendents are urged to take this matter up at their Sunday School hour next Sunday and insist upon a delegation from each Sunday School to come to this conference.

HEN DRIVE FOR BAKER SCHOOL NETS $51.70

A Hen Drive was given last Thursday, which netted the Baker Junior High School $51.70. Most of the hens were sold on the poultry car that was arranged by Mr. Sapp, the County Demonstration agent. This is only another example of the cooperative spirit that has made the Baker School possible. This building so far has been financed by the people of the community. The small indebtedness is rapidly being wiped out.

MR. WEBB BURIED IN COOSA TUESDAY

The father of Mr. Sidney Webb died Monday at his home in Coosa County. He was buried Tuesday. Rev. Buford Lawrence conducted the funeral services.

Mr. W. E. Cook and son, Willie, of Evergreen, spent the past week end with his sister, Mrs. S. J. Kicker, in Clanton.

Rev. W. W. Robinson of Providence was in town last Saturday afternoon for the first time since he contracted influenza about a month ago. He seems to be very well recovered now.

Five Fundamentals In Care of Poultry

Poultry Experts Select Five Fundamentals for Profitable Results in 1929

Observance of five fundamental practices in the care of poultry is necessary if farmers are to obtain full advantage from the favorable market conditions predicted for 1929, according to poultry authorities who have made observation of conditions during the past year.

Here are the essentials to profitable poultry raising in 1929, as the experts see them: Extreme sanitation in care of the laying hens; production of quality products for better prices; an adequate feeding program; keeping of adequate records to show cost of producing product; and, betterment of stock on the average farm.

Of these essential requirements, sanitation, adequate feeding, and keeping of records depend entirely upon the amount of care taken by the farmer. The other two requirements, production of a better quality product, and the betterment of stock depend largely upon the kind of chicks produced by the hatcheries, from which better stock must inevitably come, since hens on the average farm are not of the high egg laying type from which it is profitable to breed.

The average farm hen of today, according to U. S. Government observation, lays too few eggs to enable the farmer to secure the profit he should have from his poultry flock, and at the same time lays too small an egg to secure top prices for the product.

Betterment of farm flocks has been noticeable during the past few years particularly, farm statistics show, and this betterment coincides with the report of the International Baby Chick Association, estimating an increase in the sale of baby chicks during the past few years to the number of 500,000,000 in 1928.

Still greater improvement in the average farm flock is predicted for this and following years, due to organization of leading hatcheries of the country into a business association pledged to produce only the best of quality chicks from stock of known profit-producing ability. Members of this organization, identified by the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits," are also pledged to observance of the best of business practices in their dealings with customers, as part of their program designed to gradually increase the quality of hens on American farms.

March Is "Go-To-Sunday School Month" in Clanton

Organized Campaign Among Workers of All Denominations Will Seek To Enlist Everybody in Sunday School

EVERY PERSON IN SUNDAY SCHOOL IS THE GOAL SET

A Sunday School Attendance campaign has been thoroughly and systematically organized in Clanton whereby the month of March has been declared "Go-to-Sunday-School Month." The superintendents and pastors of all the churches in the city have jointly planned the campaign. Everything is now in readiness for the first drive to begin next Sunday. Every Sunday school and church worker of every denomination is urged to join heartily in the movement and help to make the month of March the banner month of all history for the Sunday Schools of Clanton.

Upon the basis of the average attendance of each school for last year the percentage of gain in attendance will be calculated for each Sunday in March. The campaign will culminate on the last Sunday in the month. It is going to be a friendly contest to see which Sunday School can mark up the highest percentage of gain over last year's average attendance.

Every Sunday school will have the right to organize its own forces in whatever manner it may choose to carry forward its part of the work. The main idea is to get more folks in Sunday School. There are more folks in Clanton not in Sunday School than there are in Sunday School, which is a situation that ought not to exist. The Sunday school officers are very much dissatisfied with such a situation and the purpose of this campaign for the month of March is to change this undesirable condition around in favor of a reasonable Sunday School attendance.

The following are the figures for the average attendance in each of the Sunday Schools of the city for the past year:

Presbyterian	19
Christian	36
Methodist	120
Baptist	212

Each Sunday School will strive to make an increase in attendance above these averages, beginning next Sunday and increasing that number each Sunday in the month until the contest closes on Sunday, March 31st, which will be Easter Sunday.

All Sunday School workers of the city are being organized by the pastors and superintendents. Everybody is urged to get into the contest and root for the Sunday School of your choice. Every class and department of every Sunday School is asked to take up the matter of enlargement and devise ways to get the possibilities of your class or department enrolled for this month.

If you want any further information as to the plans of the campaign, you may secure it from your pastor or superintendent. The plan has been worked out and agreed upon by a committee of the following: Rev. E. A. Childs, pastor of the Methodist Church; Rev. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Baptist Church; and the following superintendents of the Sunday Schools: L. F. Gerald, Presbyterian; W. M. Bean, Christian; L. C. Warr, Methodist; W. M. Wyatt, Baptist.

There is but one big fact to remember: The aim is to get every possibility enlisted in some Sunday School during the month of March. The school that makes the highest gain will win the honor for having done the best enlistment work at the end of the month.

As the campaign progresses the figures of attendance in each school for each Sunday will be given in the newspapers the following Thursday, so that everybody will know how each school is progressing.

A Religious Survey

A census was taken last Sunday whereby the denominational preference and church or Sunday School affiliation of every person in the city will be determined. The cards for the census as they were filled out by the canvassers are now in the hands of the proper officers for each of the denominational organizations. When fully classified these cards will furnish a definite basis for the number of prospects for each school to work on in enlisting new Sunday School students for this campaign.

When the census figures have been finally compiled they will show a definite number of prospects for possible membership in each of the Sunday Schools. When the campaign has closed on the last Sunday in March the final number enlisted in each school will be placed over against the total number of possibilities for that school as shown by the census to determine what percentage of its possibilities each school has been able to enroll.

Everybody in Clanton is urged to talk Sunday School for a month. We have spent lots of time talking about every other kind of movement that can be imagined. Now, let's give the Sunday Schools a chance for a month. Look at the average attendance of the schools for the last year. Do you think that is a fair number out of all the poulation of Clanton to be enlisted as regular attendants at Sunday School?

A Splendid Response

The response of workers to take the religious census last Sunday was most gratifying indeed. More than forty came to devote the afternoon to the work. The city was divided into four districts with a captain for each district as follows:

Northeast district, W. M. Bean; northwest district, W. M. Wyatt; southeast district, L. C. Warr; southwest district, L. F. Gerald; north Clanton, including cotton mill village, A. R. Meeks; south Clanton, C. E. Stapp.

The workers met at the Methodist Church at 1:15, received final instructions from their captains and went to work with a vim. Before the afternoon was gone the job had been done with more accuracy than ever a census has been taken in Clanton.

W. M. Bean won special distinction by reporting that his canvass of the northeast district had already been completed in advance of the time set for doing the work.

If the spirit of the census-takers may be taken to mean anything, it certainly indicates that Sunday School enlargement is going to receive a tremendous amount of attention for the next few weeks.

Here we go folks. The first point of interest is to see which Sunday School will gain the most next Sunday.

MR. A. J. ATKINSON DIED LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Allen J. Atkinson, age 72, died Sunday afternoon at 12:40 o'clock, at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton. The body was prepared by Martin and carried to the home at Jemison Sunday evening. The remains were buried at Pine Hill cemetery Monday following funeral services at the Methodist church at Jemison. The Masons had charge of the services at the cemetery.

Mr. Atkinson was a merchant at Jemison. He had been a member of the Methodist church for a number of years. He is survived by one sister, his wife and four children; the children are: Mrs. Leila Riddle of Birmingham, Otis D. and Juanita of Birmingham, and Allen Byron of Jemison.

PROVIDENCE SINGING NEXT SUNDAY P. M.

The singing society at Providence in Beat 16 will meet in monthly session the first Sunday afternoon in March. We hope to reorganize our society and get ready for spring and summer singing; so all singers are invited to come out and help us; the Clanton Quartet has a special invitation to come and help in the singing. The new 1929 Showalter books will be used.—R. M. Robinson.

FARMERS INVITED TO ATTEND DRAINAGE MEETING

About thirty farmers who own swamp lands close to Clanton have been invited to attend the luncheon of Clanton Kiwanis Club today (Thursday) at 12:15, at which time the program will be devoted to a consideration of the drainage project. Mr. J. M. Moore and some engineers from the State Department of Agriculture, will be at the meeting to discuss any and all phases of the drainage plan.

Dr. Arthur Johnson is in New Orleans this week.

MR. T. L. LOWERY IS NEW MANAGER, NETTLES STORE

Mr. T. L. Lowery of Montgomery is now in charge of the Nettles Grocery Store in Clanton, having succeeded Mr. Tom McKee, who is going to Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Mr. Lowery is an experienced grocery man, having been connected with chain grocery store operations for the past six years.

About twelve years ago Mr. Lowery was in Clanton for some months. He began the first produce business here, which he sold out to Taylor Brothers. Many of his old friends remember him and are glad to welcome him back here with Nettles.

The many friends of Mr. McKee regret that he has decided to give up the business and leave Clanton again. As he turns over the Nettles Store to Mr. Lowery, Mr. McKee makes the following statement to the public:

"In treminating my connection with Nettles Grocery Company I wish to publicly commend the official force of that organization for the high character and integrity which I have found among them during my connection.

"Further I wish to thank my friends, the people of Clanton and Chilton County for the patronage and friendship accorded the store since it was opened here last fall.

"My leaving here is by mutual consent and agreement between myself and the Nettles management. I hope that my friends in future will continue to give to Mr. Lowery, my successor, and the Nettles store such consideration of business and friendship as they have been so kind to give to me while I was here.

"It is with regret that myself and family go away from Clanton, but we are only doing what we think best for us both physically and financially. I am going into business for myself operating a gents furnishings and ladies ready-to-wear store in a big construction camp near the city of Hot Springs. Clanton and Chilton County will still be home to us, and we hope some day to find it to our interest to come back and live among a people whom we regard as the best friends and neighbors in the world."

Danger In Trying Too Many Acres

Ten Well Fertilized Acres Produce As Much as 30 Acres With Usual Farming

As we travel over Georgia and look over the farms one fact is forcibly impressed upon our mind and it is that our farmers attempt too much land per plow. This is readily seen in the inferior cultivation given.

It is a survival of an old custom and a bad system. Our landlords wanted a certain income per plow and instead of adopting the intensive method they adopted the extensive method. No one mule can cultivate properly 30 acres of land. It is all right to allot 30 acres to the plow, provided one-third is sown in grain, one-third planted to corn and the other third is put in cotton and truck crops.

This bad system was greatly encourage by the universal idea that the negro tenant would not cultivate any crop properly except cotton. Also by the fact that cotton was our money crop. We are glad to say that we find quite a few farmers who have come to the same conclusion that we have reached.

For instance, we were talking with Mr. D. H. Grant, of Staham, Ga., and he gave us this striking example. He said:

"I have a negro tenant on my farm and last year he planted 40 acres in cotton. I induced him to try and make a good yield on 10 acres. He said he was not able to buy the extra guano and nitrate of soda, so I agreed to buy this for him. So he used 400 lbs. of guano per acre on this 10 acres and applied 150 pounds of nitrate of soda in June as a side-dressing. The result was that he gathered 14 bales of cotton on the ten acres—just as much as he got from the other 30 acres."

It is useless to lay all the blame on the tenants and share croppers. Do like Mr. Grant, give them a personal object lesson and you will have done a good deed for the tenant and a good and profitable deed for yourself, and a good educational deed for your county.

Agriculture has been greatly depressed for the past eight years, but it can be rendered prosperous again. All it needs is for our farmers to adopt a better system and stick to it. The one fundamental principle is to cut down the cultivated acreage per plow and increase the acreage to meadows, grain and hay crops.—G. F. Hunnicutt in Southern Cultivator.

Six Counties Join To Help Farmers

Closer Relationship With The Bankers, Demonstration, Extension Service Is the Aim

Sylacauga, Ala., Feb. 22.—A step was taken Thursday in Alexander City towards closer relationship between farmers, bankers, demonstration agents and extension service men of Tallapoosa, Talladega, Shelby, Chilton, Coosa and Clay counties. There were 40 men gathered in the new Alexander City Bank Building with Harry Herzfield, Alexander City, in charge of the meeting. An open forum consumed most of the time. An organization was perfected to carry on the work in better form.

H. G. Boyd, Clanton, was elected president of the organization with G. C. Murchison, Sylacauga, secretary and treasurer. The organization will be composed of bankers, demonstration agents, farmers, vocational men, and extension service men from the six counties. It is the purpose to meet every three or four months in different towns, with Clanton the first meeting place.

It was decided to select four projects to promote among the farmers during the year to come. The first project will be "Fertilizers, the Right Kind and Amount; second, "Four-H Club Work;" third, "Winter Legumes," and fourth, "Terracing." It was also decided that the key banker in each county and the demonstration agent for that county would map out projects for banks in that county to promote and assist farmers to put over.

A banquet was given by Alexander City banks at the Russco Hotel with J. Sanford Mullins as toastmaster.

109 RABBITS WERE KILLED AT MULBERRY ON THE 22D

Mr. J. C. Edwards of Mulberry was in Clanton Saturday. He gave us a report of the rabbit hunt on last Friday. The hunt was confined to a small territory, about a section of land around Mulberry church. The total number killed was 109.

Mr. Joe Robinson of Birmingham, connected with the Southern Advertising Company of Atlanta, Gr., was in Clanton visiting his father, John M. Robinson, and other relatives and friends last week end.

RED MEN TO MEET TWICE EACH MONTH HEREAFTER

The meetings of Waxahatchie Tribe No. 9, Improved Order of Red Men will be held twice a month hereafter, on the first and third Tuesday nights. All members of the Tribe are urged to take notice of the change and make special effort to attend every meeting.

Bessemer Kiwanians Visitors Clanton Club

Program on "Citizenship and Its Responsibilities" Presented by Local Club

Twenty visitors from Bessemer, members of the Bessemer Kiwanis Club, came down to Clanton last Friday night for an inter-club meeting with Clanton Kiwanis Club. It was a jolly party, and evidences prevailing led us to the conclusion that when Kiwanians get together they can have a mighty good time.

The occasion was Washington's birthday, for which the Clanton Club had put on a few extra airs, doing some special honor to old father George, as well as to make a good impression on the Bessemer visitors.

President C. E. Stapp of the Clanton Club managed the gavel and made the address of welcome to the visitors. Music was furnished by the Kiwanis Quartet composed of Percy Pitts, Evan Parrish, Burt Higgins, Glenn Moore, with Mrs. Pitts at the piano.

Percy Pitts made a speech about George Washington which was fine, except he had the date of Mr. Washington's birth set for 1932. Mrs. Pitts being present, Percy was promptly corrected in his dating of this incident of American history.

Rev. S. J. Ezell made the principal address of the evening handling the subject of "Citizenship and Its Responsibilities."

Dr. T. C. Darnall, president of the Bessemer Club, made a short address in which he expressed the pleasure of his members in coming to Clanton for this occasion. Other Bessemer fellows who made talks were Jones Deadwyler, H. G. Bradley, Secretary Bill Schanz, Gordon Vail.

FOREST PLANTING REQUIRES EFFICIENCY

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 25.—Efficient management is the principle of operation of the State Forest Nursery in Sumter County, Alabama, says the Commission of Forestry. Unless the cost of seed collection, growing the young seedling trees in the nursery beds and later shipping the planting stock to the landowners is quite low, the cost of the material may easily become so great that forest planting is impracticable, points out the Commission.

By many people it is felt that forest tree planting should be undertaken regardless of cost. However, the principle of good business management forbid the losing of money in agriculture, manufacturing or in any other of the basic industries. Timber growing must pay its way, and a little more, in order to stand on a firm foundation.

In various localities, the excessive cost of nursery production of forest tree seedlings is distributed partly as a loss to the State and added to the general burden of the taxpayers. Oftentimes these losses are ignored in official bookkeeping or are disguised so as to pertain apparently to some other branch of work. The better policy, states the Alabama Commission of Forestry, is to so organize, develop and manage the nursery that the cost will be practically at the irreducible minimum. In the Sumter County Nursery this is accomplished largely through direct seed collection, retaining seedlings in the beds for only a year or less, dispensing with transplanting, quarantine against fungous diseases and insect pests, maintaining no supernumerary employees and coordinating the nursery work with other branches of the service.

CANE CREEK

Well, after so long a time, here comes a brief account of Cane Creek. You people who have been staying in with your ears closed and doors and windows just can't imagine what a nice time we are having at Cane Creek. Last Sunday afternoon was our regular singing day. There was a real good crowd, and some real good singers in the crowd. We had lots of visitors whom we hope enjoyed our singing, and will come back with us next singing evening as it will be published what date.

We folks of Cane Creek just want the people to know that Cane Creek isn't asleep, as you might think, and we are as sociable as anywhere you can find. Anything we appreciate more is a few more people to come to our church at all services. Our program was short as the crowd was late getting there. The following sang three songs each: Mr. Enoch Traywick, Floyd Little, Misses Lillie Mae Weldon, Virgie Giles, and Delene Lambert, Mrs. J. D. Collins, Jr., Mr. Rube Jones and son, J. E., Mr. Royal Coggins, Walter Giles and Ottis Coggins. Organists for the afternoon were Misses Lillie Mae Weldon, Virgie Giles and Delene Lambert. The closing song was "Jesus Is Over All," and prayer by Mr. Newt Mims. Everyone is invited to come back. We especially invite Mr. Traywick at all singings.

There was a few visits made around here last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gore and son, Morris, visited Mrs. Lula Giles, Mr. Albert Lambert of Selma visited his mother, Mrs. W. J. Lambert; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rutherford visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gentry.

Miss Lurline Miner spent last week end with Miss Ollie Gentry.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Collins came out to see their mother a while Sunday afternoon.

Miss Dorothy McKinion visited Misses Delene and Meadie Lambert.

CAPITOL News

Announcement has been made from the University of Alabama that the splendid new college of educational building at the University has been named "Graves Hall" in honor of Alabama's present governor, who has done so much for the advancement of all phases of education in the state.

The building is a modern three story structure, with 60,000 square feet of floor space, and was erected at a cost of $250,000.

Naming of this new building in honor of Governor Graves is regarded as a very fitting tribute to the State's chief executive. The administration of Governor Graves has been featured by a forward movement all along the line in public education. Probably the outstanding achievement of his administration was the enactment of a law for an equalizing fund for common schools, as a result of which every county in the state is guaranteed a minimum school term of at least seven months, while up to this time a large portion of the counties had been able to provide terms of only four to six months. Large appropriations were also made for a building program and for operting expenses at the state normal schools, colleges and other educational institutions. In fact, the announcement of the naming of Graves hall received from Tuscaloosa quoted university authorities as declaring that no previous governor or legislature ever did as much for public education in this state as Governor Graves and the legislature of 1927.

The growing importance of the state Insurance Department as a revenue producing agency is shown by figures for 1928, during which year the revenue of the department reached close to the million-dollar mark. Receipts for 1928 were $984,230, a gain of$50,000 over 1927. Less than four percent of the revenues of the department were spent in expeses, including salaries, furniture, supplies and traveling expenses, all of which were paid from the revenue of the office.

A genuine program of conservation is being carried on in Alabama, with active steps to replenish the natural suply of game and fish. Figures from the office of I. T. Quinn, the state commissioner of game and fisheries, show that in 1928, 13,250 game birds, 46 game animals and 35,000 barrels of seed oysters, in addition to bream and bass from the state fish hatcheries, were "planted" in the fields and streams of the state. No less than 500,000 fish will be produced annually at the hatcheries at Eastaboga.

A most remarkable increase in number of hunting licenses issued in the last decade is shown. In 1928 a total of 88,069 such licenses were issued, while less than ten years ago the annual sale of lisenses was less than 1,500. Although the number of hunters increases each year, the above increases in licenses by no means indicates a proportionate increase in favor of observing conservation laws.

The State Auditor, S. H. Blan, a few days ago issued his warrant or check against the State Treasury for the sum of $41,666.66 in favor of the treasurer of the Alabama Boys Industrial School at East Lake. This money was appropriated by the legislature of 1927 for the "purchase of land, and for the erection and equipment of buildings, and for the purchase of machinery, and for the purchase of equipment of vocational training, and for improvements and repairs."

The act authorized an appropriation of a similar sum to be paid also during the fisical year beginning Oct. 1, 1929; and a similar sum to be paid during the year begining Oct. 1, 1930, all three of the above payments are made by the act subject to the approval of the Governor as to date of payment.

This school is doing a fine work for the boys committed there, in training and developing them as future citizens.

ISABELLA'S EVENING SCHOOLS

Two very interesting evening schools are now in full progress two nights each week in our community under the supervision of our vocational teachers. The men and women meet separately on Tuesday nights. The men have for their study dairying and the women have foods. They all meet together on Thursday nights half the period and discuss home improvement problems.

Quite an interesting meeting was held last week. We had county agent Stapp with us. He gave some good thoughts for us to think about concerning our homes. We voted that the week of March 4 to 10 shall be home improvement week for our community. We hope to accomplish much during this week. Very soon we expect to have the landscape specialist from Auburn in our community to assist us in this work.

After the groups separated the men had an interesting discussion on selecting dairy cows. This discussion developed into care and feeding of dairy cows.

The women had a hot discussion in their group in favor of a home demonstration agent. Every woman (and that is many) attending the evening school fully realizes the need of her, and is eagerly looking forward to cooperation and assistance in obtaining her in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fulton of Birmingham spent last Sunday with the family of Mr. Tom Pyron in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Burnett and Mrs. Fayatte Popwell went to Randolph on a visit last Sunday afternoon.

MODEL A FORD, A QUIET CAR

The elimination of noises—from motor and from road shocks—was one of the things to which Henry Ford and his staff of engineers devoted particular attention in the designe and construction of the new Model A Ford car.

The motor of the Model A Ford is one of the quietest, most nearly vibrationless engines that modern automotive engineering has developed. Its designers provided for that feature with parts that are made of the finest possible materials and that are machined to fit exactly. Balanced crankshafts and flywheels, precision made bearings, aluminum pistons, unusually well designed and constructed valves and a particularly efficient lubrication system, all contributed to the quiet, smooth performance of the Model A engine.

The same careful design and construction in body chassis and running gear have also eliminated most of the other sources of noise in motor car performance. All body parts of steel stampings that might develop noises have reinforced beads which tend not only to prevent squeaks and rattles, but also increase strength and durability. Panels and frame sections are welded and riveted together and wherever there is possibility of the body wearing, due to uneven road conditions. Where bolts are needed in the final assembly of large units of the body, strips of rubber or other anti-squeak material is used between the sections. Sound deadening material is used in many places throughout the body interior. Fender squeaks are prevented by double-ply leather tape between the fender and body. The same material is used where cowl and body join. Hardwood fillers are used in all body sills. Rubber cushions are placed at all points where the body is bolted to the chassis.

All the experience of twenty years of automobile design and construction have been employed to make the Model A Ford one of the quietest, smoothest cars ever built.

Mr. E. N. Steiner of Thorsby was a visitor to Clanton Saturday.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

LET A LITTLE SUNSHINE IN

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

Ordinary Sunlight a Vital Factor in the Development of Chickens—What the Ancients Worshipped Blindly as a Deity, Science Proves To be Truly Deserving of Reverence.

The ancients of many races worshipped the sun as a god. For centuries it has been used as a symbol of purification, and even in Christian churches today we find our children singing, "Let a Little Sunshine In." Until comparatively recently, however, it was not suspected that there was a real basis, in fact, for all this symbolistic reverence for the sun.

Now, science tells us that the ultra-violet rays of the sun perform at least two very important services for humanity and for animal life generally. Certain harmful germ life cannot survive in the presence of these rays and certain chemical processes necessary for proper physical development can not proceed without them. Perhaps the most important service rendered in this way is the aid given to the growth of bony structure inside the body. This is particularly important to poultry raisers.

We hear a lot about vitamines these days. No one seems to know just what they are, but quite a lot is known about what they do and that is the important thing. Of the four known vitamines, Vitamin D is the one needed to transform certain mineral elements of food into bone and eggshell. This important vitamine is manufactured right in the bodies of fowls by the direct action of the violet rays in sunshine.

This is one reason why I am always insisting on open front poultry houses and plenty of range space for fowls. Every possible means should be employed to expose their bodies to the helpful action of sunlight. Of course, this does not mean that they may not seek shade on extremely hot days. Too much of anything is not good. Even in the shade, in some cases, the ultra-violet rays can reach the fowls in sufficient measure to continue their good work. Chicks that get plenty of sunlight will not develop "leg disease" or rickets, and soft shell eggs will be rare among hens of whom the same thing is true.

Not the least of my reasons for so ardently sponsoring the open front type of house previously mentioned in this article is the antagonism of sunlight to unwelcome bacteria. Here again we find the ultra-violet rays responsible. They can penetrate many substances which will not admit other light rays, but they can not go through window glass, consequently, if it should become necessary to close up any part of the front wall space ordinarily intended to be left open, use a glass substitute over a portion, and thin white muslin or cheesecloth over the balance. This will admit the ultra-violet rays and considerable fresh air.

Before going very far with inclosing hen houses, however, it is well to remember that the less hens are pampered, the better off they will be. Pity for fowls merely because they are cold is pity misplaced. Cold, fresh air that has been purified by sunlight is always preferable to the warm, stagnant air usually found in a closed house. Besides it must never be forgotten that the closer a house comes to being inclosed on all sides, the more it is excluding the indispensable elements that only sunshine can provide in full measure. It should also be remembered that there is less sushine in winter than at any other time, so all the more reason for taking the fullest possible advantage of what is available.

Finally, we must not overlook the fact that, without sunshine, all of the food products so necessary for bodily development and egg production would be valueless if not non-existent. It is quite plain, therefore, that the value of plain, everyday sunshine is somethoing we can not afford to take for granted. It is a big, important subject and for that reason I shall be glad to go further into it with any poultry raiser sufficiently interested to write me in care of this newspaper.

SINGING AT OAK HILL

The singing at Oak Hill last Sunday afternoon was beyond expectation for so few singers. There were only two directors present, but one of them could easily direct an all-day singing if necessary for the longer he sings the better he gets, and enjoys it all the time. The society will meet at Thorsby Baptist church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, probably for the last time there, so far as we are concerned unless better cooperation is obtained and more interest shown by the singers of the town and vicinity. Yours for better cooperation and more interest in the musical field.—E. L. and A. H. Glasscock.

Brother Bryan's Bible Story

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

CONSECRATION TO GOD

We sing, "Consecrate Me Now to Thy Service Lord." To-night I feel that I am standing on the holiest ground. That is, I have dedicated my service to my Lord, my King. You say, "What do you mean by consecration?" Now in your own heart and life you know what it means. Personally, I wish to state that I am consecrated by Jesus Christ my Lord and my King and Mediator and you are consecrated in like manner.

There is a sentence in the Old Testament, 1st Chronicles 29:5 which reads: "Who then is willing to consecrate his services this day unto the Lord?" If you will notice on the margin the translation in the Hebrew is given this way: "Who then is willing to fill his hands full of work this day unto the Lord?" There is a pointed, personal direct and inspired question in this statement, "Who then?" God is looking us in the face with this direct personal question to-night. As personal beings how are we going to answer it?

When Joshua said in his farewell address, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve," he wanted to get the people on a higher plane with God. He was trying to get them consecrated wholly unto the Lord. Joshua and his family had chosen to serve the Lord. That is, they had consecrated themselves unto God. They were happy in this service to God because they were living at peace with God and their fellowman. Their consecrated service unto the Lord reflected a happy life in God and a desire for all humankind to be at peace with God.

The first thing under consideration is the great fact that your heart must be changed before you are fit for the kingdom of heaven. We can not be consecrated unless our hearts have been changed. If Nicodemus's heart had not been changed he would not have taken a ladder and climbed, in company of Joseph of Arimathea, on that cruel cross of Calvary and released the body of Christ, help to wash His spear-pierced side and wounded, bleeding, broken heart.

Mary's heart was changed and she anointed Christ in Bethany for His burial. Men whose hearts have been changed have consecrated love and devotion for Jesus Christ. There is nothing on the face of the earth they will not do for Him. You will weigh each act and thought in accordance to His Word to know if they are pleasing in His sight. You will strive at all times to do just what He gives you to do.

Another great thing in a consecrated life is separation. That is, we must be separate from the world. Issaiah writes to us twice concerning this separate life. "Who then will separate himself this day unto the Lord? Come ye out from the world and be ye separate, and I will be a Father unto you and ye shall be my children." Can you say to-day, "I am coming out from the world? I will not have the Bible in one hand and a pack of cards in the other." No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye can not serve God and mammon. You can not carry the church in one hand and the world in the other.

I must lead a separated life. There is a great gulf between the dedicated life to Jesus Christ and the life that is of the world. The consecrated life lives in the world, but the world does not live in it. How my heart aches when I think of the great divide. How I would like to fold those separated from me by the world into my bosom and bring them to Jesus Christ the great Redeemer and Saviour of the world. O, if you knew what I do about a consecrated life you would not decline to accept it by putting on the whole armor of God, the breastplate of righteousness. When you have consecrated your life to Him you become familiar with His character and teachings. You are prepared to shed beams of light from the One who lived the supreme life—the Saviour of humanity.

I must treat Christ right by living this consecrated and separated life. The reason you have come to this service is the fact that you want to treat Christ right by being faithful to Him and the church. When I hear a man scorning the church I walk up to him and tell him to apologize for what he has said. Christ said that the gates of hell should not prevail against the church. He left it for us to worship in giving all reverence to God and the Father. We must keep it in perfect readiness for worship and I will fight for it as long as I live.

This Christian life is one of service for Christ. Gentlemen, it is not just a life of service, but it is a life of service for Christ. I often think of the words of the hymn:

"Saved to serve the watchword rings;
Saved to serve our glorious King."

Now right here I wish to impress upon your minds that in this consecrated life service for Christ can not be divorced from service for humanity.

The next thing in the Christian life is dedication to Jesus Christ. This consecrated or dedicated life is just an expression from Jesus Christ to humanity. The dedicated life tells of Jesus Christ to humankind. Truly it is a witnessing life for Christ the King. Paul was so dedicated to Christ that he wrote these words: "But for me to live is Christ and to die is gain." These words certainly express a dedicated life.

America needs more dedicated, consecrated men and women to carry the Gospel of Jesus Christ to those stock depend largely upon the kind of chicks produced by the hatcheries, from which better stock must inevitably come, since hens on the average farm are not of the high egg laying type from which it is profitable to breed.

The average farm hen of today, according to U. S. Government observation, lays too few eggs to enable the farmer to secure the profit he should have from his poultry flock, and at the same time lays too small an egg to secure top prices for the product.

Betterment of farm flocks has been noticeable during the past few years particularly, farm statistics show, and this betterment coincides with the report of the International Baby Chick Association, estimating an increase in the sale of baby chicks during the past few years to the number of 500,000,000 in 1928.

Still greater improvement in the average farm flock is predicted for this and following years, due to organization of leading hatcheries of the country into a business association pledged to produce only the best of quality chicks from stock of known profit-producing ability. Members of this organization, identified by the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits," are also pledged to observance of the best of business practices in their dealings with customers, as part of their program designed to gradually increase the quality of hens on American farms.

Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service

THE practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system.

The gasoline tank is built integral with the cowl and is unusually sturdy because it is made of heavy sheet steel, terne plated to prevent rust or corrosion. An additional factor of strength is the fact that it is composed of only two pieces, instead of three or four, and is electrically welded—not soldered.

Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way.

The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine.

The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service.

Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order.

The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine.

As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention.

The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds.

Have your Ford dealer look after these important little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A thorough, periodic checking-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Rev. and Mrs. Bakke, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mrs. Each returned Monday night after spending nearly two weeks at Crest View, Fla.

Rev. James W. Davenport of Daisy, Tenn., arrived Saturday night and is doing the preaching and some other work for a series of special meetings during this week and next Sunday (except Saturday) now being held at Thorsby Congregational church, at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. for one hour each week day and at 11 a. m. and 7:15 p. m. next Sunday.

Mr. Davenport is no stranger to old residents of Thorsby and vicinity having been a former pastor of this church for five years. He is a forceful evangelist preacher, free from sensationalism, but delivering his messages earnestly and convincingly to those willing to heed it. The meetings held so far have been well attended and seem to fairly represent the citizenship of Thorsby and vicinity, regardless of denominational preferences.

The Ladies Guild will meet on Thursday afternoon, February 28 at the home of Mrs. Charles S. Howard.

On Friday afternoon, March 1st, Thorsby P.-T. A. will meet at the home of Mrs. Carey Martin.

Quite a number of Thorsby ladies gave Mrs. D. M. Paxson a very enjoyable surprise Friday afternoon in celebration of the 76th anniversary of her birthday. They took refreshments and some gifts with them and while they visited Mr. Paxson had a good time all by himself washing the dishes, demonstrating that he was no novice at that job.

Mrs. E. L. Purdy of Birmingham spent the week end with her brother, W. H. Townsend, and family in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hayes entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Turner and family of Powderly, Ala., Rev. Davenport, of Daisy, Tenn., and during the afternoon other guests arrived to increase the party, of whom our information is not definite enough to say more.

The annual Declamatory contest of Thorsby Institute was held last Friday evening, February 22nd. The following four girls and four boys were the contestants: Louise Gibbons, subject, "The Greatest Gift," by Grace Keon; Eleanor Rowell, "Aunty Reavy Listens In," by Nelson D. Sweeny; Beatrice Kirkland, "Higher Culture in Dixie," by Dorothy Dix; Addie Surles, "The Show Must Go On," by Anne Fuller.

Boys: Byron Bean, "The New South," by Henry W. Grady; Willis Petersen, "Woodrow Wilson," by R. S. Baker; Albert Mims, "The Martyr President," by Henry Ward Beecher; Martin Bakke, "Liberty Under Law," George William Curtis. Miss Mary Ella Gerald was director of the contest.

The boys were first year high school students and the girls were more advanced, but the most remarkable achievement of the whole contest was the almost letter perfect memory work on the part of every one of them, very little if any prompting was required and each declamation was long for one to memorize, and reflected great credit on both the speakers and the director. All were good, and considering the age and experience of the speakers very good.

Prizes for the declamatory contest were given by Rev. E. L. Benson of Elgin, Illinois: Five dollars each for the best by a girl or boy and were awarded by the Judges to Miss Addie Surles and Master Albert Mims.

The stork has paid another visit to Thorsby, this time leaving a baby girl at the John Rowell home.

An "Infant Industry" which borders on the "Achievement of the Impossible" is being developed in Thorsby by S. E. Norton with his Daffodils. As grown they are remarkably large and beautiful, as packed are successfully sent by parcel post to individuals 1,000 miles or more distant where they are reported received, even in zero weather, "As fresh as though just picked." Attention is also called to the surprise and delight of those who receive them where everything is in the grip of winter.

Mr. J. M. Bosworth and family spent Sunday in Birmingham with his brother, Mr. Burt Bosworth.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Thompson of Birmingham spent Sunday in Thorsby with Mrs. Thompson's uncle, Mr. Manning.

Mrs. A. D. Leckie entertained the Y. W. A. Tuesday afternoon.

STRESSES YIELD PER ACRE AND LOW PRODUCTION COST

The average yields of crops in the South, taking the region as a whole, are not more than one-third to one-half of what they should be, according to Dr. H. W. Barre, director of the experiment station, Clemson College, S. C.

Dr. Barre, at the 29th annual convention of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers, of which he was president, pointed out in his presidential address that yield per acre and production per unit of labor are of outstanding importance in a consideration of cost of production. Proceedings of this convention have just been published.

Profit or Loss.

"In the case of cotton, cost studies made in South Carolina show that, for each increase of 100 pounds in yield per acre of lint cotton above the average, the cost decreases 3 cents per pound," Dr. Barre said. "This difference in cost of production frequently makes the difference between profit and loss. Our average yields, taking the South as a whole. are not more than one-third to one-half of what they should be, and there are certain factors that we know are of prime importance in increased yields. Among these we might mention stalks to the acre, probably 20,000 stalks to an acre, more intelligent use of fertilizer, better cultural practices, and more intelligent fight against the weevil. With corn, some studies indicate that it costs $1.40 per bushel to make 15 bushels per acre, about $1.00 per bushel to raise 25 bushels per acre, and 75 cents per bushel to produce 35 bushels per acre. The difference in yield is largely due to the amount of available plant food which has been applied as commercial fertilizer or by soil improving crops or barnyard manures. The cost of producing practically all of our staple crops is just about as closely correlated with yields per acre as I have mentioned in the cost of corn and cotton. And if we are to meet competition in the future it is absolutely imperative that we increase the fertility of our soils to where we can get profitable yields."

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mr. W. P. Jacobs went home last week.

Mrs. G. C. Powell is doing nicely following an appendicitis operation.

Mrs. W. P. Jacobs is doing well and will be out in a few days.

Mrs. Tom J. Mims is in the hospital for treatment.

Mrs. John Johnson was operated on Monday.

Mr. L. M. Jones was operated on first of the week.

Mr. Stanley Kennedy was operated on for appendicitis Tuesday.

Mr. J. A. Atkinson of Jemison died Sunday.

Mrs. Johnnie Glass of Calera was burned Monday and lived about an hour after reaching the hospital.

Lomie Knight (col.) went home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Baker of Sylacauga visited relatives and friends near Clanton last Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. T. J. Littlejohn was a business visitor in Atlanta the first part of the week.

The Union-Banner is $1.50 a Year.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Meade and baby, Helen Louise, and Mrs. David Paxson spent Sunday in Birmingham visiting relatives and friends.

Messrs. Vincent Sutliff of Damascus, Ga., and Leonard Moody of Birmingham were vistors in Thorsby for the week end.

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald and daughter, Mary Ella, motored to Birmingham Saturday afternoon.

Bring Happiness and Comfort to Dependent Alabama Families

W. A. Fraser

A MARVELOUS story of the misery that has been eliminated and the happiness and comfort that has been brought to thousands of Alabama families whose providers were members of the Woodmen of the World is strongly emphasized by figures compiled by W. A. Fraser, sovereign commander of the Woodmen of the World.

Sovereign Commander Fraser's figures showed that the Woodmen of the World life insurance association has paid $7,752,043 in death claims to families of this state since the Woodmen of the World started to do business here in 1892.

"Just think what these millions of dollars paid in insurance benefits have meant to these families whose providers were snatched away from them and their regular incomes stopped," said Sovereign Commander Fraser. "One does not have to stretch his imagination to realize what this money has done for the widows and the orphans of the families of this state. If these bread-winners had not been insured, think of the great misery which would have come into the lives of the wives and children through no fault of their own. Just a little thoughtfulness on the part of the fathers and husbands of these families brought untold happiness, gave the children a chance for an education, kept many families out of orphan asylums and poorhouses and in this way saved the taxpayers of the state thousands of dollars. The Woodmen of the World has been glad to pay these claims and bring this happiness to these many thousands of families of this state.

"The marvelous record of the Woodmen of the World can be traced greatly to the loyalty and enthusiastic support given us by the people of this state. We enjoy doing business here and we hope we will always be able to play an important part in bringing happiness and future security to the families of this state who suffer the loss of their bread winners."

"The maintenance of the War Memorial hospital at San Antonio, Texas is one of the great services performed by the Woodmen of the World. Patients are cared for free of charge in an institution that contains every possible means of renewing the health of our members. Of the 3,000 patients that have been cared for a majority have been returned to their homes cured and in a position to become useful citizens of the nationwide communities in which they live."

Mr. Fraser announced that the Woodmen of the World is 103% solvent and now has $89,000,000 in municipal bond holdings in its reserve. A large portion of these bonds have been invested in this state, thus aiding in the building of the state's roads, schools, and various public improvements.

"The Woodmen of the World is now the richest fraternal life insurance association in the world," said Mr. Fraser.

REAL PASTURE GIVES CHEAP DAIRY FEED

PRODUCES MORE MILK THAN ANY OTHER RATION AT SMALL COST.

Real pasture provides the cheapest dairy feed. It produces more milk than any other ration at one-sixth to one-tenth of the cost. Quite true, a cow cannot hold enough pasture feed to provide all required nutrients and some concentrates must be supplied.

This statement, made by J. P. LaMaster, chief of dairying of Clemson College, S. C., was inspired by the fact that he found that many dairy farmers are making the mistake of feeding cows almost exclusively on grain or concentrates, and according to the survey made by economists of Clemson, are often "burning them out" so they can be milked only three years.

LaMaster points out that the fact is overlooked that a cow is adapted to use larger quantities of roughages, that roughages can be produced more cheaply than concentrates, and that feed is the greatest cost in milk production.

In addition to pastures, properly seeded and fertilized, LaMaster suggests a greater acreage of legume hay and silage.

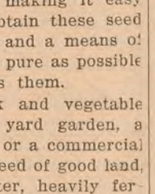
Seed Mixtures

The various experiment stations of the South have worked out proper seed mixtures for various conditions and soils. For instance, one of the several mixtures recommended by the North Carolina Experiment Station is for well-drained soils of sandy loam type of the Coastal Plain, and calls for eight pounds per acre of red top, seven pounds of tall meadow oat, seven of orchard grass, five of mammoth clover, and three of white clover; or thirteen of orchard grass, eight of red top, five of Japan clover, and four of white clover; or seven red top, nine orchard grass, seven tall meadow oat, four Alsike clover and three white clover. Other mixtures for bottom lands in the coastal plain section to be sown in the spring, and for lowlands in the hilly and mountainous sections are given out by the North Carolina station and county agents. Similar mixture recommendations may be obtained by farmers by writing their own experiment stations or consulting their county farm agent.

Heavy applications of well-rotted barnyard manure, supplemented by commercial fertilizers, are good for pastures.

Pure Seed Better Than Impure, Mixed Seed

Any seed improvement program must recognize first that pure seed that are the result of careful and scientific selection are better than impure, mixed or run-out seed, and second, that some varieties of pure well-selected seed are better adapted in certain localities than are others, says Frank C. Ward, seed improvement specialist, Georgia State College.



A seed improvement program must provide for the following: Teaching the farmers the greater economic value of pure, well-selected seed over impure, run-out, mixed, unselected seed; teaching them what varieties are best adapted to their local conditions; insuring a supply of seed of known purity of those varieites found to be best adapted; making it easy for the farmers to obtain these seed and an incentive for, and a means of keeping these seed as pure as possible after the farmer gets them.

Whether the truck and vegetable grower has a back yard garden, a small market garden, or a commercial truck farm, there is need of good land, rich in organic matter, heavily fertilized, and carefully cultivated.

Earliness is important in truck and vegetable growing. Well drained sandy soils warm up early and for that reason are popular for truck farming. The organic matter may be secured from stable manure and from green manure crops plowed under. Organic matter however, does not take the place of fertilizer and fertilizer does not take the place of organic matter. Both are needed, and the more organic matter the more fertilizer can be used profitably.

Proper fertilization is only one of the important factors in successful truck and vegetable production. Good seed, thorough preparation of land, careful cultivation, and control of insects and diseases play their part.

CHEVROLET DEMONSTRATION WEEK WENT OVER BIG

Ten thousand Chevrolet dealers in every part of the country, assisted by more than 20,000 salesmen, participated last week in National Demonstration Week, the result being that hundreds of thousands of persons experienced without obligation their first rides in the new Chevrolet six.

Although it was the first time the company had undertaken a project of this sort, sales executives, basing their opinion on the enthusiastic reports of dealers and salemen, have already judged it as overwhelmingly successful.

Demonstration week began simultaneously last Monday in every city, town and hamlet of the country in which a Chevrolet dealer is located. Dealers arranged special mechanical displays in their salesrooms. In all cases the demonstration rides led over routes, chosen to bring out every performance feature of the new six.

In metropolitan centers the remarkable acceleration of the new car was demonstrated. Its unusual speed was displayed on the highways. Rough roads were traversed to prove the car's riding ease. In like fashion its ability to climb hills, the thorough and quiet cleavage of its four-wheel brakes and its economy of operation were emphasized. In short, none of the many sensational performance features of the new car were overlooked in these comprhensive demonstrations.

The success of the undertaking was due in a large degree to the care with which the dealer organization had prepared for the event. All of the salesfen were carefully rehearsed beforehand as to their duties. The public was impressed with the fact that there were no obligations incident to the free demonstration ride.

The various Chevrolet assembly plants of the country lent their fullest cooperation. A splendid instance of this was revealed in Detroit where each of the city's 560 salesmen were in possession of individual cars thruout the week.

R. H. Grant, vice president in charge of sales, lauded the success of the undertaking.

"For weeks enthusiastic owners of the new sixes have been letting us know how well they consider our new product," he said. "Naturally this made us feel that the more people who could txperience first hand the many advanced features of the new Chevrolet six, the easier would be the task of our selling organization. In other words, we feel the new Chevrolet six is its own best salesman.

"We felt that there were thousands who realized that Chevrolet had accomplished an epoch making achievement in offering a splendid six cylinder car at practically the same price as we asked for our former four cylinder models. These people, we felt, would be interested in seeing for themselves what a remarkably fine product our new car is. It was to accomodate these thousands of interested persons that Demonstration Week was spensored by the company."

"A FORTUNATE CALAMITY"

Presented By Isabella School Faculty, March 9th

"A Fortunate Calamity" is taken from an incident that actually happened near a little village along the Ohio River.

Come and see Rastus allus gittin' himself in the way and Dinah riding Theo-Missed-his-knees in the perambulator.

Characters: Mrs. Marian Merkle, a proud mother, Mrs. A. J. Lecroy; Alta, her daughter, whose desire is to become rich, Miss Mary Thweatt; Ruth, just a plain girl, Miss Ethel Mize; Kate Van Tyle, a good natured cook, Miss Alma Sexton; Dinah Johnsing, a servant, Miss Cora Bell Maddox; Rastus Johnsing, an honest coon, Miss Emma Louise Jones; Joe Brown, a revenue officer, Mr. J. D. Griffin; Bernard Gullion, a jovial young man, Mr. Earle Thomas; Albert Campbell, who plays a wicked game, Mr. H. R. Oden.

FRIENDSHIP SINGING

For the first time in about three months, the singing society met at Friendship last Sunday afternoon in its monthly session. A number of visitors were present, and a very good singing was held. Those directing were W. H. Robinson, John Cleckler, T. E. Wyatt, Jasper Robinson, Jasper Oaks and Riley Robinson. J. D. Collins acted as chairman; the closing song was sung by R. Robinson, and the benediction was offered by W. H. Robinson.

There were a number of visitors from Walnut Creek, Concord, Refuge and Providence, all of whom were more than welcome. They are invited to come back again.

Rev. Foshee will preach at Friendship next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Foshee has expressed the hope that every member of Friendship Church make a special effort to be present at the service next Sunday morning. Rev. Foshee has been pastoring the church for three or four months and has not as yet been able to see more than a small percentage of the membership. He urges upon all the members to make it a point to be at church next Sunday at the preaching hour. So, everyone try to be there.

FAMOUS COUGH PRESCRIPTION

Contains No Chloroform Or Other Harmful Drugs

The use of medicines containing chloroform or dope to relieve coughing is dangerous and unnecessary. Now anyone can get quick sure relief with a famous prescription called Thoxine, which contains no chloroform or other harmful drugs and is safe and pleasant to take.

Thoxine is thoroughly efficient because it has a double action—soothes the irritation—goes direct to the internal cause, and stops the cough almost instantly. Far superior to cough syrups and patent medicines. Also excellent for sore throat. Quick relief guarantee or your money back. 35c., 60c., and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., and all other good drug stores.

NOTICE—A POUNDING

There will be a pounding at the home of Mr. B. G. Johnson next Friday night, March the first, as we want to help those who need help. Mr. Johnson has been in bad health and unable to work since last June, so everybody is invited to come and bring something with you, such as flour, meat, sugar, coffee, syrup, etc., and at the close there will be a cake super for young and old. So come and get your cake. Be glad and make glad.

Mr. Edgar Patterson and family of Tallassee, were visitors at the home of his father, J. W. Patterson, Saturday and Sunday. Edgar is working for the Tallassee Textile Co.

Lesson for March 3

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Eph. 1:22, 23;4:4-6, 11-16.

GOLDEN TEXT—So we, who are many, are one body in Christ.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Serving God in Our Church.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Serving God in Our Church.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Meaning of Church Membership.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Nature and Function of the Christian Church.

I. What It Is.

It is the body of redeemed men and women, Jews and Gentiles, called out from the world, regenerated and united to Jesus Christ as head, and to each other by the Holy Spirit.

1. It was unknown in the Old Testament time (Eph. 3:5, 6).

There were saved people in that time, but people occupying the peculiar position as members of Christ's body only could enjoy such relation after the crucifixion, and coming of the Holy Spirit.

2. Predicted by Christ (Matt. 16:18)

Shortly before Christ's going to the cross, the church was spoken of as still in the future.

3. It began at Pentecost (Acts 2).

That which Christ predicted as to the church began to be historically fulfilled on the Day of Pentecost.

II. Christ Is the Head of the Church (Eph. 1:22, 23).

Christ is to the church what the head is to the human body.

III. The Unity of the Church (Eph. 4:4-6).

1. One body (v. 4).

United with Christ by faith, all believers are members of one body, of which He is the head.

2. One Spirit (v. 4).

The Holy Spirit is the agent in regeneration, and is the life uniting believers to Christ and to one another

3. One hope (v. 4).

The hope of completed redemption at the coming of the Lord.

4. One Lord.

The one ruler of the church is Christ Himself (v. 5).

5. One faith.

Those who are under the control of the one Lord will more and more come into the unity of doctrinal beliefs.

6. One baptism (v. 5).

This is the baptism of the Holy Spirit, which is that sovereign act of the Spirit which unites believers to Jesus Christ as head and to each other as members of His body.

7. One God and Father of all.

He is the Creator and sustainer of the universe.

IV. The Ministry of the Church (Eph. 4:11-16).

1. The ministry of certain officials (v. 11).

Gifts were bestowed upon the church for its growth.

(1) Apostles. These were appointed by Christ to superintend the preaching of the gospel in all the world, and to create an authoritative body of teaching.

(2) Prophets. These ministers were given for the expounding of the Scriptures, the body of authoritative teaching (1 Cor. 14:3).

(3) Evangelists. These seem to have been traveling missionaries to gather in the members constituting the body of Christ.

(4) Pastors and teachers. The pastor was a shepherd and teacher—two functions inherent in the one office.

2. Object of the ministry of the church (v. 12).

(1) "Perfecting of the saints."

Here is meant the mending of that which had been rent—the adjusting of something dislocated.

(2) "For the work of the ministry" (v. 12).

The perfecting of the saints has as its object their qualification to render a spiritual service.

(3) Edifying of the body of Christ.

Edify means to build up the church. the body of Christ.

3. The duration of the church's ministry (v. 13).

This ministry to continue till:

(1) We come into the unity of the faith.

(2) Till we come into the knowledge of the Son of God.

(3) A perfect man, which is the measure of the stature of Christ.

4. The blessed issue of the ministry of the church (vv. 14-16).

(1) Not tossed to and fro and carried about by every wind of doctrine.

(2) Speaking the truth in love.

Already Existent

The Christian ideal, when once it is clearly apprehended, becomes already existent.—The Times (London).

RABBIT HUNT

Twenty three boys and men of the community met at Mulberry bridge the 22nd for an all-day rabbit hunt. When the day's count was ascertained the total was 111. Leon Peters, Span Jones and Hirland Peters were declared champions for the day. Number to their credit were 19, 18, and 17, respectively. Who will beat this?

Mr. Kin Vinson of Wetumpka stopped for a while in Clanton last Friday on his way home from Gorgas, where he had been on business for Dixie Construction Co.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space in the paper to say a few words.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely, but we would be glad to see more come out and help us make Mineral Springs Sunday school one of the best.

Mrs. Jadie Sammons returned to her home in Gorgas last week after spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Monroe Gore.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Henderson moved to their new home in Clanton last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gore spent Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heflin.

Mrs. Annie Paschal and Miss Gracie Giles spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Bob Carter.

Mrs. George Davis was the guest of Misses Mary and Gracie Giles Friday afternoon.

Mr. Arban Davis and Sidney Littleton from Gorgas spent the week end with homefolks.

Mrs. Annie Paschal and Miss Bertielue Gore and Mr. Marvin Traywick were the guests of Miss Mary Giles Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner Blow are visiting in this community this week.

Don't forget the singing here next Sunday afternoon. Come whether you can sing or not. You are always welcome to Mineral Springs.

GAS MADE HER CROSS, CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"When I ate I would bloat up with gas. I couldn't sleep, was cross and nervous. Adlerika has given me real relief."—Mrs. M. Meyer.

Adlerika relieves stomach gas and sourness in TEN minutes. Acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel, it removes old waste matter you never thought was in your system. Let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing and see how much better you feel. It will surprise you!—Upchurch Drug Co.

FORGING AHEAD

Production in the United States in the year 1928 broke all records according to the annual report of the Secretary of Commerce made public recently.

Secretary Whiting declared that country had entered the new year with broader stability and wider markets than ever before in its history.

"The year 1928, on the whole," he said, "was the year of the greatest production and trade in American history in sipte of low activity in some branches of industry at its beginning. Final and official returns reaching the Department of Commerce from leadnig trade and industries show that the year marked a continuance of the longest period of general business stability ever witnessed in the United States."

Factory employment and payrolls, which had declined in 1927 showed a slow improvement in the early part of 1928 and rose rapidly in the second half of the year.

These are some of the things for which the people of the United States have cause to be thankful. The conditions which we have enjoyed in an economic way during the past few years have been due to certain sound principles of government, principles which have come to be characterized the world over as the American idea. These principles are based on the theory that high wages with lower production costs through a larger output, the high wages furnishing the market for the larger output, spell progress and prosperity. The theory is directly contrary to the low wage theory of cheap production which has always held sway in Europe, but that the American theory will work is proved by the results. The big market has been protected by the American theory of tariff which holds that the American wage earner should be protected from cheaper standards of living in Europe. And our economic progress has been steady and orderly because we have devoted our attention as a government not in an attempt to mind the business of the world, and to settle other nations' problems through world diplomacy, but to attend strictly to our own business. It will be seen therefore that our success has been based as much on the principle of failure to make mistakes as to constructive methods. Working for America, protecting the American market and attending strictly to our own business seems to have been a pretty good program so far as our progress and prosperity are concerned. There seems to be no danger just now that the program will be changed during the next decade, unless the American people lose all sense of proportion, which they are not apt to do.

President-elect Hoover ond ex-Governor Smith met in a friendly visit at Miami, thus indicating that the war is over until 1932.

Paris announces that the dresses of the women this spring will be bright colored. No doubt this is so that we can see them.

To quote from a popular song, the stock market every once in awhile has a tendency to "faw down and go boom."

A California scientist says that the moon is porous. Maybe after all there is something to that story about its being made out of cheese.

Mr. Trotzky seems about as hard to locate just now as a collar button that rolls under the bed.

MAPLE-POPLAR SPRINGS SINGING SOCIETY

The Maple-Poplar Springs singing society met last Sunday at Poplar Springs at 2:30. A good singing service was enjoyed. Leaders for the afternoon were O. L. Devaughn I. D. Huett, W. M. DeVaughn, Archie DeVaughn; Misses Jones and Wilson were organists. Several good quartets by the DeVaughn Quartet were enjoyed.

After the singing service, a business session was held, and the following officers were elected: W. M. DeVaughn, chairman, O. L. Devaughn assistant chairman; I. H. Jones, secretary.

The society meets each Second Sunday at Maple Springs, about three miles southeast of Clanton, and each Fourth Sunday at Poplar Springs, about three miles east of Clanton. Singings are all called at 2:30 P. M. Everybody invited to come and help us enjoy these singing services.—J. H. Jones, sec'y.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

SAMARIA

We had a nice crowd at Sunday school Sunday. We had only a few absent. Next Sunday morning the Intermediate class will have charge of the opening exercises. They have a splendid program in connection with the thought given in the quartilies.

We also had a fine crowd at the B. Y. P. U.. We have about 30 members on roll and only 3 were absent Sunday. We are sure proud of the work our little B. Y. P. U. is doing. The following program was rendered by Group I Sunday night:

Scripture reading, Dock Harris.
Quiz leading, Nora Wood.
Introduction, Georgia Wood.
1. The Testimony of a Distinguished Son, Sallie B. Wood.
2. Adorniam Judson, H. B. Glenn.
3. College Career, Orville Popwell.
4. Conversion and Baptism, Mrs. Boockholdt.
5. Following the Star, Hugh Dupree.
6. Studies New Testament, Eunice Edwards.
7. Bugle Call to Baptists, Julia Edwards.
8. Work in Burma, Mr. Mims.
9. Trials and Disappointments, J. C. Massey.
10. In America Again, Mary Popwell.

After the program was rendered our president made a short talk on what some wonderful work we could do if we would just only put forth a little more effort. Our aim for the next quarter is to be an A-1 union.

Mr. J. Z. Mims spent Saturday and Sunday at the University if Alabama with his son, Raymond, who is attending school there.

Miss Nettie Dennis of Auburn spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dennis.

Miss Gertie Mae Baker spent Sunday afternoon with Misses Mamie and Flora Jones.

Mrs. Lula Thompson of Birmingham is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dupree.

Miss Marie Frazier of Jemison spent the week end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Edwards.

Miss Dessie Robinson spent the week end with parents at Thorsby.

Mr. Amon Jones spent Sunday afternoon at Isabella.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court, in Equity.
M. N. Allen, Complainant, vs. Annie B. Allen, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Percy M. Pitts that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Annie B. Allen to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 31, day of March, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 26, day of February, 1929.

2-28-4t W. D. SPIGENER, Register.

PARRISH'S STOCK WILL BE SOLD NEXT WEDNESDAY

According to a notice posted at the store, the stock of goods of Thomas M. Parrish, will be sold by M. Hugh Stuart, receiver in bankruptcy, at the store house in Clanton on next Wednesday.

The notice gives the following as representing the appraisal of goods and assets of the business:

Stock of goods, $3,526.31; store fixtures, $1,079.50; book accounts, $4,075.32; total $8,681.13.

According to the notice, the sale will be made to the highest bidder for cash at public outcry.

CEDAR GROVE NEWS

Last Sunday was the regular preaching day at this place. Rev. Morgan did the preaching.

The Liberty Hill-Cedar Grove singing society met in the afternoon as usual. The singing was better than it has been in quite a while. There was a very good crowd present. Several visitors were there whom we welcome back with us every time they can come.

The directors were: Messrs. Kermit Lowery, Houston Melton, D. T. Melton, Johnny Lowery, and Zack Lowery. Organist for the afternoon was Miss Lela Melton. Our chaplain dismissed us with prayer. We learned that two of the members of our society, Mr. Grady Cooper and Miss Lucile Lowery, were married last Sunday afternoon. They are both from Liberty Hill community. Grady is the son of Mr. Wiley Cooper and Lucile is the daughter of Mr. Zack Lowery. Their many friends extend congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilson(formerly Miss Bertha Melton) moved to Thorsby last week.

Rev. Lynch and wife were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Price Sunday.

Miss Opal Lynch visited Miss Lela Melton Sunday.

We want to invite everybody out to Liberty Hill the second Sunday in March, and let us urge especially that all of the singers of the society be present. Let's help our new president, Kermit Lowery, make our singing a success. We are going to expect your presence. The Showalter and Stamps books will be used.—Secretary.

YOUNG WOMAN BURNED FROM KEROSENE EXPLOSION MONDAY

Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock, Mrs. Estelle Glass, wife of John Glass of Calera, was starting a fire in her stove. She was pouring kerosene into the stove from a can, when in some way the kerosene caught fire and exploded, saturating her clothing with kerosene and at the same time setting her on fire. It seems that Mrs. Glass was alone except probably her two small children were in the house with her. A neighbor heard her screams and upon going to her house found that the doors were fastened on the inside. But a forced entrance was made and the fire extinguished, but only after Mrs. Glass had been very badly burned almost all over her body.

Martin here was summoned and he went up to Calera and brought her to the Central Alabama Hospital where she died at 8:15 Monday night.

The body was prepared by Martin and carried back to Calera where interment was made in the Calera cemetery Tuesday afternoon. The funeral was held at the Calera Methodist Church, Rev. J. T. Nolen, the pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Glass was only 13 years old and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Bradley of Keystone, Ala. She is survived by her husband and two small girls; her father and mother, one sister and five brothers.

"FORTUNATE CALAMITY"

If a funny play you'd like to see
Come Saturday, March 9th, see:
"Fortunate Calamity,"
The time is 7:30, high school auditorium is the place.
You'll see something that'll make you unable to keep a straight face.
Anne Louise Jones as Rastus, the colored man
Falls in a barrel, gets water on him from a pan.
Miss Maddox as Diana, make Rastus stand around.
Prof. J. D. Griffin makes the best revenue officer in town.
Beside this he falls in love with Alma Sexton the cook.
Mr. Oden plays the part of a crook
Who steals money and spends it all on stills.
He is aided in this by his sweetheart, Miss Thweat, with a ready will.
Mrs. Lecroy plays well a mother part
With her daughters, but Alta is the darling of her heart.
But it doesn't take her long to change her mind,
Ethel Mize is the daughter she loves, she's been blind.
You'll miss some good laughs if you fail to come.
See Ethel Mize made love to by Mr. Earl Thomas as Bernard Gullion.
They marry and have one child, Theomistides.
See how Diana gets the perambulator mixed up with the refrigerator and almost lets him freeze.
Won't you please come see these things in our play?
If you will you'll have fun and at the same time help our P.-T. A.

A GOOD DAY'S WORK FOR A RAINY DAY

Tuesday was a bad day, if ever a constant fourteen hours of rain might be called a bad day. But it was a good day for killing rats.

The boys at the Clanton Cash Store have been missing things for a long time, and it was finally decided that rats were responsible for the gradual but regular disappearance. rious things.

As there was nothing else much to do Tuesday but find some kind of amusement, the force decided to make it as profitable as possible and go after the rats. They began to move shelves and counters, and everything that could provide retreat for the rats. Every now and then they made a killing. When the place had been gone over thoroughly they counted up and found that they had murdered a total of sixteen big fine fat wharf rats.

The collection was taken to Chief of Police John Boockholdt, who handed over the nickel apiece which is being offered by the city as a price upon dead wharf rats.

It is safe to say that the loss that is occasioned by these large and numerous rats in Clanton is tremendous. In the case of the Clanton Cash Store, having those sixteen big rats as inhabitants of the place was about equal to having sixteen pigs in the place to help themselves to eatables every night. How many other stores in Clanton do you suppose there are keeping up a good sized family of rats?

The Chicago automobile show was held a week or so ago and it is to be assumed that there was a fine display of armored cars.

It may be true that the people of a hunderd years ago were better off than we are but it does not follow that they are better off than we are.

PLEASE DO NOT DRIVE CARS IN FRONT OF GRAMMAR SCHOOL

The Clanton school board respectfully requests that people will not drive cars over the yard in front of the Grammar School. This request is made in order to prevent damage to the sewerage which lies in ditches newly made on the grounds.

It is further suggested by the board that cars be driven to the sides of the building instead of the front. A compliance with this requeset will save much trouble and expense, it is pointed out.

FAYAL, LAND of OCEAN CABLES AND EARTHQUAKES

Telegraph Island of Azores Archipelago Has Been Scene of Turbulent and Iinteresting Happenings Since Before America's Discovery.

RISING precipitously from the bed of the Atlantic Ocean, out of which it was erupted during some vast upheaval of centuries ago, Fayal, the land of ocean cables and earthquakes, is at last attaining a place in the sun of world business. Trans-Atlantic airplane flights and earthquakes have insinuated its name into the news in recent years, and from time to time word has flashed undersea of another ocean telegraph cable brought to its harbor of Horta from Europe, Africa or America. But in the last four years it has risen in importance to what is probably first place among the world's cable relay stations.

World business needed Fayal. Therefore, whether Fayal willed it or not, this little speck of volcanic lava has found itself thrust bodily into a position of decided prominence in the scheme of world communications. Its population of about 25,000 souls has not worried a great deal about its involuntary attainment of fame as yet. But the little island is nevertheless changing—slowly, perhaps, but surely. Calling steamships are dropping more automobiles on the quay, even though the entire island can be circled in less than three hours at moderate speed. The time-honored "capote," curious headdress affected by the womenfolk for centuries, is giving way to chic toques from America, London and Paris. Oxford "bags" flap nonchalantly around the feet of the male youth, and ice cream has appeared in the cafes where it vies for favor with native wines and imported beers and liquors. And crawling up the hillside above Horta are the properties and housing facilities of four great telegraph cable companies—facilities which have grown tremendously almost overnight.

Intriguing Harbor View

Fayal is in the central group of the Azores, and while its entire area is only 69 square miles, it presents an intriguing prospect to the seaweary traveler as the ship drops anchor in the harbor of Horta. Tier upon tier rise the houses along the hillside above the harbor, with whitewashed walls and red tile roofs, while occasionally the sameness is relieved by a more pretentious villa of blue or green or pink. Seen by moonlight from the waterfront, it might well be Mediterranean. And a few miles across the water, looming like a surly sentinel over the Azores group rises Pico, an extinct volcano 7,600 feet high, snow-capped a part of the year, and usually obscured at the peak by heavy masses of clouds.

Horta appeared in the news of four continents recently when the cable steamship "Dominia" landed a new Western Union Telegraph cable connecting America with Germany, Italy, Spain, Portugal and Africa. This cable, which when operating to capacity will be able to transmit eight simultaneous messages over the single copper wire—four in each direction at once—represents a new scientific achievement, and will add materially to Horta's importance as a cable station.

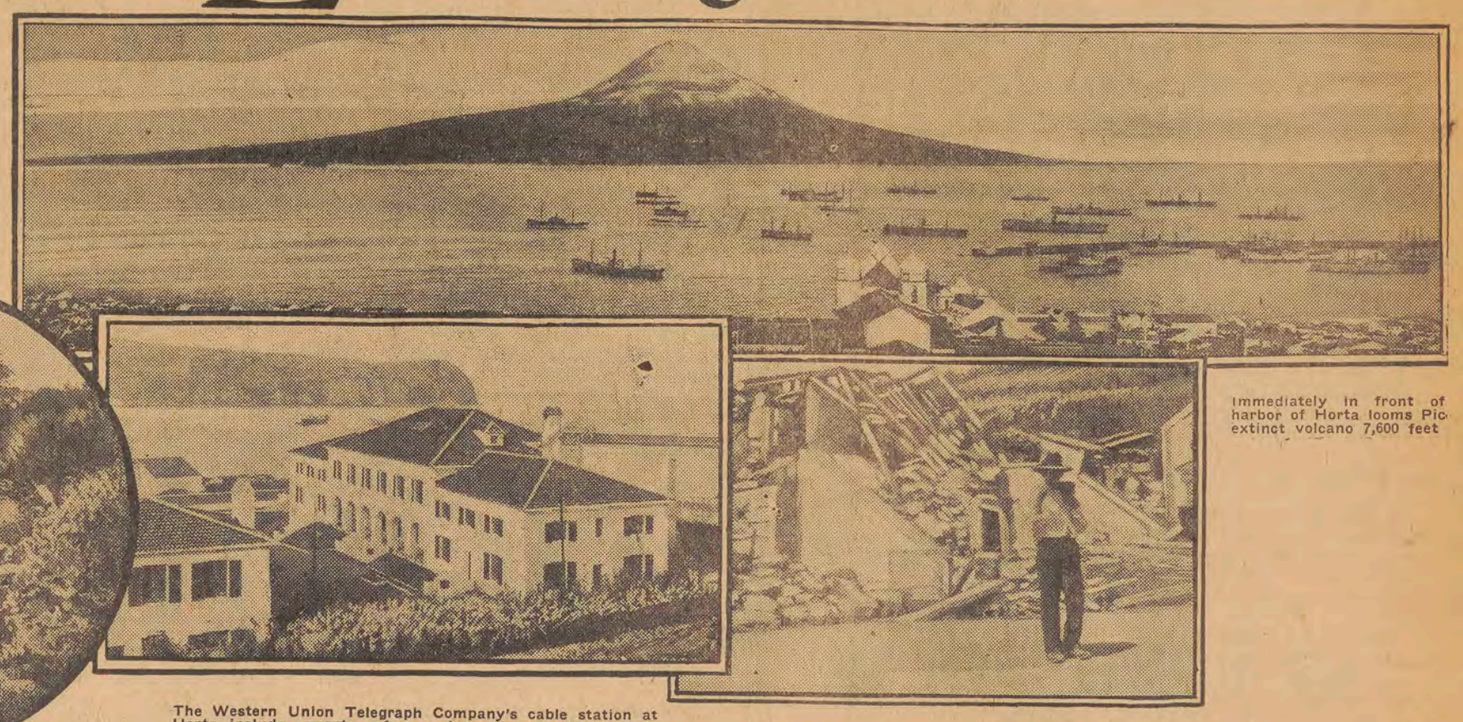
Has Fifteen Cables

Fifteen cables are now concentrated at Horta, spreading out in a vast network to North and South America, England, Germany, France, Spain, Portugal, Italy and Africa. Concentrated in a single earthquake-proof building are all these cable terminals, operated by four different companies, but interchanging traffic between the four corners of the earth.

The Azores are located about 800 miles westward of Portugal, and are integral parts of Portugal instead of colonies as might be expected. The year 'round temperature is so mild that it approaches the ideal—but the weather is quite uncertain at most seasons, and heavy and persistent rainfall is experienced at times. Pico is the baromoter—for when dense clouds obscure the top of the old volcano, stormy weather usually follows.

Discovery of the islands occurred during the "glorious period of Portuguese explorations," and was the result of the efforts of Prince Henry, the Navigator. Concalo Velho Cabral touched at Santa Maria, the southernmost island, in 1432, and in the succeeding decade or more the other islands found place on the charts. In the turbulent sixteenth century the islands were the scene of many a gallant fight, over the richly laden galleons plying between South America, India and Europe, and island history is replete with the exploits of Drake, Granville, and Frobisher against the Armada of Philip II.

Part of Lost Continent?



The origin of the Azores is still a matter of conjecture, and interesting and convincing argument has been presented to show that they were part of the lost continent of Atlantis—or at the very least were cast up in the same subterranean cataclysm that caused the "lost continent" to sink beneath the waves. Certain it is that they had their source in volcanic eruptions, and the strata beneath them is still uneasy. The latest serious disturbance occurred in Fayal, and almost totally wrecked most of the houses on the island.

At 8:40 o'clock on the morning of August 31, 1926, Fayal presented that appearance of serene beauty which, in earlier times, earned for these Western Isles a legendary reputation as an earthly paradise. At 8:45 the sun still shone, the sky was still a beautiful blue, but the view was obscured by a cloud of yellow dust which rose over the town of Horta and drifted slowly out to sea, hiding, like a fog, the Island mail boat at anchor and the cliffs of Espalamarca. In the meantime, at 8:42, an earthquake had in ten seconds rocked its way through Horta and on out through the Flamengas valley, leaving desolation in its wake. Not a house in Horta escaped, and most of them were almost totally wrecked.

Towns Now Restored

Today, two years later, Horta is rebuilt. Once more the colorful homes rise along the hillside, many of them with the gay tile fronts telling of the Moorish strain in the people. And out in the Flamengas valley, where the early Flemish settlers may still be traced by their windmills and the occasional blonde head or blue eyes, the countryside is restored to romantic Old World beauty.

The only buildings in Horta to escape damage were three residences for Western Union Telegraph Company representatives which were nearing completion. These houses were designed especially to resist earthquake shocks. Today, on the t: men who keep cable traffic mov- Western Union property stand ten modern buildings, housing about fifing—each house built to withstand far greater shocks than the one which wrecked Horta so recently.

Immediately in front of harbor of Horta looms Pico extinct volcano 7,600 feet

The Western Union Telegraph Company's cable station at Horta includes quarters for employes that embody every physical comfort of the most modern city. All of the buildings, of which the bachelors' quarters above are typical, are of earthquake-proof construction.

What happened to almost every building in Horta and the Flamengas Valley when Fayal was visited by the devastating earthquake of August 31, 1926.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. B. Stepp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

QUALITY HOGS ARE MORE PROFITABLE

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 26.—In earliness and in low cost of growth a farmer who has purebred hogs has advantages over scrubs. This is revealed by an experiment conducted by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and reported by Prof. J. C. Grimes, head of the department of animal husbandry.

The experiment sought to determine the improvement which can be made in native scrub hogs by using purebred boars in a "grading up" process. Several groups of pigs representing scrubs, 50 per cent, 75 per cent, and 87 1-2 per cent, purebreds were fattened on a ration of yellow corn and tankage plus a mineral mixture.

Results were measured in length of time and amount of feed required to reach two hundred pounds in weight.

The above experiment revealed that with one exception the length of time and the amount of feed required to produce a 200-pound hog decreased as the grade of the animal increased.

The 87 1-2 per cent purebred hog reached two hundred pounds in weight 61 days sooner than the scrubs and required 167 pounds less feed to make 100 pounds gain. The cost per pound gain was 6.5 cents for the high grade and 9.8 cents for the scrubs.

From the standpoint of both rate and cost of gains the 50 per cent purebred hogs made a better showing than the 75 per cent purebred group. This was not to be expected but might be explained by the individuality of the animals in the two groups, Prof. Grimes said.

It is now estimated that the carryover of the American cotton on July 31 of this year will be about 4,500,000 bales. With the 1929 crop of 15,000,000 bales the total will be 19,500,000 bales.

A valuable bulletin for distribution by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, is "The Home Orchard in Alabama." Copy may be had from the local county agent or by writing to Auburn.

In the egg-laying contest at Auburn last year it cost 17.6 cents to produce a dozen eggs in November; 16.5 cents in December; and 15.6 cents in January. These figures include feed cost only, nothing being included for labor and other expenses. according to Prof. J. E. Ivey.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The State Department of Agriculture at Montgomery estimates that bees bring into Alabama annually $350,000.

"Feeding Dairy Cows" is the name of a bulletin published by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn and available for distribution upon request at County agent's office. F. W. Burns livestock specialist, is author of it.

Cotton spindles in 11 southern states increased 331,692 during 1928. Alabama gained more than any other state, her gain being 169,604. Alabama also led in gain of looms with 4,277, showing a total of 32,782 for the state.

In the early days of agriculture 300 man hours were required to produce one acre of corn. By 1890 this had been reduced to 30 man hours, and in 1928 it was 3.6 man hours. The change was due largely to an increase in the use of farm machinery.

The per capita circulation of money in the United States on January 31, was $39.07. On December 31, 1928, it amounted to $41.76. The total money in circulation in the United States on January 31 was $8,211,579,725. Just after the Christmas holidays the total was $8,431,099,373 of which $3,694,397,003 was held in the treasury.

There are in the United States 2,000 county agents and 1,400 demonstration agents, according to Dr. Bradford Knapp, of Auburn, whose father founded the work and who himself succeeded his father. The annual expenditure for extension work in agriculture and home economics is now $23,000,000, Dr. Knapp said.

The Thirtieth President

Written for The Union-Baner by George B. Lockwood

HERBERT HOOVER

The source of human greatness is never obvious. It is to be found not in one, but in many qualities, and in the manner of their blending. It is to be found not in mere mentality, but in the combination of intellect with character. Experience plays no small part in its development with those who are capable of wisely assimilating experience. The school is only one step in education; the man headed for greatness finds a university in which courses are continuous.

No man has ever come to the presidency of the United States, since the first president, better known at the time of his assumption of the shief magistracy, than Herbert Hoover. Better known, that is, throughout the world for his record of achievement; for what he has said and done. But the personal qualities of many presidents have been better known; partly because they had been longer in public life; partly because they were more obvious. No man has gone into the presidency through more striking manifestations of public confidence; but that confidence was based not upon what people know about Mr. Hoover personly, but because of the ideas and deeds which constitute his own record. That is a far sounder basis of confidence than partitality for a personality. To most people, including some who know him fairly well, Mr. Hoover is something of a mystery; but what he has been able to accomplish is no mystery; it stands out as one of the most striking records of achievement ever set to the credit of an American; a record impressive not in one field, but in many; beginning with small things and broadening to matters of world-wide moment; and every job well done.

Some explanations of Mr. Hoover's achievements, however, are apparent. First must be placed the factor of motive. The element of first importance in any life is the purpose that guides it. That may be inherited; it may be acquired through contacts; it may be willed. As one reads of the earlier life of Herbert Hoover, it is evident that from the beginning of his adventurous life he saw something in his work besides a means of gaining fame or fortune. His warm imagination saw the broader relationships of all tasks. So in Australia, as a youth called to the superintendency of a mine, he saw something others had stumbled over, namely, that industry was a human and not a mere mechanical thing, and that the hearts as well as the hands of men must be put into it if it was to succeed even from a dollar and cent standpoint. So one of the tasks to which he set himself was that of making the conditions of labor endurable. He made the success of the enterprise worth while to his associates who worked with pick and shovel, as well as to those who drew dividends from the enterprise in London. He did not wait until he became a candidate for the Presidency of the United States to preach the doctrine that all worth while progress is based on comfort and opportunity for the every day man. He put that into practice in the first great enterprise he managed. And it worked; worked so well that he soon rose to the management of a large groop of mines, and was called thence to even larger responsibilities.

So it may be said that Mr. Hoover was in public service from the beginning, for he saw in industry an instrumentality of public service. The illustration of that ideal may be seen in all his career as a manager of mining enterprises on four continents, and the altruism which lay at the bottom of it found in the relief work of the world war, the most prodigious field of action ever opened to humanitarian leadership. He severed all business connections to throw himself into that work; indeed, he closed the door on commerical endeaver forever.

A friend of Mr. Hoover, returning from Russia by way of London after Mr. Hoover had become Secretary of Commerce, carried to him at the request of a group of business leaders the traveller had met in the British capital, an offer of a salary of a half million dollars a year and an interest in profits that would have netted as much more, to undertake the direction of one of the largest mining operations in the world. This was an annual return greater than Mr. Hoover's entire fortune. Secretary Hoover's reply to the tender was:

"When I was a younger man I had some ambition to acquire wealth. After passing through the World War, witnessing the agonies of humanity and feeling its desperate needs I have lost interest in that. I made up my mind some time ago that the rest of my life would be given to the public service, either in office or out of it.

What, obviously, is Mr. Hoover's motive? He sees in government, as he saw in business, a means of making political machinery count for a world of greater happiness and wider opportunity for humankind.

That motive has animated men who have done more harm than good in the world. It is usually linked with lack of practical sense. It often inspires men with patent processes for making the world over in a night through some device of economic or political legerdermain. Men with their eyes on the stars usually walk into some bog and drown and draw others after them. It is often affected by demagogues who publicly profess love for the people for personal advantage. It is often proclaimed by fanatics whose real inspiration is not love for humanity, but class hatred. The world has a right to be suspicious of men who loudly proclaim their love of the people. They are mostly visionaries or counterfeits. Herbert Hoover does not wear his heart on his sleeve either in politics or private life. He does not megaphone his ideal of service. But he lives it. That is better.

Now what are Mr. Hoover's qualifications for making his ideal a reality? No more practical minded man has ever come to the Presidency. His profession is that of engineer. That was a side line with two other Presidents: Washington and Lincoln. Washington was a land surveyor who took an active interest in engineering projects such as the building of canals and highways. Lincoln was a surveyor and an inventor; he studied Euclid to make his thinking exact. An engineer is a pre-planner who must know, not guess, what materials will do when they are put together. Political and economic doctrinaires do a flourishing business in showing fancy blue prints of structures that may cave in before half finished, if ever started at all. President Hoover will be no revolutionary. He will build carefully, but surely.

Like all men trained to the exact, rather than the inexact, sciences, Mr. Hoover has a respect for facts. The extent to which he acquires and assimilates them impresses everyone who discusses a problem with him. Men who consider themselves, and are, experts in given lines, are often astonished to find that Mr. Hoover can match his knowledge with theirs in their own special fields.

Respect for facts involves a willingness to give up a belief if the facts interfere with holding it. Therefore Mr. Hoover bears no label, such as "conservative" or "radical," "liberal" or "reactionary." Such labels involve preconceptions which facts often cannot overcome; and they are often greatly misapplied.

The explanation of Mr. Hoover's mastery of facts is found in his unusual power of concentration. He works long hours, but what is more important, he does not waste his time. Few of us utilize very much of the time we are supposed to employ in serious work. Most of us would be surprised if we could be confronted with the record of our wasted moments. Mr. Hoover's callers do not have their time or his wasted by the usual small talk about nothing in particular. While listening, Mr. Hoover often occupies himself with drawing geometrical designs on a piece of paper. His mind, however, is not on that job, but in digesting what is said to him, without diversion through gazing out of the window or watching the gestures or facial expressions of the speaker. Mr. Hoover has a lively sense of humor, but he spends no time in persiflage. He spends as little time as possible on the meaningless formalities of "society." The only amusement he cares much for is occasional outdoor activity, especially fishing.

Mr. Hoover has little audacity; some of his friends think too little. Audacity, however, does not go with engineering. He does not underestimate difficulties; in his pre-convention campaign and even in the general campaign he was about the least hopeful of Hoover men. But in politics, as in war, it is better to over-estimate than under-estimate the strength of the enemy; it costs nothing but mental wear and tear and ensures ample preparation for any contingency.

President Hoover will care as little about the pomp and circumstance of his great office as any man who ever lived in the White House. Power for power's sake has no appeal to him. In Europe for a time after the armistice he wielded greater power than any crowned head; there is no new "kick" in that for him.

It will become evident that in the organization of his administration, while he will have due regard for the obligations of party affiliation and support, President Hoover will have only the highest possible efficiency in mind. He realizes that if his administration is a success public sentiment will support him; any yielding to pressure or expediency which may impair the efficiency of his administration will weaken public confidence and make his task more difficult. There will be no petty intriguing, no playing to the galleries, no compromising of principles, with a view to the effect on another national election.

It is probable, indeed, that the small variety of politics which is so much on view in Washington, will cease, in the light of President Hoover's example, to be as popular as it has been in the past. Perhaps the leadership of President Hoover will serve to impregnate many others with the thought that the national government is too important an institution to be made the football of personal and partisan ambitions.

What of the Hoover era in national affairs? Will it realize the expectations of those who hope for so much from a new type of leadership which is a symbol of the great change that has made the functions of our national government primarily economic rather than political?

That is not all up to Mr. Hoover. Much will depend on the support given him by those who elected him, and by those millions who opposed him for election to the Presidency, but who as loyal Americans have accepted the result and have the same interest in advancing the welfare of the American people. Much will depend on the attitude of legislative leaders of both the Republican Party and of the opposition party as well.

There is reason to believe that we are only on the threshhold of national progress; at the beginning of an era of invention, organization and cooperation which will bring about that abolition of poverty which Mr. Hoover has declared to be a realizable dream.

"The American system" of social and economic service, as Mr. Hoover pointed out in more than one of his notable campaign addresses, means the widest possible diffusion of prosperity and opportunity. It means the unloosing, rather than the chaining, of the spirit of individualism which has been responsible for our almost miraculous national progress.

America's service to the world depends upon the maintenance of our own national heritage and ideals, not in accepting the outworn European conceptions of the master state and the subject citizen, whether monarchical or socialistic. It depends upon the maintenance of our own national economic as well as political independence. It depends upon the maintenance of both moral and military defense against the elements from within and without, which can not comprehend the unique value of our national heritage and would destroy it. It depends upon the greater earning and wider diffusion of wealth, the broader opening of opportunity for the millions; upon better and happier homes, whose hearthstones shall become altars of American patriotism. And thus may we assume leadership in the world: by the power of example and the influence of our worth-while achievements. We may well hope to see our country travel far on the way toward this goal under President Hoover.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

The question is occasionally asked, what portion of the people of the United States live in poverty? Poverty of course is a relative term. If we were to use it in the sense in which it applies in many countries of the Old World we would have to say that there is scarcely any actual poverty in the United States. For of course living conditions are far different in the older countries than in our own, and living conditions are at the same time on different planes in the various countries of the Old World.

The population of all the alms houses in the United States is less than 100,000, and has been gradually declining for a number of years. In other words there are less than a hundred thousand people in the United States so beaten in the race of life that they are willing to go into the alms-houses, and the population of these institutions is confined almost entirely to those recruited from the aged infirm and to the feeble minded.

Half of the people of the United States have radios and telephones in their homes and motor cars in their garages; there are nearly twenty million depositors in savings banks and nearly ten million in buildig and loan associations, the depositor usually being the head of the family. This is in addition to the millions of depositors in the other banking institutions of the country. More than a hundred million life insurance policies are in force in the United States, of which more than three-fourths are industrial policies. Most figures showing the distribution of wealth in the United States give us an erroneous impression for the reason that they ignore the fact that for every individual holder of poperty there are usually several dependents of the holder, who are counted by the statisticians as possessing no property.

When we compare these figures with the situation in many of the older countries of the world we get some idea of the difference between American civilization and that which ignores modern principles of economics. No wonder a great many people say that we are eventually to abolish poverty in the United States. Such a belief may sound Utopian. But Phillip Kerr a well known English lecturer who has traveled from one end of the United States to the other recently told an English audience that the United States has solved the problem of poverty and is steadily driving it out of her economic system. After the Civil War he declared, a new process arose in America. The people took to solving the problems of production and distribution of commodities and as a result they have a standard of living incomparably higher than that of any other country in the world. If London were taken at a rating of 100, Mr. Kerr declared, then the standard of living in Philadelphia would be 180, in France 56 and in Belgium 49. He marveled at the fact that seven hundred thousand young people are attending the colleges and universities in the United States.

Here is some testimony as to our economic condition from an alien source. It was not prepared for political purposes, for distribution to American voters, but for the elucidation of a British audience. The testimony bears out the claims of Americans as to the success of their economic program. Of course we have not yet arrived at the Utopian state of perfection or probably never will unless human nature changes. There are a great many more things to be done, improvements to be made in our economic system. But it can at least be said that the American economic theory which has grown up in the past few generations has not only proved its right to existence, but has shown itself by the results, to be the best that has yet been devised in this imperfect world. We can be encouraged by past and present success in striving for further improvement in the future.

Look for This New Guide to Quality

Here is a new standard for judging value that is as important as guaranteed analysis.

You have always known that guaranteed analysis guarantees only the amount of plant food. But what assures the quality.

The new Swift Certificate of Quality says, "Best Materials, Double Mixed, Triple Tested." Very briefly this means:

Best Materials—plant food from the most productive sources.
Double Mixed—to make sure of easy drilling and that each plant will get its share of plant food.
Triple Tested—to assure the right kind of plant food in the right form and correct amount.

Come in and we will show you the Certificate on the bag.

ALABAMA'S STRAWBERRY CROP FOR LAST YEAR

There were 1,021 car loads of strawberries shipped from Alabama producing centers last year. This volume compares with about 890 cars shipped during 1927.

Strawberries were shipped during 1928 from producing centers as follows:

Bolling	12
Barland	66
Leesburg	8
Clanton	14
Thorsby	57
Castleberry	400
Evergreen	36
Owassa	35
Cullman	111
Hanceville	45
Atmore	47
Brewton	102
Scottsboro	3
Guntersville	78
York	7

Of the total shipments, 477 cars were shipped during April, 516 during May, and 28 during June. Those shipped during June went forward form the northern sections.

There were 343 cars of berries inspected by the State-Federal inspection service, which was operated in Alabama for the first time last season. Practically all shipments from Guntersville and Cullman were inspected, as were also the shipments from Leesburg and Evergreen. About half the shipments from Atmore and Brewton were inspected, while Castleberry and Owassa did not use the service.

P.-T. A. TO DO IMPROVEMENT WORK AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Clanton Grammar School has appointed a special committee to look after the improvement of the grounds surrounding the building and this committee is making definite plans not only to improve the grounds, but to make them beautiful and attractive and worthy of the children of Clanton. In order to do this it is necessary to provide in some way special funds for the work. The cost of a driveway, shrubs, trees and flowers suitable for a modern school ground will be approximately $1350.00. This money can come from only one source—the friends of the children of Clanton. The committee therefore has adopted a plan to present to the friends of the Clanton children for the purpose of obtaining the necessary funds. This plan is called "A Calendar for Clanton Grammar School Grounds." The Calendar contains the regular twelve months totaling 365 days. Each day will be sold for $3.65 which really amounts to a savings account of 1 penny a day for a year's time. You will be approached by members of this committee and asked to buy a day, 2 days, 3 days, 4 days or even a whole week or month on this calendar. If you buy a week that will mean 7 x 3.65 or 7 x 365 pennies or $25.55. If you buy a month it will mean 30 x 3.65 or 30 x 365 pennies or $109.50. If you buy as much as 100 days, there will be a beautiful tree planted and dedicated to the one of your choice. We believe there are many penny a day friends of these children and many others who will gladly save more than a penny a day for them. It is in this faith in their friends that the committee undertakes the work.

This article is to acquaint you with its plan and its purpose in order that the committee may approach you more easily and that you may be ready to encourage them with their plan.

The Parent-Teachers Association and the children of the Grammar School need your support in this undertaking to beautify the grounds of our creditable new school and in so doing beautify the city of Clanton. May we count on you when the Calendar is put on sale?—Respectfully yours, Mrs. W. M. Polk, Sr., Mrs. Barney Roberts, Mrs. Lee Smith, Committee.

TOM McKEE GOING TO HOT SPRINGS

It is with universal regret that the many friends of Mr. Tom McKee and family throughout Chilton County learn of his decision to leave Clanton again. He goes to take up a business which he will operate for himself at a big construction camp near Hot Springs, where the Phoenix Utility Company is building a big power plant on the Wichita River for the Arkansas Power Company.

Mr. McKee is a native son of the soil of Chilton County. He has made a successful record as a business man wherever he has gone, and it was hoped when he came here last fall that he would find it to his satisfaction to stay at home. But he is still young and sometimes feels adventurous, and when he has a chance at a good business proposition, he can not resist.

Wherever he has gone, he has continued to hold on to his farm property in this county; and some day he expects to finish up his business in other parts of the world and come back here to spend the rest of his days with home folks and friends. We wish him and his family all sorts of good luck.

BRO. BRYAN'S BIBLE STORY

in need. A man said to me the other day, "Brother Bryan, I am praying God to spare your life to tell man about Jesus Christ." That is what I want to do while I live. I want to tell them of Jesus and lead them to Him.

When I went to Scotland I visited the boyhood home of David Livingston. I had read his life while at the Princeton University. This home of David Livingston was a three-story rock house. I was carried up three flights of stairs to a plain modest room. There David Livingston lived and prayed to God in one little simple room. You can pray to God anywhere. It may be in a coal house. The place does not make any difference, but your attitude of mind has all to do with the prayer you utter.

From that simple home David Livingston went as missionary to Africa. He moved the world toward Africa. He wrote that he was praying God to send misionaries not only to Africa, but to America, Russia, and England. He died praying and his body was sent to England for burial. His grave attracts more attention and brings more tears than any grave in England.

The last sentence in his diary reads, "Jesus, my Lord and King, I come to re-dedicate my life to Thee." O, if every member of the church, every member of the Christian Endeavor every member of the Sunday school would prayerfully say, "Jesus my Lord and King, I give my life to Thee, Thou Lamb of Calvary: O, may I ever faithful be to Jesus my Lord and my King."

Report From Cotton Mills is Encouraging

Clanton Unit Has Prospects Among Brightest of All The Alabama Mills

Messrs. Frank Callen, Reedie Taylor, and Will Reynolds, who attended the meeting of stockholders of Alabama Mills Co., in Birmingham Monday, bring back a very interesting and encouraging report of the future outlook for the concern.

According to these gentlemen, the Clanton unit of Alabama Mills has among the brightest prospects of any of the mills of the company. It was stated at the meeting Monday that the product of the Clanton mill has already gained a popular demand in the markets of the country, and that this demand would soon become so large as to necessitate the operation of the Clanton mill day and night to supply the wants of those concerns which use our products.

"After hearing the discussions and reports at this meeting Monday," said Mr. Taylor, "I feel assured that Clanton's mill has the most promising future of any of the ten mills."

It was stated at the meeting that Alabama Mills has a total of 29,000 spindles and that only 19,000 spindles are now in operation.

At the meeting Monday the same officers of the cimpany were re-elected for the coming year, including Frank Callen of Clanton, as a member of the Board of Directors. A successor was elected to take the place of the late, J. Lee Long, of Greenville, who was a member of the Board of Directors.

WAPI WILL BROADCAST NOTICE OF AUTO THEFTS

Automobile thieves will have slim chances of escape, because notice of theft will be broadcast from the Montgomery Studio of WAPI, according to announcement of S. M. Dunwoody, Commissioner of Agriculture, who is cooperating with Walter K. McAdory in apprehending auto thieves.

The following statement has been mailed to all county officers, including the following: County Treasurer, Superintendent of Education, County Solicitor, Probate Judge, Circuit Clerk, Registrar in Equity, Sheriff, Tax Assessors, Collectors and County Agents; also to Circuit Judges, Circuit Solicitors and others.

A nationwide digest of agricultural market news is broadcast daily from the Department of Agriculture Studio at the Capitol. At this time, news of stolen automobiles will be broadcast between the hours of 12:30 P. M. and 1:00 P. M.

The following letter has been mailed by Mr. Dunwoody:

"We desire to be of service to you through the State Broadcasting Studio of WAPI, which is located in the State Department of Agriculture and Industries Building, Montgomery, Alabama. If you will be kind enough to wire the following information to the Department of Agriculture and Industries, it will be broadcast from this Studio, and no doubt will greatly assist in the recovery of stolen automobiles and the prosecution of automobile thieves.

"Please wire to us description of all stolen automobiles immediately, setting out such information as the make of the automobile, style of body, motor number, tag number, and such other special description as you feel will be of assistance in detecting or locating the car.

"This is a service which the State is offering you, without cost to you, and we hope that you will take advantage of it.

"Again, assuring you of our desire to be of service to you, we remain. Very truly yours.—(Signed) Walter K. McAdory, State Law Enforcement Officer; S. M. Dunwoody, Commissioner Agriculture and Industries."

Telegrams regarding stolen autos may be sent prepaid to Studio WAPI, Departfent of Agriculture, Montgomery, Alabama.

"DOT" THE MINER'S DAUGHTER

A play of unusual interest and a story often true to life, will be staged at the high school auditorium Friday night, March Eighth.

Every member of the family, from a six year old up, will enjoy this play; for it is full of fun from beginning to end. Two negro characters, Ebony and Aunt Hapzibah, spice the serious sad story with laughter of a unique type.

A love story of college youth; the story of a happy home broken by jealousy caused through misunderstanding; all combined with a story of sin and its evil effects.

The cast is above the average for high school talent and we hope that you will show your appreciation for their earnest efforts by your presence at eight o'clock Friday night.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS ATTEND INAUGURATION OF PRESIDENT HOOVER

Nineteen Confederate veterans from the soldiers home at Beauvoir, Miss., went on a special car to Washington to attend the inauguration of President Hoover Monday. The aged sons of Dixie had been invited to Washington for the inaugural exercises. This is the first time Confederate veterans have received a definite invitation to the inauguration of an American President.

These old warriors of the South are reported to have had a joyous trip, moving toward the city which once had been the goal of the Southern Armies. This time, however, they were on a journey of peace. In the sixties they were met with bayonets. On this occasion they had the express invitation of the government which they once fought. They went to the city by the Potomac to capture with the veneration of age that which they could not seize with the military ardor of youth.

We have no doubt that these worthy old sons of the South received the admiration of thousands in Washington.

HOMECOMING DAY AT THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH

Next Sunday will be homecoming day at Thorsby Baptist Church. All members and friends of the church are cordially invited to attend. The regular order of services will prevail. Sunday school at the regular hour, followed by preaching service by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones.

The subject of the sermon for the morning will be "The Place the Church Occupies in My Life."

Superintendent W. J. Billingsley says the aim for the Sunday School is 150 in attendance. Everybody is urged to come and help to reach this goal.

In the afternoon the quarterly convention of the W. M. U. of Chilton County Association will convene at the Thorsby Baptist Church, beginning the session at 2 o'clock. Mrs. W. J. Billingsley is president of this organization among the Baptist women.

Misses Kate and McMae McNeill of Jemison visited friends in Clanton last Saturday.

JEMISON BAPTIST CHURCH SHOWING SIGNS OF PROGRESS

Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby, who is also pastor of the Baptist Church at Jemison, reports that the Jemison Baptists are showing some encouraging signs of aroused interest in the church and Sunday School Work. "We had a fine service at Jemison Sunday," said Mr. Jones. "Our Sunday School there is also picking up considerably."

Mr. C. C. Conway is superintendent of the Sunday School at Jemison. The goal has been set for 150 in Sunday School by May 1st.

Franchise Sold By Langley Bus Co.

Alabama Company And Capital Firm Take Over The B. & M. Lines

Transfer of the franchise of the Langley Bus Company for the Birmingham-Montgomery bus line to the Alabama Bus Company and Capital Coaches, Inc., was announced Friday following approval by the Alabama Public Service Commission.

The bus line certificate, listed as No. 1 with the Public Service Commission, becomes the property of the Alabama Bus Company and Capital Coaches, effective Friday.

The transfer also included three other lines of the Langley company, all three no inactive. The are Clanton to Selma; Columbiana to Calera and Calera to Montevallo.

The Public Service Commission hearing was held here by Hugh White chairman and Frank Morgan.

The Capital Coaches Company will be associated with the Alabama Bus Company, which operates between Birmingham and Chattanooga; the Old South Coaches, Inc., operating between Birmingham and New Orleans; the Greyhound lines which have applied to operate between Birmingham and Memphis, and the Alabama Bus Company which operates between Montgomery and Dothan.

Announcement also was made of the purchase by the Old South Coaches, Inc., from the Alabama Bus Company the motor line from Birmingham to Meridian, Miss., giving it a through line from Birmingham to New Orleans.

The Capital Coaches, Inc., will be operated by H. E. Bissell and A. A. Crow, owners of the Alabama Bus Company, and Temple Bowen and P. G. Howe, with headquarters at Birmingham.

COUNTY BANKERS ARE UNITED IN SUPPORT OF BETTER FARMING

Will Sponsor Movement For Proper Use of Fertilizer, Terracing, Soil Building Crops and 4-H Club Boys Work

MORE AND BETTER CROPS AT LESS COST

PLANS ADOPTED AT MEETING HERE TUESDAY

A movement was instituted by the bankers of Chilton County Tuesday afternoon which bids fair to go a long way toward the encouragement of better farming in Chilton County. In response to the call of H. G. Boyd, key banker for Chilton County, all the bankers of the county gathered at the office of County agent Stapp to consider ways and means of organizing in a definite campaign of aiding the farmers of the county in attaining some prime objects for better farm practice.

The following representative citizens were present at the meeting: J. N. Dennis; H. W. Davis, Bank of Verbena; J. P. Montgomery, vocational teacher; C. E. Stapp, County Agent; A. D. Leckie, Bank of Thorsby; Earle Thomas, vocational teacher; J. E. Gowan; Renfroe Mullins; H. G. Boyd, Peoples Savings Bank; J. C. Page, First National Bank. The Bank of Maplesville did not have a representative at the meeting but wired their hearty approval of the plan and pledged their co-operation in the movement.

On motion of J. C. Page, the following projects relative to agriculture in Chilton County, were adopted by the bankers: The proper use of fertilizer; terracing; soil building crops; 4-H Club Boys Work. These are the same projects which were adopted by the district meeting of bankers at Alexander City a few weks ago.

The above named projects were discussed at length by the bankers and citizens present. Several valuable points were brought out suggesting ways in which the bankers of the county might make themselves useful in causing more interest among the farmers of the county along lines of practice which will mean better farming, more profits to the farmers, etc.

Proceeding further, the bankers devised a definite plan in which all the banks will co-operate to bring these objectives to the consideration of the farmers. In connection with the efforts of the county agent and the vocational teachers, the banks pledged themselves to engage in a general campaign of educational publicity on the adopted subjects. Seventeen hundred letters will be prepared under the supervision of the county agent, which will go out to as many farmers of the county, telling in detail of the purposes of the bankers in sponsoring these movements which were adopted. In addition to the letters, the banks of the county will co-operate in a newspaper advertising campaign dealing with the chosen subjects, and seeking to impress the farmers of the county with the importance of more intensive study and practice in the most modern idea concerning the proper use of fertilizers, terracing, soil building, and 4-H Club Work. These advertisements will be run through the months of March and April in both the newspapers of Chilton County.

It is considered most encouraging from the stadpoint of the farmers that the bankers of the county have taken this step to co-operate with the farmers on such important agricultural topics. It is a settled fact that the farmers of Chilton County need to reach a better system of practice in connection with the proper use of fertilizers, and the other subjects adopted by the bankers and vocational leaders. There is no agency in the county which can more effectively impress the importance of these subjects on the farmers than the bankers of the county. We look forward with much hope for good results to come from the determinations reached by the bankers in this meeting of Tuesday afternoon.

JIM KNIGHT VISITOR HERE

Mr. Jim Knight of Birmingham was a visitor to Clanton last Friday. Mr. Knight is a son of Berry Knight, who was a well-known citizen of this community years ago. Jim has been in Birmingham for twenty years, where he works for the T. C. I. Company.

SOME CHILTON COUNTY FARM TOPICS OF INTEREST

Last year one bale of cotton was produced to every four acres planted to cotton in Chilton County. A better system of fertilization and cultivation could reduce this acreage and at the same time guarantee as much or more cotton prouced with less expense.

Authorities agree with the statement of J. P. Montgomery that the basis of Chilton County's economic problem in agriculture is involved in these subjects: Proper use of fertilizres, terracing of land, the use of soil building crops.

Mr. J. N. Dennis expressed this thought at the bankers meeting Tuesday: Now is a good time to talk lespedeza and summer legumes to the farmers. It is much better for the farmer to have fertilizer growing on his land all the time than to depend on buying it all in a bag in the springtime.

Dairying is an important consideration in the drainage of the swamp lands around Clanton. One of the progressive and intelligent farmers who owns land in the swamps has said that he considers his swamp lands when properly drained would be worth more for growing grasses and cattle grazing than for cultivation.

A well-known farmer of Chilton County makes this astounding statement: In some sections of Chilton County the children on the farms do not have half enough milk; and many children in the rural sections do not have any milk at all. Children who do not have plenty of milk do not get proper nourishment, and can not make proper progress in physical and mental growth.

A good program for Chilton County farmers: Study and apply fertilizers properly now; boost the 4-H Club work in the summer; look out for your terracing and soil building crops next fall and winter.

Dr. Gowah of Clanton has a pet ambition for the development of dairying in Chilton County. He was at the bankers meeting Tuesday, and expressed the hope that the bankers of the county would support a dairying program for our farmers. "Dairying is my pet hobby," said Dr. Gowan, "because my home county in Mississippi has been revolutionized in the past three years by the development of dairy possibilities. That county is not as well adapted to dairying as Chilton County. I long to see Chilton County come into its own as a dairying center."

BUSINESS STANDARDS WILL BE SUBJECT OF KIWANIS CLUB

The weekly meeting of Clanton Kiwanis club to-day will be given to a program dealing with business standards. The program has been arranged by the committee on business standards, of which Virgil J. Elmore is chairman.

Each member of the club has been requested to invite some business or professional man of Clanton who is not a member of the Club, to be his guest at the meeting.

Business standards is a subject which very properly concerns all business men of the city, whether they are Kiwanians or not. Therefore the committee in charge of the program has very wisely sought to make the meeting an event in which an effort will be made to bring this important phase of business conduct to the attention of all the business men of the city.

ARTHUR GRAY DID NOT PLEAD GUILTY

Mr. Arthur Gray calls our attention to an error made in reporting the cases tried in non-jury court week before last. The paper stated that Arthur Gray plead guilty to a charge of abusive language.

This is an error. Mr. Gray says he was tried and adjudged guilty by the court.

We regret this error and apologize to Mr. Gray for same. It is our purpose only to report such matters strictly according to the records of the court as a matter of news to the public.

OLD PEOPLE AND MINISTERS MEETING AT FRIENDSHIP THE FIFTH SUNDAY

On Sunday, March 31st, the fifth Sunday, there will be held at Friendship church, one and a half miles north of Clanton, a meeting for old people and ministers. The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock, and will consist of talks of any nature and subject desired by the older citizens of Chilton County. A program will be arranged at the beginning of the meeting and the time designated for each to speak.

As this is a fifth Sunday, there will be no regular appointment of services at any churches, the ministers, or most of them, will be loose from their churches, so an invitation is extended all ministers and pastors to come and take part in this meeting. The intention is to get especially all old people over 70 years of age to attend this meeting, and ministers of any age.

The meeting will continue until 12 o'clock, when it will adjourn for one hour and a half which will be ample time for those in attendance to go to dinner and back. Service will be resumed at 1:30 and will continue for two hours.

To all the members of Friendship church or any others in this vicinity who know of some old friend or relative, it is hoped that a personal invitation will be extended them to attend this service.

The purpose is to have an old time experience meeting of these good old veterans of the Cross, and it is hoped that as many as can will come to Friendship the fifth Sunday in this month and feel that it is your meeting and take part in it.

HOOVER'S STATEMENT ON SUBJECT OF PUBLIC HEALTH

In his inaugural address Monday, President Herbert Hoover made a most significant statement on the subject of public health. It seems to us that his utterance on this subject might well be pondered by those citizens and officials of Chilton County who are at this time debating the question of whether or not Chilton County should spend some money to establish a full-time health unit.

Here are the words of Mr. Hoover:

"In public health the discoveries have opened a new era. Many sections of our country and many groups of our citizens suffer from disease, the eradication of which are mere matters of administration and moderate expenditure. Public health service should be as fully organized and as universally incorporated into our governmental system as is public education. The returns are a thousand fold in economic benefits, and infinitely more in reduction of suffereing and promotion of human happiness."

Ocie Webb, manager of Elmore's Store at Jasper, was a business visitor to Clanton Monday and Tuesday.

71 Indicted By Jury In Federal Court

Shelby County Officials Are Among Those Charged By Federal Courts

In one of the greatest liquor scandals in Alabama since prohibition became effective, a grand jury in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama Saturday indicted 71 persons in connection with various charges arising from alleged violations of liquor and other laws.

The report was returned to Judge Henry D. Clayton by A. L. Beck, of Ashland, Ala., foreman of the grand jury. Judge Clayton ordered that papers be issued at once for the arrest of those indicted.

In the report the grand jury charged that "the liquor law had been flagrantly violated in certain sections of northern Alabama, and that certain local prohibition enforcement officers had been derelict in their duties." Negligence was also charged to a number of federal officers in the report of the jury.

Five members of the Shelby County Sheriff's department named in federal court indictments in connection with the rum quiz will appear at the United States marshal's office in Birmingham Tuesday prepared to make bond, their attorney, Luther Saxon, announced Monday night.

The men are: C. J. Faulkner, present Sheriff of Shelby County; Hugh Shaw, William Dennis, Charlie Goodwin, and James Long, deputies.

L. H. Ellis, Columbiana attorney, who has also been retained by the officers, as defense counsel, declared that the indicted men had no statement to make at this time.

Total 460 In S. S. Here Last Sunday

First Sunday of Enlargement Campaign Shows A Gain Of Nineteen Per Cent

Figures taken from the records of the four Sunday Schols of Clanton for last Sunday show that all the schools together made a net gain of 19 per cent above the general average of all schools for last year. This is the first step in the enlargement campaign which will continue through the month of March.

Attendance at each of the four Sunday Schools last Sunday was as follows:

Presbyterian	23
Christian	39
Methodist	131
Baptist	267

As stated last week, the general average of each Sunday school for last year, from which percentage of gains will be cauculated this month, was as follows:

Presbyterian	19
Christian	36
Methodist	120
Baptist	212

By a comparison of these figures it will be seen that the gains in attendance for each school last Sunday were as follows:

Christian	3
Presbyterian	4
Methodist	11
Baptist	55

Calculating this gain by percentages against the average attendance for last year, the following is obtained as the percentage of gain for each school last Sunday:

Christian	8%
Methodist	9%
Presbyterian	21%
Baptist	25%

The campaign did not get up full steam last week. It is planned to make the drive more intense this week in an effort to show a more striking gain for next Sunday. Everybody is urged to pull for the Sunday school of your choice. Go to Sunday school next Sunday and take somebody with you.

GEORGE POLK GONE TO MAYO HOSPITAL FOR TREATMENT

Mr. George C. Polk, of the firm of Polk Brothers Motor Co., left Sunday night for Mayo Brothers Hospital at Rochester, Minnesota, where he will spend several weeks for medical treatment.

HILL'S BIRTHDAY SALE IS GOING OVER BIG

The Eighteenth Birthday Sale of Hill Grocery Company, which started March 1st, will be continued through this week. For this occasion the sales of the Clanton store has broken all records of the past. Last Saturday's business was the biggest done on any one day since the store was opened here. There was not a day during the Christmas season that registered as much in total sales as last Saturday.

Mr. McEathern, manager of the Hill store here, tells us that he has another car load of sugar just arrived this week. The last of the car he received a few weeks ago went out with the big rush of last Saturday.

FASHION SHOW WILL BE PUT ON HERE FRIDAY NIGHT, MARCH 15

We have been requested to announce that a fashion show will be staged at the high school auditorium in Clanton on Friday night, March 15th. The entertainment will be under auspices of the Methodist Missionary Society, and promises to be something unusual in interest for the people of Clanton and Chilton County.

Mrs. W. M. Polk is in charge of the arrangements of features and will make complete announcement of details next week. It is stated that a vast collection of Chilton County's beautiful young girls will furnish the center of attraction.

LIKING NASHVILLE O. K.

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a card from Miss Mary Farley, who left here and went to Nashville, Tenn., a few weeks ago and took up a job in the office of the Seventh Day Adventists. The card reads:

"I received The Union-Banner which was sent to me last week and surely enjoyed reading it. Am enjoying my work in Nashville very much, but am glad to get news from home and letters from friends and home folks."

Miss Farley's address is: 2119, 24th Ave., N., Nashville, Tenn.

CAPITOL News

Users of fake automobile tags in various parts of the state have encountered hard sledding at the hands of agents of the State Tax Commission, who have gone to work in earnest to break up this phase of law violation. A number of persons found with tags which had been altered from 1928 to 1929 in order to avoid payment of the 1929 license have found out that they were not as clever as they imagined, and have landed in the toils of the law. The drive against users of fake tags will be continued until the practice is broken up, a result which is expected in the near future.

Most of the trouble has been experienced through the changing of the figure "8" on the 1928 tags to a "9". by doing this and repainting the tag to the 1929 color, the tag forgers have been able to deceive anything but close observers. The agents of the Tax Commission are going in for close observation, however, and have made close studies of tags with a view to detecting any variation from the genuine. To date, three convictions have been secured in Birmingham, two of the cases being negroes and one a white man; another man arrested on a similar charge in Walker County jumped bond; and several other cases are pending. For a while, it was feared that lawless persons had established somewhere in the State a factory for the manufacture of tags, for in addition to the tags which had been altered from 1928 to 1929, several tags were found which had not been changed in any way, but were genuine in every appearance, but which had not been issued to the persons found in possession of them. Recently, however, it was discovered that a negro trusty employed at the State Capitol had been stealing tags stored there and selling them. It is known that at least five tags got into use through this route. The negro was sent back to Kilby Prison.

Interest in the next gubernatorial race was stimulated by the recent visit to the capitol of Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Davis of Jasper, who is regarded as one of the outstanding candidates for governor in 1930. He conferred with a number of friends in Montgomery, who expressed themselves as gratified with his prospects.

Lieutenant-Governor Davis won much praise by his service as presiding officer of the Senate of the 1927 Legislature, and had an important part in constructive legislation enacted by that body. Since the recent untimely death of Colonel Lee Long of Greenville, who had planned to make the race for governor, the three most frequently discussed potential candidates for governor are probably Lieutenant-Governor Davis, A. H. Carmichael of Tuscumbia, and Judge Hugh Locke of Birmingham.

Much credit is given by officials of the State Child Welfare Department to the American Legion and the State Federation of Women's Clubs, for aid in promoting the organization of county child welfare units over the State. Child welfare leaders have also expressed appreciation of the cooperation received from the State Departments of Education and public health, from Alabama College, where social workers are trained, and from county school officials, church groups, civic clubs and other local organizations. The sympathetic attitude and active aid of the Governor of the tSate is another factor mentioned as aiding in the work.

The progress of county child welfare organization work in Alabama in recent months has been remarkable. Fifteen months ago there were a total of only fifteen organized counties in the State; today the number is 57, from which it will be seen that 42 counties have been organized in the last fifteen months.

Elmore and Cullman are the last 2 counties to fall into line. There are today only ten counties of the 67 in Alabama which do not possess child welfare organizations, these ten being: Blount, Clay, Randolph, Bibb, Greene, Wilcox, Macon, Russell, Geneva and Barbour.

Fifty-four of the organized counties have uniform child welfare boards, established according to the provisions of an act of the 1923 Legislature. The other three counties, Jefferson, Montgomery and Mobile, have special juvenile court acts. Although the machinery for setting up child welfare units was provided for by the 1923 Legislature, the actual work of organization did not hit its stride until the Legislature of 1927 had largely increased the appropriation available for the State Child Welfare Department, which is carrying on the work of county organization. The county child welfare boards consist of the juvenile court judge, the chairman of the county board of education, the county superintendent of schools, one member of the court of county commissioners or board of revenue, this member to be selected by that body, and three members, two of whom must be women, appointed by the judge of the juvenile court. The establishment of these county boards is regarded as a tendency toward decentralization, the placing of the community's responsibility upon the community, and the promotion of self-government. The board is authorized to employ an executive agent, known as the county child welfare superintendent, whose duties include the administration of the school attendance law under the direction of the county board of education, and serving as probation officer of the juvenile court of the county.

Alabama has long been favorably known in the nation for her excellent child welfare laws and the able manner in which they are administered. The recent progress in establishing county child welfare units to attend to local needs is regarded as an important forward step in conserving and developing the State's human resources.

The following anecdote, recently related on capitol hill, contains more truth than poetry, acording to those in touch with the situation.

According to the story, a visitor to the capitol was being shown over the historic building. Being interested in his state government, he propounded a number of questions relating to matters of government and administration.

"What do you regard as the chief requisite for the successful discharge of your duties?" the visitor inquired of the head of one of the State Departments.

"An experienced chief clerk," the official responded without an instant's hesitation.

BAPTISM AND THE LORD'S SUPPER

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 3:13-17; 28:19, 20; I Cor. 11:23-29.

GOLDEN TEXT—This do in remembrance of me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Things God Wants Us to Do.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Things God Wants Us to Do.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Meaning of Baptism and the Lord's Supper.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place of Baptism and the Lord's Supper in the Christian Life.

I. The Baptism of Jesus (Matt. 3:13-17).

1. His request (v. 13).

This was in act, if not in word. He came from Galilee to Jordan to be baptized of John.

2. John's hesitancy (v. 14).

He perceived something in Jesus which impressed him with the unfitness of such an act.

3. Jesus' explanation (v. 15).

He insisted upon John's compliance on the ground that it was a method of fulfilling all righteousness.

4. The Heavenly acknowledgment (vv. 16, 17).

As Jesus emerged from the waters the heavens were opened, the Holy Spirit descended, and a voice declared, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

II. The Apostolic Commission (Matt. 28:18-20).

1. The authority of Jesus (v. 18).

God gave Him all authority in heaven and on earth.

2. The Commission of the Apostles (vv. 19, 20).

(1) It was to teach (make disciples of) all the nations (v. 19).

(2) Baptize believers (v. 19).

This baptism, the divinely appointed way of making public confession is to be in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, indicating that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the Holy Trinity.

(3) Teach obedience (v. 20).

Profession is not enough; it must issue in obedience.

3. The all-sufficient promise (v. 20)

The Lord told the disciples their difficulties would be great after He had gone away, but promised them the presence and fellowship of the all powerful Savior and Lord.

III. The Lord's Supper (I Cor. 11:23-29).

1. Its institution (v. 23).

(1) Time.

It was on the night of the betrayal of Jesus, just after the betrayer had been announced.

(2) Circumstances of.

It was in connection with the eating of the Passover (Matt. 26:26).

(3) The elements used. Bread, doubtless common bread of the Passover feast. The cup, fruit of the vine.

2. The Significance of the Lord's Supper (vv. 24-26, cf. Matt. 26:26-28).

Jesus took material things and made them to be symbols of His own body and blood.

(1) A memorial of the Lord (Luke 22:19) to be observed in remembrance of Him.

(2) To show the Lord's sacrificial death (v. 26). He did not die as a hero, or as an example of unselfish devotion, but as a substitutionary ransom.

(3) It is a guarantee that our sins are forgiven (Rom. 4:25).

(4) It symbolizes the believer's reception of Christ (I Cor. 10:16).

(5) A forward look to a completed redemption (I Cor. 10:26).

3. Qualifications for participation in the Lord's Supper (vv. 27-29).

(1) A proper apprehension of its meaning (v. 27). Eating and drinking unworthily primarily refers not to the demerit of the communicant, but his failure to grasp its meaning and importance.

(2) Church membership (I Cor. 11:18-22).

The Lord's body is the church which is composed of regenerated men and women united to Jesus Christ as head and to each other as members of that body by the Holy Spirit.

3. Orderly walk.

Conduct which disqualifies for participation in the Lord's supper:

(a) Immoral Conduct (I Cor. 5:1-13). It is most perilous for one who is guilty of immorality to approach the Lord's table (I Cor. 11:30). Sickness and death are often visited upon such.

(b) Heresy (Titus 3:10; I John 4:2, 3).

(c) The one who stirs up a schismatic strife (Rom. 16:17) in the church should be excluded from the Lord's table.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in the dear old Banner to say a few words.

Our Sunday school is still improving, but we would like to see a few more old people wake up and help us out.

The singing at this place Sunday was a great success. The society was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Obe Robinson; prayer by Rev. L. M. Nations. Directors for the afternoon were as follows: Obe Robinson, Enoch Foshee, Lorenza Sanders, Mamie Foshee, Enoch Traywick. Organists were Misses Jessie Dorminey and Cubie Littleton. We were glad to have Cane Creek and Collins Chapel and Union Grove with us and invite them each again the first Sunday in April.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Nations of Thorsby visited Mr. and Mrs. John Gilmore Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gore were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Abb Retherford Sunday.

Mr. Frank McClinton, David Davis, Birtlue Gore, Gracie Giles, Askew Davis were the guests of Misses Merle and Maude Retherford Sunday.

Mr. Askew Davis and Merle Retherford motored home with Miss Ruby Davis Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Grady Giles was the guest of Miss Birtlue Gore Sunday night.

Mrs. Hixie Davis of Shelby was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Arrie Dobbs, Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carrie Lowery spent Sunday with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Peters.

Misses Laura and Maggie Martin motired to Lock 12 Sunday morning and reported a nice time.

Miss Louise Dobbs spent the week end with her cousin, Miss Elwyn Robinson of Lock 12.

So, don't forget every third Saturday night and Sunday is regular preaching day. With many good wishes to the dear old Banner.—A Reader.

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 16

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in your paper to say a few words. Our Sunday school is progressing nicely and our singing society met last Sunday evening, and was sure fine. We had with us several visitors, among whom were W. G. Culp and wife and several visitors from Concord and Refuge. The directors for the afternoon were as follows: R. M. Robinson, J. W. Cleckler, W. G. Culp, J. E. Miner, Melvin Mims, S. V. Miller, C. H. Robinsin, with C. H. Robinson and W. G. Culp performing at the instrument. Come again. We were dismissed with prayer by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

Remember cereals, cabbage, root vegetables, cheaper cuts of meat and inexpensive fish when you plan economical winter menus.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

CHEVROLET PRODUCES 106,914 UNITS IN FORTY-FIVE DAYS

Assurance that Chevrolet's position as "world's largest builder of automobiles" will be sustained again this year, is contained in official production figures which give 106,914 passenger car and truck units as output for the first 45 days production on the new sixes. This figure not only eclipses all previous records of manufacturers of six cylinder cars, but actually exceeds the entire year's output of any other manufacturer during the first year.

The figures, as revealed by W. S. Knudsen, president of the company, date from December 15 to February 1. January production was 86,178, meaning that 20,736 units were produced the last two weeks of December.

A highlight of this remarkable 45 day production record was the manufacture, January 31, of 6,729 cars. This was peak for any day during the period and can be regarded as an indication that February would find all Chevrolet's mammoth productive facilities geared to meet maximum quotas. Chevrolet's peak day as a producer of sixes does not compare unfavorably with the company's all time record for a single day, which occurred May 28, 1928, when 7,075 four cylinder units were produced.

Further comparison with last year shows that production this January is only 5,406 units less than January, 1928, despite numerous handicaps incident to a changeover as huge as Chevrolet effected successfully last fall. And it is 12,502 in excess of January, 1927, when 73,676 four cylinder units were turned out. Last fall's turnover involved 20 widely scattered plants, and called for an entirely new set of machine tools, patterns and dies. Replacements began while the company was still engaged intensively in volume production of last year's four cylinder car — an achievement, which for speed and efficiency, has never been surpassed in the industry.

Some interesting statistics relative to the turnover were recalled last week by Mr. Knudsen, who declared that the Flint Motor plant manufactured 12,000 motors, an average of better than 1,000 per working day between November 15, when the six cylinder announcement was made, and December 1. During December, he related, 60,000 motors were produced, an average of better than 2,000 a day.

All of which would seem to indicate that Chevrolet was well fortified when it made and kept its promise of deliveries January 1, six weeks from the time the new car was announced.

Production this year calls tentatively for 1,250,000 units. Several important expansions, completed during the past 12 months, have increased the company's annual capacity by 250,000 cars. Last year Chevrolet outlined a production program calling for 1,000,000 cars, and actually surpassed this quota by 200,000 in a little more than 10 months time.

TIMBER GROWERS GOOD ADVISERS IN FORESTRY MATTERS

Montgomery, Ala., March 4.—The landowner who is engaged in producing profitable and sustained yields of timber over and above what nature would grow without his efforts is the very best adviser in forestry matters, points out the Alabama Commission of Forestry. This is in accordance with the principle that the rules of success can best be formulated by those who have succeeded.

One of the difficulties encountered in the development of timber production is the fact that forestry has been peculiarly best by misguided enthusiasts who undertake to serve as volunteer leaders of an industry in which they assume no financial responsibility. While all basic economic systems have their official and unofficial prophets, history records nothing like the burden imposed upon forestry.

Timberland owners and the general public naturally have but a certain amount of attention and effort that can be expended upon the forestal development of non-agricultural lands. The more their attention and time are taken up by poetry and pageantry the less remains for practical timber growing, it is pointed out. The State Commission of Forestry and its technical and field staffs are comprised almost entirely of forest landowners actually engaged, in their private capacities, in profitable timber production. Hundreds of other citizens in the state are similarly occupied. The policy of the Commission in disseminating forestry information is first to digest the data obtained from successful timber production enterprises rather than proceed mainly on theoretical grounds.

Naturally there is a great deal of scientific information of value to timber growers accessible to them mainly through the State forestry department. This, however, while continually at the disposal of the public, is issued as supplementary to, and not in the place of, the results of practical experience.

Satsuma Oranges

Some 30 years ago a resident of the Gulf Coast secured and put out a few Satsuma orange trees. The Satsuma is of Japanese origin, small, oblate, popularly known as the "kid glove orange." Many think it the most delicious of all oranges.

From the first, the agricultural workers of the L.&N.R.R. were interested in the new fruit, hoping its cultivation would give to the Gulf Coast Regions, which the railroad so largely serves, a new and important orchard industry, and bring into use large areas of the unused lands. The railroad horticulturists studied the fruit, methods of propagating the stock, planting and cultivation, methods of fighting pests which might afflict trees, particular localities and soil best adapted for orchards, most valuable stock for commercial plantings, effects of very low temperatures on the trees, methods of marketing, and all that has to do with the development of Satsuma production.

They have worked with the individual grower, the growers' associations, state and government representatives, in the solution of many problems which have arisen. The progress made, the ready reception of the fruit in the markets, the prices obtained for it, and notable returns made by many of the orchards, have strengthened the belief of the railroad workers that a few more years will find the Satsuma orange in quantity in all the principal markets of the country.

Though the industry is still at its beginning, as many as 700 cars of Satsumas have been sent to market in a season, nearly all from the two counties where its commercial production was earliest started. From these two counties, largely in connection with the assistance of the L. & N. horticultural workers, commercial orchards have spread throughout the entire Gulf Coast Region. Trees now planted will soon give an output of more than 1,000 carloads a year, shipped in October and November, the earliest oranges reaching the market.

Horticulturists of the L.&N.R.R. will readily and without charge give assistance to all in its territory who are planning Satsuma orange or other orchards. These horticulturists, located at various points on the railroad, are employed to give practical assistance in the building up of all fruit growing industries, and of the production of vegetables.

Transporting passengers and freight are not the only duties of a great railroad system, and its obligations to the public it serves are fully recognized by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

BRO. BRYAN'S BIBLE STORY

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO JOHN

I wish to study with you this morning six verses from the last chapter of the Gospel according to John. One cannot doubt that the Gospel according to John was written by the disciple John "whom Jesus loved." John loved Jesus and expressed his love for him. We read that he leaned upon Jesus' bosom. In this position he was near to the heart of Jesus. It seems that he lived very near the heart of Jesus. He was the brother of James and they were the sons of Zebedee.

This Gospel was written from the city of Ephesus, the capital and greatest metropolis of the province of Asia and of course under the rule of Romans. If you were going over there now you would not find the city of Ephesus. The people of that city treated John and the Christian church so badly that their city was effaced from the earth. Father Clark was given a pilgrimage, a study in the east. He went to Ephesus where he stayed and wrote the most interesting and helpful book ever written on this place. It is titled: "The church at Ephesus."

The most interesting and helpful passage of this Gospel is found in the last chapter when John tells us that these things were written by him who had wittnessed all these things and knew they were true that we might believe that Christ is the son of the living God and that if we believe we might have life through his name. To me the keyword of this book is "life." It is life more abundantly, life everlasting, life eternal.

Someone else has written a book of it studying it this way, that the last chapter is the "God chapter." I really think that is a wonderful name for it. We find that John is the only person in the world that called Christ God unless it is found in the book of Proverbs. John says, "in the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God."

Someone else has said this chapter should be christened, "The incarnation chapter." That is, Christ was made flesh and dwelt with us, and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth. Peter saw the glory of God upon the top of Mount Herman, beholding the transfiguration of Chirst's body.

There are still other people who say this is the "Sonship chapter," because it teaches Christ the son of God. No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him. We hear others say it may be named the "Atonement chapter." You mean by that one of the greatest, or the greatest thing in the world. John looking upon Jesus, said, "Look, look at the lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world."

Campbell Morgan says, "No it is the 'Testimony Chapter.'" It gives John's testimony of Christ. We read religious papers sometimes and hear preachers preach and teachers teach about sending somebody to Christ. When I say this I wish you would call me down. Sending men to Christ is putting the cart before the horse. Now if you will study the Gospel according to John you will find that we want to first introduce people to Christ. John introduced people to Christ.

John was born five miles from Jerusalem at a place called Arian-Kurian by the Arabs. To-day this is a desolate looking place, however one finds some relics of ancient houses which stood there. This place in time past was also called the hill country of Judea. However John does not stay there very long. The future of the wilderness depended upon how the people would listen to and heed to the preaching of that wilderness preacher.

His school and college life was that of the wilderness. As he traversed this desert wilderness in prayer, preparation and heart-searching he grew in spirit and became the greatest preacher who ever lived except Christ. Jesus Christ said of him that he was the greatest man ever born of woman. He was called the "Wilderness Preacher." He was dressed in a garment woven of camel's hair, and fastened by a leather girdle, and his food was that of locust and wild honey.

First we think of this message which was this: "Repent ye and believe for the kingdom of Heaven is at hand." Sometimes I think we preach everything else more than that wonderful message: "Repent and believe for the kingdom of Heaven is at hand." The great doctrinal teaching of John was: Behold the lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world." The suiritual teaching of John is found in these words; "He must increase but I must decrease. I am unworthy to even stoop down and untie the latchets of his shoes. I am just a voice crying in the wilderness, 'Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.'"

Sometimes I feel greatly discouraged when I try to get people to come to church, giving them warning of their danger, because I want to introduce everybody to Christ. You and I love Christ and that is the reason we come to church and invite others to come. Now the great introduction to this passage: I saw and bare record that this is the Son of God.

John must have said, "The truth is as I was baptising down there at the ford of the Jordan, I saw and bare record that this is the son of God." The next verse is this: Again the next day after John stood and two of his disciples: He looked up and reached forth his sunburned hands and said, "Behold the lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world." What a wonderful introduction of Jesus that was. It was also a great teaching of Jesus Christ in these words: "He taketh away the sins of the world."

No church is doing well in God's service that does not teach men and women about Jesus Christ. Christianity is seekiing to perpetuate the church, Christ the head and bride of the church as he has commanded us and not just as an organization. Jesus had walked five miles that day to hear John preach. Two of the disciples followed Jesus. Jesus turned and looking at them said, "What do you seek? Why are you following me? What is your motive?" They answered, "Rabbi, which is to say master, where dwellest thou?" O how eagerly they were seeking Jesus: "Where dwellest thou, Master?"

One Sunday not long ago I preached on "What would Jesus do?" I went home pondering as to how he would have conducted the service at the churlh and just what he would do for men and women in America who are looking into empty bread trays, without warm clothes, hungry and cold children looking them in the face. How would Jesus do with all he possessed? My friends, he laid it at the feet of Christ. Remember the church and everything we have belongs to God.

One of the two which heard John speak and followed Jesus was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother. This is the first time his name is mentoned in the Bible. He first finds his brother Simon, and saith unto him, "We have found the Messiah." They were fishermen of Bethsiada. No doubt they sold fish in Jerusalem. Many fish are taken up to Jerusalem from Galilee for sale to-day.

O what a wonderful question those disciples asked Jesus, "Master where dwellest thou?" That was to say, "I never saw you before." No doubt they thought Christ would say, "Well I will tell you, my home is in Nazareth." But Christ calmly answered, "Come and see." Some people say these were the first words of his ministry, "Come and see where I dwell." There never has been a house in that wilderness. John the Babtist's shelter must have been a rock.

Your child can become a preacher of the Gospel from a tent or a rock house just as well as from an up-to-date house. It matters little if Christ is there. Our home is all right if Christ is the chief guest. I visited the home of David Livingston in Scotland. It consisted of a one room stone house. Yet in this humble home prayer was offered daily. Christ was the chief guest and from that home there went out a great light which helped to light up the world for Jesus Christ.

There is a call coming to you this morning that never came before. Are you talking with Jesus Christ about this? Those disciples stayed with Jesus two hours that day after which they went forth to introduce others to him. Now is the point: When we begin to lead people to Christ we must stay with Jesus. O if I could introduce this blessed, loving Christ to all people. He is the only Potentate, the King of kings and Lord of lords.

What a wonderful testimony of Jesus Christ John left. I can see the angels of Heaven as they stop talking and look over the brink of Heaven where they saw his head severed from his body. Old Gabriel said, "Lift up the gates his spirit is coming in." I look down and see his spirit going to God who gave it. Remember he never was untrue to Jesus Christ. He was not ashamed to preach Jesus Christ.

"Lift up your heads, O ye gates: and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors and the King of Glory shall come in."

In Heaven everything was silent, then all at once every harp was playing and the servant of God entered in and heard the Lord say, "Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

"Hey, Bill, let's go rabbit hunting."
"S'matter; I ain't lost no rabbits."

Slightly Off: "Why, when my father was in condition he could dive over a hundred feet in two feet of water."
More So: "That's nothing; my father once dove off the Eiffel Tower onto a damp rag."—Puck.

A BIRTHDAY DINNER

On Monday, February 25, a birthday dinner was given by Mrs. Irvin Golson of Billingsley, Ala., in honor of her father, Mr. J. J. Traywick, and two of his friends, Mr. Hugh Willis and Miss Ida Roebuck, whose birthday happens to be the same day. The home was beautifully decorated in yellow and white and a delicious dinner was enjoyed by all. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Traywick, Billingsley, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Golson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilson of Birmingham; Mr. Hugh Willis of Asheville, North Carolina; and Miss Ida Roebuck of Montgomery. Here's wishing for each of them more birthdays in the future than they have had in the past.—A Subscriber.

COTTON CHAMPION

Fertilized his winning crop with Chilean Nitrate of Soda

INVARIABLY when the state cotton champion is named by the authorities, he proves a liberal user of Chilean Nitrate of Soda.

Do you think this "just happens" every year? There is no "just happens" about it. He makes his record crop because he uses this wonderful nitrogen fertilizer. History proves it . . . 1928 . . . '27 . . . '26 . . . '25 . . . year after year Chilean Nitrate wins!

C. O. Mann
New Hope, Alabama

Is declared the Cotton Champion of his state, having won the State-wide 5 Acre Cotton Contest for the 1928 crop. Yield made by Mr. Mann was 13,036 lbs. seed cotton or 4,739 lbs. lint cotton on 5 acres. Average yield per acre—947.8 lbs. lint cotton—nearly 2 bales.

Mr. Mann fertilized contest plot with manure, acid phosphate, kainit and 175 lbs. Chilean Nitrate per acre. He excelled by 695 lbs. of lint cotton the 5-acre yield by last year's champion (also a Chilean Nitrate user) A. L. Ford of Hightower, Ala.

Chilean Nitrate is the natural nitrogen fertilizer not synthetic or artificial. It is the good old "Soda" that 800,000 farmers used last year. Put it under your cotton. Then side dress with it . . . and make some real money this year.

If you don't know how or where to buy Chilean Nitrate, inquiry at the address below will receive prompt attention.

Hoover's Cabinet Is Now Confirmed

Official Family of The New President Gets Senate Endorsement

Washington, March 2.—The cabinet of President-elect Hoover was completed Saturday with the selection of Robert Patterson Lamont, of Chicago, to be secretary of commerce.

The appointment of the Chicagoan was the second of the "surprises" forecast in the completion of the Hoover cabinet, the other being the designation of ex-Gov. Arthur M. Hyde, of Missouri, to be secretary of agriculture. The Lamont appointment was even more of a surprise than the Hyde appointment, however, for his name has never been mentioned in connection with a cabinet post.

With this appointment, the complete Hoover cabinet now stands as follows:

Secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, of New York.

Secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, of Pennsylvania.

Attorney general, William D. Mitchell, of Minnesota.

Secretary of war, James W. Good, of Iowa.

Secretary of the navy, Charles Francis Adams, of Massachusetts.

Secretary of the interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur, of California.

Postmaster general, Walter Brown, of Ohio.

Secretary of agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde, of Missouri.

Secretary of commerce, Robert Patterson Lamont, of Illinois.

Secretary of labor, James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania.

Lamont is president of the American Steel Foundries Company and has long been a conspicuous figure in the business and industrial life of Chicago. In addition to the steel foundries post, he also is chairman of the board of the Griffin Wheel Company, is a director in the First National Bank, in the Morris Plan Bank, Montgomery Ward & Co., Armour & Co., the Globe Steel Tubes Company, the Simplex Railway Appliance Company and various smaller corporations.

The new secretary of commerce is 62 years of age and is a native of Detroit. He is a civil engineer by profession, graduating from the University of Michigan in 1891. Three years after his graduation from college he went to Chicago, married Helen Gertrede Trotter and has since made his home there. He maintains a home in the millionaire's colony of Lake Forest.

TELEPHONE COMPANY HAS MADE NEW PLANS

A new plan of rendering bills for telephone service will be introduced by the Southern Bell Telephone Company throughout Alabama, starting with charges for April exchange service.

Instead of the bills for all subscribers being mailed on the first of the month as at present, the billing will be divided into six equal groups, each group of bills being mailed shortly after their date.

It is stated that the new billing plan permits the work of preparing bills to be spread throughout the moonth, thus enabling the telephone company to give to their patroons a more efficient billing service. The long distance service charges an each bill will include items up to the date of the preceding month, as has been the practice.

Under the new plan telephon subscribers here will receive bills dated the 26th of each month.

It will be necessary while the change is in progress to include charges for local service, long distance service and telegrams for other than normal periods. However, after this adjustment has been completed bils will cover the regular periods; namely, the month preceding the date of the bill for long distance service items, and one month following date of the bill for local service.

Each subscriber will receive a notice with his March 1st bill and also with his next subsequent bill, fully explaining the plan and indicating the period covered by the charges on bills in the future. Additional information about the new plan may be secured at the telephone office.

SURE WAY TO STOP COUGHING

This Prescription Relieves Almost Instantly

Coughing is usually due to causes which patent medicines and cough syrups do not reach. However, Thoxine, a famous doctor's prescription relieves coughing with the very first swallow. It works on an entirely different theory, has a double action, relieves the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause.

Unlike most cough medicines, Thoxine contains no chloroform, dope or other harmful drugs. Safe for the whole family. Also excellent for sore throat. Quick relief guaranteed or your money back. 35c., 60c., and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., and all other good drug stores.

A Continuous March That Keeps A Step Ahead For You

An expenditure of more than $27,000,000 was required last year to expand and improve the Southern Bell Telephone System in the nine southeastern states.

More than 51,000 new telephones were added to the system, convincing evidence of the increasing value of telephone service in every line of business.

This activity and growth reflect the progress of the South east, and the improvement in the service emphasizes the Bell System effort to provide the best possible service at the lowest cost to the user.

At the end of the year there were 960,587 telephones in the Southern Bell System. In addition there were 345,572 telephones owned by other companies and 38,593 telephones in farm homes, connected with the system.

The investment in service reached the enormous total of $199,492,700 on December 31, 1928. It represents such permanent property as 912 central offices with switchboards and other associated equipment; 3,731,357 miles of wire (3.9 miles per telephone); 36,789 miles of pole line and 3,409 miles of underground duct.

To build, operate and manage this great telephone system requires an army of skilled men and women whose payroll amounted to $25,991,300 last year.

The tax bill for the year was also the largest in the history of the company, amounting to $5,235,132. This was an increase of 224 per cent over the tax bill of 1920.

There was a greater number of local and long distance calls and the speed with which they were handled was substantially increased.

Noteworthy as has been telephone progress during the past year, it will not stop. The entire telephone organization appreciates the friendly interest and confidence of the public—a spirit of cooperation which encourages them in their determination to provide the most efficient service at the lowest possible cost to the user.

High School News

Friday, March 1, was Arbor Day. A program presented by the Junior I class and directed by Miss Annie Laurie Clay of the history department, was very fittingly carried out at the assembly period. After this program, Dr. Ezell made some splendid points on the preservation of our forests and emphasized the fact that our forests are being destroyed four times as fast as we are growing new trees. The entire student body appreciated his talk very much. After the exercises in the auditorium, the whole school was turned into a working squad. The lady teachers took charge of all the girls, and cleaned up the interior of the building, while the men teachers and the boys worked on the yards and surroundings. In the meantime Mr. Knox and a few chosen boys went to the woods and brought back six water oak bushes which they put out on the campus fronting the street west of the building. We trust they will all live. Earl Ellis furnished his truck and six loads of clinkers, trash, and other stuff was hauled away. We feel we had a great day in our spring clean-up.

On next Friday night, the senior III class will present "Dot, The Miner's Daughter," in the high school auditorium. This is an unusual play, and carries with it a splendid point in every act. Two very funny negro characters furnish plenty of laughter all the way through. Remember this play is for the benefit of defraying expenses of athletics, and to help pay for our annual.

The beauty contest will close also Friday night. The votes being cast between acts. The money derived from this contest will go towards the annual. Let's see who the most beautiful girl, and most handsome young man in Chilton County High School is.

Mr. J. W. Williams of Luverne, stopped by Friday morning en route to Birmingham to see his daughter, Miss Bernice Williams, our popular teacher of the mathematics department.

We regret to learn that Addie Pearl Wilson, Junior III pupil, was carried to the hospital Thursday morning. She is now getting along well.

The entire school was very much disappointed when Mr. Childs failed to show up last Monday morning at the assembly period. He is giving us some splendid lectures on his trip to the Holy Lands. The public is cordially invited to be with us on each Monday morning at this period.

Our report cards for February showed a better grade of work than for the previous months. We hope to keep this average up to the standard.

FASHION SHOW AT C. C. H. S. AUDITORIUM ON MARCH 15TH

Ladies, Misses and Children, if you are interested in the very latest styles, don't miss this show.

Men, if you want to see some pretty models you be there, too.

One of the most attractive features of the show will be an orchestra from Birmingham which will furnish music throughout the evening.

Those in charge of this entertainment are Mrs. Omar Reynolds, Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. Percy Pitts, Miss Madelyn Orr, Mrs. Warr, Mrs. Grady Broadhead, Mrs. Hugh Simpson, and Mrs. W. M. Polk.

Don't forget the date, March 15th. Don't forget the place, High School Auditorium. Don't forget the hour, 8 o'clock.

MRS. EMMETT BILLINGSLEY CARRIED TO THE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Emmett Billingsley was carried to the Woodlawn Hospital Saturday. She will be there at least two weeks for treatment. She was very sick Sunday, but was reported some better Monday. Any of her friends going to Birmingham might like to drop by and give her a word of cheer, which we are sure would be appreciated.

MUSICAL "WHO'S WHO" IN PURE OIL BAND

Reading like a roster of the musically elite, the best known musicians of New York are assembled under the baton of Director Edwin Franko Goldman, when the weekly concerts of the Pure Oil Band are broadcast from WJZ and eighteen affiliated stations of the National Broadcasting Company each Saturday evening.

Many of these musicians are gathered from the personnel of the Philharmonic, New York Symphony, Metropolitan and Chicago Opera Companies and from the leading night clubs of New York. Others were recruited from such organizations as the Cleveland and National Symphony Orchestras, the Wiesbaden, Demrosch and Philadelphia Orchestras. In fact, the members of the Pure Oil Band represent experience gained in the leading orchestral and band organizations of the world. In reputation many of these men are as outstanding as their distinguished leader.

Their program this week which is sponsored by both the Pure Oil Company and the Wofford Oil Company, includes the following selections:

1. Pure Oil March.
2. March, The Stars and Stripes Forever, Sousa.
3. To a Water Lily, MacDowell.
4. March Russe, Ganne.
5. Finale to William Tell Overture, Rossini.
6. The Rooster and the Hens, Leonard.
7. Cuban Dance, Romeu.
8. March, On the Road, Goldman.
9. Pure Oil March.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you allow us a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words about this place? Sunday was regular preaching day at the Baptist church. Rev. Jones, the pastor, did the preaching. Every first Sunday is regular preaching day at the Baptist church. Everybody is always welcome to hear Rev. Jones preach.

Mrs. Mary Eiland spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Dukes, of Sylacauga.

Mr. L. V. Dennis spent the past week end with his brother at Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Shaw spent the week end with their daughter at Gorgas, Alabama.

Misses Clara and Clora Smith spent Sunday with Lovellen and Lona Porter of Pleasant Grove.

Miss Leona Price was the week end guest of Miss Eva Dennis.

Miss Myrtle Robinson spent Sunday with Miss Anna Robinson of Mars Hill.

Miss Mildred and Gwendolyn Cobb spent Sunday with Miss Willie Mae Childress.

We are very sorry to hear that Miss Willie Mea Childress fell and knocked her ankle out of place last Thursday. We hope that she will be able to enter school again soon.

Little Walter Logan is on the sick list this week. We are hoping for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Herbert Duke is very low at Sylacauga.

Misses Rena and Leila Mae Dennis of Clanton spent the past week end with their grandparents at Jemison.

MRS. SUSIE E. YOUNG

Death claimed the sweet spirit of Mrs. Susie Elizabeth Young at her home at Fairfax on February 20th. Mrs. Young had been in ill health for more than two years, and had for the past five months been a constant sufferer and her death, though not unexpected, brings sorrow to many who knew and loved her. Everything that loving hands could do was done for her, but the giver of life had need of her.

Mrs. Young was born and reared in Chilton County, Alabama where she lived until about seven years ago when as a bride she came to Fairfax. As a girl she had many friends and while in Fairfax she made many more. She was a devoted wife, sister and daughter, so patient and gentle and uncomplaining, although her body was tortured with great pain. She was never too weary to smile and scatter sunshine. She was not a member of any church at the time of her going, but we know her ship has landed safely on the other shore where she is at rest.

"A form we love is silent,
A voice, so sweet, is still.
The chair within her room
She never more will fill,
For now she's living yonder
Where pain she does not know,
And we again shall see her
When done with life below."

No children were born of this happy union, but she leaves to mourn her passing her husband, Mr. Jack Young, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samps Driver, of Clanton, Ala., three brothers, Messrs. Jim, John and Bascom Driver of Clanton, Ala., five sisters, Mrs. Maggie Vinson and Mrs. Lular Knight of Clanton, Ala., and Mrs. Fannie Ingram and Mrs. Leala Sellers of Florida, Mrs. Ressie Stephens of Fairfax, Alabama, and numerous relatives and friends. — A Friend.

SENATE LEAVES REYNOLDS CONFIRMATION UNDONE

A dispatch from Washington in the Montgomery Advertiser Tuesday morning says:

"Among the numerous nominations which failed to receive action before the Seventieth Congress ended was that of Grady Reynolds of Chilton County for another term as United States District Attorney for middle Alabama.

"Protests against confirmation of Reynold's nomination were received after the judiciary committee had voted a favorable report, on the grounds that Reynolds was not sufficiently vigorous in prosecuting prohibition cases, and spent much time away from his office. It was also charged that he and his brother as law partners represented defendants charged with prohibition law violations in the State courts.

"When these protests were received by Senators Heflin and Black they were turned over to the judiciary committee and the department of justice was asked to investigate.

"The department, through Assistant Attorney General, John Marshall, repoted last Thursday that its investigation disproved the charges, or that Reynolds denied them adequately, in the opinion of officials. The Alabama Senators, however, failed to withdraw their objections before the last executive session of the Senate, so Reynold's fate will be up to President Hoover."

"A FORTUNATE CALAMITY" AT ISABELLA SATURDAY NIGHT

"A Fortunate Calamity" is the title of a play to be presented at Isabella High School Saturday night of this week. The characters who will act the different parts are supplied by members of the school faculty and students.

In addition to the announcements which were published in the paper last week, we are asked to give this week the following synopsis of the story which was furnished us by a young lady of Isabella:

Mrs. Merkle lives on a farm, and is very rich. She has two daughters, Ruth and Alta. Being very partial to Alta, the mother is always trying to keep Ruth in the background.

Ruth leaves home, and it is supposed that she has jumped into the river never to be seen again. In the meantime Alta and her suitor, Albert Campbell, plot to rob Mrs. Merkle of her property. Albert is proven to be a crook by Joe Brown, a revenue officer.

Ruth eloped with Bernard Gallion when it was thought she had drowned herself in the river. Mrs. Merkle gets sorry for the way she has treated her daughter. When she hears that she is alive she goes to her to ask her forgiveness and it is granted.

Ruth owns a few acres of valueless property in Texas and it is found to contain rich oil wells.

Diana and Rasuts Johnsing are two very comical servants of Mrs. Merkle. Come and see Rastus allus gettin' himself in the way and Diana riding Theo-Missed-His-Knees in the perambulator.

Miss Cleo Broadhead was a visitor to Clanton Saturday. She is now engaged in teaching in the Morganville School in the southern part of the county.

Misses Ruth Jones and Sarah Mullins, teachers in the Collins Chapel and Corinth Schools, respectively, were visitors in Clanton last Saturday.

Sidney J. M. Webb, of Mulberry, member of the Chilton County Board of Education, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

Prof. Z. Y. Appleton, principal of the school at Collins Chapel, was among the visitors to Clanton last Saturday.

Jemison Baptist Sunday School was represented at the conference in Clanton last Sunday afternoon by the superintendent, C. C. Conway and other workers.

Lee Robinson and Charley Hughes of Verbena were at the Sunday School conference in Clanton last Sunday afternoon.

D. S. Robinson of Coopers was among the attendants at the Sunday School conference at Clanton Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon.

Prof. A. E. Davis of Enterprise was one of the principal speakers at the Sunday School conference at Clanton Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Davis possesses a wonderful power for inspiring his hearers.

OBITUARY

On Monday morning, February 25, Mr. J. M. Webb received the call of our Heavenly Father, then he laid down his earthly cares and his soul entered eternity to live with God, who gave it, for as our Master has said, "I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself: That where I am, there ye may be also."

He was near seventy three years of age. He joined the missionary Baptist church while a mere boy and had lived a pure Christian life.

He was a devoted father, a loving husband, a good neighobor and a loyal citizen.

He was first married to Miss Jamina Morris. God blessed this union with three boys, all of whom survive him. They are Mr. L. H. Webb of Boise City, Oklahoma; S. J. M. Webb of Maplesville, Ala.; and E. L. Webb of Elmore, Ala.

The deceased was married the second time to Mrs. Abbie Carter, who also survives him.

It is sad anytime to see our loved ones surely passing into eternity, but what a joy to know that they can say: "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me."

We know that those who cross the waters of death can never come back to us yet there is great happiness in knowing that we can go to them.

He lived a life that might well be an example for us to follow as has been said, "He preached his own funeral while living.."

The remains were interred in the Weogufka Baptist cemetery on the following day. The funearl services week conducted by his pastor, Rev. Bryant, assisted by Rev. B. Lawrence of Clanton, Alabama.

By special request of the family they wish to extend their heartfelt thanks to all who rendered so many acts of kindness and sympathy. May God's richest blessings ret upon each and every one of them.—A Cousin.

W. C. Robinson says he is planning a business adventure of several days out in the woods; but he will not undertake it until the weather gets better.

NO WAR CLOUDS

The pacifists assured us, when the fifteen cruiser bill was up in the Senate, that its passage meant danger of war with Great Britain. Well, the bill has passed and been signed by the President, but as yet there is no lowering of war clouds. On the other hand, there are indications that Great Britain, supposedly jealous of our desire to build fifteen new cruisers, is willing to sit in at another disarmament conference. Some indication of this is furnished by the recent statement of Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, to the effect that Great Britain might be favorable to an early conference for an agreement on naval armaments. It is true that Sir Esme declares he was speaking for himself only, and not for the British Cabinet, but it is also true that the British newspapers hailed the ambassador's statement with a great deal of approval.

"There would seem to be every evidence to believe," said Sir Esme, "now that the fifteen cruiser bill has become a law that a further effort will be made before long to reach an agreement between the principal naval powers of the world for the limitation of naval armaments." He declared further that all members of the League of Nations should make efforts toward naval disarmament and that the United States was favorable to a disarmament program also. It would seem therefore," the diplomat continued, "that everything points toward an early resumption of negotiations and with a far better understanding of the needs of the various parties than existed at Geneva in 1927, there should be a very good prospect of their being brought to a satisfactory conclusion."

All of which is good so far as it goes and indicates that this British diplomat at least, does not believe that the patriotic action of the Senate in passing the fifteen cruiser bill tends toward war between the two great English-speaking countries.

As a matter of fact there is no danger that the fifteen new cruisers will make war likely between the United States and Great Britain. Even with these new ships the United States will still be inferior to Great Britain in cruiser tonnage although the cruisers planned for will go a long way toward giving us parity. Now Great Britain has already agreed to the theory that we are entitled to equal naval strength with her. Therefore when another conference is held, as there likely will be, the fifteen cruisers will still be necessary for the American navy if it is to be maintained on a par with the British navy. There is no evidence which would lead us to believe that Great Britain will destroy any cruisers already built. Uncle Sam therefore will have to build up for parity not cut down and the fifteen cruisers will be necessary even in the face of a new disarmament program.

The pacifists made a lot of noise for the time being but they convinced nobody with their creation of a war bogey. We are much more apt to get in trouble if unable to defend ourselves.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Now that the pacifists and internationalists have suffered a decisive defeat in the passage of the fifteen cruiser bill and the signing of the bill by the President, we may well take time to wonder what they will do next. That their carefully built propaganda machines will not be permitted to rust by disuse can be taken for granted. Already there has been a sign or two of a revival of the onslaughts against citizens' military training camps and military training in our high schools and colleges. And it is to be taken also that a new attempt will be made to get Uncle Sam more closely connected with the League of Nations through the Kellogg Treaty for the outlawry of war.

It was generally agreed by American statesmen that the Kellogg treaty as ratified by the Senate did not involve the United States in any program of peace enforcement which might entangle us against our will in world politics. But with the treaty passed by the Senate it is perhaps only natural to expect that our internationalists will use this action in an attempt to break down the traditional foreign policy of the United States. The first evidence that something was in the wind came with the introduction in the Senate of a resolution embodying the internationalist ideals of Professor Shotwell of Columbia University. Professor Shotwell is an unofficial diplomat who believes that it is the mission of the United States to get into the European political game with both feet.

The resolution provided among other things that in case of war breaking out between two signatories of the peace pact, the United States through the President might decide which is the aggressor nation and refuse to carry on trade, especially, in what might be regarded as munitions of war, with the so-called aggressor nation. In other words, in case of a war between two European nations over a boundary line in the Balkans or a mandate over an ivory colony in Africa, Uncle Sam would set himself up as the umpire in the dispute.

It is hardly necessary to state that this plan has not as yet been greeted with any degree of enthusiasm by the clear thinking, hard headed statesmen of the country either inside the Senate or out. In the first place, it is pointed out, whenever a war starts each nation claims the other is the aggressor. This has always been true and always will be. It has not yet been completely decided which was the agressor in our war with Mexico nearly a hundred years ago. This is only one example and there are many others from the time of Julius Caesar down to the World War. Now, when the next war breaks out, with both sides claiming to be on the defensive, if Uncle Sam decides that one of the nations is the real bad actor in the case and refuses to trade with it, he will have in the eyes of the other nation, committed a grave breach of neutrality which can only be settled by force of arms. As a result, having started in as an umpire Uncle Sam will have become one of the gladiators in the combat. Instead of enforcing peace he will have become entangled in war, especially if the aggrieved nation is one which is capable of real fighting and is able to line up a few allies of its own.

Of course the internationalists in the United States do not want Uncle Sam really to act as an umpire in such an instance. What they really desire is to have the United States accept the decision of the League of Nations as to which of the nations is the aggressor. Then Uncle Sam will be as effectually tied to the league as if he were a dues-paying member. This is not getting into the back door of the league as was threatened a few years ago. It is merely sitting on the outside cellar steps and acting as the little "yes man" of the international political body. The league battle and the World Court discussion in our Senate and in the American press and the American political arena have served one especially good purpose. They have served to teach the American people something about world politics, a sort of education they have needed badly. As a result they are not apt to fall for any of this "umpire stuff." They know how popular the umpire always is and what sometimes happens to him when the crowd gets out of hand.

Europe is experiencing the coldest February on record. Here's a chance for some of our internationalists to help by shipping a lot of their hot air over there.

You'll observe, if interested, that it is usually the seventh car back in the line that starts the honking.—Toledo Blade.

THE NEED OF PROTECTION

The Chief economic concern of the government should be the profitable employment of the people. The most direct means of bringing this about is to preserve the home market for the American people. It should be a matter of reproach when American wage earners are out of employment and American farmers find their crops unprofitable because the American farm and factory have been exposed to destructive competition with the output of workers employed abroad at wages and returns which involve a low standard of living. The competition between foreign and domestic products is primarily a battle between standards of living in which the victory will inevitably go to the lower standard, in the absence of a protective tariff sufficient to equalize in some degree at least production costs thus created at home and abroad.

Relief for certain industries which have had to curtail production because of inability to meet competition based on lower foreign wage standards, and for farmers who can not pay American prices for labor, land and materials, and successfully meet foreign competition based on cheaper costs, has been too long delayed. The amount of unemployment in the United States due to directly unfair foreign competition is an important factor in our present industrial situation. The depression in agriculture is due in no small part to failure to produce in the United States a vast quantity of raw material which can not profitably be produced here because of higher costs due entirely to higher American standards of living.

Congress is proceeding along the right line in undertaking to provide this long delayed relief at the special session of Congress. There are political as well as economic considerations which indicate the advisability of this course. A revision of the tariff undertaken next winter would not be completed before the congressional campaigning of 1930 would be upon the country. The new tariff schedules would not have opportunity to demonstrate their value before another election. Necessarily, too, more politics would be injected into the discussion on the eve of a campaign than at some earlier period.

So well disposed are the American people toward the protective policy that in the last national campaign declarations against it were absent from the national campaign. There has come to be a general realization that a protective tariff measuring the difference in wages and standards of living at home and abroad represents not special privilege, but simple justice. Organized labor, which a few years ago was divided on the question of a protective tariff, is now united in favor of it. Wage earners have come to see that restriction upon cheap foreign products stands on all fours with restriction of the immigration of those who raise or make these products and that unfair competition is as much involved in the one as in the other.

It is often said that mass production in the United States outweighs the advantage of lower wage scales abroad in competition with commodities grown or manufactured in this country. But there is no world wide patent on mass production, and foreign countries are adopting these same methods of production, still retaining the advantages of cheaper labor. Moreover immense investments of American capital are being made abroad, more are in prospect, and these investors in foreign industry are carrying with them American men and methods.

To protect the American wage earner and farmer from disaster d to his inability to compete on his scale of pay and living with lower foreign standards is so clear a demand of social justice and of economic safety that resistance to reasonable increases in traiff rates on commodities subjected to unfair foreign competition is at this time weak. Congress should see to it that tariff rates are so adjusted that no American may be thrown out of a job, or be compelled to work part time or accept a reduction in wages, that no American farmer shall find his labor unprofitable because he can not stand up against the deadly weapon of a cheapness procured abroad by the sacrifice of human values. No encouragement should be offered to American investors to employ foreign labor because it is made cheap by the cheapening of the life of the toiler. That is good Americanism, practical humanitarianism and economic horse sense.

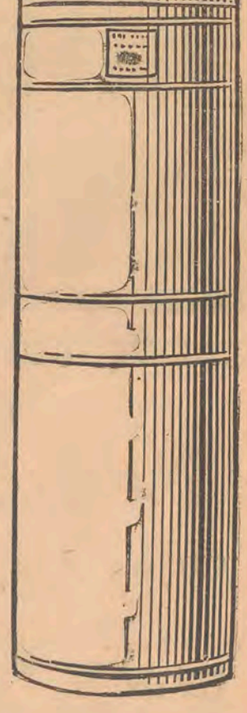
"Is the Water Hot Yet?"



"YES!

Always With This Heater"

NO LONGER must you waste time waiting for the water to get hot—for your morning shave or bath. No longer do you have to build the kitchen fire to get hot water for the dishes. With this electric, automatic heater in your home you'll have all the hot water you can use—instantly—at the turn of a faucet. Controlled by a thermostat, the power is turned off when the tank is hot. Unless hot water is withdrawn from the tank no more electricity is used for many hours.

Hot water—plenty of it—is the greatest comfort any home can have. Our special terms on RED CROWN HEATERS are now unusually attractive:

Here Is Our Special Offer

You pay only $5.00 down—the balance over a two-year period, in easy monthly payments.

For your old type heater we will allow you a $20 credit on this new Red Crown.

PUT IT TO THE TEST

Don't take chances. Girls, if you do housework at six dollars a week per, that's domestic service. If you do it for nothing, that's matrimony.

Putting our service to the test will reveal that we guarantee every USED CAR we sell. It pays to invest your money in a reliable car here than to spend it for inferior elsewhere. We will gladly demonstrate any car you select.

1927 Coach fully reconditioned; runs and looks almost as good as new and is a real bargain at the price we ask.

Late Model Chevrolet Truck—run very little; has good tires and four speed transmission.

One of those good 1925 Model T Ford tourings that has been well cared for and is in perfect condition throughout.

If you are in the market for a Coach you should see the 1928 Model Chevrolet Coach we are offering at a very low price.

1927 Chevrolet Coupe, motor thoroughly reconditioned; upholstery perfect and is a car you would be proud to own.

We have two 1928 Chevrolet Coupes in perfect condition, mileage very low and will give practically the same service as a new Ford.

We have one 1925 Studebaker Duplex Roadster and one Duplex Touring that we will sell or trade at a price.

We have two late model Chevrolet Trucks that have thousands of miles of unused transportation.

RADIO STATION WAPI NOW OWNED JOINTLY

Auburn, Ala., March 4.—Instead of being owned exclusively by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, as in the past, radio station WAPI, Birmingham, is now owned jointly by the original owner, the University of Alabama, and the Alabama College at Montevallo. It is being operated by the owners in cooperation with the City of Birmingham.

Announcement of this was made by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who said that other institutions were invited to become joint owners in order that the people of Alabama may have the best of radio service at the lowest cost.

The station will feature educational programs and it is understood that each of the institutions expects to broadcast regularly.

Already the Alabama Polytechnic Institute is broadcasting daily by remote control from 12 to 12:30. From 12:30 to 1 P. M. programs are broadcast from the department of Agriculaure and Industries studio in Montgomery. The Montgomery programs are largely on markets and farm products. The Auburn programs are a "College of the Air" in which different kinds of educational features are presented.

The joint ownership arrangement means that Alabama will have one big station instead of several small stations. Experience has revealed that one staton is enough for all three; and that one big station is better than several small stations. Each institution can do its best radio broadcasting at the lowest cost by all joining in the ownership of one, it was said.

Management of the station will continue as in the past. The call letters WAPI will remain unchanged and the station will be known as "The Voice of Alabama."

NEWS IN BRIEF

The shortage of hogs on farms of the United States means that prices will be higher and that Alabama farmers should save their brood sows, Auburn specialists declare.

J. P. Wilson, district demonstration agent at Auburn, has resigned to become superintendent of the new experiment station at Headland and Emmett Sizemore has succeeded him at Auburn.

A system of national sanctuaries where migratory birds may feed, rest and breed unmolested will come into being as a result of a bill recently enacted by Congress. In each state one or more of these sanctuaries will be established.

World requirements of rubber during 1929 are estimated at 737,000 tons compared with estimated requirements of 638,000 tons in 1928. Of the estimated total for 1929 the United States is expected to take 465,000 tons or 63.9 per cent of the total.

In egg production the pen of white leghorns owned by Marshall Farm, Mobile, is leading the other 99 pens in the Fifth National Egg Laying contest at Auburn. During the first 15 weeks these 10 birds produced 700 eggs.

AUBURN WILL GIVE MORE MAIL COURSES

Auburn, Ala., March 4.—The addition of seven courses in bookkeeping and related lines of study to those being offered by correspondence by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute was announced Monday by B. R. Showalter, director of extension teaching.

These courses include elementary beekkeeping, elementary accounting, principles of accounting, cost accounting, public accounting and auditing, business arithmetic, and business English.

The new courses are so arranged as to give service to those who want to study along business lines either in an elementary or an advanced manner. The elementary courses in bookkeeping and accounting give one the basic knowledge for the installation and keeping of a simple system of business records, whereas the other courses in accounting allow one to pursue studies into the professional field, Dr. Showalter said.

Material for these courses has been perpared by a number of nationally recognized authorities in the United States. Each lesson will be given the immediate supervision of accounting specialists at Auburn.

The courses in business arithmetic and business English give training to those who need special drill in these subjects. The business arithmetic course has been preared by Prof. W. P. Champion, instructor in mathematics, and the course in modern business English has been prepared by Prof. Kenneth L. Daughrity, assistant professor of English.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

An important factor in farm production is good seed. Any farmer can get information as to the best varieties of seed by asking his county agent.

All government expenditures for the first seven months of the fiscal year 1928, from July 1, 1928, to January 31, 1929, including those for running the departments, amounted to $2,407,710,136.27, as against $2,273,571,566.03 for the comparable months of the previous fiscal year.

Curb market sales in Alabama during January amounted to $16,369.30. The Montgomery market was the leader with sales totaling $4,100. Gadsden was second with $3,245; Tuscaloosa was third with $2,640; and Anniston fourth with $1,393, Miss Helen Johnston of Auburn reported.

Press dispatches say that Henry Ford has quit experimental farming and sold his implements to farmers in Illinois and Michigan. None of them were operated by hand.

Agricultural engineers say that by using a sulky plow with three mules a farmer can do his breaking at least twice as fast as he would with a one horse outfit; and he will do it much better.

The peach will stand a temperature of 26 degrees when in full bloom, this being 6 degrees below freezing. After fruit is set it will stand 28 degrees or 4 below freezing.

RADIO COMMUNITY MEETING

Montgomery, Ala., March 4.—Of special interest to farmers of Alabama and the nation will be the gigantic natonal radio community meeting on March 14th, 9:30 to 10:30 P. M. Central Standard Time, which has been prepared especially for farmers and their families.

Senator Charles L. McNary, chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, and Congressman W. C. Hawley, ranking members of the Ways and Means Committee, will be the two headline speakers, according to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, who is very anxious for all farmers, especially farm bureau members, to hear the broadcast. The program will be broadcast by the American Farm Bureau Federation over the National Broadcasting Company's net work. It is expected that farmers may also have the opportunity, for the first time, to hear the voices of some of the new members of President-elect Hoover's official family.

Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will call the meeting to order at 9:30 o'clock from the Chicago Studio. At the same time, in the studio at Washington, D. C. Senator McNary and Congressman Hawley will be ready to be introduced to the vast agricultural audience by Chester H. Gray, legislative representative of the national organization. This being the case, the program will come from two studios during the same broadcast.

By means of the chain system of broadcasting, it will be possible for more than 1,250,000 families of the country to take part in the meeting. It is expected that a large number of farmers and farm bureau members of Alabama will hear and derive benefit from the program. It will be the most widely heard program ever broadcast exclusively for the benefit of the farmer.

Loafer hens or cows or men are a handicap to success and a sure road to failure.

A committee of Congress handling tariff questions has been conducting public hearings during which spokesmen for farmers have insisted on higher tariffs for farm products.

FERTILIZER NOTICE

In order that we may make delivery of soda and potash at an early date we are going to close our orders for soda and potash on Saturday of this week at the following shipping points:

Verbena, Coopers, Thorsby, Jemison, Billingsley, Adams, Stanton, and Maplesville.

If you wish to place your order or increase the one you have notify the office by Saturday March 9th. We will close our books on phosphate and mixed goods at an early date also.—Chilton County Farm Bureau, O. C. Paulk, Field Man.

HOW TO CARE FOR THE YOUNG PLANTS

In our February letter we enumerated a number of vegetables that might be planted during that month. Practically all of these will do well if planted during March, exception being those requiring cool seasons for development. Cauliflower planted in South Alabama during March usually does not have time to reach maturity before hot weather, which causes it to run up to seed. If all of the vegetables as suggested were planted, a second planting should be made of the short lived ones such as English peas.

All the leafy vegetables such as lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower, spinach, etc., should receive rather frequent applications, of some quick-acting nitorgen fertilizer. This should be applied as a side dressing.

Do not forget to thin your lettuce to stand not closer than 12 inches in the row. Many home gardeners have the idea that lettuce must be transplanted before it will head. It must be thinned but not transplanted. Transplanting retards the growth of any crop, and is not usually advisable except in growing early vegetables or those which have specific requirements as to seasonal conditions. Vegetables such as tomatoes, peppers and egg plant should be transplanted from the hot bed to the cold-frame as soon as they begin to crowd. They should not be allowed to crowd in either the hot-bed or cold-frame, as this will result in weak, slender plants. If you have not already started these plants, the seed should be planted at once in order that the plants may be transferred to the field as soon as danger of frost has passed.

Small paper pots or similar containers are being successfully used by many as a means of starting and protecting tender plants out-of-doors. There are several companies selling these pots for about 1-4 to 1-2 cent each and they serve excellently for this purpose. Ordinary oatmeal boxes are quite often substituted for the specially prepared pots and they are quite satisfactory. Just remember, the plants should be given open air and sunshine just as much of the time as possible without injury.

With the growth of spring vegetables, insects and diseases start their campaign for destroying the plants, and your garden should be watched very closely for their first appearance. Any of them can be controlled if we start in time. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This is surely true with insects and diseases. Destroy them on their first appearance. For detailed information relative to control measures see your County or Home Agent or write to the Extension Service, Auburn, Alabama.

COTTON VARIETIES OF GREAT IMPORTANCE TO ALA. FARMERS

A difference per acre of 127 lbs. of lint cotton worth at 18 cents per pound $22.86 was found by the Alabama Experiment Station between the highest yielding variety and the lowest yielding variety of cotton. This was the average of four years of carefully conducted tests over the state.

For the 1929 crop it is unusually important that the farmers secure a well tested variety of cotton for their section. Owing to bad weather conditions last spring thousands of farmers were forced to plant over one or more times. Thus they were forced to use such seed as could be secured regardless of variety or purity. The result has been that planting seed are badly mixed and in many cases varieties not adapted to the particular section.

For safety every farmer should consult his county agent as to the best variety for his county according to the results of the Alabama Experiment Station. A splendid plan is for a group of farmers patronizing the same gin to buy the same variety and arrange with the ginner for a gin day next fall to gin the cotton from which they wish to save their planting seed.

By so doing the gins can be cleaned and the better variety kept pure.

Usually extra planting seed can be sold to neighbors at sufficient premium to justify the extra trouble not considering the increased yields in cotton that will result.

A Good Wilt Resistant Variey of Cotton Important in Wilt Counties

In sections of the state where wilt is prevalent it is necessary to grow a wilt resistant cotton of the best strain. Tests run by the Alabama Experiment Station over a period of six years show a difference per acre of 63 pounds of lint worth at 18 cents per pound $11.34 between the highest yielding variety and the lowest yielling variety. Ten wilt resistant varieties were run in this test.

Cook 307 has been the leading variety in these tests.

BUTTERFAT TESTS TO BE RUN AT COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE ON SATURDAY, MARCH THE 16TH

County agent C. E. Stapp has arranged with Swift and Company, recent purchasers of Belle Meade Butter Company in Montgomery, to test samples of milk brought to his office Saturday, March 16th.

Farmers desiring to have their cows tested to see what per cent of their milk is butterfat, are requested to call by the county agent's office prior to the 16th, and get sample bottles and instructions for taking samples.

The tester will be at the office of the county agent all day Saturday, March 16th.

STAPP URGES BUILDING OF PASTURES

In connection with the dairy program in the county, Mr. Stapp again calls attention to the importance of good pastures. He states that a goodly number of farmers are buying carpet, dallas and lespedeza seed and are sowing same on branch bottom land where the growth of timber has been removed sufficiently to allow the grass to thrive.

Mr. Stapp says he finds lots of good pasture land in the county, but that at present the most of it is in unprofitable condition due to the fact that it is covered with briars and bushes which sap the fertility and moisture from the grass. Mr. Stapp has arranged with the Farm Bureau to handle pasture grass seeds at a reasonable price and he urges farmers to take advantage of this opportunity to improve their pastures.

Mr. Stapp further states that pasture land should be cleaned off so that the new growth of briars and bushes can be mowed off, leaving all the fertility and moisture for the grass.

DAIRY FEEDS

In addition to pastures, every farmer should try to grow sufficient feed for his cows. For each cow he should figure about 20 bushels of corn, 400 or 500 pounds of velvet beans and 400 or 500 pounds of cottonseed meal mixed in the following proportion:

200 pounds corn meal, or
300 pounds corn crushed in shuck;
100 pounds crushed velvet beans;
100 pounds cottonseed meal, and
5 pounds of salt should be added to the above 500 pounds of mixture.

Mr. Stapp urges the swapping of cotton seed for cotton seed meal, as the Experiment Station finds that one ton of cotton seed meal is equal to 3400 pounds of cotton seed as feed. He further recommends that if the farmer will not grow velvet beans, then he should plan to buy four or five hundred pounds of wheat bran for each cow, using wheat bran in the above mixture instead of the velvet beans.

Mr. Stapp also calls attention to the fact that one and one-half tons of good soy bean or cowpea hay should be provided for each cow.

CHILTON COUNTY TO HAVE BOY'S PUREBRED CALF CLUB

In addition to club work as was carried on in the county last year, Mr. Stapp plans to organize a purebred Calf Club. He is not planning to have more than twenty or twenty-five boys in this club, and he wants only boys whose fathers will cooperate with the boys and Mr. Stapp in developing a fine bunch of heifers that will be shown in Clanton and at the Fair in Birmingham this fall.

Boys and their fathers who are interested in this Calf Club project are requested to see Mr. Stapp within the next ten days, as he wants to arrange to have the purebred calves in Clanton the day of the club rally which will be held early in April.

Rev. W. S. Cox has accepted a place on the sales force at the store of Nettles Grocery Company in Clanton. He will be glad to have his friends come to see him there.

A boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Connell of Refuge Sunday night.

HOOVER URGES HIGHER REGARD FOR ALL LAW

Washington, March 4.—Here is the text of the inaugural address of President Herbert Hoover:

My Countrymen: This occasion is not alone the administration of the most sacred oath which can be assumed by an American citizen. It is a dedication and consecration under God to the highest office in the service of our people. I assume this trust in the humility of knowledge that only through the guidance of almighty providence can I hope to discharge its ever increasing burdens.

It is in keeping with tradition throughout our history that I should express simply and directly the opinions which I hold concerning some of the matters of present importance.

If we survey the situation of our nation both at home and abroad, we find many satisfactions; we find some cause for concern.

Greatest Security Attained

We have emerged from the losses of the great war and the reconstruction following it with increased virility and strength. From this strength we have contributed to the recovery and progress of the world. What America has done has given renewed hope and courage to all who have faith in government by the people. In the large view, we have reached a higher degree of comfort and security than ever existed before in the history of the world. Through liberation from wide-spread poverty we have reached a higher degree of individual freedom than ever before. The devotion to and concern for our institutions are deep and sincere.

We are steadily building a new race—a new civilization great in its own attainments. The influence and high purposes of our nation are respected among the peoples of the world. We aspire to distinction in the world, but to a distinction based upon confidence in our sense of justice as well as our accomplishments within our own borders and in our own lives. For wise guidance in this great period of recovery the nation is deeply indebted to Calvin Coolidge.

But all this majestic advance should not obscure the constant danger from which self-government must be safe-guarded. The strong man must at all times be alert to the attack of insidious disease.

The Failure of Our System of Criminal Justice

The most malign of all these dangers today is disregard and disobedience of law. Crime is increasing. Confidence in rigid and speedy justice is decreasing. I am not prepared to believe that this indicates any decay in the moral fiber of the American people. I am not prepared to believe that it indicates an impotence of the federal government to enforce its laws.

It is only in part due to the additional burdens imposed upon our judicial system by the 18th amendment. The problem is much wider than that. Many influences had increasingly complicated and weakened our law enforcement organization long before the adoption of the 18th amendment.

To re-establish the vigor and effectiveness of law enforcement we must critically consider the entire federal machinery of justice, the redistribution of its functions, the simplification of its procedure, the provision of additional special tribunals, the better selection of juries, and the more effective organization of our agencies of investigation and prosecution that justice may be sure and that it may be swift. While the authority of the federal government extends to but part of our vast system of national, state and local justice, yet the standards which the federal government establishes have the most profound influence upon the whole structure.

We are fortunate in the ability and integrity of our federal judges and attorneys. But the system which these officers are called upon to administer is in many respects ill-adapted to present day conditions. Its intricate and involved rules of procedure have become the refuge of both big and little criminals. There is a belief abroad that by invoking technicalities, subterfuge and delay, the ends of justice may be thwarted by those who can pay the cost.

Reform, reorganization and strengthening of our whole judicial and enforcement system both in civil and criminal sides have been advocated for years by statesmen, judges and bar associations. First steps toward that end hould not longer be delayed. Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress. It must not come to be in our republic that it can be defeated by the indifference of the citizen, by exploitation of the delays and entanglements of the law, or by combinations of criminals. Justice must not fail because the agencies of enforcement are either delinquent or inefficiently organized. To consider these evils, to find their remedy, is the most sore necessity of our times.

Enforcement of the 18th Amendment

Of the undoubted abuses which have grown up under the 18th amendmtnt, part are due to the causes I have just mentioned, but part are due to the failure of some states to accept their share of responsibility for concurrent enforcement and to the failure of many state and local officials to accept the obligation under their oath of office zealously to enforec the laws. With the failures from these many causes has come a dangerous expansion in the criminal elements who have found enlarged opportunities in dealing in illegal liquor.

But a large responsibility rests directly upon our citizens. There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law-abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime.

I have been selected by you to execute and enforce the laws of the country. I propose to do so to the extent of my own abilities, but the measure of success that the government shall attain will depend upon the moral support which you, as citizens, extend. The duty of citizens to support the laws of the land is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist. No greater national service can be given by men and women of good will—who, I know, are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor. Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support. The worst evil or disregard for some law is that it destroys respect for all law. For our citizens to patronize the violation of a particular law on the ground that they are opposed to it is destructive of the very basis of all that protection of life, of homes and property which they rightly claim under other laws. If citizens do not like a law, their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its repeal.

To those of criminal mind there can be no appeal but vigorous enforcement of the law. Fortunately they are but a small percentage of our people. Their activities must be stopped.

A National Investigation

I propose to appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the whole structure of our federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the 18th amendment and the causes of abuse under it. Its purpose will be to make such recommendations for reorganization of the administration of federal laws and court procedure as may be found desirable. In the meantime it is essential that a large part of the enforcement activities be transferred from the treasury department to the department of justice as a beginning of more effective organization.

The Relation of Government to Business

The election has again confirmed the determination of the American people that regulation of private enterprise and not government ownership or operation is the course rightly to be pursued in our relation to business. In recent years we have established a differentiation in the whole method of business regulation between the industries which produce and distribute commodities on the one hand, and public utilities on the other. In the former, our laws insist upon effective competition; in the latter, because we substantially confer a monoply by limiting competition, we must regulate their services and rates. The rigid enforcement of the laws applicable to both groups is the very base of equal opportunity and freedom from domination for all our people, and it is just as essential for the stability and prosperity of business itself as for the protection of the public at large. Such regulation should be extended by the federal government within the limitations of the constitution and only when the individual states are without power to protect their citizens through their own authority. On the other hand, we should be fearless when the authority rests only in the federal government.

Co-operation by the Government

The larger purpose of our economic thought should be to establish more firmly stability and security of business and employment and thereby remove poverty still further from our borders. Our people have in recent years developed a new found capacity for cooperation among themselves to effect high purposes in public welfare. It is an advance toward the highest conception of self-government. Self-government does not and should not imply the use of political agencies alone. Progress is born of coopeartion in the community — not from governmental restraints. The government should assist and encourage these movements of collective self-help by itself cooperating with them. Business has by cooperation made great progress in the advancement of service, in stability, in regularity of employment and in the correction of its own abuses. Such progress, however, can continue only so long as business manifests its respect for law.

There is an equally important field of cooperation by the federal government with the multitude of agencies, state, municipal and private, in the systematic development of those processes which directly affect public health, recreation, education and the home. We have need further to perfect the means by which government can be adapted to human service.

Education

Although education is primarily a responsibility of the state and local communities, and rightly so, yet the nation as a whole is vitally concerned in its development everywhere to the highest standards and to complete universality. Self-government can succeed only through an instructed electorate. Our objective is not simply to overcome illiteracy. The rzx now is the time for all good men nation has marched far beyond that. The more complex the problems of the nation become, the greater is the need for more and more advanced instruction. Moreover, as our numbers increase and as our life expands with science and invention, we must discover more and more leaders for every walk of life. We cannot hope to succeed in directing this increasingly complex civilization unless we can draw all the talent of leadership from the whole people. One civilization after another has been wrecked upon the attempt to secure sufficient leadership from a single group or class. If we would prevent the growth of class distinctions and would constantly refresh our leadership with the ideals of our people, we must draw constantly from the general mass. The full opportunity for every boy and girl to rise through the selective processes of education can alone secure to us this leadership.

Public Health

In public health the discoveries of science have opened a new era. Many sections of our country and many groups of our citizens suffer from diseases, the eradication of which are mere matters of administration and moderate expenditure. Public health service should be as fully organized and as universally incoporated into our governmental system as is public education. The returns are a thousand fold in economic benefits, and infinitely more in reduction of suffering and promotion of human happiness.

World Peace

The United States fully accepts the profound truth that our own progress, prosperity and peace are interlocked with the progress, prosperity and peace of all humanity. The whole world is at peace. The dangers to a continuation of this peace today are largely the fear and suspicion which still haunt the world. No suspicion or fear can be rightly directed toward our country.

Those who have a true understanding of America know that we have no desire for territorial expansion, for economic or other domination of other peoples. Such purposes are repugnant to our ideals of human freedom. Our form of government is ill adapted to the responsibilities which inevitably follow permanent limitation of the independence of other peoples. Superficial observers seem to find no destiny for our abounding increase in population, in wealth and power except that of imperialism. They fail to see that the American people are engrossed in the building for themselves of a new economic system, a new social system, a new political system—all of which are characterized by aspirations of freedom of opportunity and thereby are the negation of imperialism.

They fail to realize that because of our abounding prosperity our youth are pressing more and more into our institutions of learning; that our people are seeking a larger vision through art, literature, science and travel; that they are moving toward stronger moral and spiritual life—that from these things our sympathies are broadening beyond the bounds of our nation and race toward the true expression in a real brotherhood of man. They fail to see that the idealism of America will lead it to no narrow or selfish channel, but inspire it to do its full share as a nation toward the advancement of civilization. It will do that not by mere declaration but by taking a practical part in supporting all useful international undertakings. We not only desire peace with the world, but to see peace maintained throughout the world. We wish to advance the reign of justice and reason toward the extinction of force.

The recent treaty for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy sets an advanced standard in our conception of the relations of nations. Its acceptance should pave the way to greater limitation of armament, the offer of which we sincerely extend to the world.

But its full realization also implies a greater and greater perfection in the instrumentalities for pacific settlement of controversies between nations. In the creation and use of these instrumentalities we should support every sound method of conciliation, arbitration and judicial settlement. American statesmen were among the first to propose and they have constantly urged upon the world the establishment of a tribunal for the settlement of controversies of a justifiable character.

The permanent court of international justice in its major purpose is thus peculiarly identified with American ideals and with American statesmanship. No more potent instrumentality for this purpose has ever been conceived and no other is practicable

Make These New Candies!

HERE'S something different to serve and to do next time the neighbors come over for the evening! Let the whole crowd into the kitchen for a good old-fashioned candy-bee.

These candies are easy to make. Even the men-folks have good luck with them. And they're easier still to eat!

For Staley's Syrups give them the real maple and honey flavors.

These fine corn syrups are flavored with real Canadian maple and pure strained honey . . . blended in a secret way.

No other syrup takes the true flavors of maple and honey so well, because pure corn syrup itself is neutral in taste. But blended in this special way . . . in exact proportions and at certain temperatures . . . it adds a smoothness and delicacy not to be found in other syrups. Note, too, how clear these syrups are, as the result of extra care in their making.

You'll be pleasantly surprised at their cost. Less than half of what you've been paying for honey and for maple blends.

Other flavors . . .

You will also like Staley's Sorghum Flavored Syrup. It has the taste that comes from the best quality of pure sorghum. And there are Staley's famous Crystal White and Golden syrups.

These syrups are more healthful, too! They contain 40% dextrose and maltose . . . practically pre-digested sugars . . . wholesome sources of quick energy!

Your grocer has all of these fine syrups. Ask for the ones you want, today. And be sure that you get Staley's. No other kind can give their matchless flavors.

IN REGARD TO GETTING VETERAN'S COMPENSATION

"It frequently happens that in spite of the activities of the State, County and Post Service Officers and of the State Officers of the Veterans Bureau, considerable time elapses between the death of a veteran and the beginning of any possible claims which may be lodged on his behalf. If much of this time could be saved, it would be beneficial to those who survive the veteran where a claim is in order. If the State Departments would encourage the Units of the Auxiliary and the Posts generally to send in prompt information of the death of a veteran, either by letter or newspaper clipping, this office would undertake to ascertain if adjusted compensation, insurance or other benefits are in order, and see that the survivors of the veteran send in the necessary forms for execution. A general carrying out of this request would undoubtedly throw much additional work upon this office, but is willing to undertake the obligation for a try-out period in an effort to see that considerable time cannot be saved in the adjudication of cases. The name and address of the transmitter of the information, where, and if possible, the names of the nearest surviving relatives of the veteran, such as wife, mother, father, etc. such as wife, mother, father, etc."

The above is a paragraph taken from a communication addressed to me as Post Adjutant of our local post and coming from the Chairman of the American Legion headquarters the letter being rather lengthy to publish, I only quote the above paragraph and the remainder of the letter simplified means this:

There are many ex-service men in our vicinity who have failed to properly place their claim for adjusted service compensation, insurance, or other benefits properly before the board for rating.

In many instances I read of the death of an ex-service man and here beg those who survive the veteran to furnish me with such information as is at hand and I will personally, without any cost whatever help them to receive without delay any and all benefits which are due them.

As service officer it is my duty to give information to all ex-service men and their dependents and to help them in the above.

I am, yours very truly. — J. H. Plier, Post Adjutant.

Do you enjoy your food?

IF you do not enjoy your food it is a true sign that you are losing your appetite. And when your appetite is "gone" it means you haven't the resistance to ward off disease. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that nourish and sustain the body.

When you get your red blood cells back to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong; and your nerves become steady.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

BLOOD WILL TELL

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

There Is No Best Breed of Chickens—Select Your Breed According to What You Want to Accomplish, Keep the Strain Pure and Breed Carefully to Strengthen the Natural Tendencies of Your Choice.

In the first place let me make this emphatic statement: There is no best breed of chickens! In due respect to all, I make this statement. If you have a certain breed or variety, do not think they are the best, because they are not. There are good strains in all breeds and in all varieties of chickens. Choose the breed or variety that suits your fancy, and devote your energies to making them profitable. It is the strain or blood lines that really counts. Just because a chicken is a Plymouth Rock, a Leghorn, an Orpington or a Rhode Island Red is not what makes it a world beater. It is the breeding up of any flock to higher egg production that makes record producers. By trap nesting any breed or flock of hens, and using for breeders only those that are high producers, good size and chuck full of vigor, adn are reasonably close to the standard requirements, you can in a few years build up a strain with blood lines behind them that makes them far superior to the ordinary flock of the same breed or variety with which such careful methods have not been used. In this way, or by line breeding, all strains of chickens originate.

"What breed shall I select?" is the question some one is always sure to ask whenever I make the foregoing statement. To that, I can only make the classic reply, "It all depends." Then I counter with the question, "What do you want to accomplish?" There are three general classes, the meat class, the egg class and the general purpose class. The purpose of the first two named is perfectly plain and that of the third is almost equally so.

General purpose fowls are very often little inferior as layers to the so-called "egg class" and will often compare favorably with "meat class" fowls for table use. They make excellent broilers, fryers, roosters and capons and the old hens, if fat, will usually bring good prices. Perhaps the most popular general purpose breed is the Plymouth Rocks which may be had in several varieties. The Barred Plymouth Rocks are the most popular farm flock chickens in the corn belt sections of the Middle West as well as in many other sections. They outlayed all other breeds and varieties of chickens in all the egg laying contests in the United States in 1927. Second only to the Plymouth Rocks, if even to them, are Rhode Island Reds. Wyandottes are still highly esteemed by many fanciers and justly so. Orpingtons of which there are several varieties are a very popular English breed. The eggs of this class are brown and usually of good size.

The egg-class is a particularly important one for commercial poultry raisers. The various egg-breeds are usually small in size and do not get broody often, so they can seldom be used for hatching or mothering chicks. As the name of this class indicates, however, they are specialists in the art of laying eggs. In addition to that, their eggs are white in color. This feature is desired in markets and such eggs frequently bring higher prices than brown eggs.

Exceedingly popular among the egg class breeds are the Leghorn, of which there are several varieties, the White Leghorn being the most popular. Having been bred almost exclusively for egg production, the Leghorn lives up to its nick-name, "The Egg Machine." Consequently, if egg production is the major requirement, you cannot well afford to overlook the Leghorns. Other desirable egg-class breeds are Minorcas, Anconas, and others of the so-called Mediterranean breeds.

While the meat class is not so extensively raised as the others described, they are very desirable for many reasons. Although not such star performers as Leghorns or good general purpose breeds, they are usually fair layers and bring top prices for table use. The capons from these breeds are particularly fine. Some of the better known breeds in this class are Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans.

Now it must be understood that these classifications are not matters of hard and fast differentiation. Some egg-class fowls are excellent for table use and some meat-class fowls are good layers. Conversely, some general purpose breeds are as good layers as some egg-type breeds and as good for the table as some meat-types. Nevertheless, these classifications are fairly accurate guides and will help considerably in selecting the breed best suited to your own requirements. Choose thoroughbred chickens that have been specifically developed for some definite purpose. That way lies the best chance for success and satisfaction.

Finally, let me emphasize, one breed or one variety of chickens is enough on one farm, and never cross breeds of chickens. If you wish to keep more than one breed or variety, keep them absolutely separate. Never let them run together, especially at breeding time. Cross bred or mongrel chickens do not pay. Nothing is worse than a conglomerated dukes mixture of all breeds, all varieties and all colors of chickens in one flock. They do not grow as fast or as large, nor lay as well as pure bred chickens.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., March 4.—Dr. Geo. D. Strayer, whose school survey in Montgomery last year resulted in the erection of the million dollar high school now under construction in the Alabama Capital, will deliver a series of lectures in the University of Alabama summer school, it was announced here to-day. Dr. Strayer's lectures will be given daily for one week, beginning June 17 and ending June 22, it was stated.

Dr. George B. Strayer

Dr. Strayer, who is professor of educational administration in the Teachers college of Columbia University, is well known in Alabama. He, and his colleague, Dr. Engelhardt, made a survey of the normal schools of Alabama last fall, and he is now acting as special educational consultant of the State Board of Education in regard to the development and expansion of normal schools.

Dr. John R. McLure, director of summer school, states that Dr. Strayer's lectures will be one of the outstanding educational events in the South this summer. These lectures were not only arranged, it was explained for school superintendents, principals, supervisors, and other educational leaders who will attend summer school, but were arranged in order that all school administrators and board members may visit the University during that week to hear Dr. Strayer and confer with him regarding school policies and programs.

Summer school officials declared that Dr. Strayer is recognized thruout the country as the leading authority on school administration. As president of the National Education Association in 1918 and 1919, he was chiefly responsible for the reorganization of the Association on a strictly representative basis, it was stated.

Dr. McLure stated that Dr. Strayer, who began his career in Maryland, is thoroughly familiar with educational conditions in the South, and that his work in Alabama this summer will result in far reaching benefit to education in this entire section.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court, in Equity.
M. N. Allen, Complainant, vs. Annie B. Allen, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Percy M. Pitts that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years;

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Annie B. Allen to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 31, day of March, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 26, day of February, 1929.

MODEL A FORD HAS GOOD TIRES

One of the problems which demanded most careful study and exhaustive experimenting in the building and equipping of the new Model A Ford car was that of tires.

The new Ford was an entirely new car in its class, with power, speed, and acceleration that were also new to the field of light, moderate priced cars. The very first test models of the car proved that tires which could be counted upon to "stand the gaff" with the Model A Ford must be larger, tougher and better able in every way to withstand wear, heat from road friction and ordinarily damaging action of bumps, ruts and other uneven road surfaces upon the tread and the sidewall of the tire.

To begin with, these tires with which all Model A Fords are equipped, while designated as 30 x 4.50 in size, actually give an effect equal to that of tires measuring 30 x 4.75, when fitted to the special drop center steel spoke wheels of the cars.

The designers of the Model A Ford realized that this car would go into many parts of the world and find many varied road conditions. So the tires with which the first few test models of the new car were equipped were subjected to every possible type of service and from these tests Ford engineers were able to determine specifications that would produce a truly modern balloon tire with all the excellence of design, workmanship and material to insure its giving a service on a par with that of the Model A car itself.

Tires for the Model A Ford are made by several of the best manufacturers of the country, but every tire must meet those specifications.

The rubber which goes into each of these tires must be of the finest grade, new, live rubber that has been properly cured. Just so much of this rubber, to within a fraction of an ounce—and no less—must be used. The cotton from which the cord is manufactured must be of the fine, long-fibre variety, tough and durable. And each lot of tires received at the Ford assembly lines must first be carefully inspected and tested to see that they meet these specifications and that there are no flaws or defects in tread, sidewall or shoulder.

In testing sample tires from lots delivered to the assembly lines, the Ford Motor Company subjects them in many instances to treatment they will never receive at the hands of the average owner. One of the testing devices drops the tire down from a height of several feet, under weight equivalent to that of a fully loaded car, upon a section of steel rail similar to those at a railroad crossing. Tires are also placed on test cars and operated over rough roads at below normal pressures, over gravel, crushed stone and through sand and mud. For Ford engineers have determined there shall be no chronic troubles in the tires of the Model A Ford.

5 Wettest Senators Go from Washington

Only 14 of 96 Members of Upper House Not Staunch Prohibitionists Now

Washington, March 4.—The five wettest members of the United States senate are retiring to private life Monday—four of them involuntarily. As a result, the next congress will find the enemies of prohibition virtually without leadership in the upper house.

William Cabell Bruce, of Maryland, the most vociferous of all the wets; Edward I. Edwards, of New Jersey, who has run Bruce a close second; Peter G. Gerry, of Rhode Island, and Thomas F. Bayard, if Delaware, all democrats, are leaving the world's greatest deliberative body because they were defeated for re-election last November. James A. Reed, of Missouri, who has crusaded against the dry law ever since its enactment, is going back to Kansas City to practice law. He did not seek a fourth term, but closed out a colorful political career with an unsuccessful campaign for the democratic presidential nomination last year.

CITY WILL OPEN THIRD AVENUE TO RAILROAD

The Town Council of Clanton has definitely determined to open up and properly grade Third Avenue from the intersection of the same with the Highway west to the L. & N. Railroad. This, however, will not make a crossing of the railroad.

The survey of the proposed project was made by Mr. Porter, which was adopted by the Town authorities. The job will be completed some time this summer.

RAYMOND C. SMITH APPOINTED SOLICITOR

Announcement was made last week of the appointment of Mr. Raymond C. Smith, young attorney of Clanton, as County Solicitor of Chilton County. The appointment was made by Hon. Winston Huddleston, Solicitor of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit. Concering the appointment of Mr. Smith, the Chilton County News last week said:

"The appointing of Mr. Smith marks the beginning of what is promised to be an unusually bright future for the young attorney. His record while at the University as a leader in many branches of the study, has already won for him a reputation as an orator, in which field he has won a splendid record.

"Since leaving the University Mr. Smith has been made the junior partner of the law firm of Smith and Smith, in which office he will continue the practice of such cases as do not interefere with his duties as County Solicitor."

As young Smith is a native Clanton boy, it goes without saying that his many friends throughout the County feel a keen interest in his future success, and are glad to see him accorded such distinct recognition in his chosen profession of law.

HOOVER INAUGURAL ADDRESS SPARKLES WITH FINE EPIGRAMS

Washington, March 4.—President Hoover's inaugural address bristled with epigrammatic statements.

Here are some of them:

"We are steadily building a new race—a new civilization great in its own attainments."

"Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress."

"There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it."

"The duty of citizens to support the laws is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist."

"Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support."

"We who have a true understanding of America know that we have no desire for territorial expansion, for economic or other domination of other peoples."

"We not only desire peace with the world, but to see peace maintained throughout the world."

"Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense."

"The animosities of elections should have no place in our government for government must concern itself alone with the common weal."

"Ill-considered remedies for our faults bring only penalties after them."

"Ours is a land rich in resources; stimulating in its glorious beauty; filled with millions of happy homes; blessed with comfort and opportunity."

"No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose."

The friends of Mr. W. J. Fiquett are glad to see him able to be out again after a serious illness of several weeks.

The Sunday School workers conference at the Baptist Church in Clanton was well attended by Sunday School workers from most of the churches in the Unity and Chilton County Associations. The next conference will be held with Verbena Baptist Church on the afternoon of the first Sunday in April. All Sunday schools are urged to take notice of these monthly meetings and arrange to have a representative present.

Rev. J. W. Jones, Wm. J. Billingsley, and J. F. Harper, of Thorsby, were present at the Sunday School workers conference at Clanton Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon.

IT NEVER RAINS, BUT IT POURS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a space in your paper to say a few words. I just want to say I am thankful to say that I am where I can again go about after I have had such bad luck. Three years apo I went through a serious operation and along the first of January I had to be operated on again for a large tumor, and went back in three weeks and had another one taken out of my back. I would have already written this, but I was waiting to see if I had any more bad luck. I am getting along as good as I can to be like I have been and I hope and trust that I never will have this kind of trouble any more. I want to thank Dr. Gragg and the nurses for their good attention while I was in the hospital, and with all of my bad luck I will soon be well and as fat as a pig. Written by Minnie Wyatt. Good luck to all Clanton.

Mrs. W. C. Lambert (Margaret Robinsin) and baby, Sarah Frances, of Havana, Florida, are spending several days with relatives and friends in Clanton.

Mr. Wilson Jones of Indian Grave was in Clanton Tuesday morning doing a little trading and attending to business.

Will Reynolds was in Birmingham Monday. While there he attended the stockholders meeting of Alabama Mills Company.

Jack Hayes left during the past week to join the Washington basepall team at Tampa, Florida, for spring practice. Clanton's idol of baseball is slated for first chance to succeed Bucky Harris as second baseman with the Senators, an honor which Clanton baseball fans hope he will attain this season. That Jack can do it is a foregone conclusion. Then, may we ask: Why not?

HOOVER URGES HIGHER REGARD FOR ALL LAWS

of establishment. The reservations placed upon our adherence should not be misinterpreted. The United States seeks by these reservations no special privilege or advantage but only to clarify our relation to advisory opinions and other matters which are subsidiary to the major purpose of the court. The way should, and I believe will, be found by which we may take our proper place in a movement so fundamental to the progress of peace.

Our people have determined that we should make no political engagements such as membership in the League of Nations, which may commit us in advance as a nation to become involved in the settlements of controversies between other countries They adhere to the belief that the independence of America from such obligations increases its ability and availability for service in all fields of human progress.

I have lately returned from a journey among our sister republics of the western hemisphere. I have received unbounded hospitality and courtesy as their expression of friendliness to our country. We are held by particular bonds of sympathy and common interest with them. They are each of them building a racial character and a culture which is an impressive contribution to human progress. We wish only for the maintenance of their independence, the growth of their stability and their prosperity. While we have had wars in the western hemisphere yet on the whole the record is in encouraging contrast with that of other parts of the world. Fortunately the new world is largely free from the inheritances of fear and distrust which have so troubled the old world. We should keep it so.

It is impossible, my countrymen, to speak of peace without profound emotion. In thousands of homes in America, in millions of homes around the world, there are vacant chairs. It would be a shameful confession of our unworthiness if it should develop that we have abandoned the hope for which all these men died. Surely civilization is old enough, surely mankind is mature enough so that we ought in our own lifetime to find a way to permanent peace. Abroad to west and east, are nations whose sons mingled their blood with the blood of our sons on the battlefields. Most of these nations have contributed to our race, to our culture, our knowledge and our progress. From one of them we derive our very language and from many of them much of the genius of our institutions. Their desire for peace is as deep and sincere as our own.

Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense. Peace can be promoted by the limitation of arms and by the creation of the instrumentalities for peaceful settlement of controversies. But it will become a reality only through self-restraint and active effort in friendliness and helpfulness. I covet for this administration a record of having further contributed to advance the cause of peace.

Party Responsibilities

In our form of democracy the expression of the popular will can be effected only through the instrumentality of political parties. We maintain party government not to promote intolerant partisanship, but because opportunity must be given for expression of the popular will, and organization provided for the execution of its mandates and for accountability of government to the people. It follows that the government both in the executive and the legislative branches must carry out in good faith the platforms upon which the party was entrusted with power. But the government is that of the whole people; the party is the instrument through which policies are determined and men chosen to bring them into being. The animosities of elections should have no place in our government for government must concern itself alone with the common weal.

Special Session of the Congress

Action upon some of the proposals upon which the republican party was returned to power, particularly further agricultural relief and limited changes in the tariff, cannot in justice to our farmers, our labor and our manufacturers be postponed. I shall therefore request a special session of Congress for the consideration of these two questions. I shall deal with each of them upon the assembly of the congress.

Other Mandates From the Election

It appears to me that the more important further mandates from the recent election were the maintenance of the integrity of the constitution; the vigorous enforcement of the laws; the continuance of economy in public expenditure; the continued regulation of business to prevent domination in the community; the denial of ownership or operation of business by the government in competition with its citizens; the avoidance of policies which would involve us in the controversies of foreign nations; the more effective reorganization of the departments of the federal government; the expansion of public works; and the promotion of welfare activities affecting education and the home.

These were the more tangible determinations of the election, but beyond them was the confidence and belief of the people that we would not neglect the support of the embedded ideals and aspirations of America. These ideals and aspirations are the touch stones upon which the day-to-day administration and legislative acts of government must be tested. More than this, the government must, so far as lies within its proper powers, give leadership to the realization of these ideals and to the fruition if these aspirations. No one can adequately reduce these things of the spirit to phrases or to a catalogue of definitions. We do know what the attainments of these ideals should be: The preservation of self-government and its full foundations in local government; the perfection of justice whether in economic or in social fields, the maintenance of ordered liberty; the denial of domination by any group or class; the building up and preservation of equality of opportunity; the stimulation of initiative and individuality; absolute integrity in public affairs; the choice of officials for fitness to office; the direction of economic progress toward prosperity and the further lessening of poverty; the freedom of public opiniin; the sustaining of education and of the advancement of knowledge, the growth of religious spirit and the tolerance of all faiths; the strengthening of the home; the advancement of peace.

There is no short road to the realization of these aspirations. Ours is a progressive people, but with a determination that progress must be based upon the fiundation of experience. Ill-considered remedies for our faults bring only penalties after them. But if we hold the faith of the men in our migthy past who created these ideals, we shall leave them heightened and strengthened for our children.

Conclusion

This is not the time and place for extended discussion. The questions before our country are problems of progress to higher standards; they are not the problems of degeneration. They demand thought and they serve to quicken the conscience and enlist our sense or responsibility for their settlement. And that responsibility rests upon you, my countrymen, as much as upon those of us who have been selected for office.

Ours is a land rich in resources; stimulating in its glorious beauty; filled with millions of happy homes; blessed with comfort and oportunity. In no nation are the institutions of progress more advanced. In no nation are the fruits of accomplishment more worthy of respect. No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose. I have no fears for the future of our country. It is bright with hope.

In the presence of my countrymen, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, knowing what the task means and the responsibility which it involves, I beg your tolerance, your aid and your cooperation. I ask the help of Almighty God in this service to my country to which you have called me.

CANE CREEK

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days, and we invite everybody to attend our services. We are going to meet at nine o'clock to sing until preaching hour. Everybody bring new books and help sing.

Violins, Bows, Rosin, Strings, and other parts at Moore's.

SAMARIA

We were glad to have such a large crowd at Sunday School Sunday. The Intermediate class rendered a good program in connection with the opening exercises. It was enjoyed by all present.

The B. Y. P. U. from here had the pleasure of visiting one of its neighbor B. Y. P. U.'s last Sunday night at Poplar Springs. It was quite a pleasure to have such an opportunity. The visit was thoroughly enjoyed by all that went.

A number of the members of our Sunday school attended the Sunday School conference at the Baptist church in town Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ester Lee Dennis spent the week end in Selma and Montgomery as the guest of friends.

Miss Georgia Wood spent the week end in Thorsby as the guest of Miss Desie Robinson.

Mrs. M. V. Smith has been in Montgomery for several days on account of the operation of her niece, Edith Frazier.

Miss Sallie B. Wood spent Sunday with Eunice and Julia Edwards.

Mr. Eliot Frazier spent Saturday and Sunday in Montgomery.

Remember our Sunday School meets every Sunday at 10:00 o'clock and B. Y. P. U. at 6:30. We are always glad to have visitors with us, for we feel like we are doing something that is worthwhile.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL'S MEETING

All the Junior High School principals of the County are requested to meet at the Courthouse next Saturday, at one o'clock for the purpose of arranging a County Basket Ball Tournament.

Violins, Bows, Rosin, Strings, and other parts at Moore's.

DISTINGUISHED EDUCATOR OF THE STATE IS VISITOR HERE

Miss Mary D. Rich, dean of the English Department of Troy Normal School, was the guest of Prof. and Mrs. L. C. Warr during the past week end. Miss Rich bears the distinction of being one among the most prominent personages in Alabama's coterie of college educators.

Motherhood

. . made easier by doctor's discovery . .

AN eminent physician, expert in the science of childbirth, has proven to thousands of mothers how to avoid much needless suffering.

Long before the time for baby to come tight tissues, binding muscles and sensitive nerves set up an aggravated condition, sapping strength and leaving the expectant mother unprepared to do her part when the time arrives.

The effective way for relieving this condition is with Mother's Friend. It relaxes the tight tissues and soothes the nerves. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

Mother's Friend is for outward application. Tonight, on retiring, rub Mother's Friend over the abdomen, back and hips, and massage these parts until it is absorbed by the skin. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

Over three generations of mothers praise Mother's Friend for its wonderful powers in relieving distress and in making childbirth easier.

"I can not praise in words the good Mother's Friend did me. I am now the mother of three children and had always suffered terribly during expectancy. This time I used Mother's Friend and was sick only 10 minutes when my 9-pound girl arrived."—Mrs. Ted Jaramillo, Albuquerque, N. Mex.

You should possess that brochure "Things to Know Before Baby Comes." It will be mailed free and you will be happier because of your prompt decision in writing. It tells a story probably known to your own mother and will point the way to less pain when that dear baby comes. Just address Bradfield Regulator Co., Desk 9, Atlanta, Ga. All drug stores sell Mother's Friend.

Wets Deplore Plans For Dry Law Probe

Hope of Prohibition Foes For Aid From White House Dashed

Washington, March 9.—President Hoover's explanation of the scope and purpose of his proposed prohibition commission, has bitterly disappointed congressional wets and filled the drys with joy, it was disclosed here today.

Many wets it developed believed the presidential commission would be givien the task of laying the true state of prohibition and its enforcement before the nation upon which the people as a jury might base a wet or dry verdict.

The express purpose of the inquiry as explained by Hoover, is to have the commission consider "the method of enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and abuses which have grown up."

People "Taken In"— Tydings

Senator Tydings, Democrat of Maryland declared that wet Republican newspapers in pre-election pleas for Mr. Hoover had convinced many voters that the wet cause would gain by having a commission lay the facts concerning prohibition before the country.

"It begins to look as if the people have been taken into the circus once more," he said.

"How amusing it is to recall those burning editorials and those impassioned orations by Mr. Hoover's supporters telling us that with his election all would be well with the prohibition question." he continued.

To Restrict Inquiry

The inquiry, Tydings declared, will not cover the field.

"We have all been led to believe that we were to have a real inquiry into prohibition, both by Mr. Hoover's own statements, and those who advocated his election," he said.

"Now we find that this is not the case—that the inquiry is to be largely restricted, which translated into results, means little more than scratching the surface."

Senator Jones, Republican of Washington, a dry leader, however, declared that the Hoover plan will produce real results.

"I am delighted that he is to appoint a commission and not to confine it alone to determine that additions are necessary to the laws and the administrative forces for the proper enforcement not only of prohibition, but of all laws.

Must Enforce Laws

"One great result from his attitude is that all officers of the government will understand that if they continue to hold their jobs they must enforce the laws. I expected the attorney-general to impress this fact upon all United States marshals and similar officials."

Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho is satisfied with the Hoover idea to investigate the question of law enforcement generally.

He is strongly hopeful that the president will not include members of congress on the commission, but will select an independent body, probably including a federal judge of long experience, to make recommendations on which congress can act.

DENNIS EXPERIMENTS WITH FATTENING STEERS

November 27 of last year Mr. Jasper Dennis bought forty scrub steers averaging 485 pounds in weight. They cost him $1,205.27. Up until the time he sold the steers, March 11, the cost of feed was as follows: 233 sacks of cottonseed meal, $534.06; 837 sacks cottonseed hulls, $568.92; 2,800 pounds of velvet bean meal, $33.60; salt $4.00. At the end of the 105-day period of feeding the steers averaged 691 pounds in weight, a daily gain of 2 pounds each.

When the steers were sold they brought him $2,324.17. The total cost of the steers was $2,345.85. In dollars and cents, the actual loss of Mr. Dennis on the experiment was $21.68.

Mr. Dennis is not discouraged over the proposition. He says he figures that the manure which he obtained will more than take care of the loss; and then too, he estimates his experience can be made profitable.

BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT

The Junior High Schools of the County will hold a Basket Ball Tournament at the County High School building on Saturday, March 30, beginning at nine o'clock. All Junior High School teams are invited to enter the contest. This tournament will be for both boys and girls.

KIWANIS MEETING UNUSUAL INTEREST

Last weeks luncheon and weekly meeting of Clanton Kiwanis Club was of more than ordinary interest. The program was in charge of the Committee on Business Standards, Virgil Elmore, chairman.

About twenty Clanton business men not members of the Club, were guests, and it turned out to be one of the happiest gatherings we have witnessed in a long time. Everybody was in a happy mood, joyful, ate the most excellent luncheon prepared and served by the ladies of the Baptist church. It was peculiarly pleasing to note what a good time business men can have when they get together and swap a few yarns and rub elbows with one another.

The big speech of the meeting was made by Rev. E. A. Childs, pastor of Clanton Methodist Church. We have forgotten just how he had his subject worded out, but it dealt generally with the theme of business standards or business ethics. Really and truly it was a big speech. We never before heard so much good practical advice and common sense expressed in such few and simple words.

Public Visiting Day At Alabama Mills

Next Wednesday, March 20th, Is Day Set By Supt. A. R. Meeks

Superintendent A. R. Meeks announces that next Wednesday, March 20th, will be visiting day for the public at the Clanton plant of Alabama Mills Company. On this day the people of Clanton and Chilton County will have an opportunity to go thru the entire mill and see every process of manufacturing cloth from the time the bale of cotton is broken and started through the mill until it comes out in the form of another bale of finished cloth.

Mr. Meeks especially requests that all local stockholders of Alabama Mills Company visit the plant on next Wednesday some time during the day.

"We will be ready to receive visitors at six o'clock next Wednesday morning," said Mr. Meeks, "and will keep open house for the public until five in the afternoon. Myself or some one else will be on hand all day to take charge of any and all visitors who come and show them every phase of our manufacturing process."

It was further stated by Mr. Meeks that in compliance with the laws of the State of Alabama, no children under fourteen years of age will be admitted to the mill. Therefore it will be necessary for the grown folks who come to the mill on visitation day to make arrangements to leave the kiddies at home.

The machines in all departments of the mill are now operating full time, and it is a most interesting trip to go through and see the work going on. There are processes in the manufacture of cloth which you can hardly believe possible for machinery to perform, even after seeing it with your own eyes.

MRS. DEVAUGHN BURIED AT POPLAR SPRINGS

Mrs. Temperance A. Devaughn, widow of the late P. R. Devaughn, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jim Mitchell, last Friday night. The remains were buried by Martin at Poplar Springs Sunday.

Mrs. Devaughn is survived by three sons and four daughters. The sons are: E. H., O. L. and H. M., all of Clanton; the daughters are: Mrs. G. S. Miner, Mrs. J. C. Mitchell of Clanton; Mrs. Jim Huckabee of Birmingham, and Mrs. H. L. Gentry of Columbus, Ga.

ALLEN-GRAY MARRIAGE MONTGOMERY MARCH 3

Mr. L. W. Allen of Clanton, and Miss Lee Ella Gray of Montgomery were married at the home of the bride at Kilby on Sunday, March 3. After the wedding they made a trip of several days to Birmingham, returning to Clanton where they will make their home in the future. At present they are living at Mrs. Miner's.

Mr. Allen is a young man who recently came to Clanton as sign painter and pictorial expert with the James Sign Shop.

Clanton People Visit Montgomery Schools

Making Study for Betterment of Chilton County School System

County Superintendent, Buford Lawrence, and members of the County Board of Education, Messrs. Conway, Webb, Bean, and Yates, with Mrs. D. C. Alred and Mrs. W. M. Polk, went to Montgomery Tuesday for the purpose of seeing and studying the Montgomery County rural school system.

The Montgomery County system is recognized as one of the best county systems in this country, and is being studied by progressive school authorities from all states of the Union.

The purpose of the delegation that went from here Tuesday was to study the Montgomery school system with a view to getting practical ideas for the improvement of the Chilton County school system. They visited one of the rural schools which is located at Ramer; also saw the new million dollar school which is being erected in the city of Montgomery.

Upon his return Superintendent Lawrence gave out some interesting facts which were gathered on the visit.

There are only nine rural schools in Montgomery County. They have about the same white school population there as we have here. There are three times as many negroes.

All the rural school buildings of Montgomery County were built by the County Board of Revenue, thus relieving the County Board of Education of any expense in the erection of buildings.

Montgomery County owns its own school trucks, has its own garage and mechanics for keeping up the trucks. In most instances the drivers of the trucks are school boys.

In per capita potential wealth Chilton County stands one place above Montgomery County. But in actual receipts of money for school purposes they are much higher than Chilton County.

HILL GROCERY COMPANY'S APPRECIATION SALE

Beginning Friday afternoon of this week the Hill Grocery Company will institute another special sale of groceries. This event is named "Hill's Appreciation Sale." Commenting upon the plans of his company, Mr. J. W. McEathern, manager of the Clanton store said: "Our organization has named this our Appreciation Sale, by which we expect to demonstrate our appreciation for the splendid response we received from our customers during our recent Eighteenth Birthday Sale."

Mr. Vernie Teel visited his Uncle, Mr. A. J. Grooms, at Free Springs last Sunday.

Reynolds Calls For Support of Child Welfare

Editor Union-Banner:

As you doubtless know some people in the County are objecting to Mrs. C. E. Stapp as Child Welfare worker for this County.

The facts are the Commissioners Court is giving her $800 per year, and the School Board is getting from the State fund on account of her being employed by the Commissioners, $2,000 per year that they would not get if she was not employed. The School board is paying her $1,200. She furnishes her own car, and pays all her expenses. She is looking after all delinquent children for the Probate office.

I wish those who are kicking could see the condition of the different children she has to look after. Last Saturday evening about three o'clock during a cold rain she came into my office with a little baby about two months old, a most pitiful sight to behold. It was dirty, half clothed, looked like it was suffering for nourishment. She said its mother was out in her car. I walked out to see her. There she sat sick, just about blind. She did not have mind enough to talk much less take care of a little baby two months old. Mrs. Stapp said if I would let the mother go to the poor house, she would take the baby for the night, wash and clean it up and care for it until we could find a place for it.

I will give the name of the above parties. This was Mrs. Lindsey Cleckler. She lives near Collins Chapel school house. She has three other small children, now at home with her husband, Lindsey Cleckler, who is not capable of taking care of them.

I could name you many more cases she has looked after, but as time does not permit, I only mention this one. Taxpayers, I want to take care of your money, but can we measure suffering humanity by dollars and cents? We are being urged to put on an all-time health unit in the county. We want to know what the tax payers' wishes are in this matter, and we are going to have another meeting soon on this question. I hope you taxpayers will quit your business and come out and give the Commissioners Court the benefit of what you think about it.

If you know of any helpless delinquent children in the county, let me or Mrs. Stapp know about them.

If any one knows of or has any old clothes that they do not need, will you send them to Mrs. Stapp? She will see that they are given to some needy children, and they are many. Send her any old school books you do not need. She will give them to children who are not able to buy them. Mrs. Stapp is at the service of the poor and suffering of our county. She is looking after the divided homes, where husbands and wives are separated, bad boys and girls, trying to help save them, and they are numerous.

It seems to me some times that the more prosperous we are, the less time we give to suffering humanity. Have we forgotten our children and their welfare? Are we too busy to look after them? Are we going to quit advocating prohibition? Come to your Courts and see the bright young men sent to the penitentiary on account of whiskey. Could we imagine what a great country we would have if we had no liquor in it? Why do we have it? Does it ever do any one any good? If we were to search to the remotest parts of the earth, could we find a man that we could say was a better father, a better husband, a better citizen on account of having drank liquor? No, not one could be found in all the land, and yet we have it.

Senator Reed on retiring from the United States Senate said we had quit making prohibition lectures, and we have.

Let's all resolve that we will help our officers, beg our people to let whiskey alone. If I can be of any help to get our people to leave whiskey off, I will be glad to do anything I can. Go anywhere to help on this all important question.

Sheriff Collins is a good man. He is doing all he can to help enforce the laws. You know what happened in the last year, and how discouraging it has been to him when he was lying in the woods trying to catch law violators, and then to see his efforts thrown away by those higher up.

Let's help Hoover make the United States Dry. Let's practice what we preach. Let's take a vow that we will not touch one drop during 1929. Let's make Chilton the banner county in the United States. Why not make our county the best place in Alabama to live in? No whiskey will do this.—Respectfully, L. H. Reynolds.

WRECK DEMOLISHED FILLING STATION

About two o'clock Monday morning an automobile on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway ran into the front of the Eiland Filling Station at Coopers, completely demolishing the front of the building. The gasoline pumps and oil tanks were all torn down.

The car, a new Ford, was driven by a Mr. Spratt. The owner of the car, Mr. L. D. Reagins, was in the back seat asleep when the wreck happened.

Mr. Spratt says a dog or a rabbit, he couldn't tell which, appeared in front of the car as he was approaching the filling station. When he swerved to miss the animal, he lost control of the machine and it headed into the filling station.

Mr. Reagins suffered a broken shoulder, and Mr. Spratt received a number of cuts and bruises. The men were on their way to Birmingham from Sarasota, Florida. They came to Central Alabama Hospital where they received treatment, and continued their journey to Birmingham Tuesday.

Mr. Reagins represented himself as a newspaper publisher of Sarasota, and a member of the staff of the Governor of the State of Florida.

Mr. Jim Lowe of Decatur came down Tuesday to see his sister, Miss Annie Lowe, who is in the hospital, following a tonsil operation. While Jim is away from his work, his job as linotype operator on the Decatur Daily, is being held down by his little brother, Clyde, formerly devil at The Union-Banner office.

120 ARRESTS MADE IN DRY LAW CASES

State Men Destroy 133 Stills During February

Law enforcement officers of Alabama destroyed 133 stills during February, poured out 70,480 gals. beer and destroyed 1,347 gals. of whiskey, according to the monthly report of Walter K. McAdory, chief supervisor of the law enforcement department, to Governor Graves.

In addition, seven automobiles were confiscated while transporting liquor and 234 arrests were made for various offenses.

Arrests were made as follows: Violating prohibition laws, 120; distilling, 50; transporting whiskey, one; carrying concealed weapon, eight; disorderly conduct, 11; assault and battery, eight; driving car while intoxicated, eight; highway robbery, two; possession of still, six; reckless driving, two; petty larceny, seven; miscellaneous offenses, seven; assault to murder, two.

Convictions were obtained in 234 cases during the month.

Total 536 In S. S. Here Last Sunday

Steady Gain Shown Over The Number Present For Previous Sunday

Total attendance in the Sunday Schools of Clanton last Sunday showed a net gain of 76 over the attendance of the previous Sunday and a gain of 149 over the total average attendance of last year. Last Sunday marked the second step in the city-wide enlargement campaign that is being conducted jointly by all the Sunday schools for the month of March.

Attendance at each of the four Sunday schools for last Sunday was as follows:

Presbyterian	30
Christian	41
Methodist	135
Baptist	330

As stated last week, the general average of each Sunday School for last year, from which percentage of gains will be calculated this month, was as follows:

Presbyterian	19
Christian	36
Methodist	120
Baptist	212

The gains in attendance for each school last Sunday over the general average for last year was as follows:

Christian	5
Presbyterian	11
Methodist	15
Baptist	118

Calculating this gain by percentage against the average attendance for last year, the following is obtained as the percentage of gain for each school last Sunday:

Methodist	12%
Christian	13%
Baptist	55%
Presbyterian	57%

New Filter Plant At The Clanton Laundry

Clean Soft Water Will Make Possible A Better Washing Service for Customers

A practical demonstration of what may be done with Clanton water through an improved and modern filtering process may now be seen in reality at the plant of the Clanton Laundry. The outfit is composed of a complete system of tanks, pipes, faucets, chemical pots, etcetera, all of which is really working nicely to make pure the water used in washing our clothes. That is fine. We all want our clothes to look nice after they are washed. Nothing can raise a bigger fuss in the family than for the laundry to send in the clothes with evidences that they have been washed in other than the right kind of water.

Mr. Leo Thompson carried the writer through the plant Monday morning and explained the whole thing in detail. Our conception of the filtering plant was somewhat vague, since it can be explained only by the use of certain chemical terms that are not very well understood by a printer. But when Mr. Thompson had finished his explanation he secured a glass, turned a faucet, and forth came the evidence which we could not fail to understand—a glass of perfectly clear, sparkling water, free from all those things which give color to the fluid which we have been accustomed to drinking in Clanton.

As we drank that perfectly clear glass of water, we thought of the amber colored goblets that were on the table at Kiwanis Club luncheon last Thursday. When Arthur Willis remarked about the suspicious appearance, a certain preacher said, "It looks like beer." Whereupon Arthur cautioned him that there was nothing wrong about a preacher knowing what beer looks like, but if he had said it tastes like beer, perhaps the fat would have been somewhat in the fire. There may be more than one guess as to what Arthur meant.

Mr. Thompson finds that by the filtering process the water is made to serve the important puroses of water in the laundry with much more satisfaction and much more economy. In fact, Clanton water in its raw state, is not fit to wash clothes in, much less to drink.

Since the laundry has been able to install such machinery as is necessary to make the water fit to wash clothes in, may we again suggest that we wish it were possible for the city authorities to put in a filtering plant in connection with the city system, and give us water fit to drink. Maybe they can do it before long. They certainly will not delay this great community service any longer than they have to.

REV. A. L. FOSHEE WILL PREACH AT FRIENDSHIP

Rev. A. L. Foshee will preach at Friendship next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. It is hoped that a good crowd will be out to hear him. Rev. Foshee is doing some good preaching at this church, and those who miss his sermons miss something that would have done their souls good. Try to arrange to hear him.

There will be preaching again at Friendship the first Sunday in April; and if the present plans prevail, the regular preaching times will be resumed and services will be held on the fourth Sunday—morning and evening. There will be singing the fourth Sunday afternoon, and a special meeting for the older folks and ministers of the county will be held on the fifth Sunday of this month.

ANNUAL INSPECTION OF CLANTON COMMANDERY

The annual inspection of Clanton Commandery, Knights Templar, was held at the Masonic Hall at eight o'clock Tuesday night of this week. The inspection was conducted by Sir Knight H. S. Person, assisted by Guy T. Smith of the Grand Recorder's office of Montgomery.

John D. Armstrong, Eminent Commander of Clanton Commandery, presided at the meeting. The inspector spoke very highly of the condition of the order and the display made by the Clanton Knights. There were 31 members of the Clanton Commandery present.

A delightful banquet was served those present by the ladies of the Eastern Star.

MAPLE-POPLAR SPRINGS

The Maple and Poplar Springs singing society met at Maple Springs Sunday afternoon. Though the crowd was small we had some good singing. They were called together by the chairman, W. M. DeVaughn, who sung two or three songs. The directors for the afternoon were S. M. Yates, Archie DeVaughn, Gladys Wilson, and W. M. DeVaughn. There were two fine quartets rendered by Mr. DeVaughn and children.

We are very sorry to know of the death of Mrs. P. R. DeVaughn. We will all miss her especially at church, for she always attended church when she was able. Don't grieve, children, for the Lord called her to a better place to live. It is your loss, but Heaven's gain. She has gone to meet her husband who was called away last October was a year ago and she is waiting to meet her children in that better world some day.

The Maple and Poplar singing society will meet at Poplar Springs on the fourth Sunday afternoon. Everybody is invited to come and be with us. We also invite you to come and join us in B. Y. P. U. every Sunday night. Though we have not been organized very long we are doing some good work. All that don't come don't know what you are missing.

I want to say that Bro. Matthew Nichols will preach at Poplar Springs next Sunday night, March 17th. He is a young preacher just started out in the ministry and we want to show him that we appreciate him by coming to hear him. So, let's all be there.—Gladys Wilson.

135 FROM CHILTON COUNTY ATTEND UNIVERSITY OF ALA.

University, Ala., March 11.—A recent survey made by counties of the state enrollment at the University of Alabama shows that Chilton County has sent 135 students to the Capstone during the past 10 years. The tabulation was made from 1918 through 1928, and represented the number of different individuals enrolled during that time.

The survey was made by the University registrar of the 67 counties of the state, and revealed that 16,804 Alabama students have been trained by the University during the 10 year period, or an annual average of more than 1,680 native sons registered at the University.

Tuscaloosa county led the list with a total representation of 2,356 for the ten years. Jefferson county was a close second with 2,315. The 20 leading counties, as revealed by the survey are: Tuscaloosa, 2,356; Jefferson, 2,315; Montgomery, 736; Mobile, 728; Morgan, 351; Pickens, 341; Dallas, 322; Etowah, 315; Madison, 311; Talladega, 306; Calhoun, 296; Walker, 294; Dale, 276; Marshall, 257; Bibb, 256; Clarke, 244; Barbour, 243; Pike, 223; Marengo, 214; Covington, 212.

Dr. T. D. Rivers, a Montgomery boy, has been appointed to the staff of the new $3,000,000 hospital clinic established at the University of Chicago. Dr. Rivers is serving his first year on the medical faculty of the University of Alabama. He was graduated from the University in 1920, and from the Jefferson Medical College in 1926. He had just completed a 27 month hospital course before coming to the University in September. Medical officials at the University state that the tribute paid to the Alabama doctor is of the highest type.

Visitors have passed through the plants of the Ford Motor Company at Detroit in such large numbers during the last year that on some months more than 50,000 persons witnessed production of the Model A Ford.

J. W. Turton of Niles, Mich., has driven the three Ford automobiles he has owned a distance equal to nine times around the world, has never been out of gas, oil or water and has never had an accident. He purchased his first Ford, a touring car, in 1915, drove it 103,200 miles and then sold it for $125 cash.

LIBERTY HILL

Rev. J. S. Holland filled his regular appointment here Saturday and Sunday. Both services were well attended.

The singing society met in the afternoon with a large crowd present, and good singing. The directors were: Kermit Lowery, W. G. Culp, Houston Melton, and D. T. Melton. Pianists were W. G. Culp and Miss Leila Melton. We thank the visitors for their presence and help, especially those from Thorsby. Our latch string is always on the outside of the door for visitors here and at Cedar Grove, the fourth Sunday afternoon.

Our Sunday School will meet at 9:30 a. m. instead of 10 o'clock and B. Y. P. U. will meet at 6:30 p. m.

Miss Lottie Scarbrough is sick this week. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Ernest Bates and sister, Miss Maggie, from Selma attended services here Sunday and took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Duke.—Secretary.

A LITTLE MISLEADING

Milton received $50 for writing Paradise Lost; Young Stribling and Jack Sharkey pocketed over $200,000 for less than half an hours work at their cauliflower carnival at Miami last Wednesday night—that's the difference between brains and brawn.

Likewise there's a difference in USED CARS. You can buy one of our reliable USED CARS at almost your own price and do not forget that our USED CARS are good as well as low priced.

Lesson for March 17

THE CHRISTIAN'S SABBATH

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:8-11; Matthew 12:1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—For the Son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath Day.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Day, Sunday.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Day, Sunday.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Keeping the Lord's Day.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Lord's Day in Modern Life

The designation "Christian's Sabbath" is a misnomer. The word "Sabbath" has a definite meaning. It signifies rest, cessation from action. When God had finished the heavens and earth, He desisted from creative action (Gen. 2:1-3). Since God's creative work was completed in six days, He ceased from action on the seventh day, which was therefore called the Sabbath, or Rest Day. Five definite objects may be assigned to the Sabbath:

1. To commemorate the work of creation (Gen. 2:3. cf. Ex. 20:11).

2. To keep alive the knowledge of the true God. Creation witnesses of a creator. Keeping the Sabbath in mind kept in mind the creation, and the creation made real the Creator.

3. A forward look to the time when man shall enjoy full fellowship with God (Heb. 4:1-10).

4. To Israel it was a sign of the covenant between them and God (Deut. 5:12-15).

5. It was made for man's well-being (Mark 2:27).

At least while man's earthly condition continues, the Sabbath is needed to keep a proper balance between his body and his soul.

I. The Fourth Commandment (Ex. 20:8-11).

1. Obligations enjoined (20:9, 10).

(1) Work through six days (v. 9).

The command to work six days is just as binding as the command to rest the seventh day. In fact, there can be no rest unless there first be work.

(2) Rest on the seventh day (v. 10).

There must be cessation from all work on the Sabbath. Since God gave the example and then sanctified the day, it should be kept holy. It was not only to give relief to the physical body but to be a time when man's thought would be turned to God. It was designed to keep fresh in his mind the consciousness of God and His mercies. The human spirit should be refreshed by the study of God's Word.

2. How this commandment may be broken.

(1) By engaging in labor or pursuing business interests on this sacred day.

(2) By devoting it to amusements. since it was designed to keep fresh in mind the consciousness of God.

(3) By making it a day of feasting.

II. The Son of Man Is Lord of the Sabbath (Matt. 12:1-8).

1. The hungry disciples plucking corn (v. 1).

This took place on the Sabbath day and became the occasion for criticism.

2. The Pharisees finding fault (v. 2).

They asserted that Christ's disciples were breaking the law, when in reality they were only violating the traditions with which the law was encumbered. The Lord's purpose in instituting the Sabbath was to conserve man's highest interest and contribute to his happiness. It is extremely unfortunate when human tradition is elevated above the Word of God.

3. Christ's reply to the cavils of the Pharisees (v. 3-8).

In this reply He shrewdly answered the Pharisees and pressed His transcendent claim as to the dignity of His person. This claim moved them to plot His death. As to His claim, observe:

(1) He is greater than their greatest king (v. 3, 4). David, when rejected, was forced to do that which was unlawful for him to do (I Sam. 1). Because they had rejected the one greater than David, the plucking of the ears of corn became a necessity.

(2) He is greater than their sacrifice and priesthood (v. 5). If the priests, because of their position and services, could violate the Sabbath laws and be blameless, much more the One greater than they in performing His work of sacrifice and redemption for them should be considered guiltless. He was the true sacrifice and priest.

(3) He is greater than the temple (v. 6). The temple, with all its gorgeous rites and ceremonies, was typical of Christ. Much more then did He have the right to do what He did.

(4) He is greater than the Sabbath (v. 8), because He is Lord of the Sab-

MODEL A FORD TESTED ON ROADS IN THE ALPS

An official test of the Model A Ford Motor in Switzerland, with the Alps as the proving ground, has demonstrated that the new Ford could be operated for a long, continuous period over abrupt, steep hills, without lifting the hood. Reports of the test have just been received by the Ford Motor Company.

The Ford Motor was kept running for a period of six days and during virtually all of that time the car was enroute over the Alpine passes, a relief taking over the operation while the driver rested. Day and night the test continued. No attempt was made for distance or speed, the sole object being to determine the reliability and power of the automobile.

The fact that the trip was made when roads and climate conditions in the mountains were bad is cited as further evidence of the stability of the Ford car. A strictly standard Model A Ford with Tudor body was used. Zurich was the starting point. The hood of the car was sealed officially by a representative of the township. Two persons occupied the car, the driver and his relief.

Passing through Lucerne and the Grimsel Pass, the car took Furka Pass at an altitude of 2,431 meters, then the St. Gothard Pass down the Italian lakes through all the large Swiss towns and back to Zurich. On its return the seals were examined by the official who first placed them on the hood and were found intact.

In each town the car was stopped, but not the motor. The motor ran constantly from the time the car was started in Zurich until the return six days later.

The course is one of the most difficult in Europe. In addition to the hard road the driver had to combat such obstacles as snow, mist, flocks of sheep and herds of cattle, frequently detouring on trails that were little more than paths.

Rev. M. W. Mims, principal of the High School at Eldridge, in Walker County, was a visitor to Clanton Saturday. Mr. Mims was here spending the week end with home folks.

JUDSON COLLEGE SUMMER SCHOOL TO COVER TWO TERMS

Plans are being made for the second annual Summer School of Judson College. The Summer School, according to Dr. John B. Clark, Director, will cover a full quarter consisting of two terms. The first term of six weeks runs from June 3 to July 13, while the second term of five weeks begins July 15 and ends August 17. Judge by common opinion of students and faculty as well as the administrators of the College, the Summer School of 1928 was most successful, and it is contemplated that lengthening the term to eleven weeks and many additional features for the summer of 1929 will make it even more successful than last year. With the quarter plan, it is possible for students to complete practically a semester's work, and those students who entered the second semester of the regular session should find it posible to complete the year' work by the end of the Summer Quarter. Likewise, students attending the Summer School should be able to complete the first year of college work by the end of the first semester of the next regular session. Two young ladies completed the requirements for graduation last summer, and others will doubtless complete the requireemnts for graduation this summer.

It is contemplated that every phase of a standard college summer school will be put into operation including Junior and Senior high school courses, college courses, as well as work for the renewal and reinstatement of certificates.

The Summer School is open to both men and women.

Motherhood

. . made easier by doctor's discovery . .

AN eminent physician, expert in the science of childbirth, has proven to thousands of mothers how to avoid much needless suffering.

Long before the time for baby to come tight tissues, binding muscles and sensitive nerves set up an aggravated condition, sapping strength and leaving the expectant mother unprepared to do her part when the time arrives.

The effective way for relieving this condition is with Mother's Friend. It relaxes the tight tissues and soothes the nerves. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

Mother's Friend is for outward application. Tonight, on retiring, rub Mother's Friend over the abdomen, back and hips, and massage these parts until it is absorbed by the skin. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

Over three generations of mothers praise Mother's Friend for its wonderful powers in relieving distress and in making childbirth easier.

"I can not praise in words the good Mother's Friend did me. I am now the mother of three children and had always suffered terribly during expectancy. This time I used Mother's Friend and was sick only 10 minutes when my 9-pound girl arrived."—Mrs. Ted Jaramillo, Albuquerque, N. Mex.

You should possess that brochure "Things to Know Before Baby Comes." It will be mailed free and you will be happier because of your prompt decision in writing. It tells a story probably known to your own mother and will point the way to less pain when that dear baby comes. Just address Bradfield Regulator Co., Desk 9, Atlanta, Ga. All drug stores sell Mother's Friend.

A statement of General Motors' Policy

by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President

THE public has been visiting the automobile shows in the larger cities of the country to see new models.

Suppose you could drop a curtain over the 1929 automobile shows and raise it immediately upon the shows of ten years ago. How vividly the changes would then appear!

Go back five years, or even three, and the contrasts are amazing. So fast have the improvements followed one another that every year has offered you more for your automobile dollar—in performance, in comfort, in safety, in beauty and in style. Never was this fact quite so impressive as in the cars now on display.

This is real progress, and inevitably General Motors has been a leader in it. You cannot have hundreds of engineers, in one organization, thinking and working day and night without knowing more about making automobiles than was known the year before. You cannot have great Research Laboratories, the Proving Ground and the unmatched resources and skill of Fisher body without developing constantly better processes and new ideas. The patronage of the public makes possible all this machinery of betterment; so the public is entitled to each improvement as promptly as it has been proved.

In this way came the self-starter, the closed body, durable Duco finish, four wheel brakes. By the same process one of the remarkable feats in industrial history has just been effected: Chevrolet has been transformed into a six-cylinder car within the price range of the four—almost overnight. Similarly, the new brakes and transmissions of Cadillac and LaSalle are a fundamental improvement; while the new models of Buick, Oldsmobile, Oakland and Pontiac all represent values that could not have been offered before.

Such progress, born of the inherent ambition of an organization of active minds to do better and to give more, is of benefit to all. It offers you more for your money with each succeeding year. It gives you more value for your present car when you trade it in.

This is our policy. This is real progress.

CHEVROLET WILL INCREASE PRODUCTION SCHEDULE

Detroit, March 11.—That there will be an upward revision of Chevrolet 1929 production schedule, calling for an output of 1,350,000 units instead of the 1,250,000 quota originally established, was indicated today by R. H. Grant, the company's vice president in charge of sales, who has just returned here after 6 weeks spent conducting dealer meetings in the northern and western sections of the country.

This alteration in production plans Mr. Grant explained, was considered only after very thorough surveys of business conditions undertaken by him and other Chevrolet officials. In the course of this year's dealer meetings, officials divided into three groups and visited 37 metropolitan centers. Exhaustive studies of sectional conditions were made possible by the cooperation of thousands of dealers, bankers and business men.

"At the time the new 6-cylinder car was announced, we predicted a volume of 1,250,000 units for 1929," Mr. Grant said. "As a result of my visit to 13 widely scattered sections and similar visits to other sections by my associates I feel that we are warranted in raising that figure to 1,350,000. Beyond that mark we can not go with our present facilities but these can be quickly increased if the demand justifies.

"While we feel that there will be a ready market for this huge volume of cars and trucks they will be produced only if they can be absorbed in a satural way. We do not want in any way to crowd dealers or overload them. The dealers however seem to feel that this great volume will not be difficult to handle."

Mr. Grant seemed highly enthusiastic in his forecast for continued prosperity. Everywhere he traveled, he said, indications pointed to a year of unusual promise. "The farmers of the northwest, due to ideal weather conditions which have prevailed throughout last fall and during the winter, anticipate bumper wheat harvests. Increased wage scales in the Butte mining districts together with the best outlook for copper industries in years, impressed me forcibly. Since the establishment of a Chevrolet Zone Office at Butte, two years ago, the volume of our sales has been more than doubled, and the company now contemplates the establishment of a new Parts Depot and Warehouse at Great Falls to be opened in July.

"In Portland and Seattle we found business generally on the up-grade. Present activity in San Francisco and its wide trading area throughout northern California seems to augur a year of unusual prosperity. Building permias in Los Angeles during January were eight per cent greater than during the same month last year and the trading in building materials is consequently brisk. Bank clearnigs during January passed the billion dollar mark surpassing all monthly records."

Other Chevrolet officials who were in charge of dealer meetings at various times in other sections of the country expressed keen optimism over the outlook. H. J. Klingler, general sales manager, M. D. Douglas and D. E. Ralston, assistant general sales managers, joined with Mr. Grant in declaring that the demand for the new car will far exceed preliminary estimates and make necessary a measurable upward revision in the company's production program for the year.

BRO. BRYAN'S BIBLE STORY

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

CHRIST, THE GOOD SHEPHERD

If I had never gone to Palestine I would not have known the Greek language of this parable of the "Good Shepherd" and the whole Bible as well as I do, however, I had studied the Gospel according to John in the Greek for thirteen years. You can not pick up a commentary on Christ's parables, read it without seeing it is plain that every parable Christ uttered was based on a fact familiar to His listeners.

I rode on the road overlooking the field from which was taken the parable of the Sower and the Seed. There was a foundation in that field for every thought given in that parable. Now as to the parable of the Prodigal Son, Christ did not speak it in Judea at all as some have translated it. This parable was based on a scene in Perea. Now there was no hogs in Galilee, but there were in Perea. So this parable scene was taken from Perea where the prodigal son was hired to feed hogs.

Now of this parable of the Good Shepherd John writes saying, verily, verily, which means truly, truly, sincerely, sincerely, I say unto you, he that entereth not by the door into the fold of the sheep, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice. He calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out. He putteth forth his sheep and goeth before them. The sheep follow him for they know his voice. They will not follow a stranger, but will flee from him because they know not the voice of strangers.

In the East the shepherd brings his sheep at night to the fold. There is a porter there who opens the door and receives the sheep in the walls. The next morning the shepherd comes to the door and calls the sheep by name. They file out of the door by the shepherd in perfect obedience to the call. If you or I were to go there and call them they would not come forth because the voice would not be that of their shepherd.

Jesus says, "I am the Good Shepherd. The Good Shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." While in the Holy Land a man told me that those eastern shepherds would lay down hteir lives any time for the sheep. Now Jesus Christ the Good Shepherd humbly, submissively, pensively gave His life amid rending rocks and darkening skies for His sheep. This idea of Christ as the Good Shepherd is taught in both the Old and the New Testament. We find that it is often mentioned in the Bible to this effect.

Now I shall mention the first place where we find mention of the Good Shepherd in the Old Testament. It is found in Isaiah. Isaiah in describing the coming king tries to find a description of Him in a name. The Hebrews said, "The Messiah." The Greeks said, "Christ." The angels said, "Jesus." But Isaiah as he looked down through the centuries said, "Behold, he shall feed His flock like a shepherd. He shall gather the lambs in His arms and carry them in His bosom." Jesus expresses the same thing when He says, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Then he says, "Even so, it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish."

Fanny Crosby the great blind hymn writer once was asked to write a hymn about children. She wrote this: "Safe in the Arms of Jesus. Safe on His gentle breast, I will evermore rest." John Hall who died of a broken heart for Christ's cause in England, said that one hymn had comforted more broken-hearted, bereaved mothers than any other hymn in the whole world.

Isaiah's home was out there, I feel sure I saw the place, about a half a mile from Calvary. Now in the 53rd chapter of Isaiah he begins to write more of this Christ. He says, "He is a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief. He is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he openeth not his mouth." While over there I watched men down by that great spring washing and shearing sheep and I never heard an utterance from a sheep. Truly they did not open their mouth.

Christ was led as a lamb to that cruel cross of Calvary and yet He opened not His mouth. Now, if you will read Ezekiel you will find that is one of the burdens of the book. Over there I met a man from Shebar who was preaching the Gospel to a nation that had killed his father and mother while he and his wife were in Beirut studying. Did you ever think of the responsibility that is resting on you to help carry this Gospel to others? Many men and women roll this responsibility off their shoulders. How sad it will be in the judgment day. How can we think of doing it?

Jesus said, "My sheep hear my voice and they follow me." Now the good shepherd stands in the door of the sheep fold and his sheep hear his call to them and follow Him. Jesus said there are those who hear my voice and follow me. He also said, "Ge ye therefore and teach all nations, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have told you and lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the ages."

Now if one sheep gets out of the fold, lost away on the mountain side the good shepherd leaves the ninety and nine and goes in search for the lost sheep. There were ninety-nine sheep safe in the shepherd's fold, but one was out on the hills away from the gates of the fold, away in the mountain chilly air, away from the tender shepherd's care. Did you ever think about how Christ is seeking you who are away from His fold?

Now a horse, or a cow or a dog will come back after they have strayed away from their habitat, but when a sheep is lost from the fold it must be brought back by the shepherd. It will not return otherwise. This is true in the case of men wandering away from the Good Shepherd. A man who wanders away from God lives a life of ease and selfish interest never comes back to God. His personal friends or his loved ones sometimes lead him back to Christ. Thousands do not come back from the dark mountain side of sin.

The time has come in your life and in my life when Jesus Christ must have the chief place. He gave His life for the sheep. Hear His voice: "Follow me." This is the great thing for us to do. Jesus Christ also says, "I know my sheep." A good shepherd knows his sheep. Someone in the East told me that the good shepherd knew his sheep by certain characteristics of their makeup. It might be by their ears, or by their feet or some other characteristic. Did you ever think how well Christ the Good Shepherd knows us? He knows us by our deformities. Even the hairs of our head are numbered by Him.

When you and I know Jesus Christ the burden is lighter. When we are personally acquainted with Him we can submit to His will and no one can keep us from serving Him daily. I saw the prison in which Paul stood at the window and dictated to Luke these words: "Only Luke is with me." He meant that Luke was the only one with him in Christ. Demons of the world had taken the place of friends in the cause of Christ. At the end of this letter Paul says, "I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith." Then a little later he writes, "I know in whom I have believed that He is able to keep that which I have committed to Him against that day."

I know to-night in whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day. He will keep my dear sainted mother who is sleeping in a cemetery in South Carolina. He will keep the many friends I have helped bury in Elmwood Cemetery. He is able to keep you and me. Jesus also said, "I know my sheep and am known of mine; neither can any man pluck them out of my hands."

We are always talking about fearing. That is of course, because we are human. Remember Paul writes in Romans 8:37-38, we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Poverty can not do it. Disappointment can not do it. War can not do it. O, my friends, put your hand in the spike scarred hand of Jesus Christ the Good Shepherd and let Him lead and guide you over life's rugged pathway.

IN MEMORY

On March 4 the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Pyron and took away from them their darling little baby, Marie.

Little Marie was only three and one-half months old. To know her was to love her.

Oh how hard it is to give this darling little baby up, but we know she is where there is no more weeping and heart aches. Weep not dear Father, Mother, Brother and Sisters because we know she is at rest over yonder across the river where we will see her again some sweet day.

We know that God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life.

Little Marie only lived a very short life but she always had a smile for every one. She leaves to mourn her death a Father, Mother, one brother and two sisters.

Little Marie was sick only one week. She was taken to Hill's hospital Friday night before she died on Monday. During her sickness she suffered so much, but she bore her suffering with patience till the dear Lord saw fit to call her home. We want to thank the good people of Pine Flat for their tender care and kindness during the sickness and death of our dear baby. May God bless each and everyone of them. We also wish to thank Dr. Harmon and the nurse, Miss Barber, and the doctor's and nurses at the hospital. We feel that everything was done for her that loving hands could do, but all was in vain.

and vital force follow loss of flesh, or emaciation. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a herbal tonic that enriches the blood, stops the waste of strength and tissue, and helps to build up healthy flesh.

Thin, pale, puny, pimply children are made plump, rosy and robust by the "Discovery." All druggists.

In recovering from "Grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers or other wasting diseases, it speedily and surely invigorates and builds up the whole system. Read this:

Monroe, La.—"My son was suffering with bad spells of indigestion and the doctor failed to relieve him. Finally my husband brought home some of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. He took several bottles and has had no stomach trouble since, for which I am more than thankful."—Mrs. W. B. Folmar, 216 N. 4th St.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

Though the Ford tires are designated as 30 x 4.50, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel-spoke wheels.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the side-walls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent premature wear.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

"Style Headquarters For Clanton"

Now for the first time since you have been in Clanton you can have your clothes washed by

Our "Soft Water Washing"

Heretofore, if you have been living in Clanton, your clothes have been washed in water that was hard, full of iron and other minerals, that rendered it very undesirable for laundering purposes. But until now there has been nothing you could do about it. It is a sad fact—but nevertheless true—that all the natural water in this vicinity carries in solution a number of undesirable minerals. When used for washing clothes this necessitates the use of too much soap and a lot of extra washing time, both of which are hard on clothes.

Now, though it may be inconvenient for you to come to our place of business every time you get thirsty, it is the easiest thing imaginable to have your linens and all your clothes washed in this pure soft water. Just give us a call on the phone is all that you need do.

Our Modern Filtering Plant

Gives us a daily supply of 6,000 gallons of pure soft water—water which is not doped in any way to make it soft—but soft because of its absolute purity. Our plant is specially adapted to purify the water found in Clanton. It takes out the undesirable minerals and filters the water until it is as free from any hardness as pure rain water. We invite you to come in and look over this system, and see for yourself how clear and sparkling the water is after it has gone through this plant. We will also show you the impurities which we have taken out.

We are all aware of the fact that pure soft water in Clanton in any quantity is a new thing, and we know that the women of Clanton fully realize how all-important this is in the proper laundering of clothes. You owe it to your clothes to give us a trial and see how much whiter and and newer your linens and other clothes look after being laundered in this soft water. Call 119 and let us show you the difference

Clean Hands and Pure Heart

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord, or who shall stand in His holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart. He shall receive the blessing from the Lord.—Psalms 25:3-5.

The Smitten Cheek

That command about the smitten cheek is a command, condensed into a proverb against vengeful retaliation. This is not impracticable.—Dr. Wayland Hoyt.

Great Task of Happiness

It was for the joy that was set before Him that our Lord endured the Cross, despising the shame. The joy of the Ascension is but an echo of the joy of Bethlehem, and the task of Christ was one "great task of happiness."

To Gladden Our Hearts

Love's siftings often precede His liftings. He sifts to get rid of the chaff, and He lifts to gladden our hearts.—Selected.

The Humble Person

When men are cast down, then thou shalt say, There is lifting up; and he shall save the humble person. He shall deliver the island of the innocent; and it is delivered by the pureness of thine hands.—Job 22:29, 30

Living and Giving

Abundant life always means overflow. The Christian life that is not overflowing is spiritually sick. It is dwarfed instead of being full grown. It is carnal, not spiritual.

Man Alone Able to Think

Of all God's creatures man alone is able to think immortality. What Darwin called "the grand instinct" has survived for countless aeons the shock of bodily death.—Dr. S. P. Cadman.

HAVING THE DRAG

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

GIBLER had been dropped from college for poor scholarship in accordance with the regulations which prevailed, and he was mourning the fact and racking his brains for some adequate alibi which would give him reason for applying for readmission. It was not that he had made the most of his opportunities or that he had been the victim of ill-luck or sudden misfortune, he had simply been caught asleep at the switch. It was the end of the semester and most of the fellows had gone home.

"How come?" his roommate asked him.

"Well, Tom has a drag with the dean, and I know he could get me reinstated just by asking."

Gibler accepted the Hindu proverb that if you have a friend on the police force, respect for the law is not essential. He believed thoroughly in making friends with the sons of Belial.

It is a curious and rather general point of view that if we know some one of importance or even if we know somebody who knows somebody in a position of influence that fact entitles us to special consideration, special privilege, the right to ignore regulations and to violate the law.

A boy came to me not long ago to enlist my help in getting a job.

"My father is very well acquainted with Senator Blank," he said, "and he knows....." And then he named a long list of more or less prominent citizens and officers of the state.

"How would that fact help you to do a job well?" I inquired.

"Well, I suppose it wouldn't," he was forced to reply.

"And what about the boy who wants a job and whose father is so unfortunate as not to know anyone of importance?"

"He'd just be out of luck."

"We never hold it against a boy who wants work that his father knows a lot of prominent people. He has just as good a chance as anyone else."

He looked at me curiously; but I don't think he understood. It was unintelligible to him that anyone who knew a congressman or a policeman didn't have a better chance to get something he wanted than another not so fortunately situated.

It is interesting to see how often a man, when he wants something that he has no legal right to have, shows me a badge or a button or a membership card in some organization to which I myself belong, or brings me a letter from an acquaintance of prominence, saying:

"Mr. Brown is a man of influence in our community and an intimate friend of mine. If you can see your way clear to set aside the regulations in his case I shall appreciate the courtesy."

And such a man expects that it will be done. It isn't justice he is after; it is special consideration. Knowing a man on the police force, he felt quite sure that he could get by.

It's a poor theory.

Many will Keep old Jobs with U. S. Under President Hoover's new Plans

Honest Public Servants Will Not Be Ousted; 'Nobody To Peddle Postoffices," Brown Declares

Washington, March 11.—"Honest and zealous public servants will keep their federal jobs under the Hoover administration, even if political seekers for jobs and favors go hungry."

In answering press questions concerning governmental changes here and throughout the nation, President Hoover said that "the number of changes contemplated do not offer an opportunity for the large recruiting of new personnel."

This was interpreted as meaning that important posts hitherto regarded as political plums by Republican state organizations will not be vacated so as to make room for new occupants. Except where the incumbent wants to retire or promotions cause changes, the great army of 820,000 federal employes, including officeholders of high and low degree, will remain on duty with Hoover as they did when Coolidge succeeded Harding.

Many To Benefit

Hoover said he proposes to adhere to the principle of retaining as many as possible of those now in office.

Included in the group of expected to benefit from Hoover's program are internal revenue collectors, United States marshals, prohibition administrators, customs collectors and appraisers and postmasters.

"Nobody in the South is going to peddle postoffices," according to Walter F. Brown, the new postmaster general.

Brown contemplates the introduction of Hoover efficiency methods in the appointment of first, second and third class postmasters in the south.

Plans Postal Survey

Brown will make a survey of the entire southern patronage system, insofar as it applies to postoffice department. He will follow the Hoover fact-finding plan and as soon as he gets his data he will lay it before President Hoover, with recommendations.

In all Brown will have nearly 50,000 first, second and third class postmasters to recommend to President Hoover for appointment. In that group will be 4,154 presidential appointments in the southern states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, North and South Carolina. In Texas, one of the states investigated by the Brookhart patronage committee, there are 775 presidential postmasters.

Proper Use of FERTILIZERS

The best insurance against crop failure is an abundance of available plant food.

A soil well supplied with plant food yields bigger and better quality crops that sell at higher prices.

For generations we have been selling off the farm the plant food that Nature provided. Now to make the farm pay, we must put plant food back. Suitable crop rotations come first, and then such mineral elements as needed, whether lime to correct acidity, or phosphorus, potash, or nitrogen, or all these combined.

Learn your own plant food needs, as indicated by success on practical farms and by results of experimental trials. Your County Agent can give you this information.

When you buy plant food, remember that high quality, high analysis fertilizer is more economical, even though it costs more per ton.

Life is too short to struggle with an unproductive soil. We do not care where you buy your fertilizer, but we are anxious for you to try the right kind and use it right so it will give you largest returns per dollar spent.

PLAY AT ISABELLA

Stop! Where? Isabella High School. Look! At What? The Sophomores and Juniors. Listen- To What? "The Path Across The Hills

To be presented at Isabella School Saturday night, March 16, 1929, at 7:30 P. M.

The Path Across the Hill, is a three-act comedy with the following cast of characters:

Samuel Crawford, Herman Lecroy; Robert Post, Marvin Durbin; Walter Conrad, Hannon Owens; Dr. Jimmie Reed, O'Neal Turner; Salamander Alexander John Henry Jones, Oliver Manning; Mrs. Davis, Elsie Conoway; Ruth Conrad, Jewell Foshee; Flo Gray, Dorothy Manning; Lutie, Mary Turner; Zuzu, Myrtle Durbin.

Ruth Conrad, a charming young girl, is living with her brother, Walter, and her grandfather Crawford. She is courted by Dr. Jimmie Reed, whom she believes herself to be in love with, but fate throws her cousin Flo, in his pathway and he, being bewitched by her, runs away with her and they marry.

Ruth discovers, when Robert Post comes to her home as a boarder, that her love affair with Dr. Reed was merely an infatuation. They fall in love, but a great hindrance to this love is the fact that Post has discovered in Grandpa Crawford, the scoundrel he has been seeking for so many years, the one who had swindled his father out of his money.

But when the plot becomes so entangled, it is discovered that Grandpa had merely assumed the burden of guilt to shield someone else and Post's love for Ruth was strong enough to let by-gones be by-gones.

The comedy of the play is carried out by Zuzu who brings home a high class husband, Salamander. Walter the reckless brother, reforms and comes home to claim his sweetheart, Lutie.

Grandpa finds out he is not too old to court the ladies, but he is rather bashful until Grandma Davis proposes to him. He, after much deliberation accepts the proposal and amid much celebration, the wedding is carried out and all live happily ever after.

The admission is 15c and 25c.

IF ONLY CRIMINALS USED IT

"There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it."—Herbert Hoover.

We wonder if the masses of our people have taken the time and trouble to digest the full meaning of these few words. There is a whole book contained in this little sentence uttered by the new president of the United States; and Chilton County should take a goodly portion of this epigram to herself.

Some good law abiding citizens would be dumfounded to know of the people in Chilton County, or even Clanton, who patronize illegal liquor —men who are recognized as good law abiding citizens, and who otherwise very likely are.

There are men who wouldn't think of illegally taking anything from their neighbor neither would they do bodily harm to their fellow man, but they will wink at violations of the prohibition law and will patronize the damnable traffic themselves. A preacher made a statement not many years ago to this effect: "A man who indulges in the use and traffic of whiskey is to that extent not worthy of being trusted." Whether this statement will always stand true we are not in position to say, but we will say that if a man persistently breaks the prohibition law or any other law as for that matter, his regard for all the legal framework of our country will be lessened every time he does, and eventually he will not care whether he abides by the law or not, just so he can get by. In this regard Mr. Hoover said: "If citizens elect what laws they will support or officials elect what laws they will enforce, our whole system of self-government will crumble."

Honoring the laws of this great country of ours is much more than a personal matter. It is true that for only one man to lose regard for the law, there would be little effect in the whole country; but what is one man's right is every man's right. Every person who violates any law is taking something that does not belong to him. His government has a claim on that particular thing, and when an individual takes it he is robbing his government of its power and is helping to crumble to the earth the greatest legal structure ever conceived by man and of which President Hoover says: "No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose."

THE DRAINAGE OPPOSITION

A few months ago when Clanton was straining every nerve and pulling every string to secure the cotton mill, if any man had pulled back and talked or worked against the cotton mill, he would have been pronounced guilty of high treason against the interests of the town and community.

Now that we are seeking to institute another movement that means much more for the future of our community than the cotton mill—the drainage of our swamps—what shall we say of those who are making it their business to throw numerous impediments in the way?

Our desire for peace and friendship with our neighbors restrains us from saying anything harsh about them; but we can't help but think a plenty.

If those who assume to oppose the drainage of the swamps around Clanton were basing their opposition on a reasonable argument supported by facts and the interests of the community, it would give some justification for their assumed attitude. But on the other hand, their position in opposition is set up only upon a lack of real knowledge about the matter.

Worse still, they refuse to be enlightened by the truth which they might secure by opening their minds to reason. There are none so blind as those who will not see.

It is said that several newspaper jobs have been offered ex-President Coolidge, and it's our opinion that if he accepts any of them he will never be found guilty of padding any of his stories.

They say that bootleg liquor went up 400 per cent, in Birmingham following President Hoover's inaugural address. Either the demand must have increased or the output somewhat diminished.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

A great many of the errors of the pacifists and other internationalists are due to emotionalism, to a tendency toward accepting emotion as fact, and ignoring the real logic of the situation. The ultra-pacifists, for instance, are convinced that they are the only people who desire peace, and that those who believe in national defense and in a navy to back it up, are in favor of war. Yet nothing can be further from the truth. No sane American wants war, but because he does not want war is no reason that he should join the pacifist group, and he is apt to realize it. The avoidance of war is not to be found in failure to prepare for defense. Such a course usually invites trouble, certainly does not avoid it.

And just as the ultra-pacifist is convinced that those who are not with him in his foolish extremism, favor war, so the ardent internationalist who believes that Uncle Sam should be governed by the League of Nations, is convinced that the nationalists who do not favor such a course are selfish isolationists who would guild a wall around America and shoot everyone who comes within the nine mile limit. And here again nothing could be farther from the truth. Practically every American believes in international cooperation of the right type, and most of those who have considered the situation know that Uncle Sam can be of more assistance in promoting international amity outside of the league and its ramifications than inside the breastworks.

Ninety per cent of the world's wars are caused by the political and commercial rivalries of the various European nations. The League of Nations was formed in an effort to curb these rivalries, and so far as possible to keep the dogs of war in leash. This was one of its idealistic purposes at least, although it may be admitted that the principal one was to maintain the status quo at the end of the World War. Now the United States has no part and no interest in European political quarrels. Our entanglement in the league would serve not to end these quarrels but to incur for us the ill-will of the disputing nations. So long as we are outside the league and its various agencies we are not involved in European intrigue and are in a position not only to remain friendly but to help adjust any disputes which may arise when we are called on to use our friendly offices. Acting as an invited adjuster is much more satisfactory and effective than being bound in advance to line up with one faction or another in an international quarrel.

It was this fact which President Coolidge probably had in mind in his address on Washington's birthday at George Washington University when he said:

"After all, the great measure of our standing in the world is determined by whether other nations turn to us for assistance when they have difficulties among themselves. Our very detachment puts us in the position where we are constantly rendering a service to the world which would not otherwise be possible. While we are not associated with any particular foreign group, in the last analysis they all know that they can apply to us when they are in need of friendly offices.

"This is the position which I judge Washington wished his country to occupy. While he warned us against alliances with any, he was no less urgent in counseling the maintenance of friendly relations with all. As our strength has increased, as our power to maintain our independent position has grown, the wisdom of his warning and his counsel has become more and more apparent. Some nations are so situated that it has been and is now necessary for them to seek understanding with others in order to perpetuate their own existence. Others have interests so detached and territory so scattered that they can best protect themselves by some method of regional relations. Our situation is such that we are and can remain unhampered by any such necessities. We do not seek isolation for its own sake, or in order that we may avoid responsibility, but we cherish our position of unprejudiced detachment, because through that means we can best meet our world obligations. If we became closely identified with any specific grouping of nations, however advantageous it might be to us, we could not hope to continue to perform that service."

Here is the sensible position which is maintained by the American nationalist. It is not a position of selfish isolation and abandonment of our duty to humanity, but of sane helpfulness without sacrificing the American tradition of national independence.

A lot of folks would rather get Uncle Sam into the League of Nations one way or another than to get into Heaven themselves.

It may be that the milkman before long will be delivering his wares in paper bottles but the bootlegger will continue to use glass, unless his stuff gets so strong it eats holes in the bottles.

AMPLE ROOM FOR ADJUSTING QUALITY OE COTTON UPWARD

There is ample room for adjusting the grade and staple quality of the supply of American cotton upward to meet the requirements of our American mills.

This fact is strongly indicated by results secured by the Division of Cotton Marketing of the United States Department of Agriculture in its study of cotton utilization and grade and staple estimates, according to Dr. B. Youngblood, senior agricultural economist of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Doctor Youngblood presents his data as preliminary and subject to verification, but offers them "as suggestive of the type of data needed in order to take stock of the quality of supply and consumption and in order to determine rather definitely the possibility for improving the American cotton crop to meet the requirements of American mills."

Grade Declines

A summary of his findings shows that during the past 135 years, the American cotton crop has apparently declined in grade, if not in staple length.

The antiquated system of buying in the local markets on the basis of average values lends no incentive to the growers to plant varieties producing lint of superior spinning utility.

Spinners pay for the cotton which they consume on the basis of its spinning utility. The higher the grade, the longer, stronger and more uniform the staple, and the better the character of the staple, the more they pay for it.

The grades of cotton produced averaged about the same for the Georgia and Texas-Oklahoma areas. The principal differences tended to offset each other.

The Texas-Oklahoma area produced more 13/16 inch cotton, less 7/8 inch and under, and more 1 inch and longer, than Georgia. Apparently both areas could materially improve the quality of their cotton and thus improve their gross income without increasing yields.

Because of the large amount of cotton 13/16 inch and under produced in the Texas-Oklahoma area, only 81.97 per cent of its cotton was tenderable on Section 5 Future Contracts, whereas in Georgia the per cent of tenderable cotton amounted to 97.65 per cent.

Georgia, the only State in which a comparison could be made of production and consumption by grades and staples, produced more 7/8 inch cotton and under and less 15/16 inch cotton and above than her mills consumed, with the result that her mills had to go out of the State for at least 57.26 per cent of the cotton consumed by them.

Typical Areas

In both the Georgia and Texas-Oklahoma areas the production of grades and staples is not in proportion to their consumption by American mills.

If these two areas are typical of a large part of the Cotton Belt, there is considerable opportunity for adjusting the quality of the American cotton crop upward to meet the existing requirements of American mills.

It will be noted that the grade and staple estimates enable one to check up on the quality of both the supply and the consumption. They also tend to verify the reputation of the local markets with respect to the grade, staple length and spinning utility of the cottons grown and marketed in them.

There is a maxim of an old agricultural organization to the effect that "the best in kind and quality cannot become too abundant." For the present, at least, this seems to be quite true of cotton.

AUBURN CHEMISTS DO ANALYSIS WORK

Auburn, Ala., March 11.—With samples of fertilier now being received daily the State chemical laboratory at Auburn is now entering upon its busiest fertilizer season of the year. According to Dr. B. B. Ross, State chemist, 2,500 samples of fertilizer have been and will be analyzed this season. They began arriving late in February and will continue to arrive until about the first of June.

Although practically all of them will reach Auburn during four months Dr. Ross explained that analysis will require much more time. A staff of chemists is at work and are analyzing each sample as soon as feasible after it arrives.

These samples of fertilizers are drawn by representatives of the State Department of Agriculture at Montgomery. The analysis is made under State laws to prevent fraud in mixing. Fertilizers are sold only under guarantee and an analysis is necessary to determine whether or not a given fertilizer measures up to the guarantee.

Along with these fertilizers samples, Dr. Ross said that other products are being analyzed. Annually the laboratory at Auburn handles 800 samples of feed in addition to samples of illuminating oils, gasoline, plant materials, drugs, foods, feed products, insecticides, fungicides, and other products.

In addition the laboratory here makes toxinal analyses when officially requested to do so.

The work is conducted under the general direction of Dr. Ross with the assistance of Prof. C. L. Hare, J. B. Jackson, P. R. Bidez, T. H. Burton, G. M. Keller, and H. W. Nixon. Only four members of the staff devote all of their time to the work.

Miss Ernestine Hill of Auburn won the Alabama High school music contest conducted at Alabama College, Montevallo, and ending March 8. Miss Hill is a daughter of Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Hill of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Advances in the price of cotton early in March were anticipated by farm economists of the college of agriculture at Auburn, who had presented facts showing why an advance was in order. It came a little later than many expected.

Experiments seeking to put cotton raising into the candy, carbonated drinks, and dye business will be made by the government chemical plant now under construction at Anniston, Ala., accroding to press dispatches from Anniston. It is said that possibilities are promising.

In the production of peaches for fresh fruit Georgia is the leading state in the nation, producing annually about 10,000,000 bushels. In total production of peaches California is the leading state with 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 bushels but most of the California peaches are canned.

During January the United States government collected taxes on 10,000,000,000 cigarettes which exceeded the figure for January, 1928, by 2,000,000,000. Cigarettes produced in this country exceeded 10,000,000,000 the first time in 1928 and indications are that another record will be established in 1929.

CAPITOL News

There will be a big increase in acreage under cultivation at state prison farms this year, as compared with 1928, according to figures furnished by Hamp Draper, Associate Member of the State Board of Administration, giving the approximate acreage to be planted to various crops this year. The State will have under cultivation with convict labor around 8,000 acres, a gain of some 3,500 acres over a year ago, Mr. Draper stated. The chief factor in the increase is the establishment of the new prison farm at Atmore, where about 2,800 acres will be cultivated this eyar; there will also be an increase of 500 acres under cultivation at Prison Number 4, as compared with last year, and a gain of 200 acres at Kilby Prison.

The increasing importance of farming as a means of employment for prisoners is due to the removal of convicts from under lease in coal mines and lumber camps since the beginning of the Graves administration, and also to the heavy increase i ntotal number of convicts in the last two years. Part of this overflow convict labor has been absorbed in road work or in prison factories, while an expansion of farm activities such as the establishment of the new prison farm at Atmore, has provided work for many others.

Convict farms will have 4,000 acres in cotton this year, a gain of 1,600 over 1928. Yield of cotton per acre at prison farms is always well above the general average for the State, and while this is of course not entirely due to fertilization, Mr. Draper was asked what fertilizer, and how much, will be used, in the belief that this might be of some interest to cotton farmers. He stated that 400 pounds of 10-3-5 fertilizer will be used per acre at planting, with a later side application of nitrate of soda at the rate of 100 pounds per acre.

The corn acreage will be 3,000, an increase of 1,000 acres over last year; 115 acres will be planted to sugarcane; 125 acres to sweet potatoes, and 50 acres to watermelons. The growing need for hay in connection with convict road construction will result in increased attention to the hay crop; 200 acres will be devoted to Johnson grass hay at Prison Number 4 this year, 200 acres to peavine hay at the same prison and 100 acres to peas for hay at Kilby Prison.

At Atmore, the state will have 200 acres in strawberries, and 200 acres in truck crops of various kinds. A canning plant with a capacity of 20,000 cans per day will be established at Atmore, to can vegetables for feeding to convicts. This is in line with the policy of feeding convicts, as far as practicable, with food that they produce, thus cutting down cost of maintaining the prisoners. The cane grown on prison farms is used for syrup to be consumed in the prisons. Erection of a cotton gin at Atmore to take care of the staple to be grown there is another new activity in connection with farming operations.

The above figures as to acreage are approximate, and may be varied somewhat to meet changed conditions but are regarded as substantially correct. It should be remembered that this farming work is only one of several methods used in finding employment for convicts. When it is taken into consideration that while some convicts are farming, others are building roads and operating mills on a big scale, some idea is obtained of the size of the job of running the State's Convict System.

I. T. Quinn, Commissioner of Game and Fisheries, is carrying out a program of construction at the State Fish Hatchery at Eastaboga, which will greatly increase the output of the plant.

During the past year the hatchery distributed 110,000 fingerling, and it is hoped that this will be brought up to a quarter million fish after the improvements have been completed.

The heavy rains, however, have so delayed the work that it is very doubtful if the new ponds will be ready in time for use during the breeding season this year.

In place of the two ponds formerly used, there will be nine, five of which will be about 100 feet wide by three hundred feet long. The other four ponds will vary in size and shape. An improved flume has been laid to supply these ponds with water, and an independent canal constructed for carrying off the water. A system of control gates makes possible the lowering of any pond without affecting the other ponds and without the necessity of lowering Choccolocco Lake, which adjoins the hatchery ponds. This will mean much in the handling of both brood stock and young fish.

It is the policy of the Department of Game and Fisheries not to distribute fry, that is, very small fish, but to raise them to fingerling size before sending them out. This decrease the number which it is possible to include in any one consignment, but makes it more certain that the fish distributed will live. The rate of mortality is lower when the fry remain in the ideal enviroment of the ponds than when placed immediately in open bodies of water.

The Hatchery during the past year shipped some fish to nearly every body of public water in the State.

Many expressions of gratification have been heard over the splendid impression made by the detachment of the Alabama National Guard which marched in the parade at the inauguration of President Hoover at Washington, March 4th. The Alabama guardsmen were the only troops in the line of march, aside from units of the regular service, who wore the regulation full dress uniform. They were equipped for the occasion with raincoats and waterproof shoes, and their fine appearance and thorough equipment evoked praise from no less authority than General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff of the United States Army.

Few people perhaps realize the sacrifices made by members of the National Guard in the service of their State and nation. They are subject to call at a moment's notice, and every year they devote to military training time that might be spent by them otherwise for pleasure or profit. The fact that some members of the Guard were sent to Washington to participate in the inauguration is regarded as a fitting appreciation of the patriotic spirit and services of the entire organization.

REFUGE NEWS

Health at this place is good, but farming is going slow.

Our Sunday school is just fine. We believe we have one of the best in the county. The songs that were directed by the ladies Sunday were enjoyed by all present. We would like to keep the young folks interested in directing. Those directing in Sunday school Sunday were Mrs. Lela Minor and Miss Clara Mae Mims. Every Sunday hereafter we will urge that some of the young people direct one song or more.

The small banks which we have to place our birthday offerings in are added to every Sunday by one or more. There were three Sunday. We have had as high as four at one time. We have already about $6.00 placed in the banks since about Oct. 1st, for the Orphans Home. It is interesting to note just how fast the banks are filled by those dropping in the amount according to their age, one penny for each year. I believe any of us can surely do that much.

Well, as I am already taking up too much space let me urge that all who can and will attend the services at this place next Saturday and Sunday, especially those who are interested in Sacred songs. Bring your new books along and let's enjoy the afternoon.—M. Lockhart, Supt.

HAYNES ITEMS

There will be an entertainment given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Vinzant at Vida Friday night, March 15. Will sell oysters, ice cream and other things to eat. For the benefit of the school. Everybody invited.

Whatley's, Mosby's and Hastings prolific, Hickory King, and Yellow and White Dent seed corn.—Alred Drug Co. 3-14-3t.

SAMARIA

Our Sunday school was fine Sunday. We had a wonderful lesson and it was thoroughly discussed by the different classes. There were a number absent Sunday on account of sickness. We hope to have a large crowd next Sunday for it is our regular preaching Sunday. Come and worship with us.

Our B. Y. P. U. is certainly doing some fine work. We are trying to train ourselves better for the future. But still we have a large space for improvement. Group No. 1 had charge last Sunday night. A fine program was rendered.

Mrs. J. G. Wood is improving from an attack of appendicitis. We hope her a speedy recovery.

Misses Meryl and Margie Aldridge spent Sunday with Misses Julia and Eunice Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Mims attended the funeral of Mrs. DeVaughn Sunday morning.

Remember our Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11, and B. Y. P. U. at 6:30, with preaching following. Visitors are always welcome to come and worship with us.

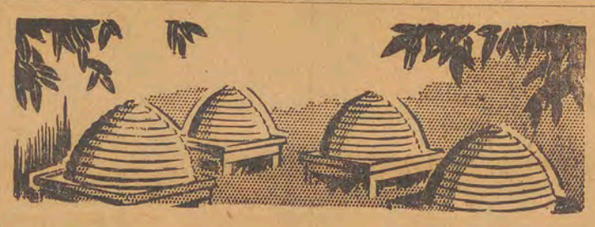
VERMONT DEFEATS COOPER

On Wednesday afternoon March 6th, the boys and girls from Vermont and the Cooper boys and girls all showed action on Cooper's court thru basket ball. The girls and boys from Vermont were ready to win.

C. Williams was a fast player for Vermont, the boys looping ten field goals. Ratliff, Sanderson and Short also played good. At the end of the game the Vermont team had won by a score of 39 to 5.



H. Klinner was a good shot for the Vermont girls, shooting 9 field shots. The game ended with a score of 23 to 4.

Flavored with PURE honey
...yet so low in price!

SURPRISE your family with a brand new flavor in syrup—Honey.

We give you fair warning: it will disappear fast on waffles or with hot biscuits. But never mind that. It costs but a fraction of what you've paid for honey before.

And there's a new taste thrill in the richer, smoother goodness of Staley's Honey Flavored Syrup. It comes from a secret way of blending real honey and fine corn syrup.

No other syrup takes the true honey flavor so well, because pure corn syrup itself is neutral in taste. But blended in this special way... in exact proportions and at certain temperatures... it adds a smoothness and delicacy not to be found in other syrups. Note, too, how clear this syrup is, as the result of extra care in its making.

Other real flavors . . .

Your family will also enjoy Staley's Maple Flavored and Sorghum Flavored Syrup. They contain real Canadian maple . . . and the best quality of pure sorghum. Staley's syrups are so healthful, too! They contain 40% dextrose and maltose . . . practically pre-digested sugars . . . wholesome sources of quick energy.

Ask for these Staley's Syrups at your grocer's today! And be sure that you get Staley's. No other kind can give their matchless flavors at such a big saving.

Also ask for Staley's famous Crystal White and Golden Syrups.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

MUST FOWL QUARTERS BE FOUL QUARTERS?

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

A Little Time and Less Money Invested in Proper Housing Facilities Will be Repaid Many Times Over in Healthier, More Robust Fowls and Greater Egg Production.

"Married men," so states the wise-cracking vaudeville performer, "have their better halves, but bachelors have better quarters." While a great many people may take issue with the foregoing statement, it would be hard to disprove that a majority of the chickens being raised in this country are entitled to better quarters and do not get them. Certainly, a distressingly large proportion of the poultry being raised today would fall in that category.

All too often, the matter of poultry housing is left until everything else has been provided for and then, any kind of old shack will be hastily thrown together, often in a location not deliberately chosen for the purpose, but which is used because it is fit for nothing else.

As a matter of fact, the location that is fit for nothing else is usually unfit for poultry raising, but that is, apparently, not often taken into consideration. I shall briefly describe a type of house which, after experimenting with many kinds for over twenty years, I am convinced is the cheapest, most practical, healthiest, more comfortable and easiest to build poultry house, for the average farm flock, of which I have any knowledge. If I felt otherwise, it is quite certain all my own poultry houses would not be built on this plan.

My ideal poultry house is the one-way shed roof, open front, fresh air type that admits plenty of sunshine and plenty of fresh air at all times without drafts, and faces south. It should be 20 feet wide or deep from north to south, and as long as necessary to accommodate the flock. A house 20 by 20 feet is a nice size for an ordinary size small farm flock. It will comfortably house 100 hens of the larger breeds and 135 Leghorns in all cold and moderate climates; while in warmer climates, 25 per cent more can be housed without crowding. This is due to the fact that the fowls do not have to be housed many days during the winter in the warmer sections of the United States. It is a great mistake to crowd chickens into a house, as they should have plenty of room at all times. This house should be 9 feet high in front and 6 feet in the rear. There should be a trap door 10 or 12 inches wide along the north wall just under the roof that should be opened during hot weather for coolness at night; while during fall, winter and spring the north, east and west walls should be absolutely as near air-tight as they can be made. In a long house there should be a solid partition from the back almost to the front every 30 or 35 feet to prevent drafts sweeping from one end of the house to the other on the birds at night.

The openings in the front are all the ventilators a poultry house needs, and the larger these permanent openings are, the healthier the fowls will be, as long as they do not freeze their combs and toes. By having the roosts along the north wall there will be no drafts at night by having the north east and west walls closed tight, even if the south is open.

Every poultry house should have a floor—either concrete or wood. It is impossible to keep a dirt floor clean and sanitary. The floors in all my houses are made of tongue and grooved flooring that is absolutely tight. All my houses are up on posts two or three feet high, which provides a cool place during the heat of summer. A good roof is very essential, as a poultry house must be kept dry if the fowls are to be kept healthy. The usual material used for shed roofs is either roofing paper or galvanized iron. The latter is usually the most durable, but is also very hot during hot weather if the roof is not high. A straw loft or a ceiling under the rafter will make the house a great deal cooler in summer and also warmer in the winter. Do not have the roof too low, especially in warm climates, nor too high, especially up north. There should be 5 1-2 or 6 feet clearance space in the rear, and 8 or 9 feet in the front inside.

This poultry house is equally good in any climate and at any season of the year, the only difference being in the construction of the front openings. In the southern states, the front should be left almost entirely open at all times, while up north where the weather is cold most of the front should be closed for the protection of the fowls. In the northern states, quite a portion of the front can be covered with glass substitutes to admit light and sunshine, and sufficient air for ventilation can be had through openings that are covered with thin muslin curtains during cold weather. In climates similar to Missouri, the openings in the front should equal about 10 per cent of the floor area of the house, and these openings should be left open at all times except in extreme cold weather or while storming from the south, when a thin muslin curtain can be pulled down.

Of course, some rain will beat in the southern openings at all times, but the harm from this is trivial as compared to having the front of the house closed or nearly so.

The floor should be sloping a little to the front so that the rain that should blow in will run to the front and out.

No ordinary glass windows are needed in the front of a poultry house, and very few any place else. The front of the house should be boarded up solid for three feet above the floor, and all openings should be above this.

In cold climates, the north, east and west walls should be made warm. Ship-lap or drop siding should be carefully put on so as to leave no cracks, and then this should be ilned on the inside or out with two or three ply roofing paper securely put on.

A house built on the plan described will always be a source of pride to its owner and will pay real dividends in healthier, more valuable and more productive fowls. Anyone interested in better housing for fowls and desires further information, may write me for further information in care of this newspaper.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

RUPTURE
EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardi, of Chicago, the well-known Rupture Shield Expert will personally be at the Gay-Teague Hotel, Montgomery, Alabama, on Friday only, March 22nd, from 9:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Notice—Only gentlemen are invited to call at this time as special arrangements will be announced later for women and children.

Mr. Meinhardi says:

"The Meinhardi Rupture Shield" will not only retain the Ruture perfectly, but it exercises and strengthens the weakened muscles—thereby contracting the opening, in 10 days on the average case, usually giving instanteous relief, withstanding all strain regardless of the size or location of the Rupture.

"The Meinhardi Rupture Shield" has no understraps. It is also perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing.

Ruptures often cause Stomach Troubles, Backache, Constipation, Nervousness and other ailments which promptly disappear after the Rupture is properly retained.

Please do not write for literature or to be fitted by mail, as this is impossible. Every case must be seen personally; therefore, I visit this section from time to time. There is no charge for demonstration.

Special Notice—All customers that I have fitted here during the past five years are invited to call for inspection for which there will be no charge.

Please note the above dates and office hours carefully. Business demands prevent stopping at any other city in this section. (This visit is for white people only.)—E. J. Meinhardi, Home Office, 1551 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago. 1tpd

WOODS BURNING LOSSES ARE MOSTLY AVOIDABLE

Montgomery, Ala., March 11.—The South needs productive forest lands to maintain its prosperity, but it can not have them while woods burning is continued, says a statement issued by the Federal Government and strongly endorsed by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Like the boll weevil, the malaria germ, or the cattle tick, the woods burner drags down business and undermines the general welfare, continues the statement. Because of him only a small percentage of merchantable second growth timber, which could have replaced the virgin stand, is now available on cut-over lands. Because of him land values have suffered, industries and population have moved out, and idle acres have multiplied. Because of him every year millions of young forest seedlings, which in a short time would have constituted a valuable asset to landowners, have been licked up by the flames.

Young growing trees have a definite money value. When the woods-burner allows fire to destroy the young growth of the forest he is burning wealth as surely as if he were feeding greenbacks into the stove. Approximately 20,000,000 acres of forest cut-over land are burned over yearly in the Southern States.

Following blind custom, or actuated by a mistaken belief in benefits to be obtained, many persons continue to set fire to the woods at this time of the year. Whatever the motive may be that prompts people to burn the woods, the result is apt to be loss to themselves, their neighbors and the community. Woods burning in the South is directly responsible for losses running into hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

Woods fires can be stopped in the South because man is almost the sole cause. The woods burner may be misinformed or he may be acting merely in accordance with custom. In either of these cases most that is necessary is to reach him with the right information. If he is actuated by malicious motives severe measures may be necessary. But whatever his motive he creates a danger when he sets fire in the woods.

An individual has the right to burn his own land, provided he confines the fire to his own property and otherwise conforms with the law; but he is grievously at fault, unfair to his neighbors, and unmindful of the welfare of his community when he permits the fire set on his land to spread to the land of another. Timber growing can not be safely practiced until the man who burns the woods is held to strict accountability for his acts. The irresponsible burner must be banished from the woods, and the well-intentioned burner must squarely face the responsibility incurred when he starts fire on his own land. The South can not afford to permit the woods burner to block economic progress.

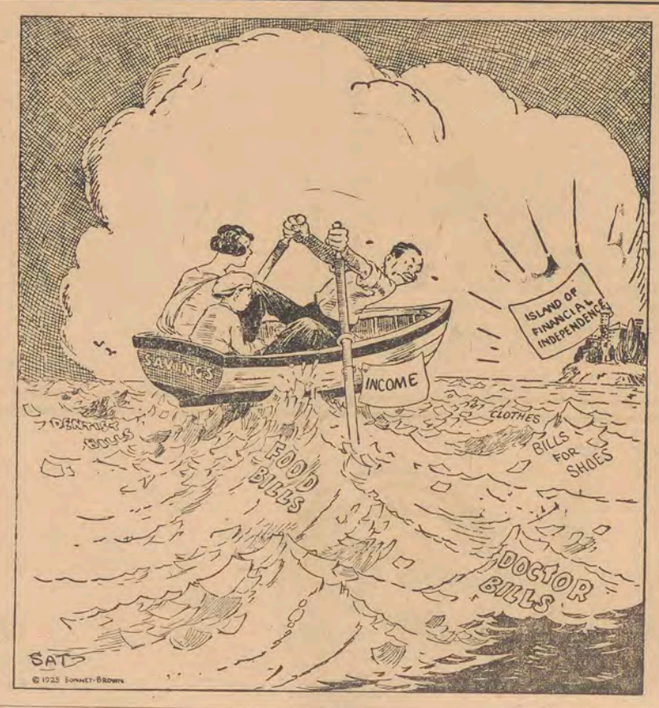
THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Next Friday night at 7:30 the children of Thorsby and vicinity 60 in number, dressed in costumes and under the direction of Mesdames Leckie, Each and Harper, will give a play for which they have arduously been making preparation.

The title of the play is: "The Faries Model Kingdom." In which the children will represent the different races of the world, white, yellow, red, brown and black, in a very interesting programme.

Admission will be 15 cents cents for children and 25 cents for adults.



On next Tuesday, March 19 a one day institute will be held at Thorsby Congregational church. This is to be condusted by Mr. Breg, southern secretary of the international Christian Endeavor Union and Rev. Harris, Alabama president of the Alabama Christian Endeavor Union. Both of these men are interested in young people and their talks are not only for members of Christian Endeavor, but for all young people who might be innterested and for those interested in work with young people.

The afternoon session begins at 4:00 P. M. Thursday. All members of the executive committee of Christian Endeavor are urged to be there, and anyone else who wishes to come. If one comes to the afternoon sessions we wish you would register. The fee is ten cents, and anyone who registers will be given a button. The money taken in will go for C. E. work. On Thursday night, at 7:30, an open mass meeting will be held, Mr. Breg will then give an address. All of the older people are especially invited to this, as well as all the young people. We expect the young people to attend the afternoon sessions also. Those who come only at night are not required to register, but if they wish they might help out in the offering to be taken up at that time. We feel that it is quite an opportunity to meet these two men and wish to share the time with others.

On Sunday night March 17 at 7:15 there will be a special service at Thorsby Congregational church, the program will be in two parts, the first entitled, "Songs of the seasons," will consist of singing by a male quartette, a mixed quartette, solos, organ, and chorous choir. The second part is entitled, "The Illuminated Cross," and will consist of an illuminated cross, and such songs as are of special reference to the cross.

These special song services are always enjoyed, and barring inclement weather usually draw a full house. Come!

We doubt if any question has been asked among Thorsby people the past week more than, "How is Mr. Goddard?" A week ago he was not expected to live. He is still living and although he has ups and downs, it is hard to definitely state his condition. When he was so low last week telegrams were sent to kinfolks in the vicinity of their home before coming to Alabama, and with a desire to honor either him or his memory the following named people made the journey to Thorsby. Mrs. J. E. Boyd of Columbus, Ohio. Mr. F. O. Goddard of Groves Hill, Ohio. and Mrs. Goddard's brother, Mr. Luther Timberlake of Logan, Ohio. They were still here Tuesday morning and undecided whether to go home or wait a little longer.

Mr. Glenn L. Morris will appear for the last number of Thorsby Institute lyceum course, at Helen Jenkins hall Tuesday evening March 19 at 7:30 in a lecture, demonstration of electricity. admission 50 cents and 35 cents.

Mrs. E. G. Hansen of Lock 12 has been at the home of her father, Mr. E. N. Steiner, for the past three weeks. She has been ill, but is now imporving. She expects to be here in Thorsby for a while.

Miss Ruth Turner of Birmingham spent the week with Misses Clara Hays and Freelan Marcus at Thorsby, attending the revival meetings. They motored to Birmingham Sunday to be the guests of Miss Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buchi and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Terry and little nephew, Claude, all of Birmingham, were guests for the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell.

Miss Clara Hayes was a visitor last week at the home of Miss Ruth Turner of Powderly, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Bosworth and children together with Miss Naemi Turnquist, spent Sunday visiting father Turnquist and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Peterson at Fairfield.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. . L. Pate motored to Deatsville Sunday and spent the day with relatives.

Miss Maggie Franklin and her little niece and nephew of Montgomery visited at the home of Mr. and Mr . Ben Franklin last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lenoir of Pleasant Grove spent Saturday with Mrs. Ben Franklin who has been on the sick list for several weeks, but is slowly improving now.

SCIENCE MADE SIMPLE

Science to the average layman is as obscure and mystifying as a passport or a life insurance policy. That certain causes will produce certain effects is accepted as a fact because somebody that seemed to know said so, but the eternal "WHY" is never answered in many minds.

Some folks call Mr. Morris' demonstration a show. And such it is. A stage full of hand-made apparatus, largely designed and much of it constructed by his own hands, is a part of the show. Odd devices put wonder in the minds of everyone. The explanations are brief and non-technical and the surprise and humor of unexpected situations keep attention at high pitch.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler, with their daugher Dorothy, spent the week end with their son Clarence T. Butler and his family at Montgomery, the occasion being a celebration of a birthday anniversary of their grand daughter Frances Butler. They returned Sunday evening and Miss Dorothy went back to her school Monday.

Fred Howard with his wife and daughters and a lady friend from Clanton made a trip to Wetumpka Sunday, they report the high in Coosa river at that point.

Hear Gene Austin, Jimmy Rogers and the latest Victor Records at MOORE'S.

Mr. Bosworth returned to Mitchell dam Monday to take up his work as manager of the club at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hansen and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan went to Montgomery Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Leckie, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pate and Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway dined with Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin Sunday and in the afternon the party motored to Montgomery.

Dr. and Mrs. N. I. Wood, of Cline, Texas, are visiting at the home of their brother, Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Wood in Thorsby until March 23rd when Dr. S. C. Wood and his brother, N. I. Wood, expect to leave for a six weeks "Special Course" at New Orleans.

VOLUME XVI.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1929 NUMBER 46

Total 608 In S. S. Here Last Sunday

Attendance Continues to Grow As Campaign Turns Toward Close

Total attendance in the Sunday Schools of Clanton last Sunday showed a net gain of 72 over the attendance of the previous Sunday and a gain of 176 over the total average attendance of last year. There is included in these figures the report of Temple Sunday School, which has not appeared in previous reports.

Attendance at each of the five Sunday schools for last Sunday was as follows:

Presbyterian	28
Christian	42
Temple	55
Methodist	130
Baptist	353
Total	608

Compared with figures for the previous Sunday, each school showed a gain or loss for last Sunday as follows:

Presbyterian	loss 2
Christian	gain 1
Methodist	loss 5
Baptist	gain 23

As stated last week, the general average of each Sunday School for last year from which percentage of gains will be calculated this month, was as follows:

Presbyterian	19
Christian	36
Temple	45
Methodist	120
Baptist	212

The gains in attendance for each school last Sunday over the general average for last year was as follows:

Christian	6
Presbyterian	9
Temple	10
Methodist	10
Baptist	141

Calculating this gain by percentages against the average attendance for last year, the following is obtained as the percentage of gain for each school last Sunday:

Methodist	8%
Christian	13%
Temple	22%
Presbyterian	47%
Baptist	66%

There are two more Sundays in this month, after which the general average for each school during the month will be taken and compared with the general average for each school for last year, in order to determine the winner in the present enlargement campaign.

Again, we call attention to the addition of Temple School to the report this week. It will be carried in the report each week for the remainder of the month and will be represented in the final calculation at the close of the campaign.

MRS. J. E. DORMINEY ILL

We learned Wednesday morning that the wife of Uncle Jimmie Dorminey of Union Grove is desperately ill. It was stated that she is not expected to live.

Who Pays The Bill For Your Fertilizer

Banks Want To Aid Farmers In Making Fertilizer Profitable

Your experiment station's tests on our soil types for a long period of years show that land where three hundred and twenty-five pounds of the right kind of fertilizer properly applied, made an average of 343 pounds more seed cotton per acre than did the same kind of land where no fertilizer was applied. At present prices this fertilizer cost about $4.75 and made about $24 worth of cotton.

Where they doubled the fertilizer or used an additional $4.75 worth, the additional amount used made still 201 pounds more cotton. This second increase is not as much as the first $4.75 worth gave, but this 201 pounds increase is worth about $14, or more than enough to pay the whole fertilizer bill on the 650 pounds of fertilizer. Let Fertilizer Pay the Fertilizer Bill.

If you are not sure about your Experiment Station's recommendations, see your county agent, or vocational agricultural teacher. They, too, are anxious to see you use the fertilizer that will produce the best crop at least cost.

If you did not get one of our letters on fertilizer prepared by Mr. Stapp, call by the bank and get one. —Signed, Banks.

B. Y. P. U. CONVENTION MEETS

On Sunday afternoon, March 24, at two o'clock the Chilton Associational Baptist Young People's Union will hold its first quarterly meeting at Mulberry Church near Isabella. Every B. Y. P. U. is urged to attend one hundred per cent. The following is the program for the afternoon:

Song Service, Mr. Ralph Grant.
Devotional, Miss Ruth Martin.
Business.
Value of Study Courses and How to Conduct Them, Mr. Ralph Godwin of Montgomery.
Sword Drill for Intermediates.
Adoption of Goals for next year.
Election of officers.

Let's make this a gloriously successful meeting! Remember the place and the date.

TEACHERS WILL GO TO A. E. A. THIS WEEK

Many schools in Chilton County will be vacated this week from Thursday until next Monday in order to give the teachers an opportunity to attend the annual meeting of Alabama Educational Association in Birmingham.

Only those schools whose teachers are going to A. E. A. will be vacated, as all teachers who do not attend the association must keep their school work going. It is not compulsory that teachers attend the association.

FIFTEEN LADIES SEND QUILTS TO FLOOD SUFFERERS

The committee in charge of sending supplies to the flood sufferers in South Alabama, makes grateful acknowledgment of the receipt of fifteen quilts from the following ladies of Clanton Route 5:

Mrs. B. G. Jones, Mrs. George Martin, Mrs. Hattie Bolton, Mrs. Bessie Ellison, Mrs. Monroe Noah, Mrs. Delbert Brand, Mrs. Dalton Giles, Mrs. Maggie Stevens, Mrs. Mat Mahan, Mrs. Flem Jones, Mrs. Lula Pearson, Mrs. Bettie Henley, Mrs. Frank Martin, Mrs. Ann Willis, Mrs. Janie Burnett.

These quilts were received by the committee at Clanton and were packed and sent along with donations of others.

Museum Collector Gets Chilton Co. Specimens

Will Be Placed On Exhibit At University of Alabama Museum

Mr. William L. Haltom, curator in charge of the Alabama Museum of Natural History at the University of Alabama, with an assistant, Mr. James Hayes, was in Clanton last Saturday collecting specimens for the museum.

A visit was made to the hill regions of the eastern part of the county where a quantity of Kyanite was secured. This mineral will go on display at the museum and samples will be exchanged with corresponding institutions throughout the country.

We understand that experts in geology at the University have expressed an interest in the mineral resources of eastern Chilton County, and it is hoped that some authentic reports may be secured some time soon. Certain property owners in this vicinity claim to have mineral properties of great value. It would be worth while to know just what a geological survey would show.

Mr. Haltom carried with him the Union-Banner's twin snakes which will be made a permanent specimen at the University museum.

JOHN LANGSTON DIED SUDDENLY SATURDAY

Mr. John Langston, age about 50 years, died suddenly about noon last Saturday at his home on the E. W. Miller farm two miles east of Clanton.

After dinner Saturday he lay down on a cot by the fire and was talking to his wife and children. Death seized him without warning.

He is survived by his wife, a married daughter, Mrs. Oscar Turner, a grown son, Teague Langston, and three younger boys at home. The body was buried Sunday at Mars Hill west of Jemison.

We are glad to see our friend, W. B. Corley come out again with the springtime sunshine. He has been sticking pretty close to his room during the past winter months and wet weather.

SHERIFF GONE TO PRATTVILLE

Sheriff J. D. Collins went to Prattville Wednesday morning to attend the Circuit Court of Autauga County, which is in session there this week.

Meeting Next Saturday For Flood Relief Funds

Governor Graves Asks Chilton County for $4,000 to Aid Suffering People in South Alabama

Editor Union-Banner:

I received the following telegram from the Honorable Bibb Graves, Governor of Alabama:

L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate, Clanton, Ala.

"Fifteen thousand Alabama flood sufferers in extreme distress. Two hundred fifty thousand dollars absolutely necessary for immediate relief. To raise this amount Chilton County should contribute four thousand dollars. I appoint you to take charge of this matter. Perfect organization immediately and remit direct to Charles A. Moffet, advising me that you will function."

BIBB GRAVES.

To this telegram I sent Governor Graves the following reply:

Governor Bibb Graves, Montgomery, Ala.

"Will gladly do what I can for flood sufferers."

More than fifteen thousand citizens of South Alabama and neighbors of ours are in dire distress on account of having all of their property destroyed by this flood, and are now in actual want and need of food and clothing. If our assistance is to be of any avail it must be furnished immediately. Disease is rampant and without assistance these people cannot survive much longer. Some funds have been sent from Chilton County, for which our quota of $4,000.00 will be given credit.

A mass meeting of all the citizens of the county is hereby called to meet at the court house next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 P. M. at which time an organization will be selected to carry on this work, and we would like to have a report of the sums sent in by the several organizations, clubs and individuals, that the County's quota may be given credit for this.

Every precinct in the county should have their representatives here Saturday, and I especially urge that the ladies come where the men of the family feel like they cannot spare the time for this cause. Every precinct should be represented. For the purpose of this drive the county will be divided according to precincts and each precinct given its quota to raise. Very respectfully.—L. H. Reynolds, Chairman.

TUG WILLIS GONE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARKANSAS

Mr. J. M. Willis left Clanton this week for Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he will work as a carpenter on a big construction job for Phoenix Utility Company. The family of Mr. Willis will remain at home on Route 5 near Clanton.

Shelby County In New Rum Probe

More Arrests Made By Federal Officers This Week

Continuing a "mop up Shelby County" campaign, federal prohibition agents Monday night held at least 19 warrants for the arrest of 11 persons in several Shelby communities, it has been reported. A total of 22 persons were arrested over the week end in connection with the campaign.

W. J. Foster, deputy prohibition administrator, said Monday that as long as liquor is sold in Shelby County the raids there would continue. Foster's regular force has been materially increased by reinforcements from the New Orleans Southern prohibition headquarters.

The 19 men and three women arrested over the week end were released on temporary bonds of $500 and will be given preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Louise O. Charlton Tuesday morning. Those arrested included Clark Sturdivant, Mrs. Clark Sturdivant, Henry Davis and Sam Brashef, of Columbiana; Eason Benson, Oscar Cox, Edgar Willis of Shelby, and Ernest Burnett, Dalton Benson, Clyde Hill, G. W. Pate, Green Pate, Jeff Benson, Bill Gates, Joe Curtis, Bob Etress, Buck Hill, Anzel Brasher, Mrs. Anzel Brasher, Lee Collum, Jim Collum and Mrs. Lee McGraw.

These arrests, Foster said, marked a continuation of the recent Shelby County investigation in which 20 persons were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY GIVE TO FLOOD RELIEF

The members of the faculty of Chilton County High School have reported the gift of $27.70 to the relief fund for flood sufferers in South Alabama.

BROWN OIL COMPANY SOLD TO SHELL PETROLEUM

We understaand that the business of the Brown oil company, distributors of Empire gasoline in a number of towns in Alabama, has been sold to the Shell Petroleum Company.

Brown oil products have been retailed here by Clanton Service Station. It is stated that the Shell Petroleum line will be continued as soon as the change is finally effected between Brown and the Shell Co.

Radio and Aircraft In Alabama Flood Relief

In the great calamity which visited the southern part of Alabama during the past wek, radio and aircraft, two of the practically new devices of our modern times, have proven themselves again as among the most valuable as well as versatile examples of human ingenuity.

Radio Station WAPI in Birmingham, has rendered invaluable service in this crisis. Through the continuous and determined efforts of the radio organization, detailed information of the horrors of the stricken thousands was first carried to other parts of the State over the air. In this way the whole world knew much about the flood situation instantly, which, but for radio, would not have been known extensively for days.

Acting as a vanguard of the radio was the airplanes. These flew over the raging waters and brought back to Montgomery a detailed account of what was happening, even while it was yet happening. Those stories were caught up by WAPI and the "Voice of Alabama" told the world of the great havoc that was being enacted by mad rivers at Elba, Geneva, Brewton, and many other points in the State.

Neither did airplanes and radio stop at informing the world about what had happened in the flooded districts. Those agencies were the first to render vital assistance to the sufferers. Planes were the only means by which food and clothing could be sent to the stranded thousands. They went at the job and handled it in a way that makes us know that aircraft has a place of usefulness with modern civilization.

Last Sunday it was a joy indeed to watch the fliers at Maxwell Field go and come to South Alabama and back. They were as busy and as orderly as a swarm of bees at work.

WAPI took up the call for help and served as the clearing house for thousands of dollars contributed from all over Alabama to relieve the suffering.

Alabama has untold gratefulness to all the agencies which have combined their efforts to meet the terrible tragedy of the past week. Our State officials, National Guard, the flying corps of the U. S. Army, the radio organization, the Red Cross—all have done a service to humanity that makes the world glad that our civilization has a heart of such magnanimous proportions, and the means to carry the expressions of that great heart to places of the destitute and suffering.

OUR SUPERVISED LUNCH TIME

We are having supervised lunch in our schools. This period lasts about 12 minutes. It is to give all the pupils plenty of time in which to eat their lunch without hurrying thru. The boys of the Junior high school eat in a different room from the girls. In the grammar grades each class eats in their own room. If anyone finishes early, he is to remain in until the bell rings to leave the room. Our teachers eat in the same room we do. We may laugh and talk.

The food which is not eaten is saved and fed to the pig. The Athletic Association bought the pig last November. When we got him he only weighed a few pounds, but now he tips the scales at about 200 pounds. He has gained all of this weight from the scraps which have been fed. Before the supervised lunch period all the scraps were wasted, but now they are being used for a very good purpose. We are selling chances on the pig for 10c a chance. Whoever gets it sure will be a lucky one.—Lucy Osborne, 5th grade, Maplesville Junior High School.

FIFTY YOUNG MEN WANTED FOR NEXT SUNDAY

Robert Alred, publicity director for the Young Men's Class of Clanton Baptist Sunday School, informs us that the class has set a high mark of 50 for its attendance on next Sunday.

Every young man in this vicinity is cordially invited to come. "If they don't come we are going out after them," said Robert.

SPRADLIN BACK AT POLK'S AUTOMOBILE PAINTING SHOP

Mr. H. Spradlin is back with Polk Brothers, and will have charge of the automobile painting department. It will be remembered that Mr. Spradlin held down this job with Polk for some time up until last Fall when he left and went to Birmingham. During the winter months he worked in the paint shop of Drennen Motor Car Company.

Mr. Spradlin will not move his family to Clanton just now, but will wait until his children get out of school in Birmingham.

David Vines Bought Nivens Store Here

Former Rural Mail Carrier Will Conduct Market and Grocery

Mr. David Vines has returned to Clanton after an absence of about eight years. He has bought out the grocery store and meat market from Mr. Nivens, and will operate the same in the future. This is the same business and same location which Mr. Nivens bought a few weeks ago from Mr. W. J. Fiquett.

We join the many friends of Mr. Vines in welcoming him back to Clanton. He was carrier on rural route No. 5 from Clanton for several years, giving up the job in 1921 to go with the Dixie Construction Co. when Mitchell Dam was being built. He remained with the Dixie Company until last fall.

While with them he was in charge of the company supply store in which he gained a wealth of experience which fits him for the conduct of a business of his own.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP FOURTH SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Rev. A. L. Foshee preached here Sunday to a small congregation. One reason for so many absentees was the death of Mr. John Langston Saturday night and his burial Sunday.

There will be singing at this place next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The public has a cordial invitation to attend. A supply of new Showalter books is on hand. Also all who want to use Stamps books will be at liberty to do so.

A great time is expected at Friendship on the Fifth Sunday in March, when a meeting of the old people and ministers of the county will be held. Old people, both men and women, over 70 years old are especially invited, and all ministers of the county. Of course all people of the community and others who wish will be given a hearty welcome. There will be no public dinner, but those who wish to may bring a biscuit or two, but the old people and preachers are assured that they will be taken care of at the homes of those who live nearby. Be sure and come. If you don't receive a personal invitation don't feel slighted but come on—you will be welcome.

The meeting will open at 10 o'clock, when a committee will be appointed to arrange a program for the day. It is intended for two sermons to be preached by two of the old preachers that are there; however, this will be left to the committee.

Uncle Jim Baker Died Here Tuesday

Clanton's Most Unique Character Has Passed On To The Other World

Early Tuesday morning this aged and devoted friend and lover of Clanton and all it contains, human and otherwise, breathed his last.

"Uncle Jim" was known to all of us here and to thousands of others who have met him as they journeyed through. For perhaps 25 years he spent 16 to 18 hours per day (except Sunday) cleaning up, brightening up and beautifying this treasured idol of his dreams. Before Clanton was, Uncle Jim was here. He saw it spring up from the sand beds and marshy flats and he nurtured it with a faithful tenderness that was sublime. Step by step as it grew up and assumed shape and substance as a town his face lighted with unalloyed joy, and his vision sped down the vista of coming years and he saw this beautiful city of his dreams. He never doubted and was never surprised to see the grand strides that Clanton made, year by year, in its wonderful progress.

I was unable to get an accurate record of his age, but he was born back in slavery days and remembered those days. He told of being sold on the block at least two times back in those days. Strange to say, Uncle Jim firmly maintained that freedom for his race was a mistake. He said they were all happier back in the days when "Marster" had to shoulder all the responsibility and the slaves had to give no thought for the morrow' as to what they ate and drank. He claimed that as a race they were the most care-free and happy people on earth. His memories of slavery carried no dark and cruel pictures like we have so often heard. He said as a rule the white people were kind and even those who were not were withheld from dangerous cruelties by the intrinsic value of the slave.

Although his color was black his daily life was a peon of honesty, truth and faithfulness. If he had an enemy I never heard of it and I am morally sure that in his heart he treasured not the slightest trace of enmity against any one. His heart was so large that he found room to love us all, but no time to ever speak evil of any one.

Uncle Jim died as he had lived. After an illness of several months, without even a murmur, he closed his eyes on time and opened them in eternity, on a picture of celestial bliss and happiness that no words can portray.

Therae are many herats in Clanton saddened as memories of his ever smiling face and joyous laugh come back to them.

The remains were buried at Hopewell cemetery Wednesday at 11 a. m. by the side of a daughter who had gone on before.

"After life's fitful fever he sleeps well."—W. B. Corley.

Meetings Planned For Fruit Growers

Extension Horticulturist And County Agent Will Conduct Orchard Program

Recently Mr. Julian Brown, Extension Horticulturist of Auburn, was in the county with County Agent Stapp and helped him plan some orchard work for the county this year.

Four orchards were selected where demonstrations will be held throughout the year on the proper care of orchards. Orchards selected were as follows:

Jake Plier, near Concord school,
J. D. Sutley, Oak Grove community, near Jemison.
Harmon Headley, west of Clanton, Pleasant Grove.
George T. Guy, south of Verbena.

Meetings will be held beginning Saturday morning, March 23, at the following places:

Jake Plier's, 8 a. m., March 23.
J. D. Sutley's, 10 a. m., March 25.
J. S. Wright's, 1 p. m., March 25.
Harmon Headley's, 9 a. m., March 26.
Geo. T. Guy's, 2 p. m., March 26.

At these meetings spraying for control of worms in fruit will be done, and discussion of fertilization and cultivation of trees will be led by Mr. Stapp.

Everyone interested in improving the home orchard is invited to attend one of the meetings.

MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. We had a large crowd out to our services after so much rain. How thankful we are to have the privilege to meet at the church to worship God. Dr. McQuarrie of Atlanta, Georgia, gave us a wonderful speech Sunday and Sunday night, and also Miss Margaret Daviston of Thorsby. We wish them back again soon.

Sunday night we had a nice little program showing the different nations. It was enjoyed by all. We invite everybody back again to be with us in our services.

Miss Lurleen Ellison spent the week end with Miss Alen Gentry.

Miss Margaret Daviston of Thorsby spent Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coggins and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal Coggins took dinner with Mrs. Lula Giles Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson visited Mrs. Victoria Thompson Sunday.

Miss Cornelia Nelson visited Mrs. Rosie Headley Sunday.

Mrs. Ada Maddox took dinner with Miss Carrielee Williamson Sunday.

Miss Virgie Giles took dinner with Miss Delene Lambert Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Royal Coggins.

Dr. McQuarrie spent Sunday and Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coggins.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Retherford attended services Saturday and Sunday. They have moved off and we sure do miss them in our services.

MR. AVERY WRITES REGARDING DRAINAGE PROJECT

Editor Union-Banner:

May I have a little space in The Union-Banner to ask a few questions and give my views and experience on the drainage project now being put before us. I have asked questions of a good many that have signed, as to why they signed, and did they have any idea what it would cost them. Their answers were: It will not cost me anything, as the government will pay for it. Some say it is just the swamp land to be taxed.

Why, do they no know that every acre of their land will be taxed with a heavy tax for years to come?

I understand that 7,000 acres will be in the district, and that $65,000 will do the work. I left a drainage district of this kind a year ago, and know from experience that this sum will not do the work by half. There it was costing them $3 an acre a year for 20 years. The results there were thousands of acres were sold for the taxes, and a good number lost their homes and everything they had, and that within three years. It will not be any better here than there. Small farmers will lose their homes as they did there, and everyone hard pressed to make ends meet.

Every business in Clanton will suffer as the results of it, because the farmers will not have the means to buy with. It will not hurt Clanton, though, as it will the farmers, but it will hurt. The farmers will be ruined and it will be years before they will be on their feet again—many small farmers probably never, as it will cost them at least half the value of their homes. Down where I was it is costing them more than twice what their land is worth.

I would like to see a good ditch put up these swamps. It would be a good thing if we could stand the cost, but the cost will be too great. It will ruin us for years to come. Many of our best citizens who have spent the best part of their lives paying for a home, and in their declining years, if so taxed, will lose their homes. It was done in the district where I was, and it will do the same thing here.—S. F. Avery, Clanton, Route 7.

Motherhood

. . made easier by doctor's discovery . .

AN eminent physician, expert in the science of childbirth, has proven to thousands of mothers how to avoid much needless suffering.

Long before the time for baby to come tight tissues, binding muscles and sensitive nerves set up an aggravated condition, sapping strength and leaving the expectant mother unprepared to do her part when the time arrives.

The effective way for relieving this condition is with Mother's Friend. It relaxes the tight tissues and soothes the nerves. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

Mother's Friend is for outward application. Tonight, on retiring, rub Mother's Friend over the abdomen, back and hips, and massage these parts until it is absorbed by the skin. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

Over three generations of mothers praise Mother's Friend for its wonderful powers in relieving distress and in making childbirth easier.

"I can not praise in words the good Mother's Friend did me. I am now the mother of three children and had always suffered terribly during expectancy. This time I used Mother's Friend and was sick only 10 minutes when my 9-pound girl arrived."—Mrs. Ted Jaramillo, Albuquerque, N. Mex.

You should possess that brochure "Things to Know Before Baby Comes." It will be mailed free and you will be happier because of your prompt decision in writing. It tells a story probably known to your own mother and will point the way to less pain when that dear baby comes. Just address Bradfield Regulator Co., Desk 9, Atlanta, Ga. All drug stores sell Mother's Friend.

Who Pays The Fertilizer Bill?

Your Experiment Station's tests on our soil types for a long period of years show that land where three hundred and twenty-five pounds of the right kind of fertilizer properly applied, made an average of 343 pounds more seed cotton per acre than did the same kind of land where no fertilizer was applied. At present prices this fertilizer cost about $4.75 and made about $24 worth of cotton.

Where they doubled the fertilizer or used an additional $4.75 worth, the additional amount used made still 201 pounds more cotton. This second increase is not as much as the first $4.75 worth gave, but this 201 pounds increase is worth about $14.00, or more than enough to pay the whole fertilizer bill on the 650 pounds of fertilizer.

Let Fertilizer Pay the Fertilizer Bill

If you are not sure about your Experiment Station's recommendations, see your county agent, or vocational agricultural teacher. They too, are anxious to see you use the fertilizer that will produce the best crop at least cost.

If you did not get one of our letters on fertilizer prepared by Mr. Stapp, call by the bank and get one.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court, in Equity.
M. N. Allen, Complainant, vs. Annie B. Allen, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Percy M. Pitts that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Annie B. Allen to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 31, day of March, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 26, day of February, 1929.

STEWARDSHIP AND MISSIONS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 1:6-8; II Cor 8:1-9.

GOLDEN TEXT—It is required in stewards that a man be found faithful (I Cor. 4:2).

PRIMARY TOPIC—Love Gifts for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Love Gifts for God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Is to Be a Christian Steward.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Stewardship of Self, Substance and Service.

I. Witnessing for Christ (Acts 1:6-8).

This is the supreme obligation resting upon believers in this age. While we are not responsible for bringing in the kingdom, we are under solemn obligation to witness to the salvation which is graciously provided for all who believe in Jesus Christ.

1. The disciples' question (v. 6).

They said, "Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?" The phrase "this time" indicates their perplexity as to the time of the kingdom's establishment. They were entirely right in their expectation of the kingdom, for it had been predicted by the prophets, and announced by Christ as "at hand." However, they were in darkness as to the real purpose of God in calling and establishing the church. This is a matter concerning which there is much confusion today.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 7, 8).

He turned their attention from the desire to know times and seasons, which belong to God, to their supreme duty. They were to be witnesses of Christ to the uttermost parts of the earth, beginning at Jerusalem.

II. Christian Stewardship (II Cor. 8:1-9).

1. Examples of true Christian benevolence (vv. 1-5).

The liberality of these Macedonian churches exhibits practically every exalted principle and motive entering into the giving which has God's sanction.

(1) The source of true giving (v. 1) This is said to be the grace of God, by which is meant that the disposition to give freely of our means is created by the Holy Spirit.

(2) They gave from the depths of their poverty, not from the abundance of their riches (v. 2). Their limited means did not cause them to be stinted in their gifts, but their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their liberality. On the basis of this philosophy, our poverty ought to be a call for greater generosity, for God has promised that if we give liberally He will give liberally in return.

(3) Their willingness surpassed their ability (v. 3).

God's gifts are reckoned by the degree of willingness, not by the amount given (see v. 12, cf. 9:7).

(4) They were insistent on being allowed the privilege of giving (v. 4).

(5) They first gave themselves to the Lord (v. 5). This is most fundamental to right giving, for when one gives himself to the Lord there is no reason for withholding his gifts. If one does not first give himself there will be the desire to retain as much for self as can be done within the bounds of respectability. We should first induce men and women to give their lives to the Lord.

2. Emulation of Macedonian benevolence urged (vv. 6-15). Moved by the generosity of the Macedonian churches, Paul desired Titus to commend to the Corinthians the same grace. This he urged upon them.

(1) Not as a command (v. 8). Acceptable giving must not only be liberal, but spontaneous.

(2) As a proof of the sincerity of their love (v. 8).

(3) As the completion and harmony of Christian character (v. 7).

The Corinthian church abounded in spiritual gifts such as faith, utterance, knowledge, diligence, and love for their ministers, but the grace of liberality was needed for the harmony of their lives.

(4) The self-sacrificing example of Christ (v. 9). Self-sacrifice is the test of love. All who have enthroned Him as the Lord of their lives, crowned Him Lord of all, will desire to imitate Him in all things.

(5) The true principle upon which gifts are acceptable with God (vv. 10-12).

God does not estimate the value of a gift upon the ground of intrinsic worth, but of the underlying motive of the giver.

(6) Because of common equality (vv. 13-15). Every Christian should give something. The law governing the gift is the ability of the giver.

BRO. BRYAN'S BIBLE STORY

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

BEHOLDING CHRIST WHILE HE WAS CRUCIFIED

In the Gospel according to Luke we read of a very sad event. In Luke 23:35 Luke writes it this way: "The people stood beholding. The rulers also with them derided him, saying, 'He saved others; let Him save Himself, if He be Christ, the chosen of God.'"

The very place where they were beholding Christ was on Golgotha, Calvary outside the walls of Jerusalem, outside the northern gate of the city, right above a great thorofare where men of all nations had rushed to behold Christ as He was being crucified. Some of the people rode donkeys, some of them rode camels, some of them walked to Calvary where occurred the greatest event in all the history of the world, inspired or profane.

The event was the death of Jesus Christ for the sins of the whole world. It was the death of Jesus Christ for your sins and for my sins. Truly He loved me and gave Himself for me, the just for the unjust that He might reconcile me to God. O, when I think of Calvary with its most sacred association of all time I can but take my shoes off my feet because of its Holy Ground. O, my friends, I would have you look up to Calvary to-day.

Think of the Isaiah prophecy that Christ would be oppressed and afflicted, wounded for our transgressions, bruised for our iniquities and led as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb He would open not His mouth. The chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed. Upon that rough and rugged cross of Calvary Christ died without one word or act of resentment for your salvation and for my salvation, your peace with God and my peace with God.

Then again we read a clear prophecy of this Christ, the Saviour of all from their sins. Zechariah writes, saying, "In that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and uncleanness." When John the Baptist beheld Jesus coming unto him, he said, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

But we are to study that hill of Calvary where amid rending rocks and darkening skies Jesus made the supreme sacrifice for you and for me and for the whole world in the presence of many who were beholding the scene. The Greek translation of Calvary is "Behold." I told you the skies were darkened and the rocks shook. Now I want to tell you that those rocks have not been taken away. I saw them a year and a half ago. It is just as General Gordon describes it. It is in the shape of a human skull.

O Calvary, dark Calvary, 'twas there my Saviour died for me! O, Calvary, dark Calvary, 'twas there my Saviour died for me! My friends we must come right to this Calvary. There is no salvation outside that place. There is no salvation outside the cross of Jesus. Men of the world have tried to find some other way to salvation, but it cannot be found because there is no such thing. At one time there was a great turmoil among the people of the world in New York who were seeking to find a way to heaven without the cross, salvation without the blood of Jesus Christ which was shed for the remission of sin. My friends, they did not find it and you cannot find it.

Now as to the number of people who beheld the crucifixion of Christ I am not sure, neither is anyone else. But if you will read as I did this morning the narrative in the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John you will find that there were more people there than we often think. There were four men who took a leading part in this execution of Jesus. There as they placed the cross on Calvary's hill amid the mocking and sneering crowds Jesus stood as humble and as obedient as a lamb. The four men drove the spikes in His hands while the cross was still on the ground and then they placed a crown of thorns on His head before uplifting the cross. see the four men as they place the body of my Saviour and your Saviour on that cross. They had no love for the innocent Saviour in their hearts. How sad, O, how sad, to have no love for the Saviour in your heart.

Think of those people beholding this terrible scene with an awful indifference. They had no love for Him. Their lives were dominated with materialism. Their idea was a materialistic one. You can imagine those in the crowd, the scribes, the elders, the Pharisees. All they did was just stand there and behold Christ as He was being crucified. That is just what thousands of people to-day are doing. They just stand and look at the church. They do not sacrifice anything for it. They do nothing but criticise it.

Those people who were looking on were men of all nationalities. They just stood looking on, looking on. As one visits there he looks down a little farther to a place. I just walked over to it, and I thought of it being the fulfillment of a prophecy of Luke, saying, "Sitting down they watched Him there." So we see another crowd sitting down and watching Him. The crowd along the road threw at Him and spit on Him.

That indifferent crowd said, "If you be the Son of God, come down and save yourself." Another said, "He said He could save others now let Him save Himself." Many of them cried during that terrible scene, "Crucify Him, nail Him to that cross!" Some said, no doubt, "He said to destroy the temple and He would build it in three days. Now look over there at the temple. I will build it again myself."

That indifferent crowd heard Him say, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." They heard Him say to the penitent thief, "To-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise." My friends, just as sure as Jesus Christ saves my soul He saved that man's soul. That man is in heaven to-day because Jesus said, "This day shalt thou be with me in Paradise." Paradise means a spiritual world. It cannot be translated otherwise. Christ gave that man a place in His Kingdom with Him. This man had faith in Christ and His shed blood. I have been in this pastorate for a period of forty years and I know that if a man has not this faith in Christ and His shed blood he misses everything.

Christ in that suffering state said to them, "I thirst." They refused to quench His thirst. That indifferent crowd gave Him vinegar to drink. They also said, "We will see if Elias will come and take Him down from the cross." My friends, here is an important thing to think about and it is this Christ beheld His mother. He did not forget His mother. There as He made the supreme sacrifice He turned and said to John, "Behold thy mother. Woman behold thy son."

Woe to the man that forgets his mother, fails to share with her, refuses to honor her and does not love her always. Christ's dying provision for His mother provided from a great heart of love was in the loving care of the disciple who lived closest to His heart, the disciple whom Jesus loved. He in turn loved Jesus much. Then Jesus said, "Father, into Thy hands I commit my spirit." In the expression, "He bowed His head and gave up the ghost," means He bowed His head and life was gone.

They did not love Him. They heard the hammers click as they drove the nails in His hands and feet. They heard Him say, "Eli, Eli, la ma sa bach tha ni? that is to say, "My God, my God why hast thou forsaken me?" They heard Him say, "Father into thy hands I commit my soul. It is finished, it is finished." They stood beholding Him. They stood beholding Him. They stood looking at Him.

Does this world to-day just stand and look at Christ? Are you standing and looking at Christ? That was a crowd that wanted to kill Christ. I can see them as they beat upon Him, thrust a spear in Him, scoff at Him, revile Him. They watched Him, they watched Him, but all with evil intent. The crowd that crucified Christ did not believe in Him. There may be thousands to-day who would re-crucify Christ. The devil wants to get rid of everything Christ stands for. The devil wants to get rid of the Bible. He does not want you to read and study it. He does not want your life molded after Jesus Christ and he knows the Bible read and studied prayerfully will help mold your life after Christ. Your life must be molded after Christ and the question with us is "What would Jesus do?"

As Christians we must give the best we have and are to Jesus Christ. He gave all for us. Now there was another group of people at the curcifixion. They were the followers of Jesus. I can see a man named John, the son of Zebedee and the friend of Peter. I see him standing there and Jesus looking at him because He could trust him. He knew what a comfort he had been to Him the night before. He turned and said to him, "Take my mother home with you." I can see John taking the mother of Jesus Christ home with him.

I sat in my study this morning and looking at that sentence, "They stood beholding Him." I read it and re-read it and just wondered how many people to-day were just beholding Him, just beholding Him. I could look back over that road over which I rode while in the Holy Land and think of the words He spoke to Mary of Magdala, Mary the wife of Cleopas, the wife of Chusa, Herod's secretary and a great many other women who followed after Him weeping. Jesus turned and said to them, "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children." We notice that nothing is said in that verse about men. It is to the women and their children.

I am afraid we neglect to ponder the beautiful life of Mary of Magdala who crept to the feet of Jesus, bathed His feet with her tears and wiped them with the hairs of her head. She also anointed His body for burial. She was the last at the cross and first at the empty sepulcher. Indeed her life was a beautiful one of worship and service to Christ. Any man that can ought to come to the worship services of the church. We have a men's Bible class in our church that can use every man in Birmingham in the service of Christ. Our field is the world. What a wonderful opportunity is given us. Last Sunday night there were seven different nationalities represented in this church. I am praying that I may tell these people about Jesus Christ their personal Saviour.

I can hear those women pleading with the Roman soldiers, "Please do not treat Him so cruel." I believe this was among the first crucifixion scenes in Jerusalem. There had been no doubt crucifixions in other countries, but not so in Italy. O, my friends, the One the people stood beholding was God's Eternal Son, the prophesied Messiah, the chiefest among ten thousand, the One all-together lovely. He is the only person in this world that has ever made an impress upon the world.

My friends the devil who greeted Christ upon His triumphal entry into Jerusalem is here to-day working as hard as ever. He is working now as never before and we must take into consideration that we have made many mistakes. We have built great buildings in which to worship God. Jesus Christ never preached in a church. The last prayer-meeting He ever attended was in the home of Mary, the mother of John Mark. We need to be thinking more about the spiritual welfare of humanity and not so much about material things.

We need to pray for these boys and girls' characters above everything else. It is not a need of doing something to get them into the church, but building up their characters for Christ and the church. We need to lead the young and the old into the presence of Christ, introduce them to Christ who will mold their characters after His.

We cannot afford to stand and behold Him, but we must walk up and give service in bringing about His Kingdom. God has helped me and given me the opportunity to preach at lots of places. The other day I saw ten or fifteen boys watching another boy play that beautiful song, "Love lifted me." As they stood there behind a box car they could not keep their eyes off the musician. Thousands to-day are watching our lives. Your next door neighbor is watching you. They are watching us because we represent Christ.

The trouble with the man with an ax to grind is that he always wants somebody else to turn the grindstone.

County Farm Agent's Notes

STAPP WORKING WITH CREAM SHIPPERS FOR BETTER CREAM

At the beginning of this year County Agent Stapp decided to include dairying in his program of work for the year. You have no doubt noticed in recent issues of our paper articles by Mr. Stapp on growing feeds and pastures for dairy cattle, also articles about the pure bred Jersey Calf Club he is organizing with the 4-H Club boys.

Recently Mr. Stapp requested the co-operation of Swift Butter Company in testing cows in this county for cream or butterfat. Swift and Company recently bought out Belle Meade Butter Company in Montgomery, and they, like all other buyers of cream, are interested in our producing more cream of a better quality.

Last Saturday Mr. H. E. Gustafson, representing Swift and Company of Montgomery, was with Mr. Stapp at his office where they tested samples of milk from about 80 cows for butterfat. These 80 samples were brought in by about 30 farmers. The tests ranged from 3 per cent to 8 1-2 per cent butterfat. Quite a few cows tested above 6 per cent butterfat.

Cream is selling for about 50c per pound butterfat now. From 100 pounds of milk testing 3 per cent butterfat, you get three pounds or $1.50 worth of butterfat. From 100 pounds of milk testing 6 per cent butterfat you get 6 pounds or $3.00 worth of butterfat.

The more cream your cows give the quicker you can fill your cream cans and get them to the creamery. Fresh cream kept cool is what the creameries want. People usually pay more for what they want. Let us try to produce more cream of better quality. Breed the cows you have to good bulls so their daughters will give milk richer in butterfat.

Mr. Stapp announces that with the co-operation of Swift and Company they will test milk about once a month. Watch the papers for testing dates.

FERTILIZER VALUE TO BE DEMONSTRATED

Auburn, Ala., March 18.—To demonstrate that large applications of commercial fertilizer of the right kind will pay and to study the influence of such factors as man labor, horse labor, machinery, seed, boll weevil poisoning, and cost of producing cotton and corn, 5-acre demonstrations will be conducted in Alabama this year with both cotton and corn.

Plans for these demonstrations are announced by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, who says that one with corn and one with cotton will be conducted in each county having a county demonstration agent. Each will be fertilized as recommended by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Already 25 such demonstrations with oats are in progress.

Each of these demonstrations will be conducted under the direction of the county agent. The Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau will furnish nitrate of soda. Farmers who cooperate will furnish superphosphate and potash.

Each acre of cotton in these demonstrations will receive 600 pounds of superphosphate, 300 pounds of nitrate of soda and 75 pounds of muriate of potash. All the phosphate and potash and one-fourth of the nitrate of soda will be applied at the time of planting. The remaining threefourths of nitrate of soda will be applied immediately after chopping. Check rows will be included.

ALABAMA FARMERS NEED MORE SOYBEANS

Auburn, Ala., March 18.—As a feed for work animals, dairy cows, and beef cattle soybean hay is one of the best that can be produced in Alabama. F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist of the College of Agriculture of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, ranks it as "the alfalfa of the South" and recommends that farmers plant a larger acreage this year.

At the same time J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, said that the soybean is the standard hay crop in north Alabama and that it is gaining in favor in south Alabama.

For hay Mr. Lowery recommends either the laredo or the o-too-tan. Both varieties are excellent for hay. For grazing the mammoth yellow is better.

To fertilize soybeans Mr. Lowery recommends basic slag. Alabama experiments have shown that basic slag is always as good as superphosphate and most of the time better. It should be applied at the rate of 400 pounds per acre, he said.

Land that will produce three-fourths of a bale of cotton per acre should produce one and one-half tons of soybean hay. As an average each animal should have two tons of hay per year.

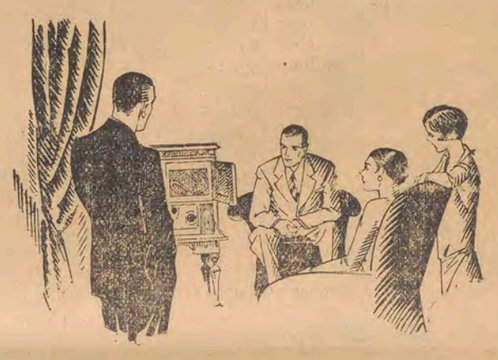
With a short hay crop in 1928 Mr. Burns insists that a special effort should be made to produce more hay in 1929 because the ilvestock outlook is good and Alabama is continuing to make progress as a livestock state.

Soybeans may be planted in either narrow rows or broadcast. Rows are better, in order to cultivate. For hogging down they are interplanted with corn.

The railroads in the United States handle annually about 1,000,000 carloads of fruits and vegetables of which Irish potatoes constitute about one-fourth.

PAINS
In Side and Back

"I HAD BEEN miserable for a long time. My health was poor, and I suffered a lot from weakness. At times, my strength was so little that I could not stand on my feet. I would have to give up and go to bed. My sides and back hurt dreadfully.



"I grew discouraged, for I could do so little. I worried about myself, and almost gave up hope of ever being strong and well. I could scarcely lift a bucket of water. My house work went undone, for I was not strong enough to do it.

"After I had taken Cardui for a little while, I began to feel better. I grew stronger, soon found that I could do my work with less effort, and the pains in my back and sides left me. I think Cardui is a wonderful medicine. My health has been excellent since then."—Mrs. D. L. Beckner, W. Main St., Salem, Va.

Connie Austin Visitor Here Last Saturday

Former Law Enforcement Chief Is Interested In Mining

Mr. Connie Austin, ex-chief of Alabama's law enforcement department, was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday. Mr. Austin lives in Birmingham and is now devoting his time to the development of mineral and mining properties. He has an interest in the holdings of Alabama Mica Company, which comprises a considerable area in the eastern part of Chilton County. While here Saturday he made a trip to this property.

"I am anxious to make a thorough investigation of the mineral resources of Chilton County," said Mr. Austin, "and if the possibilities are half what they have been represented, I see no reason why the commercializing of these resources could not be developed with great profit to this locality."

Mr. Austin was accompanied on his visit by young Mr. Stallings, a son of the late Jesse Stallings, well-known lawyer and capitalist, of Birmingham.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN LANGSTON

Last Saturday afternoon at two o'clock the death angel came and took away our dear husband and father. It leaves a place vacant in our home never to be filled any more, but God knows best.

He leaves seven children and three grandchildren and four brothers and three sister to mourn his death.

He is gone but not forgotten.

And also we want to thank Friendship community for their kindness during the death of our dear husband and father. May God bless Mr. E. W. Miller for his kindness shown us. May God bless each and every one.—From his sad wife and children.

General Robert L. Bullard, famous alumnus of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute who was second in command of thee American forces during the World War, returned to his alma matere on March 14 to witness a military reeview in his honor and also to deliver an address to students and faculty at Auburn. Two other addresses followed later.

IN APPRECIATION

On the 7th inst. our house with all the contents got burned except the clothes we had on and 1 dress and 1 dress for the baby, 1 mattress, 1 hay bed, 7 quilts, 2 double blankets, 2 sheets and 4 pillows. Through the kindness and sympathy of the people they have come to our aid and have supplied our needs greatly by giving us money, clothes, bedding and such things that it makes our hearts and very soul to rejoice to know that we have some friends who are ready and willing to help in time of need for which we know not how thankful to be or how much to appreciate the gifts, but may God's blessings rest on each giver of the same.—Respectfully, Latham (Pete) Wilson and wife, Leatha.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends for their kindness shown us during the illness of our children.

On February 17, was the begining of the illness of our little daughter, Esther Lee. She was ill several days with Pneumonia. May E., our daughter, 17, was carried to St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery on March the first where she underwent a serious operation for appendicitis. Especially do we thank Dr. N. S. Johnson of Clanton, Dr. George Blue, Dr. Dennis and all the nurses, and all of St. Margaret's Hospital for their kindness.

May God's richest blessings fall on each and every one of you is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Dennis and Family, Clanton, Ala., Route 6.

By gathering poultry in carlots the county agents and farm bureaus of Alabama are enabling poultry farmers to get higher prices for their poultry. When a car is loaded it goes direct to one of the big markets, most of them going to New York. This work is being directed by extension marketing specialists of Auburn.

Interesting Reading Averages Made by Schools of County

Reading tests, held in the schools of this county, under the supervision of Miss Madge Scarborough, county Elementary Supervisor, show interesting averages made by the students in the many communities which were interested in the program.

Following is a list of the community schools, and their respective ratings as given by the teachers.

Please remember that the figures below are the one which show the per cent correct of the questions attempted:

Flint Hill	50.57
Freman	52
Mitchell Dam	58
Mars Hill	60.31
Eastview	61.24
Fairview	62.8
Cane Creek	63.6
Oak Grove	65.29
Union Grove	65.59
Free Springs	69.97
Mullins	71.62
Culp	75.67
Clanton	82.36

The following pupils of the Clanton school made 90 per cent or above:

3RD GRADE READING ABILITY

Grace Plyer	7.7
Cathleen Powell	7.9
Helen Roberts	9.1
Lucille Scroggins	6.1

The students of the Chilton County interested with the test given with averages made, that will be of interest to the parents of the students.

It would be interesting to note that in every instance the teachers have said that these grades in reading are very nearly the same as the grades in other subjects. The child cannot get the thought from his other subjects if he is unable to thoroughly understand whatever material he reads. With this fact in view, the main objective in classroom work this year—with the teachers in Chilton county—has been to improve the method of teaching reading so that the children will get the most possible benefit from their year in school.

Frank Callen Reports On Cotton Mill Meet

Directors of Alabama Mills Meet And Discuss Plans For Future Operations

Mr. Frank J. Callen of Clanton returned last week from Birmingham where he attended a Stockholders meeting of the Alabama Mills Company, as representative of local stockholders.

The report of the officers of the company shows very satisfactory conditions in all departments, and it is believed the operations during the current year will be satisfactory.

It was pointed out that dividends did not start on the stock of the company until January 1st, 1929. therefore, the question of dividends was not a proper subject to come before the meeting at this time, but will be taken up at the annual meeting in March, 1930.

It was found that the product of the mills had been well received in various markets, and that all looms now in operation were turning out goods to be shipped out on orders.

VIOLATING THE LAW

No part of President Hoover's inaugural address created a deeper or more lasting impression than the one which touched upon law enforcement and law observance. President Hoover realizes that our present wave of lawlessness goes farther back than the time of the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment, although of course violation of the prohibition laws now constitute a goodly part of our lax law observance. The delay in the functioning of the machinery of justice undoubtedly has a great deal to do with the failure of law enforcement today.

But it has become popular now to blame almost everything which does not suit us either directly or indirectly on the Volstead act. President Hoover wisely said:

"But a large responsibility rests directly upon our citizens. There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime.

"I have been selected by you to execute and enforce the laws of the country. I propose to do so to the extent of my own abilities, but the measure of success that the government shall attain will depend upon the moral support which you as citizens extend.

"The duty of citizens to support the law of the land is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist. No greater national service can be given by men and women of good-will—who I know, are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should by their example assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor.

"Our whole system of self government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support. The worst evil of disregard for some law is that it destroys respect for all law. For our citizens to patronize the violation of a particular law on the ground that they are opposed to it is destructive of the very basis of all that protection of life, of homes and property which they rightly claim under other laws.

"If citizens do not like a law their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its appeal."

There is little fault to find with the logic of the above statements of the new President. Not all of our people by any means are in favor of the Eighteenth amendment. But all good citizens, regardless of their views on prohibition are supposed to stand for law enforcement. The man who denounces the prohibition laws because they are so often violated is certainly inconsistent if he at the same time participates in this violation. To hold up one's hands in holy horror of the bootlegger and then patronize that unscrupulous gentleman to the extent of eight or ten dollars a quart for illegal poison is inconsistent to say the least.

If law violation is general and is so terrible as most of us think it is, then it is our duty certainly to discourage further violation by not patronizing the bootlegger ourselves.

As President Hoover says, any good citizen has the right to work openly for the repeal of any law which he disproves, but he certainly has not the right as a good American to attempt to break down the law by helping to violate it. Such procedure only adds to general public demoralization and is certainly against public policy.

CAPITOL News

Some interesting statistics on educational progress in Alabama as a result of increased appropriations by the 1927 Legislature were given in a recent public address by Dr. John W. Abercrombie, of the State Department of Education. The figures show that for the current quadrennium (1927-31) Legislative appropriations for elementary and high schools will exceed those of the preceding four-year period by 145.7 per cent; for institutions of higher learning, by 291.9 per cent; for eleemosynary and reformatory institutions, by 145.2 per cent; for all combined, by 188.4 per cent. From these figures, it will be seen that the total legislative appropriations for all educational purposes for the present quadrennium are nearly three times as great as for the four years immediately preceding, the figure of 188.4 per cent representing the amount of increase.

In addition to the legislative appropriations, the elementary and high schools receive the proceds of the State school tax of three mills, which has been in effect for many years. Assuming that there is no decrease in the proceeds from this tax, the total of State funds from all sources available for elementary and high schools during the current quadrennium will exceed those of the preceding by 50.5 per cent; for institutions of higher learning, eleemosynary and reformatory institutions, the increase will be as given above, as these institutions do not share in the three-mill tax; and for all educational purposes, by 181.2 per cent. From these figures it is seen that the Legislature of 1927 not only gave the elementary and high schools appropriations nearly two and one-half times as great as before, but also that when figuring in the three mill tax, which has been levied for years, the increased appropriations made in 1927 were such as to raise the total of State funds from all sources for elementary and high schools by over 50 per cent.

The above figures show that the per cent of increase in appropriations for higher institutions of learning is greater than in the case of elementary and high schools. However, it should be noted in this connection, that the institutions of higher learning are dependent for equipment and support upon legislative appropriations; while the elementary and high schools, in addition to the appropriations by the legislature, receive the benefit of the State three mill tax, and also of county, district and city taxes.

"The Legislature of 1927 was progressive and liberal," Dr. Abercrombie stated. "Under the leadership of Governor Bibb Graves and State Superintendent of Education, R. E. Tidwell, every branch of the public school system from lowest to highest was tremendously improved and strengthened. To Governor Graves, Superintendent Tidwell, and the Legislature of 1927, the people of Alabama will be forever indebted for the services rendered." Dr. Abercrombie also paid tribute to the growing value of public education among the people of the state. "More and more the people of Alabama are recognizing that education is a State responsibility," Dr. Abercrombie stated; "that every child, regardless of accident of birth or place of residence, is entitled to an equal chance in life with every other child; that without equality of adequate educational opportunity there can be no equal chance in life; that the more a state taxes itself for education the better able will it be to tax itself for all purposes. Alabama is definitely and irrevocably committed to the policy of providing universal education at public expense."

Evidence of progress in the warfare against typhoid fever is contained in figures from the State Health Department, showing a marked decrease in this disease in 1928 as compared with the two years immediately preceding. Number of cases of typhoid was 2,255 in 1926, 1,985 in 1927 and 1,33 in 1928. Complete figures on the number of deaths in 1928 are not yet available, but it is believed that the typhoid death rate in 1928 will be found to be the lowest in the history of the State.

General F. E. Butler, Adjutant-general of the Alabama National Guard, has received a personal letter from General C. P. Summerall, Chief of Staff of the United States Army and Grand Marshal of the Inaugural Parade in Washington, on March 4, complimenting the Alabama troops who participated in the inaugural exercises.

"I take this opportunity of extending to you my congratulations on the soldierly appearance, marching and bearing of those organizations of the Alabama National Guard participating in the inaugural parade," General Summerall wrote, "I am sure that the general public appreciated their splendid contribution to the inaugural ceremonies. I shall be pleased if you will convey by appreciation to the officers and men who participated in the ceremony."

Governor Graves commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Steven L. Richards of Mobile County, who was sentenced to go to the chair at Kilby Prison March 15. Richards was convicted for killing a man named Russell, as the climax of a quarrel in a rooming house of which they were occupants. Richards, who is a cripple, claimed that he fired in self-defense, and it was argued that the killing was and could not be classed as premeditated murder. Richard's two sons appeared at the hearing before the Governor and the pardon board and made an earnest appeal for the life of their father, who they said had given them every care and attention within his power when they were children.

The Governor declined to interefere in the case of Dock Giles, Lee County negro who received the death penalty for the murder of another negro. Giles was electrocuted at Kilby early on the morning of Friday, March 15th. The action of the Governor in both these cases was in line with recommendations of the pardon board, which unanimously recommended clemency for Richards, and declined to do so in the negro's case.

The March stock market came in like a lion and those on the long side hope that it won't go out like a lamb.

Next to a bridegroom an hour before the time for the ceremony, the most nervous thing we know of is the stock market.

The most we can find out about this reparations conference from the newspapers is that the allies claim the Germans are rolling in wealth and the Germans claim that if they are called on to pay any more reparations they will have to pawn the watch on the Rhine.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Manly Atchison entertained last Friday afternoon, March the Fifteenth, honoring her son, Jack Dempsey's, birthday.

Outdoor games were enjoyed until a late hour then the children were invited into the dining room where the Easter idea was carried out. The pretty embossed cake held six tiny pink candles of which the children enjoyed blowing out.

Delicious jello, cake and punch were served and Easter baskets were given as souvenirs.

Those enjoying this affair were Wendol Murrah, Mildred Gore, Douglas and Jack Lowery, Frances and Billie Bean, Vivian Lowery and others.

REV. H. G. C. HALLOCK WRITES OF THE CHINESE NEW YEAR

C. P. O. Box No. 1234, Shanhai, China, Feb. 15, 1929.

Editor Union-Banner:

We are in the midst of the Chinese Big Feast—Chinese New Year. Every one's birthday comes on this day. Should a child be born in even the last hours of the last day of the old year it would be two years old on New Years. New Year came on Sunday, February 10th. Every store was closed. All work stopped. But it was not quiet! It was like many Fourth of July's in one. Oh! the fire crackers!! At midnight I was wakened by a vast broadside of large and small fire crackers and they kept it up for days. In the morning the ground was covered as by red snow—the "confetti" of exploded fire works. Fire crackers are but a part of the feast—the noisy part.

The last day of the year everybody is busy—the men at closing up their accounts. All bills must be collected and all debts paid. Woe be to the man who does not pay his debts. The women are very busy. The house must be made as clean as a pin and decorated, and the brooms hidden—bad luck if they appear on New Year. Before the New Year sun rises all kinds of food must be gotten ready. Guests—many—will come during those days and they must be feasted. Few people see slumber the last night of the old year. But when the sun rises, calm reigns over the household. As one walks out between 6 and 9 a. m. the whole town is asleep. Sunday indeed! But excitement arouses them and about 10 o'clock you'll find the streets alive with the people dressed in their best "bib and tucker" and you hear, "Kong Hyi Fah-dzai" — "Congratulations and abounding wealth to you," shouted from one to another. The closed doors are plastered with appropriate sayings written on blood red strips of paper. Go to open spaces of the city and see crowds encircling puppet shows, acrobats, monkey performers, squirming dragons, entertainers of all kinds and peddlers of sweets and children's toys—Vanity Fair! Go to the temples and you find thousands burning incense and candles before all the idols, praying for wealth, old age and bliss.

One interesting god connected with the New Year is the god-of-wealth which is worshipped especially on the 5th, his birthday. The money spent on firecrackers in his honor would pay China's national debt. Few begin work again until he is properly worshipped. Another is the kitchen god. He is a paper god and sits over the stove in the kitchen where he spies on the doings of the family for a year. On the 23rd of the 12th month he is given a big feast. Sweet syrup is put on his mouth and he is put in a beautiful paper sedan chair and burned in glorious style, accompanied by fire works—which is sending him to the upper-god to report on their year's doings—all this fuss and sweetness is to bribe him to speak well of their family to his majesty. When he returns on the last night of the old year a new idol is bought and placed with little ceremony in the old nich. It will be a year before he reports again, why "taffy" him now?

Next to idol worship gambling takes a big place in New Year celebrations — gambling everywhere! What they eat and drink, and the fire crackers, and gambling, all in some way or other, symbolize or point to the sound "Kao-sen" excelsoir! in the sense of rising high in wealth and station—especially in wealth. It's indeed a wonderfully interesting time, and is indulged in even by beggars, for they receive a harvest of alms.

The Nationalist Government ordered that Chinese New Year should not be observed this year. It might as well have tried to turn back the greatest tidal wave of history; National commands stop the observance of Chinese New Year's customs? Only the conversion of these people to Christ will stop this idol worship and lead to the worship of the true God. And to us the glad part of it is that each year more leave the false and adopt the true as the Chinese one by one are born anew. We are not discouraged. Pray much for China. Kindest regards and best wishes.

Yours in Christ's glad service.—(Rev.) H. G. C. Hallock.

P. S.—Enclosed is a Chinese kitchen-god.

Evansville
Nearest Neighbor to the Southland

Evansville, Ind., one of the important terminal points on the L. & N. System, has a population of over 100,000, probably the third largest city in the State. From a manufacturing and business standpoint, it is easily second in volume and value of its products.

Located at Evansville are 236 industries, producing a great variety of manufactured and processed articles, whose value in 1927 amounted to $85,150,000. More important in volume and value are grain products, furniture and accessories, trucks and motor vehicle bodies, gasoline engines, steam shovels, dredging machinery, packing house products, infant foods, malt products, cigars, brooms, locomotive headlights, electrical machinery, electric and gas refrigerators, crockery-ware, plumbers' earthenware and fittings, hardwood lumber, agricultural implements, brick, structural iron, etc.

Evansville is the operating and traffic headquarters for the St. Louis and Henderson Divisions and branches, comprising nearly 500 miles of railroad. Located here are the large division shops of the Company. The L.&N. R. R. normally has between 2,300 and 2,400 employees in all of its departments, who live or have their headquarters in this City. These employees are paid approximately $4,200,000 annually, all of which is spent or invested in Evansville.

The L. & N. R. R. operates into and out of Evansville daily 30 freight trains and 22 passenger trains, with extras whenever the movement of business requires. This passenger service has had a great deal to do with making Evansville "The Metropolis of the Tri-State Territory." The L. & N. loads out of the City daily solid merchandise cars to all of the principal terminal cities in the South, Southeast, and West. These are handled in through-freight trains, giving less than carload shipments the same expeditious movement as on through carloads.

The L. & N. R. R. has been one of the most potent influences in developing and building up the industrial and commercial interests of the City; its steady strides and growth are reflected in the advancement of Evansville. It is an institution of which we feel justly proud. In substance, the L. & N. is a very important part of the foundation of our City.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

STRETCHING DAYLIGHT FOR GREATER EGG YIELD

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

Artificial Lighting By Increasing Length of Hens Working Day Brings Greater Egg Production at Times When Prices Are Highest.

If the hens of this country ever manage to start a union, there is little doubt as to what will cause the first strike. The ever growing practice of using artificial lights in henhouses cannot fail to excite the ire of walking delegates and a demand for shorter hours is sure to follow. However that may be, there is no denying the amazing effectiveness of artificial lighting or turning on bright lights in poultry houses to lengthen the day during the fall and winter when the days are short. It not infrequently increases the winter egg yield from 25 to 50 per cent with a corresponding increase in profits.

It is doubtful whether lighting causes a material increase, if any in a fowls total egg yield for the year. There is no question, however, about its causing a decided increase just when an increase is most profitable. There seems to be some misconception about what artificial lighting really accomplishes as such expressions as "making hens work overtime" will show.

A hen eats primarily to keep her own body in proper condition. Certain elements called carbohydrates go into the fatty portions of her body, other elements called proteins make up the lean or muscular tissues, while mineral elements such as lime and calcium keep the bony framework or skeleton in repair. When enough food has been eaten to take care of the hen's body, any surplus, if of the proper ingredients, is converted into eggs. The carbohydrates then become the egg white, the proteins become yolks, and the minerals make up the shell. Plainly, therefore, the more a hen eats of the proper food in excess of what is needed to maintain a healthy body, the more eggs she will lay. Of course, this cannot continue indefinitely, as there is a natural limit to the hen's ability to consume and digest food.

Understanding this theory of egg production makes it much easier to comprehend what artificial lighting really does an dhow. Naturally, after daylight is over the hen can no longer see her scratch grains and mashes. Having no incentive for exercising she does the only other thing she can do, goes to sleep. What artificial illumination does, therefore, is to provide light so the hen can eat and exercise before natural daylight comes. More feeding naturally means more eggs if the right materials are supplied. Furthermore, there is doubtless some truth in the theory that the hen has inherited fro mher original tropical ancestors a digestive system that is tuned to day and nights of equal length. In the tropics where domestic fowls originated, days and nights are naturally about equal. In temperate regions, however, days are much shorter during fall and winter than nights, so that fowls not enjoying the advantage of artificial lights are forced to endure unnaturally long waits between feeding times. The use of proper lighting, therefore, accomplishes a twofold result. It lengthens the effective feeding time so fowls can take more nourishing and egg-making foods and it also eliminates the disturbing effects of over long waits between feedings.

To give best results, houses should be lighted as brightly as they are by day. For this purpose, electric lights are so far superior to all other kinds that I hesitate even to suggest that anything else can be used. In a number of cases, farmers not close to regular electric lines have installed individual light plants and soon paid for them out of their increased profits. In ordinary houses, 16 to 18 feet deep, one 50-watt bulb every ten feet is sufficient, but in deeper houses a double row is needed.

The most favored time to light up is about 4:30 a. m. and the lights are allowed to remain on until natural daylight reaches full strength. There is, however, a growing tendency to light up from 6 a. m. to full daylight and again in the evening until 6 or 7 p. m. This provides a 12 or 13 hour day and is undoubtedly more convenient when automatic control of lights is not possible. Whether or not the latter time is as effective as the other can only be decided by further experiment.

When the lgihts are turned on, the hens jump down from the roosts and begin eating the food that has been provided, drinking and often laying before daylight. Some poultrymen use lights for a time both morning and evening, but I prefer to have them turned on at about 4:30 a. m. and let run until daylight.

Whatever system is used, be sure that the light is directed on the scratching floor and it should be bright enough so the hens can see every particle of food material. It will help considerably if the interiors of artificially lighted house are whitewashed or painted white.

When electric lights are used, they not only require very little attention, but usually cost less to operate than any other system. Furthermore, they may be so arranged that lights are automatically switched on and off at the proper times—a wonderful convenience. Although the value of artificial lighting may be questioned when electricity cannot be had, think there is no question but what it is of decided value if electricity is used. Certainly, unless the cost of the current is exorbitant, a tidy profit sialmost sure to result by boosting egg production when prices are at their peak.

EXPERT HERE

A new kind of machine was seen recently in Atoyac, Mexico. Natives of the Pacific Coast town viewed this modern invention with a great deal of curiosity. It was an automobile.

General Rafael Sanchez, commander of the State of Guerrero, drove a Model A Ford phaeton across the country from Acapulco to Atoyac, over land so rough that none had made such a journey before. He sent this wire to R. Z. Martinez, Ford dealer at Iguala:

"For your pleasure please be informed that the Ford car I purchased from you is the first automobile that has ever reached this town, over a difficult country where there are no roads at all and the land is strewn with rocks and soft sand. Motor in perfect condition after terrible test. Small native towns along path regarded first automobile with positive wonder."

HEFLIN BELIEVED TO HAVE GREATEST PERSONAL FOLLOWING AMONG SENATORS

Washington, Feb. 23.—What man in the United States Senate has the greatest personal following in the nation at large?

Listening to the remarks of visitors in the galleries, noting the craning of necks, the pointing of fingers, and replying to the questions of tourists who flood the Capitol each day one is forced to the perhaps reluctant conclusion that that man is Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama.

Is it mere curosity which prompts this interest? Is it hatred, veneration or the idle tribute aid to a particular individual who at a particular moment claims his small place in the national spotlight?

It should not be accepted that Heflin is a fad of the moment. He has been in public life more than 20 years and is more of a factor today than at any time during that period. Alfred E. Smith's candidacy did not do more than focus attention on Heflin's crusade against the Catholics.

The Alabama Senator presents a striking figure. Always faultlessly attired in a correct compromise between black and white, he is physically one of the largest men on the Senate floor. His hair is just long enough to be distinctive. . . He is a master of gesture and would be at home on any stage. He is renowned as the best story teller in Congress, and is unquestionably the ablest two-fisted debator in the greatest forum in the world. No question is too intricate for treatment by the Senator from Alabama. . . He has an uncanny faculty of touching the high points of universal appeal. His arguments stir the latent instincts of his countrymen. His political creed may hark back to the school of thought which through the ages produced a Luther and a Cotton Mather. But like his political forebears the man is sincere. He is a crusader. He has become the captain of a growing army, kindred in thought and background, which harkens to the call of his bugle.

To obtain an adequate picture of Tom Heflin, mix the mob appeal of a Walton with the eloquence of a Prince Freeling, add the wit and stage presence of Thomas P. Gore to that combination and dress your product in an atmosphere of statecraft and you have the Alabama Senator in all his glory.

PLANS FOR COMMENCEMENT ANNOUNCED AT UNIVERSITY

University, Ala., March 18.—Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama, has announced that plans for the commencement exercises in May are being formulated, and that two speakers have accepted invitations to speak at the Capstone.

Dr. Henry Suzzallo of the Carnegie Foundation is to be the principal speaker on the alumni program. It was explained that one day is set apart during commencement as "Alumni Day," and the speaker on this occasion delivers the commencement address. Dr. Suzzallo is a nationally known educator, it was stated, and was president of the University of Washington from 1915 to 1926. He has held high positions on the faculties of Stanford, Columbia, California and Yale universities, and was visiting professor of international relations in Europe during 1927 and 1928.

The second speaker announced is the Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Moore of Birmingham. Dr. Moore is Pastor of the First Methodist Church of Birmingham, and will deliver the Baccalaureate address on Sunday, May 26.

The dedicatory address on the event of the opening of the women's fine arts and home economics building at the University will be delivered by Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the home economics bureau of the U. S. Department of agriculture, it has been announced. Dr. Stanley will also be a guest of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs, which convenes at the University on that date.

SOIL WATER ABSORPTION INCREASED BY FORESTS

Montgomery, Ala., March 18.—The degree of water absorption by the soil as an element of flood amelioration is greatly increased by the presence of forest litter, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Often it has been assumed that the absorption capacity of the little on the ground was the total retarding effect upon the surface run-off of rain water, but this is only a part of the story, accordnig to the Commission.

Even after all of the pine straw, dead leaves, decaying twigs and the humus layer have taken up all the water they can hold, much more goes into the soil, and is held there, than would be the case without the presence of the forest litter. This is because the litter retards the speed of the run-off. The slower the water flows over the surface of the ground, the more of it will soak into the earth. The cover of dead leaves and other forest material on the ground obstructs the flow, causing a slowing up of the run-off with the result stated. In this way forest litter not only furnishes its own absorbing qualities but permits the soil to use more of its own capacity for holding water.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

Popularity.. begins with a Clear Skin

IT'S the person with a clear, smooth, lovely complexion that usually wins.

To be sure, not much is said openly about skin eruptions, but secretly they influence many important affairs. Personal likes and dislikes are quickly formed.

Everybody wants to be attractive. It is a just and natural ambition. A clear skin makes everyone more attractive.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The sure way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of those unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood makes the body strong and resistant to disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders or if the count of your red-blood-cells is low, take a few bottles of S.S.S. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy, which is made from fresh vegetable drugs, and has stood the test of over 100 years.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

A WOMAN CLOWN

A famous clown was once asked why there were no women clowns, since they seem to have taken up everything else in their effort to make a livelihood. His answer was to the effect that women will not make themselves look ridiculous.

"Take a man clown for instance. He doesn't care how funny you dress him or how foolish you make him look, because men as a rule haven't any natural vanity. But give a woman a ridiculous costume and make her paint her face in red and white checks, put on a false set of feet seven sizes too large and what have you? A Lady Clown? No a resignation."

Then he went on to say that women hated to be laughed at and men don't. Men are better sports. They like a joke and can laugh at one that hits them as well as those which hit other people.

The only exception to the famous clown's statement is all of it. For with The Mighty Haag Shows coming to Clanton, Monday, March 25th, there is a man clown and a young woman at that. She has disproved the famous clown's statement for two years, six days a week and her many competitors admit that she has them beaten in the finding of laughs. Among an army of clowns with the Haag Shows she stands out alone as the most ludicrous, altho her identity has remained, until recently, a secret; but the fact that she was until two years ago one of the most famous of America's comediennes may give a slight clue to her name. Ill health and the doctor's orders to remain out-of-doors have been instrumental in bringing the young lady to the circus.

It is her delight to make people laugh and her ability to do so is of course, natural, but is also enhanced a very great deal by a very burlesque costume she assumes. As for vanity she has plenty.

"But I make my living by making people laugh, so why should I let my vanity interefere with my livelihood? I like to be a clown and it affords me pleasure as well as profit."

REFUGE NEWS

Services at this place both Saturday and Sunday were good. A large crowd attended all services. As usual our pastor, Rev. M. J. Parrish, delivered two fine sermons. His text for Saturday was "He knew their thoughts" and for Sunday "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

The singing in the afternoon was the best in the history of the new books at this place. The house was full and it seemed as though everybody came in the spirit to sing. The opening song was sung by M. Lockhart. Prayer by Rev. M. J. Parrish. The arranging committee was composed of T. N. Miner, J. S. Easterling, Marion Easterling. Those singing two songs each were S. V. Miller, Melvin Mims, W. M. Devaughn, E. L. Powell. Quartet arranged by Jesse Baker, R. M. Robinson. Duet by Marion and Guthrie Easterling. O. L. Devaughn, Jesse Baker, J. E. Mims. Pianists were Mrs. Anne Robinson, Edna Wyatt and Mrs. Jesse Baker.

We are thankful for such splendid cooperation and extend a cordial invitation to all. We were especially glad to have both Prof. W. M. and O. L. Devaughn. Come back again.

Liberal contributions of money, clothing, and supplies, have been made by the people of Clanton, Thorsby, Jemison, Verbena, and other parts of Chilton County, for the relief of flood sufferers in South Alabama. A committee of Clanton women were at work Monday and Tuesday getting ready and packing a truck load of clothing to be sent to the stricken area Wednesday.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF MRS. P. R. DEVAUGHN

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved mother, Mrs. P. R. Devaughn, age 68 years. She was taken from us Friday night, March 8th. Funeral services were held at Poplar Springs on March 10 at 11 o'clock conducted by Bro. J. D. Hughes and Bro. Wibb Parrish, with Martin in charge.

She joined the Baptist church at 14 years of age and lived a faithful member until her death.

We will miss mother here so much yet we know she lives. She has laid down the cross and taken the crown. She will know no sorrow. We know she will be ready to meet us one by one as we pass in to eternity. She was loved by all who knew her; kind to every one near her. She has passed from earth to glory; like a flower to the sod to await in joy and beauty in the kingdom of our God.

She has gone and left us desolate,
But she is so glad and free
All our tears would turn to smiles
If her rapture we could see.

Oh, how good and brave and tender
She was every day by day.
All the sorrow that she gave us
Was because she went away.

So let's think of her with gladness,
With unselfishness and say,
Heaven now is dearer, sweeter,
Just because she went away.

Left to mourn her are one brother, A. C. Jones of Birmingham, and seven children, Mrs. G. S. Miner of Clanton, Ala.; Mrs. J. R. Mitchell of Clanton; Mrs. J. M. Huckabee of Birmingham; Mrs. H. L. Gentry of Columbus, Ga.; E. H. Devaughn of Clanton; O. L. Devaughn of Clanton. She leaves also twenty-seven grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.—One who loved her, Mrs. E. D. Hand.

Rev. T. H. Baake has been ill for several days, he is better now.

Mr. J. H. Goddard is still quite ill, he has some days when he seems to be improving, followed by bad ones in which he suffers greatly.

Several weks ago a few of the Thorsby ladies organized a sewing circle. This circle met Monday afternoon with Mrs. G. F. Harper and packed two large boxes of clothing for the flood suffers of South Alabama.

THORSBY INSTITUTE GRADUATES HONORED

In the Sunday issue of the Birmingham News we find the following item about Mr. Codie Bell of DeFuniak Springs, who was a member of the graduating class of Thorsby Institute in 1924. After leaving Thorsby Mr. Bell worked for a year or more and then entered Howard College as a winner of a Birmingham News scholarship. Bell entered Howard College in 1925 and will graduate in May. During his four years college course he has been the recipient of many honors. Immediately upon entering college he was elected president of the freshman class, and since has annexed the following honors. Associate editor of the Howard Crimson, honor roll, business manager of the girls glee club, associate editor in chief of the Entre Nous, Howard's most versatile student, Howard's most outstanding student and editor in chief of the Crimson. He is a member of Pi Kappa Phi social fraternity. He was recently elected president of Pi Gamma Mu, national society honor fraternity, at the installation banquet of the Howord College chapter.

The following clipping has been received in Thorsby, which was recently published in the Andrews (N. C.) Citizen, regarding Rev. Waldear Lefstead, who grew to manhood in Thorsby and was a member of the 1920 graduating class of Thorsby Institute. Surely Thorsby folks may be proud of his achievements.

The Rev. W. H. Lefstead Accepts Call To Go To Salisbury

Andrews, N. C., Feb. 20.—The Rev. W. H. Lefstead, pastor of the St. Andrews Lutheran Church, of Andrews, has tendered his resignation to his congregation. He is to leave Andrews the first of April and will take up the work in the Bethel pastorate of Salisbury. His resignation was made known on Sunday, February 10. However, his church would not consent to let him go until the resignation was presented the second time. Seeing then that Mr. Lefstead could not be retained as their pastor, the congregation reluctantly accepted his resignation.

Mr. Lefstead has been in Andrews for two years and has done a wonderful work with the local church. When he came to this pastorate, the congregation was worshipping in the basement of the Carnegie Library. Now they have a splendid brick building, fully furnished, and completely paid for. A pipe organ, the first one in Andrews, has also been installed during Mr. Lefstead's pastorate. The membership of the church has almost doubled in this time.

Mr. Lefstead goes to a good field in the heart of a section where Lutherans predominate. He will serve two churches, one with 375 members and a $50,000 building and the other with 150 members and a $40,000 building. The people of Andrews, while regretting his leaving, rejoice with Mr. Lefstead in the opportunity that he will have in a wider field.

DRAINAGE MEETING HERE NEXT SATURDAY

A number of citizens have requested that we announce in the paper this week that a meeting of all citizens affected by the proposed drainage project adjacent to Clanton, meet at the courthouse at two o'clock next Saturday afternoon for a public consideration of the drainage question.

It is stated that all landowners affected are urged to attend the meeting, whether favoring or opposing the drainage project, and that all will be given an opportunity to express themselves on the question.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR AT M. E. CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY A. M.

The annual Easter service of the Clanton Commandery, Knights Templar, will be held at eleven o'clock next Sunday morning, at which hour the Knights will join with the Methodist congregation in worship at Clanton Methodist Church.

Members of the Commandery will attend the services in full uniform. The public is cordially invited. Preaching service at the Babtist church has been called in so that all may unite with the Methodist and Knights Templar in the service at the Methodist Church.

MR. AVERY WRITES AGAIN

Editor Union-Banner:

May I have a little more space in The Banner as friends have asked me to write more in detail about the drainage?

Since writing my other letter I have read the law as to drainage in this state and find it in substance the same as where I was and have talked to two parties from two other drainage districts and they tell the same story as I do. That is it ruined the farmers.

Where I was the land of the district was divided into three classes: A B and C. A included the land on the main canal; B the land on the small canals. There was little land in the C class, and it was far out. If a canal crossed a corner of a section of land, the whole section was in the district and all in class A and B except maybe one forty in C and not five acres of drained land in the whole section. They paid taxes on the forty acres. No part of a forty was in class A and the other parts class B or C. Those in class A paid $130 a year per forty, B $120, and C $60.

To form a drainage district every section of land coming within one mile of the swamp will be taxed. Though the taxes on some far out forties may be little. But every forty acres within one mile of the swamp will be taxed heavy. I am saying this on the strength of what I know.

The drainage law is one of the worst laws that was ever written for it will permit crookedness. If it is not to bind a surveyor to anything near his first survey why have that survey? Where I was they started out with $200,000 but it took $600,000 to do the work. One man close up told me they would collect a million before it was over with.

It is not a just law that will permit a few men to deceive the people into doing a thing and when they are bound hand and foot sell their homes to pay the debt. Where I was the people were deceived into doing the thing and the same thing is trying to be done here. At least three-fourths of the signers of the petitions here were told that it would not cost them a cent. Now this is not right but unjust to the limit and the ones doing it, if they had taken just one thought, would have known that it would cost at least three-fourths of the small farmers their homes.

If anyone doesn't believe what I am saying go to some of these drainage districts and see for yourself.

Who is it that wants to drain the swamps? And what good would it be to the landowners? The land is not fit for farm land. It is practically all crawfish land and is only fit for timbered land which we need for wind breaks if for no other use.—Sincerely, S. F. Avery.

EASTER SINGING AT POPLAR SPRINGS NEXT SUNDAY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please announce in your paper that there will be an Easter singing at Poplar Springs. Everybody invited to come and bring dinner.—H. W. Devaughn, J. W. Cooper, J. L. McDowell, Committee.

FRIENDSHIP NEXT SUNDAY

The members of Friendship Church extend to the public a cordial invitation to attend our Ministers and Old-Folks meeting at the church on the Fifth Sunday in March, 31st. This will be a strictly old time religious experience meeting.

We have had children services and we want to have one for the elder ones. Those over 70 are especially invited, and all ministers of Chilton County.

Help us to make it a sucess.

BAPTIST YOUNG MEN ORGANIZE BASEBALL TEAM

The Young Mens Class of Clanton Baptist Sunday School have organized a baseball team. They are now getting arrangements made for their uniforms. Business concerns of Clanton will donate the uniforms, according to Wallace Cox, who is active in the organization of the team.

"REVIVALS"

(By ERNEST A. CHILDS)

The Revival idea is sweeping the country. Every business and profession is setting apart special days when concentrated effort is put forth to bring about new life—a Revival—to make live again—that business or profession. It may be the lawyers who meet in their conventions where they hear specialists give their interpretation of certain laws or the ethics of the profession. Or our journalists take a ship to Cuba, as the Alabama editors did last year, when some of them became tremendously affected by the Spirits of Cuba. Nevertheless, it was an effort at Reviving Journalism. And it did for a while at least. Instead of so much, "Mr. and Mrs. Hezekiah Youngbottom were dinner guests on last Sunday of their cousins Misses Kizzian and Mizie Smoothers & etc.," our editor of The Opp Weekly News gave us some fine articles on his "First Trip at Sea," "The Manhood of Journalism," and the "Republic of Cuba."

It may be the Bankers, Merchants, Judges or Governors who meet in their conventions to discuss their respective problems, privileges and opportunities for serving the public, but the one idea is to Revive—to make live more vitally their business or profession.

The full meaning of these special meetings never dawned upon me until last summer. It was in June when the Druggists of Alabama held their revival in New York. Being in New York at that time myself, I was invited to be the guest of a druggist friend at their Revival for a whole day. We began the day early and took a motor bus to visit many of the plants whose business it is to manufacture drugs. On arriving at one of these great institutions we were shown through the entire plant whose floors, walls and machinery were spotlessly clean. After being conducted through we were ushered into a large reception room and while lunch or refreshments were bing served some member of the firm gave a lecture on the merits of his particular commodity. Spending the day in this maner the climax was reached at a dinner given by the Drug Manufacturers of the city at the New Pennsylvania Hotel—a swell affair—five dollar plates. At this dinner more speeches were made on the how and why of drugs; the dignity of the profession and what a blessing the Druggists are to humanity. It almost made me feel like I was a big black sinner because I was not a Druggist. But that is all right. Some of these fellows need something to help ease their consciences after they charge us poor guys $1.25 for ten drops of digitalis and three ounces of water or fifty cents for two ounces of Sodium Bicarbonate and a half dozen bread pills.

That was a great revival for the Druggists. Every fellow went back home, dusted off his prescription case, set the articles manufactured by those New York Druggists on the front shelf and was determined to put more dignity and honesty into the Drug Business. It pays—these Revivals.

The Revival in the church is as old as is history. The Passover week was to the Jews a Revival season. In memory of their relief from Egyptian bondage and the passing over of the death angel on their last night in Egypt, when the first born of every man and beast in Egypt was slain, they brought their gifts and offered upon the altar. It was also a time of repentance and every one among them brought a lamb without blemish which was sacrificed as a sin offering. It was a time of getting back close to God and renewing their covenants with Him.

Jesus did not break these time honored customs. He intensified them and had a revival all the time wherever He went. But it seems that He had special occasions. His sermon on the Mount was His first large effort to Revive the Church. Again when He cleansed the Temple of its "thieves and robbers" and preached that memorable sermon on the "Living Water." He seems to have made special effort to revive the old church. He plead with its officers, the Scribes and Pharisees to lay aside their ritualism and believe in Him—be Spiritual.

Time forbids our telling of the Revivals under St. Augustine, Savonarola, that mighty prince of Florence who plead so passionately with pleasure loving Florence until the whole city was so changed that about one half of their time was spent in worship and service to Almighty God. It was my privilege to go through the Monastery in which he lived and died, and into his room where I knelt and prayed that something of his spirit and fervor might be mine. Then comes Martin Luther, John Huss and the Wesleys. The Methodist Church was born in a Revival, while John Wesley was calling men, most of whom were members of the church of England already, back to God—to Re-live.

The flames of this revival fired the altars of every evangelical church in christendom. New born souls and reclaimed souls were heard to shout praises to God from the greatest cathedral to the humblest chapel.

Then came Dwight L. Moody, that mighty Baptist evangelist, whose tongue was as a flaming fire. Individuals, churches and even whole cities were Revived under this great spirit.

Has the day passed when we need these revival spirits and seasons? I think not. There are possibly only a few of the merchants, business and professional men of our community who will not attend some form or another of a revival of his business or profession this year. Our Kiwanis Club will have its Revival; the farmers will have their revivals, for soon Mr. Stapp will be holding great demonstrations when he will preach the gospel of efficient farming. And many farmers being penitent, and with new inspiration, will go back home resolved to plant less cotton and more eats; to terrace his lands and plough deeper; to plant fewer acres, fertilize better and work faster.

Our county Health Units will soon be holding public clinics—a Revival of health.

Shall we not have a revival of religion? We must have it. I shall not discuss "How" we can have a revival of religion except to say, the preachers can not have it. The visiting preachers and singers can not bring it with them and distribute it out over the community. It will require the united team work of every blooming soul in Clanton.

Such a revival as we hope will touch every person in the community will begin at the Methodist church Sunday, April the 14th, and continue through the 21st. Come with us. Help us, thereby help yourself.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORGANIZED AT COTTON MILL

Superintendent A. R. Meeks announces the organization of a fire department among the employees of Alabama Mills. Practice was begun this week. When the alarm was sounded Monday night the first unit got into action with a stream of water in three minutes. The second was going in three and a half minutes. In four minutes the whole force was in action with three full streams of water going. The employees were at supper when the alarm was sounded.

Mr. Meeks stated that for practice purposes the alarm would be given by three or four toots of the whistle. If a real fire occurs, the alarm will be given by a continuous blast of the whistle. This information is given for the information of the public in order that unnecessary confusion may be avoided.

REVIVAL AT CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH BEGINS APRIL 14

The revival meeting of the Methodist Church at Clanton will begin on Sunday, April 14th. The pastor, Rev. E. A. Childs, has secured the services of his brother, Rev. H. P. Childs, of Pensacola, Florida, to do the preaching. Rev. R. P. Marshall from Lewisburg, Kentucky has been secured for the week to lead the singing, and do special work with the young people.

Both of these men are eminently prepared to do their work well, and we are sure that they will bring a message and be an inspiration which will be of great benefit to all the people of Clanton and vicinity.

HANDSOME HARRY MAKES HIS BOW

The people of Clanton are being introduced this week to a new employee of the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Company. His name is "Handsome Harry," and his job is to do the talking for the laundry while the other employees do the work.

The first thing you will notice about Handsome Harry is that he is, as his name implies, really and truly a handsome looking guy. In other words, he is good looking. This must be, since he aims to talk to the housewives of Clanton quite a bit, and of course, a man who expects to appeal to the women must necessarily be strikingly handsome.

We could not say that Handsome Harry really looks any better than Leo Thompson or Leonard Gentry. But you will notice his appearance more because he is breaking into print the first thing by having his picture printed in the paper.

"I am not responsible for my lovely figure my patent leather hair, and my schoolgirl complexion," said Harry. "I was born that way. But the biggest thing about my appearance is my clothes. For which I am proud to give credit to the Clanton Laundry, where I am having my washing done."

Handsome Harry is a philosopher, bringing a message of good cheer and lightening the burdens of the housewives of Clanton. We suspect that he is kind of a ladies man, judging from the way he talks and behaves himself. But that is all right, for a man of his kind and mission.

"The Clanton Laundry has been trying to get me to work for them a long time," said Handsome Harry, "but I held out on them because of the miserable water they had to use to wash clothes in. I felt like I could not properly safeguard by wonderful reputation by hooking up with a laundry that had to use such bad water.

"Then, Mr. Thompson determined that in order to get my valuable services and connection with his business, he would put in a filtering plant, by which he could take all the devilment out of this Clanton water and thereby do laundry work that could stand the test of the most scrupulous women, as well as myself. When he did this, of course I was glad to take my place as one of his force to go before the folks of Clanton and preach to them the gospel of better laundry service than they have ever had before."

The first appearance of Handsome Harry before the public of Clanton is in this week's issue of The Union-Banner. We urge you to look him up and see what he says. He will be with us every week now for some time.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL WANTS 500 NEXT SUNDAY

The goal of Clanton Baptist Sunday School is set for 500 in attendance next Sunday morning. In order to give everybody a chance to attend Sunday School and also go to the Knights Templar service at the Methodist Church, the Baptist Sunday School will begin promptly at 9:30, and will be dismissed promptly at 10:30.

Every Baptist in Clanton is urged to rally to the call for next Sunday and help to put over the 500 goal.

Hoover Patronage Plan For Alabama Completed

Special Advisory Board To Be Created But President Will Supervise

Washington, March 25.—Finishing touches are being applied to the new plan for distributing patronage in Alabama and there are indications that President Hoover will soon be ready to name the Alabamians upon whom he will rely to carry it into effect.

The plan differs sharply from that which has been in effect during the Harding and Coolidge administrations. At the top of a vast organization, reaching into every precinct of the state, will be a patronage superstructure, composed of nine men probably five republicans and four Hoover democrats. In all probability O. D. Street, present republican national committeeman, will be chairman of this body.

All recommendations regarding federal appointments in Alabama will be transmitted by this committee, whose members are being selected from the state at large. There will be a subcommittee of two persons, a man and a woman, in each county, and these subcommittees will submit recommendations regarding their respective communities to the statewide body. The plan is reported to include provision for holding precinct, county or district meetings to sound out sentiment regarding appointments.

Although no official word has yet been spoken, it is known that the complete Alabama plan has been before President Hoover for several days, and that it is slated for formal approval as soon as the personnel of the nine-man committee is settled.

Horace A. Mann, who managed the Hoover campaign in the south, is given credit for working out the new system, but it is in reality the plan of President Hoover himself. He has already officially approved a similar patronage plan for the state of Florida. Mann, who maintains offices here, is apparently assisting the president in settling up a new system of handling patronage throughout the south.

One of the departures of the new system from the old is that it takes the patronage out of the hands of one man. Another departure is that the anti-Smith democrats who supported Mr. Hoover are to be given recognition in patronage matters, although it is not of record that they have sought such recognition. Back of the entire plan, of course is the desire of President Hoover to build up the republican party in the south. He is said to feel that the effect of a two-party system south of the Mason-Dixon line would be wholesome.

Mann, who has been, and apparently continues to be the president's principal aide in southern matters, has been under fire from some quarters because the new southern system is designed to give the southern G. O. P. a "lily white" complexion. Then, too, Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, has been at sword's points with him because Mann's operations were not under the national committee's jurisdiction. Mann, however, continues to go direct from his office to the White House, instead of detouring via the headquarters of the national committee.

Apparently, some fear exists that Mann may seek to step into the breach in the event the state committee disagreed regarding patronage recommendations. The president's southern campaign manager disclaims any such intention, pointing out that he already has turned over his southern records to the national committee and intimating that his work will be over when the new patronage system is established.

After all, the patronage during the next four years is going to be distributed by President Hoover himself, and not through referees. The machinery that is to be set up in Alabama and elsewhere is for the purpose of giving the president a contact that will enable him to obtain full information from the states in which appointments are to be made. This is in line with his campaign declaration that he would place in office no appointees who did not command the respect and support of the communities to be served.

In effect, President Hoover's plan will absorb the old republican organization in Alabama and merge it into the president's own organization. The plan contemplates that democrats, as well as republicans shall be eligible for appointment. In this connection it is reported that the president intends to give two important appointments to southerners at an early date, and that one of these appointments is to be a democrat.

OUR KIND OF MILITARISM

Our kind of militarism is to be prepared to meet the wrong kind of militarism. To do this the Reserve Officers' Training Corps should have every help and assistance from the national and state governments—especially the assistance and encouragement of the national government, because of the mistaken, rabid opposition of well-meaning pacifists and that of the enemies of our system of government to this policy and practice of culturing men to defend the country in which they live.

Congress soon will be in session. There should be appropriated for this purpose at least three times as much money as is now available. Every friend of national defense in Congress should be ready and willing to indorse such increased appropriation.

We want and need military training in this country, not only because such training means efficiency in time of war stress, but because it also means the development of a better physical American manhood.

All of this the pacifists seek to prevent and defeat, in schools and universities and in civilian activity in this direction—they propose prayer and palaver against the promptings of prudence and preparation. They would like to destroy the navy and emasculate the army to proportions of incompetence, but they would rather like to see destroyed the germ and core of the national defense as represented in the policy of military training.

Heaven grant that they may fail in all their desires. Every rational and patriotic American wishes to see our young men receive the training that will protect them from becoming helpless victims in the shambles of actual war—a training which more than anything else will assist to the defense and security of the American people. — Cincinnati Enquirer.

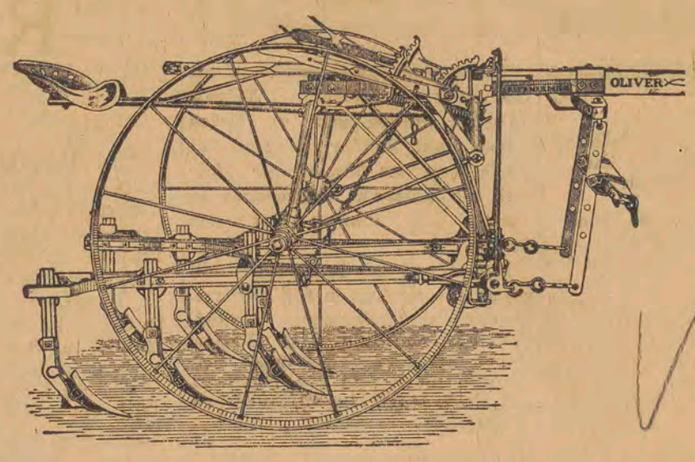
THE END OF OIL SCANDALS

President Hoover has made an end of the federal oil scandals, by the simple and direct process of establishing conservation of all oil under government lands, and forbidding that any public lands be hereafter leased except by direction of Congress. For a number of years both real and imaginary scandals in connection with the leasing of government lands for oil development have been the meat and drink of politicians desiring to be celebrated as crusaders for civic virtue. Thus by a stroke of the pen their provender is destroyed, and at the same time Uncle Sam's oil is held against a day of need.



Under the existing land leasing act, and the acts preceding it, for a period of twenty years the leasing of oil lands has thrown off a disagreeable aroma not much preferable to that of crude oil. During all that time, and especially under the leasing act passed in 1920, oil leases became political spoils passed out to "friends of the administration," seldom with any element of corruption, but with clear aspects of favoritism. It has been shown that long before Teapot Dome was leased, wholesale leases of public lands on adjoining public lands had drained this naval oil reserve of 150,000,000 barrels of oil, or nearly all of its content. These leases went to people prominent in politics. The truth is that the leasing act of 1920 made this possible, and some of those responsible for unlocking the door of the government's oil supply were loudest in complaining when the oleagenous horse was stolen.

It is significant that some of those who have been loudest in this criticism of oil leasing operations in the past—some of these criticisms seemingly without foundation except the desire to create a political issue—now loudly protest against President Hoover's decision, on the ground that it will retard the progress of states in which there are extensive tracts of potential government oil land. However, there is consolation in the thought that the conservation of this oil will doubtless make it much more valuable in the future than it is today, and if the national oil supply, essential to modern industry, should show signs of failing, the American people, to whom these lands belong, will be protected from the disaster which might follow the lack of an adequate reserve.

The agitation against the loose leasing of government oil land has thus terminated in a most salutary act of the Hoover administration, at once locking the door against possible fraud or thievery, and holding the oil supply belonging to all the people in the hands of the people for such future disposition as may seem desirable. Congress has the power to turn over these lands to private exploitation, but it is doubtful, in view of the long outcry against abuses in land leasing, if any member of Congress will have the hardihood to propose such legislation.

One thing is certain; there will be no "oil scandals" in the campaign of 1930 or that of 1932. Some politicians will be driven to the expedient of finding some new issue, because the scandals of 1921 are really getting a bit too ancient for effective use even as warmed-over politics. The American people will applaud President Hoover for his effective settlement of this question, which will not again arise to trouble the public. They know the barn door is locked, and nobody is going to be able to steal the horse.

CAPITOL News

With the greatest flood catastrophe in the history of the State spreading devastation over a wide area in south Alabama, the energies of the State government at Montgomery have been centered on meeting the emergency. For a period of many days, ordinary and routine matters of business were thrown into the discard at the office of the Governor, while every effort was bent toward rescuing the imperilled population in the stricken area. With the rescue work carried out and the swollen waters receding, the problem now is one of reconstruction. A survey is being made to find out the extent of damage, with a view to presenting to Congress the need of government aid, such as has been extended by the Federal Government in other states in like situations.

In the midst of the story of disaster which has been written by the flood waters in southeast Alabama, there has been an encouraging inspiring feature, in the response which came from all parts of the State to the call for aid from their fellow citizens. The State has met the emergency with undaunted morale and with a determination that helpless men, women and children should not be victims of flood, hunger, or disease if men and money could prevent it. Brave men from all walks of life have gone into the flooded zone and risked their lives in rescuing others. The citizens of the State in general have responded liberally to the call for help, and contributions have been pouring in to the office of Charles A. Moffett, Chairman of the State Board of Administration, who was named by the Governor to receive flood relief contributions, and to the Red Cross headquarters in Montgomery. More funds are still needed but no doubt is expressed but that the people of Alabama who have been fortunate enough to escape loss and danger will respond to the plight of their neighbors in their hour of need.

Expressions of admiration have been heard from all parts of the State over the manner in which the flood emergency was met by the Governor and his assistants. In this time of stress, the military training of Governor Graves came to the front as he grasped and met the situation with a promptness and effectiveness which recalled the days of 1917-18. When the first call went out from Elba, the available units of the National Guard were mobilized and thrown into the flood area with the precision of a war-time military movement. It was due to this prompt and effectual action that the loss of life was cut down, many hundreds of marooned people being saved by the guardsmen and moved to safety, while food, clothing and medical supplies were rushed to the scene in time to alleviate the suffering of the refugees. While the deluge was at its height, the office of the Governor bore the aspect of a military headquarters in the face of the enemy, with the chief executive as the commanding general directing the relief movements without regard to the strain and exhaustion under which he worked. Governor Graves was ably assisted by Adjutant-General F. E. Butler, by Colonel W. A. Gayle, Assistant Adjutant-general, who personally led the relief column into the flooded sector, and by a host of other willing workers. P. T. Maner, the Governor's recording secretary, was among the first on the scene in the work of rescue, and the Governor himself found time from his duties to personally observe the situation and the needs of the occasion. Contributions for flood sufferers were taken in offices at the capitol and met with a ready response. In addition to the work of the military and state agencies, many private citizens of Montgomery and other points volunteered their services and went into the flood in boats to aid in the work. The State highway department and the health department were working under tremendous strain and putting forth every effort in their power, the highway forces to open a line of communication and to rebuild ruined roads, the public health forces to keep down any outbreak of disease among the refugees. The Federal air forces at Maxwell Field and planes of the National Guard air unit furnished invaluable aid in the work of rescue and transporting food supplies. The work of relief was handled by the State direct until Wednesday, March 20, when the pressing needs of the situation had been relieved, and the work of rehabilitation was then turned over to the Red Cross, which has rushed a number of outside workers to Alabama.

Figures on the loss of life are not yet available, but as a result of the thorough rescue work the figure is not expected to go over a score of lives in the entire State, most of those who were endangered being saved by the promptness of the relief work. The property damage will run into many millions, and some 15,000 persons were rendered homeless. Elba, Geneva, and Brewton were the hardest hit, but many other communities in the southern part of the State suffered.

There has been some talk in favor of a special session of the Legislature for flood relief, but the general opinion favors instead calling on the Federal Government for aid, to augment the private subscriptions which are taking care of the immediate relief needs. Aid from the legislature would require from five to six months, as in addition to the time needed to fill vacancies in the legislature and assemble the law-making body, it would require a constitutional amendment to provide relief. The constitution of the State provides that an amendment thereto, shall not be voted on within 90 days after the adjournment of the Legislature submitting it, which would make any aid impossible before late summer or fall. The Federal Congress meets April 15, however, and it is hoped that aid for rehabilitation will be forthcoming from this source, the Federal government having already established the policy of helping flood sufferers in other States. A conference with this object in view was held recently in the Governor's office, attended by a number of Alabama Congressmen, and a survey is under way with a view to assembling and presenting to Congress concrete facts on what is needed for rehabilitation of the flooded area.

SAYS THERE IS OIL IN CHILTON COUNTY

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give me space for this letter to go in your paper? Probably you never have printed a letter of this kind. This letter is about oil that Chilton County contains. The people do not know how rich this county is in oil. We know oil is here for we can prove it by an attraction. Everything has its own attraction. So oil has its own attraction and the attraction tells where the oil is. Now, people may laugh and say a whole lot, but just let them laugh. All new get-ups are laughed at. The great geologists may laugh some when they read this letter. There is a book of nature that man did not make and nature will hardly lie. So the nature of the attraction is for the purpose to locate and analyze what it attracts, for in the earth. Now, the oil has an attraction wherever it is in the earth. It is wonderful to see how the veins run and how the pools of oil are made up. They get their oil from the veins. The veins run Northeast and Southwest. There are leaks coming out from the veins and make the ponds, some large and some small. So there is plenty of oil in our country.

Nature's attraction does not look at the layer of the land to tell where the oil is. Neither does a dog look at trees and rocks in tracing a varment. And I have said that nature's book will not fool you if it is well studied. So I am writing this letter for the public, and if the public finds a place in this letter for confidence under this process we will drill a well and we think we will get right down in the oil the first pop, for we feel that we are right and we are too poor to prove it up ourselves.

We can prove to you that we can locate any vein of water and trace it to outlet where the vein is making the spring. There is no use holding a good thing when it develops itself. So, who will join me and help to drill a well for oil.—S. N. Waldrop.

Rev. and Mrs. A. Dewey Huett went back to their home in East Lake, Birmingham, last Saturday. Lesson for March 31

THE FUTURE LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:1-12; John 14:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Glad Resurrection Day.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Glad Resurrection Day.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Here and Hereafter.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Ground of Hope for the Future.

I. The Resurrection of Jesus Christ (Luke 24:1-12).

The supreme test of Christianity is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. It matters little what Jesus said and did while alive if His body remained in the grave. If He did not come forth in triumph from the tomb, then all His claims are false.

1. The empty sepulcher (vv. 1-3).

(1) The coming of the women (v. 1).

As an expression of affectionate regard for the Master, they came with spices for His body. If they had believed His words, they would have known that His body could not be found in the sepulcher.

(2) What they found (vv. 2, 3). When they came to the sepulcher they found the stone had been rolled away, but they found not the body of Jesus. For them to have found His body in the sepulcher would have been the world's greatest tragedy. The empty tomb spoke most eloquently of the deity and power of the Son of God (Rom. 1:6).

2. The message of the men in shining garments (vv. 4-8).

(1) "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" (v. 5).

This question, uttered by the angels, has been reverberating through the centuries.

(2) "He is not here, but is risen."

Jesus had told them that the Lord must be betrayed and crucified and that on the third day He would rise again. Had they given heed to His words they would have been relieved of their perplexities.

3. The women witnessing to the eleven (vv. 9-11).

Their thrilling testimony concerning the empty tomb and the words of the angels appeared to the apostles as idle tales and they refused to believe.

4. Peter investigating (v. 12).

While the testimony of the women seemed as idle tales, Peter was not of the temperament to dismiss the matter from his mind, therefore he ran unto the sepulcher. Upon investigation he found the linen clothes lying in such a way as to prove the reality of the resurrection.

II. Jesus Preparing a Place in Heaven for His Own (John 14:1-3)

These last words of Jesus were words of comfort. The hopes of the disciples were utterly shattered when Jesus told them about the cross. He consoled them by pointing to the reunion in the heavenly Father's house.

1. He asked them to trust in Him, even as God (v. 1).

Faith in the God-man, Christ Jesus, will steady the heart, no matter how intense the grief, or how great the sorrow.

2. He informed them that He was going to the Father's House in heaven to prepare a home for them (v. 2).

He assured them that there was abundant room there for all. He said, there were many "abiding places." Heaven is an eternal dwelling place for God's children.

3. He assured them that He would come again and escort them to heaven (v. 3).

Jesus will not depend upon nor wait for His own to come to Him, but will come and call forth from the grave those who have died; transforming living believers, and take them all together to be forever with Himself in the heavenly home.

III. Jesus Christ Is the Way to the Heavenly Father (vv. 4-6).

Jesus informed the disciples that they knew the place to which He was going, and the way. To this Thomas interposed a doubt, in answer to which Christ asserted that He is:

1. The Way (v. 6).

Jesus Christ is more than a mere guide to God. He is the way itself.

2. The Truth (v. 6).

He is not merely the teacher, but the Truth incarnate. In His incarnation the spiritual and material worlds were united; therefore every line of truth, whether spiritual or material, converged in Him.

3. The Life (v. 6).

Christ is not merely the giver of life, but He is the very essence of life. Only those who receive Christ have life in the true sense.

The New Testament

The New Testament has done more toward creating a race of noble men and women than all the books of the world put together.—Sir Walter Scott

MISS EDNA TAYLOR DIED SUNDAY MORNING, THE 24TH

Miss Edna Taylor, age 68, died Sunday morning at the home of her brother, E. F. Taylor, near the County Farm. She was buried Sunday afternoon at New Harmony, near Lomax. Rev. J. T. Daniel conducted the funeral. Burial was in charge of Mell Martin.

GOOD SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

A number of visitors joined the Friendship class last Sunday afternoon in its regular fourth Sunday singing. Services were called to order by T. E. Wyatt and opened with prayer by Jesse Baker. The chairman, Mr. Dudley Collins then took charge and called on the following who directed two or three songs each: Rube Miller, Willie Mims, S. V. Miller, Jasper Oaks Jesse Baker, J. W. Cagle and Marion Easterling. The closing song was sung by T. E. Wyatt and the benediction invoked by Rev. M. L. Lockhart.

The singing was good and seemed to be enjoyed by everyone present. The Friendship class thanks all the visitors for their help, and they especially wish to mention the big number of visitors from Mitchell Dam. They are cordially invited to come back again.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. TEMPIE DEVAUGHN

God called from us our dear old mother the one so kind and true.
We believe she's in heaven waiting for me and you.
We miss her around our fire side. We miss her everywhere.
But if we will be God's children we will meet her up there.
To know her was to love her. She was a friend to all.
Her desire was to live a Christian and meet her Saviour's call.
Her weary hands are now at rest. Her smiling face is cold.
But Jesus called her home to Him in the land where we ne'er grow old.
One year and five months ago father was called from this earth below.
Now mother has gone to meet him there,
To sing with the angels in heaven somewhere.
A faithful mother from us is gone, the one we love so dear,
But Jesus whispered come to Me, your resting place is here.
—Written by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. E. H. Devaughn.

Before you buy another tire, read this . . .

This Bond covers accidents, like collisions and broken bottles . . . abuses, such as mis-alignment, or rim-cuts. In fact, it covers almost every tire hazard you can imagine. Come in and see a specimen copy.

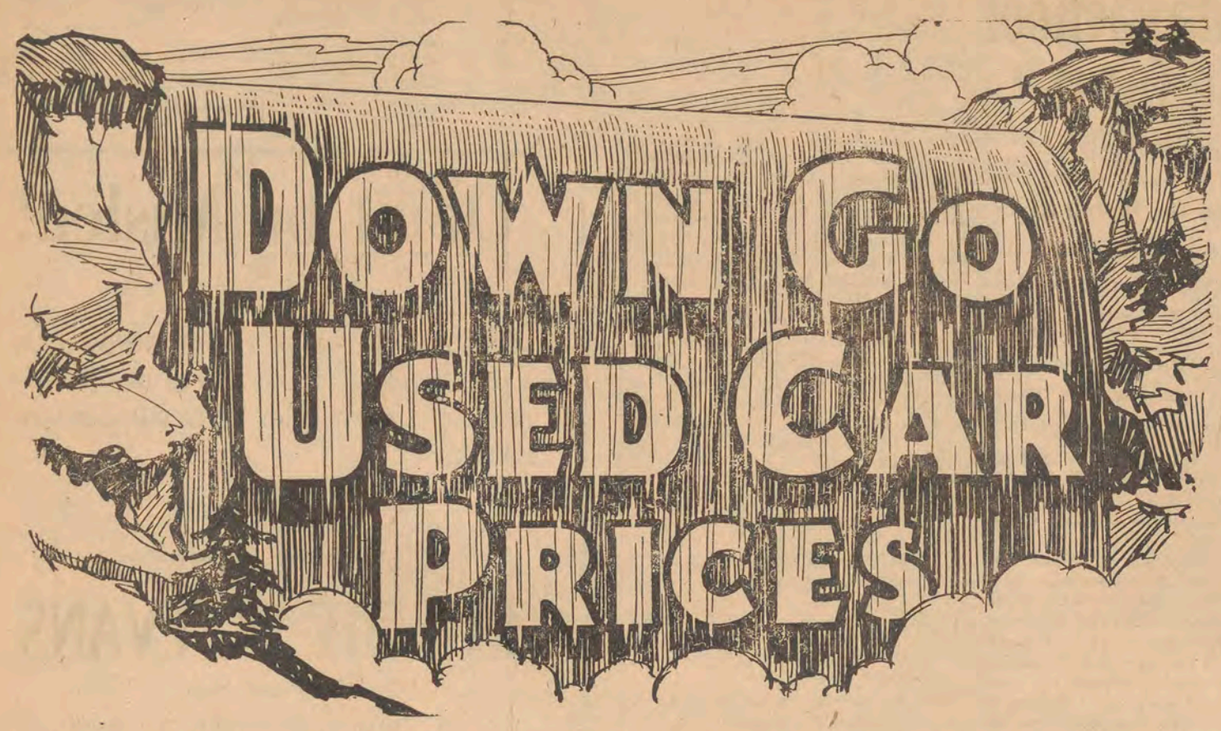
From twenty-seven 5-acre cotton contestants' reports turned in to the Department of Agriculture, it was found that each contestant used 650 pounds of fertilizer per acre as recommended by his county agent.



The average cost of this fertilizer was $1.67 per hundred pounds, and each 100 pounds of fertilizer returned in the form of increased yield, $10.49 in North Alabama and $7.16 in South Alabama.

Failure to use enough of the right kind of Fertilizer is FALSE economy. It is equivalent to FAILURE
